After a weekend at home a girl returned to school very ill. She was found to be suffering pox. The whole school was quarantined and everyone had to be vaccinated. No laundry could go in or out, and milk and groceries were left at the gate. After six weeks of isolation these students were allowed to see and were speaking to each other.

The old school did not have lovely classrooms, but the spirit of Albert has come down generation after generation, and the friendships made in those years have lasted all through the years.

Miss Tuite was thanked for her address by Boyd Graham. Dean Mackay expressed appreciation to Chef Brown and the boys who had waited on the tables, as well as all others who had participated in the preparation of the dinner and program.

Charles Kammer and his band served from three to five and provided the music for the dance which followed.

On Sunday morning a special service for the returning Alumni was held in Memorial Chapel when Ken Meserve of Cobourg addressed the congregation.

TEA HELD

A president's tea was given at the Manor on Sunday afternoon when the guests were received by President G. W. and Mrs. Thompson, Dean and Mrs. MacKay, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. MacKenzie and Mrs. Gillis, Dean of Women.

Miss Holmes invited the guests to the recreation room which was arranged with small tables, each bearing a pretty miniature bouquet of a single red tulip matching the decor of the room. Rover Scouts were used as appointments on the tea tables and waitresses were Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Jardine presided. The dining room service was in charge of Mrs. Woodward. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lyn Blagrove, Mary Beth Spence, Charlotte Rutherford, Jean Halpenny and Beverly Brown.

Although the weather was extremely cold, the beautiful atmosphere indoors compensated for the lack of sunshine outside.

At the business session Clarence Taylor, of Toronto, was nominated to take charge of the annual homecoming which will be held on October 22-23 this year to correspond with the fall Convocation at the school. There was no change in the executive officers, who are elected for a two-year term, and are serving their second year.

That wonderful power of healing!

Fire and Lightning Protection Offered By Local Firm

Slavin's Radio and TV reports Three inexpensive items are now available to Belleville and district residents which will give them protection from the effects of lightning or fire damage to their TV receivers.

The first item is a lead-in connector with the Lead-in attached will enable the owner to quickly remove the TV from contact with the Antenna, if there is a storm or lightning storm damage. Cost $2.

Something that should be attached to the antenna mast if house is a Lightning arrestor which will need to be connected to a ground rod or water pipe. This unit would cost $1.50 plus wire and ground rod, if needed.

Recent news reports of fire damage to a home because of a short circuit in the wiring of the Television receiver points up the fact that there is now a specially fused p'g'd for the power cord of such appliances which will automatically shut off all power to the set if there is any danger of fire due to a short circuit. $2.00 is not much to pay for this piece of safety.

Children's Aid Society Gives Report of Expenses Incurred

The regular monthly meeting of the Children's Aid Society was held at Belleville on the 10th of May with Mr. C. B. Morgan, the president, in the chair.

Mr. C. L. Hyde, the treasurer read the report of the auditor finding decline in the number of children in Care expenditure of exceeded revenue at the end of April by more than $4,000. Receipts to receive for the maintenance of a child in care are based on a per diem subsidy by the court. This is, in simple terms, determined by dividing the cost of the child caring operation in any one year by the total number of days care provided during the same period. You can see that, even if our costs remain constant, when the number of children in care declines, we do not have sufficient income to make ends meet.

"Since both our accounts receivable and our accounts payable are always for two months behind, it takes a considerable time for errors in financial reduction in spending to show up. However, when the trend is clear the savings we are endeavoring to effect will have their impact in the months ahead," said Mr. Hyde.

Mr. Whitney Wigle, chairman of the personnel committee, informed the board that the committee had held two meetings within recent weeks to discuss salaries and that the within recent weeks 11 children have been returned to their parents with the help of the Society, have reached the age of majority, or have married.

"This is one of the most rewarding aspects of our work — returning children to their own parents. In each case our protection has been equal because we are with the family and endeavor to help them over any rough spots that may arise," said Mr. Wigle.

Mr. Kerr.

ANNUAL REPORT APPROVED

On the recommendation of Mr. Kerr, the Board approved an annual grant to a young man, a resident of the city, who otherwise would enter Queen's University in the fall. The amount is to be set aside in the 1961 budget. Mr. Kerr said, "The Society has an unspoil opportunity which I believe in God's beautiful garden to help a young person to become early, when life's journey is just beginning.

He shall all my footsteps guide," Mr. Kerr said relaxed and always remembered by Mom, Dad and family.

APPOINTMENT APPROVED

On Mr. Kerr's recommendation, the Board approved the appointment of Mrs. Elizabeth Lawn to the staff of the Protection Department. Mrs. Lawn's duties will work full time in the City of Belleville. A graduate from Ottawa University in the Arts course, Mrs. Lawn is a member of Arts and Bachelor of Philosophy. Mr. Lawn comes to us highly recommended and we are pleased to have him working with us."

Mr. Kerr continued, "With the number of children in care steadily declining, we are in the position of being able to reduce staff. One employee of staff who resigned in the late fall was not replaced and now, for the time being, the duties are dispensing with the services of our home-maker. This will enable us to cut our staff by two workers within the next few months. In the months ahead our home finding will be done by the staff of the child care department."

Victoria Day Holiday Toll Includes 26 Who Drowned

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A house fire which killed six children and an outbreak of drownings and highway crashes rent the death toll for Canada's Victoria Day holiday soaring to at least 68.

Thirty-two persons died in traffic mishaps, 12 more than the number predicted for the three-day holiday by Canadian Highway Safety Council. Another 26 drowned.

The six children died in New Glasgow, N.S., when fire raced through the one-storey home of Mrs. Carrie Jackson. Mrs. Jackson was visiting neighbors at the time. A seventh child, Thomas, 15, escaped. There were seven fire deaths in the country.

The over-all toll surpassed the three-day Victoria Day holiday last year when 61 persons died in 29 traffic. There were 56 fatalities during Canada's last long weekend, the three-day Easter holiday.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Monday showed Quebec and Ontario topping the list with 22 deaths each.

Eighteen persons were killed on Ontario highways. Four others were drowned.

In addition to the six-death fire in Nova Scotia, one person was killed in a road accident and a boy in a boat was electrocuted by the propeller of a float-equipped plane, pulling the province's total to eight.

Two persons were drowned in Manitoba, one was killed in a car crash, a pilot died in a plane crash and a man was fatally injured while working under a car which slipped off a jack.

Four drownings were recorded in British Columbia and two in Alberta, where another two persons are missing and believed drowned. A youth was killed in a car crash in British Columbia bringing the provinces' total to five.

Only Saskatchewan and Newfoundland were free of fatalities.

The survey included deaths in holiday activities but not industrial accidents.

Ontario dead included:

Francis Joseph Walsh, 28, Hamilton, drowned when attempting to cross a dam on the Trent River near Hastings Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Dillon, Ottawa, in a car-truck collision near Kingston Sunday.

Two Children Hurt by Cars Over Weekend

TRENTON — In spite of the high accident record in Canada over the weekend, there were only a few accidents in Trenton and district.

Yesterday an accident involving two cars occurred at the rear of the Quonsome Hotel. Damage was estimated at $200.

V. P. Regan, R.R. 3, Trenton, turned his car sharply into the parking area back of the hotel and collided with a car driven by Joseph Arsenault of 8 Metcalfe Street in Trenton.

Shortly after 8 p.m. Monday four-year-old James Pearson, 333 Front Street, was knocked to the pavement by a car driven in front of a car driven by Brenda Joan Crews, R.R. 3, Trenton, on Front St. The child suffered abrasions to the right side of the face and bruises on his right arm.

Friday night, eight-year-old Valerie Farwell, 20 Dufferin Ave., suffered a fractured right arm and shock when she was knocked to the pavement by a car driven by Lee Cleary of Cobourg, on Dundas St. The child was released from hospital on Sunday.

Firemen Thrill Thousands With 'Cracker Display

In spite of a drizzle, hundreds of cars lined the streets below the mountain and thousands of spectators of all ages gathered to enjoy the show.

The sky was ablaze with colors as a rocket and flare display was shot off. Highlights of the show were the huge pinwheels set against the murky red haze put up by, the succession of firings.

There were no reported accidents involving fireworks in town over the weekend and Fire Chief Ellis said he was glad that their effort was justly repaid by this fact.

No calls were received Monday by the department. The occupants of 25 Dundas Street put in a call when they discovered a fire blazing in a garbage can placed in a frame woodshed. The fire had been caused by a flare butt being thrown into the can from the street.

The other call involved an oil burner.

Scale Models On Exhibit At Air Force Day

TRENTON — A collection of valuable scale models will be on display at No. 9 Hangar during Air Force Day at Trenton on Saturday.

The models range from the Bleriot monoplane to the Supermarine Spitfire, flown by Flight Lieutenant Graham Bell in 1937 to the modern CL-44 Canadair-built civilian version of the CC-106 military transport soon to come into service with Air-Transport Command.

The "Cygnet" was not really an aircraft, but a type of glant kite, comprised of more than 1,000 small triangular cells which provided lift for the man-made structure. Never officially published a date, the revolutionary gadget was actually test flown carrying a pilot.

The CL-44 model, with a wingspan of eight feet, is comparable to the CC-106 military transport slated for service with Trenton's Air Transport Squadron. The model will be accompanied by a cut-away assembly from the real aircraft, a graphic indication of the size of this turboprop giant.

Other RCAF aircraft models of both present and past today will be exhibited. The display is considered to be a top drawing card, and demand is high as other RCAF units holding Air Force Day.

A newspaper in Station Trenton will be published tomorrow, an all-ranks publication which will be distributed to the public at the gate. Friday's issue ran over 96 9-16.

Lightning Hits Brighton Home, $2,000 Damage

TRENTON — Fire and smoke damage estimated at $2,000 was caused to the Brighton home of Mr. and Mrs. Cy Boyce Sunday evening when the home was struck by lightning.

Mr. and Mrs.. Boyce were away from home when the lightning struck. Minutes later neighbors saw smoke pouring from raised windows and called the fire department.

Residents of the Young Street area where the fire occurred said the isolated flash of lightning lit up the entire area with a blue flash. Several television sets in the area were knocked out while fuses on electric ranges were also blown.

Minutes after the flash neighbors spotted the smoke rolling out of open windows in the house. Forcing entry to the house firemen found an electric lamp and a mattress and drapes in a bedroom ablaze.

Where Is the U.N?

Many things were proven by the failure of the summit meeting and they should serve to caution the entire world against placing hope in achieving any positive accomplishment out of a meeting which can so easily be turned into the political carnival of imperialistic ingenuity which the Russian premier created.

The proper place for any sort of international discussion which is going to bring about any effective international action for peace and the betterment of mankind is, we feel, the United Nations. It was for this very purpose that the United Nations was formed in 1945. Under the purposes and principles of the United Nations any participating nation is committed to the following:

"1. To maintain international peace and security and to that end: to take effective collective measures for the prevention and removal of threats to the peace, and for the suppression of acts of aggression or other breaches of the peace, and to bring about by peaceful means, and in conformity with the principles of international law, adjustment or settlement of international disputes or situations which might lead to a breach of the peace;

"2. To develop friendly relations among nations based on respect for the principle of equal rights and self-determination of peoples, and to take other appropriate measures to strengthen universal peace;

"3. To achieve international co-operation in solving international problems of an economic, social, cultural, or humanitarian character, and in promoting and encouraging respect for human rights and for fundamental freedoms for all without distinction as to race, sex, language, or religion and

"4. To be a centre for harmonizing the actions of nations in the attainment of these common ends."
(Charter of the United Nations, Capt. I, Art. I).

It would therefore seem to us that the United Nations should have two items on its agenda as quickly as possible; one, the incident of U-2's being flown over Russia which certainly appears to be a situation "which might lead to a breach of the peace"; and two, the threat of the Russian premier to sign a separate peace with Eastern Germany which could quite readily develop into another situation "which might lead to a breach of the peace."

These two wrongs will have been committed if the latest event were to take place, and it is an old saw that two wrongs do not make a right. If there is to be a positive step taken towards taking "any effective international action for peace" we feel that it will have to be in the United Nations as the participating parties are obligated to abide by the decisions taken not by just three or four powers but by the largest community of nations in the world.

We feel that the cause for world peace and the concern for the future is not any special concern of just a handful few with that favor bestowed upon by who has atomic arms. The cause for world peace is universal and the most universal organization which we have is the United Nations.

The U.N. is where the meeting should have taken place in the first instance. If the leaders of world powers are unable to meet in public before the representatives of as many nations as possible and where they will be bound by the purposes and principles outlined above.

Loan Rates

Senator David Croll has a bill before the Senate which, if passed, would at least help to ensure that persons who borrow money at excessive interest rates will know what the excessive rate is.

The bill would require lenders to state the interest charges in annual terms, rather than concealing them as monthly rates or similar devices now widely used.

Thus the borrower would have to be told, for instance, that he was paying 24 per cent interest instead of $2 a month on every $100 borrowed.

The bill contains no proposal for limiting the interest rate, as some C.C.F. members have urged in the Commons. If the borrower, knowing the annual interest rate, wants to go ahead with the loan, that would be his business. (Winnipeg Tribune).

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

MAN'S WHOLE DUTY

One of the most frequently quoted verses in the Bible is found in Ecclesiastes 12:13. "Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter: Fear God, and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man." The Revised Standard Version reads, "The end of the matter, all has been heard. Fear God and keep his commandments, for this is the whole duty of man." Micah 6:8 is also quoted frequently. It reads, "He hath showed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?" (Micah 6:8).

Certainly this is a noble and lofty code by any divine standard. But the question arises, Do we live by it? Have we been shown what is right? Let us not deceive ourselves by claiming that we are not entirely sure what is right and what is wrong. This may be true once in a hundred situations calling for decision, but in the other ninety-nine we know only too well what we should do. The difficulty does not lie in doing what is right all the time. "He hath showed thee, O man, what is good;" and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?" Micah 6:8).

This statement declares that we are "to do justly." This is the very easy to do. It is only to be just to those who are about us. Do we give to others what belongs to them? Do we pay our debts? Do we give to others the same consideration we expect to receive for ourselves? Do we give to others the same opportunities we desire for ourselves? Do we treat others as we would like to be treated? These are questions which the Hebrew prophet declares that we are to "love mercy," and to walk humbly with our God. Not just to admire mercy, but to love it until we practice it in every relationship. And to walk humbly means to bow to the will of God whatever we want to or not.

Spring Visit to England
A Rewarding Experience

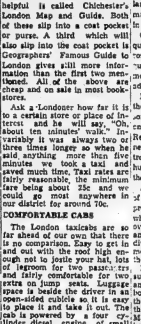
By G. A. MORTON
...Article 6

The next couple days after our arrival in London we took "get acquainted" tours about the central part of the city by bus, taxi and afoot. The city has no geometric pattern like New York, Toronto and other well-known cities on this continent. The winding Thames River probably influenced the plan for it is to be remembered it started as a village then grew into a city or perhaps we should say it is a series of towns strung together along the river. The streets in some cases change names as they go along which is one of the most confusing things to the tourist. For instance we have one street called Bayswater Road, then Oxford Street, New Oxford Street, Holborn and Holborn via Newgate Street. "Another example is Kensington Rd. progressively named Knightsbridge, Picadilly and Shaftesbury Avenue. There are many other examples.

Having no geometric pattern is another added difficulty about finding one's way about the city and were it not for the multitudes of taxicabs we would have very little fear of London.

A good map is an absolute necessity and the one we liked best is Foldex Miniplan, London with street index and guide. This is notebook size and opens into a map easy to read with the added information which is helpful is called Chichester's Guide to London Art and Guide. Both of these slip into a coat pocket or purse. A third which will have to go into the coat pocket is Geographers' Famous Guide to London gives still more information than the first two mentioned. All of the above are cheap and on sale in most bookstores.

Ask a Londoner how far it is to some place and he will give location and he will say, "Oh, three ten minutes' walk." Invariably it was always two or three times longer so when he was getting these "Oh, five minutes we took a taxi and saved much time. Fares are fairly reasonable, the minimum fare being about 25c and we could get most anywhere in our district for around 70c.



COMFORTABLE CABS

The London taking cabs are so far ahead of our own that there is no comparison. Easy to get in and out with the roof high enough not to jostle your hat, lots of room for two passengers and fairly comfortable for two more on little seats. Luggage space is beside the driver in an open compartment so it is easy to place it and take it out. The cab is powered by a four cylinder diesel engine of small horsepower and it could be turned around in the space of any of our residential streets. A glass window separates the passenger compartment from the driver so it is possible to carry on a conversation in private.

We did not see a taxi with a damaged fender or body during our stay in London and every one was in good repair in appearance. Clean inside and out with all filled trays of discarded cigaret butts emptied by owner after each trip so far as we know and owners' licenses are very difficult to get, so as a result there is little of the "Hoodlum" element in the cabs as are encountered in large Canadian and American cities. Present cost of new cabs is around $2,000 we were told.

There is a lot of construction going on in the business centre of the city for buildings and new stores are going up regularly where to replace those which were destroyed during the war. For ten years only, residential building was permitted and in that time approximately 1,250,000 homes have been built to replaced by new buildings eventually. Buildings now being built tend to be higher than most buildings of the past for there is a limit to height we did not learn. There is talk of a forty-storey hotel to be constructed as soon as a suitable site can be obtained. There is a real shortage of rooms for visitors but little replacement of those lost in the war and being turned into office buildings — about 8,000 altogether.

Strictly Personal
Happiness Is What in Marriage?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A college student asked me during a bull-session on campus one evening, "How many happy marriages do you think there are in our country?"

Of course, it is my business to answer questions, even on tough personal topics, but the question itself interested me more than the lack of an answer.

Most people don't know that the idea of "happiness" in a person, a job, or a marriage is a very new one — no older than the French Revolution. The idea that happiness as such should be the controlling or dominating force in human life rarely occurred to the ancients or to the medievals.

Along with the vague concept of "progress," happiness is a product of the last two centuries, when man began to feel he had some control over his environment, and when the idea of the individual personality became more important than the tribe, the city, or the nation. Until then, it was supposed to aim at happiness as an ultimate goal; they simply hoped for it as a by-product, but they did not judge the worth of anything by it. The institution of Marriage then held together because the couples were "stuck together," but because they weren't looking for happiness in each other.

We can see this even as late as our grandparents' time. Divorce was rarely infrequent not merely because the laws were stricter and religious scruples more acute, but because couples themselves were content if they could live together long enough to live by, reared decent families, and died with a reasonably consistent accompaniment.

We today ask a great deal more of marriage — just as we ask a great deal more of life — than our parents did. The married couple is not satisfied short of "happiness," and what happiness may be defined — and its definition usually includes some idea of romantic love that was irrelevant to marriage in past ages.

It can see good in both attitudes. The past was more realistic, and we are more ambitious. Our grandparents didn't expect too much out of marriage, and were satisfied with more "adjustment." We expect a great deal — perhaps too much — and are unwilling to settle for less. We may have a more different idea of the individual than they had, but we have paid for this restlessness and instability of modern marriage. We want marriage to do more than an economic and social contract which I think it should be, but we have not yet matured enough to realize that "happiness" can not be found in someone else — it must be built with someone else. We have not yet grown up to our vast emotional wants.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

"We let our children learn to walk and to talk according to their inclination. Why then attempt to force a child to learn anything before attaining the proper age? When learning it thrust upon children before their minds are in the receptive, they turn in memorization and consequently had to be taught the facts a second time." Children should not be started in public school until after passing their seventh birthday. The foregoing was stated in an address by W. F. J. Pickering, inspector of public schools for South Hastings, before the noon-day luncheon of the Belleville Rotary Club yesterday. He quoted numerous authorities including the Committee of Seven appointed in Illinois in 1935 to determine the proper age for entering school. Dr. C. Stothers of the Ontario Department of Education, in a recent circular, had asserted that the mental age for learning to read by phonics should be seven years of age.

The Odd Fellows' Hall had an atmosphere of old-fashioned charm yesterday when Minerva Chapter No. 136, O.E.S., held a "Country Store." Those assisting at the affair of which Mrs. A. E. Wonnacott was convener, were quaint period costumes that added delightful touch. One member was so intent on perfection of detail that her costume, from bodice to hoop, looked "home-made." Mrs. A. Cooper, the Worthy Matron, welcomed the guests. The flower stall was particularly appetizing, and was in charge of Mrs. Wm. Fry, Mrs. F. Johnson and Mrs. W. Bodkin. Home cooking contained a great assortment of wares and was presided over by Mrs. J. Lazenby, Mrs. W. Adams, Mrs. Reg Hinchey, Mrs. F. Vandewater and Mrs. A. Calnan.

Indian Trade Unconquered

New York Times

Indian experts describe them as among "the most self-sufficient people in the United States," living unconquered and primitive people of the swamps. They are the Miccosukee Seminoles of Southern Florida, superficially familiar to tourists along the Tamiami Trail but actually far removed from the civilization pressing in upon them.

They live in unwalled, palm-thatched huts, speak their own language and read none; and they bring a wild Eden to the food as their people did before the Spaniards landed St. Augustine in 1565, says a report on the Seminoles by the authoritative Advisory Committee on Indian Affairs. Never having made peace with the United States and therefore never having made a treaty, the Miccosukees still own a reservation of 900 acres of swampland north of the Trail other than the belief that it is theirs as it is their home. But that is enough in this age of expansion, real estate booms, drainage and "development." They are now seeking some arrangement with the State of Florida that will permanently protect them in their historic claim, which in the cold eye of modern civilization is now reducible to a matter of "aboriginal" rights.

Complicated by differences with their brother Seminoles, the Miccosukee argument with Florida and the Federal Indian Affairs has been going on for years. It is not, too, simple and certainly not too soon — that Secretary of the Interior, who has been in the habit of showing respect for the breadth of his responsibility to Indian affairs, to step in to settle this problem that it can be settled with imagination, sympathy and understanding. Though the Miccosukees number only about 600 and a mere 400 almost aboriginal Indians, it also involves the moral position of 180,000,000 of their fellow-Americans.

DON'T WORRY ABOUT "CHEMICALS" IN FOOD

When I was a small boy, some age my encountered a teacher who bright green and red candies — when I made some reference were colored with different dye- to "chemicals" — asked me what rivalries of arsenic.

The amounts, to be sure, were slight. Likewise it was just enough to get a penny or two much less cases were the dosage so that I didn't eat very much candy.

The colors remained but the arsenic disappeared when I was little small wonder that the federal government prohibited its use.

All of this is just a personal way of relating the sort of things which took place when the pure food and drug laws first came into being a development which has been growing gradually for more than half a century.

Naturally, when these laws first began to have some teeth, there were sandy-and-shouts who felt that the government was unduly "interfering" with them. By depending on the pure food laws. If anything, the food and drug administration has been progressively fussy these days. Remember the recent "cranberry scare?

"Concerned Girls"; These "time boys", as you describe them, are not honestly trying to be helpful and constructive in their criticism. You know common sense will tell you that business about a number of colony helping "normal development" is nonsense. I am not interested in getting into any discussion with you or with your about nudists, but I think you and I have felt that such colonies aren't "necessary". So use your good sense and don't be misled by glib arguments.

TODAY'S TALK

THE POWER OF CHOICE

I wish there were not so many Just start and give it away. It Happiness is power and something that regards the person who has this magic power should never fease to thank God for it.

There are heights of happiness that can be made possible to the humblest. Happiness is in every path in life and our Creator meant for each one of us to spread out and influence every possible person. By doing so our happiness we define it for the multitude. It all away when the well of happiness goes dry. There is a method of keeping happiness, however. So simple, like the general. "at Pearl Harbor." "No," and it took us a little time," put in the crew-cut greyhaired man, "it was a terrible shock of being up against an enemy we had underrated and didn't already have. But as far as North Africa and Europe were concerned, we had everything forced the enemy to show his hand."

"Well, what are you getting?" demanded the general impatiently.

"Just this," said the bald-headed man, "we've got the Axis. For the first time in this war we have a complete and military situation that has not been largely clarified before you got here."

The general signalled the club car attendant for another round.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A good place to sit on your trip to Israel is the club car. I train on a long day's journey. Across from me sat a two-star American general with a wide side of him one of those well-dressed republican-minded gentlemen you find in any country on by two stars.

"Now," I said a minute, general," said the bald-headed one, "you count your forces. You've 000 across of swampland north of the Trail other than the belief that it is theirs as it is their home. But that is not enough in this age of expansion, real estate booms, drainage and "development." All British Guns Tested

BBC London Letter

Every gun sold in Britain is tested at the Proof House of the Worshipful Company of Gunmakers in the City of London by the Guardians of the Proof House, Sir Birmingham Sampson in a recent BBC broadcast on a visit he had paid to the London Proof House. "Every gun sold that he had seen for himself that it was still more effective to have skilled man to look along the inside of a gun-barrel and say whether it was sound before going for the Proofmaster to use electronic gauge to check the bore measurement. In fact, the principles of rifling were much the same as they had been over three hundred years ago when the Worshipful Company of Gunmakers had been granted because, as it was then, "Gunmakers and others inexpert in the art have taken it upon themselves to make barrels for guns after their unskilful way, damnifying gunmakers and causing much harm and danger to the King's loyal subjects".

Manufacturers send their gun barrels to the Proof House for testing and there, after being examined, "the barrel is held up to a window on which a strip of black paper, usually about 6 inches by 3 inches, is pasted. If you've had seven years training your eyes will tell you how to read the barrel accurately, very quickly, that goes to the Proof House is fired before the Proof Master and it's classed before it's fire. Service weapons are not proved but they are examined and then they are proved before they are sold to the public.

"Rifles are loaded with bullets 30 to 40 per cent more powerful than those normally used. The gun is placed on a rest in a bullet-proof room, the tester shuts the door and fires the gun with a string attached to the trigger. The gun fires and, as it should explode, no one is hurt. Shotgun barrels are fired by remote control in another room. The tester pulls a string which realizes a trolley on which is a shotgun cartridge which runs from barrel to barrel in the gun-rack. Proof Shotgun barrels are subjected to 50 to 80 per cent greater pressure than normal, but the gun would normally occur.

"Every weapon with a bore of up to 4 inches can be proved before sale. Not only rifles, shotguns and pistols, but machine guns including humane killers, cartridge hammers used in Scotland and Ireland, gas fire life-saving ropes. The mass-produced twenty-pound gun is tested just as carefully and rigorously as the handmade shotgun that costs £70. They all have the proofmark punched on them, the gauge of the gun, the number of the year, the bore and the highest pressure allowed".

On Sunday an estimated 400 persons attended special services at Christ Anglican Church on the Tyendinaga Mohawk Indian Reserve, near Deseronto, to witness the ordination of Robert Glendon Brant. It was the first time in the history of the Anglican Church in Canada that a full-blooded Indian has been elevated to the priesthood.

The act of ordination was performed by the Lord Bishop of Ontario, the Right Rev. Kenneth C. Evans. He was assisted by the Rev. Canon J. E. Hutchinson, of Kingston; the Archdeacon of Ontario, the Venerable J. R. Creegan, of Belleville; the Rev. Edwin Wrightson, rector and chaplain to the Mohawk tribe; Rev. Canon A. J. Anderson and the Rev. K. F. Blackford, rector at St. George's Anglican Church in Trenton, where Mr. Brant recently served as assistant rector.

Mr. Brant, who is a direct descendant of the first Mohawks to land on the Quinte shore, had expressed the desire to be ordained in the historic church, built by the Mohawks in 1843. Inscribed over the door of the church is the legend: "This church was erected by the Mohawks in token of their preservation by the Divine Mercy".

Before the ordination service, members of the tribe led by Chief Melville Hill took part in a colorful tableau, commemorating the landing on the stony shore of the bay of the first Mohawks to enter the area. The Mohawks had lived in Mohawk Valley in what is now New York State. Following the American Revolution, members of the tribe who, loyal to the British Crown left their homes and made their way across Lake Ontario in canoes, paddling down into the bay, and landing on the shore of what is now the reservation. They brought with them a silver communion cup and tankard, which had been a gift to the tribe from Queen Anne of England in 1712. This communion set, which has been carefully preserved over the years, was used during a service at the cairn erected to commemorate the landing and at the church service which followed.

At the cairn, Clayton Jones, a lay-reader of the church, read the historical details of the landing. Chief Hill placed a wreath at the cairn in memory of the pioneers.

Among the distinguished guests at the ceremonies were Col. H. M. Jones, federal director of Indian Affairs, Mrs. Jones, and Major Angus Mowat, well-known Canadian author who has exerted his influence for bettering conditions of the Canadian Indian.

Inside the church, above the altar, is a cross, fashioned of olive wood, brought from the Holy Land by Dr. Oronhyatekha, a famous chieftain of the tribe, who is buried in the church graveyard. Inlays of mother-of-pearl depict the four evangelists of the early church, the Mother of Our Lord and the nativity.

Preceding the presentation of the ordinand, a brief sermon was preached by Professor E. R. Fairweather of Trinity College, Toronto. Prof. Fairweather reminded the congregation that this was a great event in the history of the community. He said that the Mohawks had played a memorable part in the early history of the province, and that this was one of their proudest moments when a descendant of the first Mohawks in the area was to be raised to the priesthood. He said that it was also a great day in the life of the church when a new name was enrolled among the leaders of the church.

Two Children Lose Eyes in Celebrations

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Glass splinters, sprayed by firecrackers exploding in bottles, robbed two Ontario children of left eyes during Victoria Day weekend celebrations.

Police, firemen and hospital officials reported fireworks activity was less intensive than in previous years but 15 persons were sent to hospitals in Toronto.

In St. Thomas, Alan Kokko, 18, lost the tips of two left-hand fingers and the rest of the hand was severely injured when a firecracker he was holding exploded.

Wayne Byford, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Byford of Toronto, lost his eye Sunday when he stopped to watch some other boys setting off a firecracker in an empty bottle.

Four-year-old Kenneth Skarupis of Hamilton, playing with other children, lost his eye in a similar accident Saturday. He was reported in good condition following an operation to remove the eye.

Monday night, 20-year-old Tonino Tracona of Toronto was admitted to hospital with an eye hemorrhage, but his sight is not in danger. Six other youths had been throwing firecrackers at each other in a field.

Brian Weldon, 12, of Toronto's suburban Scarboro, was the victim of an unusual accident. A little girl threw a firecracker which bounced into his rear pants pocket, setting off several firecrackers and sending him to hospital with painful burns.

An active and successful year was reported at the annual meeting of the University Women's Club of Belleville and district, held on May 18th at St. Thomas' Parish House.

Two scholarships of $100 each were given to girls graduating from high schools in the district. The money for these scholarships is raised each year at the "Spring Fair". This is an outstanding event which includes an extensive showing of the products of Mr. Manly Macdonald an artist of national reputation. Proceeds from the sale of tickets on the beautiful painting donated by the artist are used for the scholarship fund, which is to be increased by the purchase of bonds to the value of $750.

The club has for several years sent $50 to help a refugee university woman who lives in Germany. This year, in addition, members gave $100 to the CFUW Fund of Refugee Year.

PENAL REFORM

One of the projects of University Women's clubs is the study of penal reform, and to demonstrate their continuing interest in all aspects of this problem, members voted $50 to the Elizabeth Fry Society.

When the new wing of the Belleville Public Library was opened last autumn, the club, jointly with Mr. Macdonald presented the painting of Belleville which now hangs by the main desk.

Reports were made of all the events of the club year, which began with a "Fall Tea" attended by more than 100 members and guests, and included a Christmas banquet as well as the club's regular monthly meetings addressed by speakers who were both interesting and instructive.

On the lighter side, there was a report from the bridge group. This was a new activity for the Club but it obviously filled a social need since it met with such an enthusiastic response by a number of the ladies.

THEATRE YEARS OUTLINED

When the business meeting concluded, Miss Madeline Young spoke on her years in the theatre, not as an actress but as a devoted spectator. Miss Young enjoys every type of theatrical entertainment and still goes to New York as often as she can in order to see the current plays. The first play that she ever saw said Miss Young, was "Uncle Tom's Cabin", as, played many years ago in the Opera House in Belleville. The most recent play she described was Camelot in New York at Easter, and of these she believes "Rainin in the Sun" to be the best.

Miss Young also likes musicals, and modern symbolic plays, such as "A Sleep of Prisoners" and "J. B.", and she called her year by visit to Stratford a pilgrimage. She had sometimes been critical of the interpretation of Shakespeare made by the Stratford company since she has seen so many performances of Shakespeare, in this and other countries, that she can make comparisons. However, she is too much in love with the theatre to be a severe critic.

She recalled with pleasure the famous actors and actresses whom she had seen in favorite roles.

"When I first saw Helen Hayes in "Dear Brutus", I knew that she was going to be famous", said Miss Young. "I have always felt as if I discovered her myself".

This delightful theatre-goer closed her talk with the title of a play; "And So to Bed".

Refreshments were served by the out-of-town members to conclude an enjoyable annual meeting and a very satisfactory year.

Brown Emerges As Fashionable Color for Fall

LONDON (Reuters)—The London look for the coming fall and winter was paraded for overseas buyers and fashion writers Monday at a show by 37 ready-to-wear houses opening London Fashion Week.

Brown, in all shades from palest stone to black coffee, emerged as the fashionable color for next fall.

It was even used for evening wear, in a full-length, chocolate-brown dress of nylon moussaline shown by Lanvin.

Runners-up in the color stakes were in the purple, mauve and wine-red range and all the greens from lettuce to olive.

Red was a favorite for daytime among the 225 models shown and while it was used extensively for evening.

Black was intensified by lace, jewelry or shiny patent trim.

Otto Lucas, who designed all the hats for the show, made a fur hat seem a must in any smart woman's wardrobe this fall.

Nearly all his daytime hats were fur—mink, sable, ocelot or beaver. Most hat shapes were high and narrow, with little or no brim.

Among the winter coats and suits, nearly all had deep-fluted collars of fur and some had fur cuffs.

Full skirts won the day in the long evening dresses, but there were several straight-and-slinky models, with side-fan flavored fabric.

Petal, or pannier, skirt effects were used in short taffeta evening dresses.

Many ensembles were shown. Coats, full or seven - eighths length, were shown over matching dresses, skirts or suits.

Suit jackets were straight-fitted, loose, or slightly fitted through the midriff.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual Family Council. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Sylvia P. — I've got to get out of my rut.

Mrs. J. F. — A single girl belongs with her parents.

Sylvia P. — I am 28 and single. That's my problem.

I'd like very much to marry before I'm 29 — that's my deadline. The way things look now I don't stand a chance. I date, but there's nobody I am seriously interested in. Most of the men I know are either dyed-in-the-wool bachelors or the kind who make me feel like being a spinster.

I feel that I've got to get out of my rut. I've got to meet more people in new surroundings. I learned recently about an overseas job with the Government and I would like to go — not to but my parents want to keep me home. They say they'd be too lonesome without me. Besides, they don't approve of girls being on their own. How old-fashioned can you get?

Mrs. J. P. — I feel that a girl belongs with her parents until she gets married. I have always considered old-fashioned these days, but I also know that modern ways aren't always better than the old ones.

It's true you'd be lonesome without Sylvia, as she is our only unmarried child. But we would be willing to do whatever is best for her. We can't believe it's good for a single girl to be alone, thousands of miles from her family, with nobody to turn to in case of trouble.

My husband and I also feel there are plenty of nice men right around here to choose from. We don't like Sylvia going out with foreigners. Sylvia should take a second look at the fellows she knows.

The Council: We agree that modern ways aren't always better than the old-fashioned ones, but we think it is important to remember that some of the better, old-fashioned values are not quite practical in the modern world.

In the days when it was unthinkable for a girl to leave her parents' roof until she was married, the parents took the major share of the responsibility of finding a husband for her. Perhaps this wasn't a bad idea, but it is totally unacceptable to the vast majority of young people today. Girls must seek their own husbands, and husband hunting may have takes overseas jobs and then come home and married the next door. Wider experience gave them a fuller understanding of their own values and the qualities they really desired in a lifetime companion.

If she has average common sense and maturity for her age, Sylvia is unlikely to run into serious trouble. If she does, however, we can't think of better protection than to work with the Government. We doubt whether she'll be at the mercy of dangerous foreigners. Probably the closest friends of both sexes will be Canadian.

We think Sylvia stands a better chance of getting married at home or abroad if the rejected herself from her deadline and concentrates on enjoying her social life in as relaxed a way as she can.

MODERN MANNERS

— Carolyn Hagner Shaw —

QUESTION BOX

After an address on manners to parents, at a women's club, the following questions were put to me by the audience:

Question: How do you reply to an invitation that, instead of saying Regrets in the corner, says "Regrets only"?

Answer: This is a new idea. It really makes sense, too! If you are planning to attend the party, you simply do. If you know you cannot make it, write or call your regret. In this way the hostess is better able to figure how many people she is to expect. She often people don't answer even the R.s.v.p. This way she assumes that all those who don't answer are coming. If you are not going, by all means be kind and let her know immediately!

Question: Is it correct to write a "thank you" after attending a wedding and reception?

Answer: It is not considered necessary. However, if you know the family well, it certainly does no harm to write a note expressing your pleasure at having been present.

Question: When is it proper to light candles on a tea table?

Answer: It all depends. Nothing is more dreary than to see a tea table (in broad daylight) with candles feebly struggling with the sun. I would suggest having no candles on the table unless the room is really beginning to darken. Don't put the hostess and her candles on the table until it is necessary to light them.

Question: When you are dining in a restaurant as a guest of friends, are you expected to pay the tip to the waiter when the meal is over?

Answer: Goodness, no! Your host assumes the payment of the check for the meal and also the tip. You would only be insulting him should you suggest that you pay it.

Question: I have been told that it is not necessary to ask for an answer when sending out a luncheon or dinner invitation, that automatically an answer is called for. Is this correct?

Answer: Everyone should know that an invitation to a luncheon or dinner does require an answer. Unfortunately, too many people are unpardonably careless and neglect to acknowledge such an invitation immediately. Therefore, I would suggest asking for a reply as a reminder, more than anything else.

witness to the pest that it moves us, nor as what used to be called beauty . . . This is an immense regeneration . . . For the first time, men have discovered a universal language of art. We feel its influence acutely, even if we only partly understand its nature . . . Of the forces that brought Egypt into being out of prehistoric night, nothing now remains; but the impulses which engendered these giants which are there stood today still speaks to us as the genius of the masterpiece-men of Chartres, or the genius of Rembrandt".

The Girl Guides and Brownies hope you have noticed the bluebirds of color provided by their Golden Jubilee Tulips, which are being planted in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of their movement. It is a big project for guiding all over the world, and a special one for local guiding in the acquisition of their own campsite. A tour of the city will show you Jubilee Tulips at the Nurses' Residence, the Memorial Cenotaph in the form of a Guide Trefoil, St. Thomas Church, the County Home, Christ Church, the Kiwanis Camley, and the various schools such as Queen Victoria, Queen Elizabeth, St. Joseph's, St. Michael's Queen Mary, Avondale and Parkdale.

High Tea English Style

As conducted by Mary Moore

Patricia Grear invited us to a Sunday afternoon "stand-up" tea and airily added "bring the children of course", I tried to verbalize a four year-old, a two and one-half-year old and a ten-month old at a stand-up tea, but decided that "trial" knew her business. We all got dressed in our Sunday best for the occasion.

It turned out that her two children (Peter 5 1-2) and Sue (6), and our two boys were invited, in charge of Joyce, their little Dutch nursemaid, at the dining-room table. It was lively with homemade goodies that Patricia had devoted all of Friday to produce: banana bread, chocolate layer cake, date oatmeal squares and Banbury tarts, besides a plate of dainty tomato and cucumber and ham sandwiches. It was a tempting and nourishing meal and a lovely tea in anyone's language including the Canadians present. The children were given a choice of orange squash or sambric tea, and the adults drank enough of Patricia's perfectly brewed Orange Pekoe to float the Queen Mary.

Meanwhile their little Hugh Jones is growing up peacefully in his pram on the lawn and our Sue crept between the chair and table legs in her best silk dress tucked into her fancy frilly panties.

I will give you the recipe for Banana Bread especially suited to English high tea.

BANANA BREAD:

1-4 cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1 cup mashed ripe bananas, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 2 cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup nut meats, chopped finely.

Cream shortening and sugar together. Beat eggs until light and add. Press bananas through sieve and thoroughly add lemon juice. Blend with creamed mixture. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together and mix quickly into banana mixture. Add nuts. Bake in greased loaf pan at 375 deg. Fahr. about 1 1-4 hours. Makes 1 (1-pound) loaf. This slices best after it is 24 hours old.

The Banbury tarts weren't tarts at all they were turnovers.

BANBURY TARTS (turnovers):

1-4 cup chopped raisins, 1-4 cup chopped dates, 1-4 cup chopped figs, 1-4 cup chopped nut meats, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 egg, slightly beaten, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind plain pastry (using 2 cups sifted flour, 2-4 teaspoon salt, 2-3 cup shortening and 5 tablespoons cold water).

Combine raisins, dates, figs, nuts, sugar, flour and eggs and cook slowly for 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in lemon juice and rind. Cool. Roll pastry to 1-8" thickness and cut into 6" squares. Place 2 teaspoons of filling on each square, moisten edges and fold over, making 3-cornered tart. Pinch edges together, make 2 slits in top. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr, about 20 minutes. Makes 12 tarts.

The notice for the meeting for women's services of the local Canadian Cancer Society at the Kiwanis Centre next Wednesday evening has probably come to the attention of many of you. We wonder if any of you have looked, as we have heard, "Oh, not person say, "It's such a dreadful thing, I don't want to hear anything about it."

We are slowly learning, though, that whether it is personal affairs, he th, community business or world affairs, sticking our heads in the sand does no good at all. Realities just don't go away. One this is faced, finding out and learning what to do about it is the next step. It is very important to do this as quickly as possible since time is always precious. From your Cancer Society you can learn about the nursing services provided. Dressings, if needed are provided completely free of charge and no means test is necessary. Transportation to and from clinics may be arranged for, and in the large centres where Cancer Foundation clinics, hostel accommodation is arranged for patients from outlying centres.

Other services may be home nursing for a period of time and provision of drugs for relief of pain.

The Cancer Society, in this city, is comparatively new. Already there are faithful and dedicated helpers. The public and the sufferers are the beneficiaries.

Some time ago, T & T gave some information about the plans to save the Nubian art treasures in the Middle Valley of the Nile. The campaign is now launched with many patrons under UNESCO, including Vincent Massey, former Governor-General of Canada; Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Duke of Devonshire, Princess Grace of Monaco and Andre Malraux, Minister of State in charge of Cultural Affairs of France.

The latter said, in a speech which launched the campaign, "There is only one action over which indifferent and hostile and changing rivers have no sway: it is the action of a man who sanctifies something from death". His short choice defines the philosophy underlying the campaign. From a view of world events, may not seem important to many people. Yet there are letters to the Courier from ordinary people suggesting ways in which ordinary people might contribute in a small way.

M. Malraux admits that such an appeal in the last century would have seemed fanciful. These temples which had been looked on only as records have again become living witnesses to a civilization. In such a way, during three thousand years, Egyptian art translated the temporal into the eternal. Compared their importance to that of the Pyramids, he says, "for forty centuries Napoleon evoked a fact stood before the Pyramids, the supreme monument to that in which they were beheld by Moses".

But he says: "It is not as a

General tendencies: So much energy is released for you today and most everyone is so ingenious and inventive in going after what he, or she wants and in stating whatever happens to be anyone's position, that a very great deal can be accomplished. Be sure you think out what you want in line stated as good for your own sign before acting. Then full speed ahead. Action now.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Be in enthusiastic mood for constructive activity and then full speed ahead toward reaching your goals — aspects are most favorable. Show happiness at alliance with associates. Respect their ideas, viewpoints. Be cooperative.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Much private maneuvering is fine now, since you will also learn of excellent new systems that are more practical and lucrative. Get an early start and keep working methodically and enthusiastically. Expand.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — By getting in touch with progressive allies now and stating your ideas and ambitions, you will get enthusiastic co-operation and support. Be very sociable and you can also meet worthwhile new friends or business contacts.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 23) — There is much in the outside world that must be accomplished today, but try to take experts with you for best results. Also, get their valuable advice beforehand and follow through with it during meetings. Grow.

Leo (July 24 to Aug. 23) — You need novel and more modern ideas now, if you are to become as successful as you long to be. These can come through the auspices of allies who will introduce you to the right people, possibly of alien culture to your own.

However, early teach your youngster the important lesson of finishing one task before tackling another. Also, do not neglect to give an education as possible, combining the aesthetic with the practical, since your guidance here will spoil the amount of success possible. Lack of it will result quite unhappily.

Virgo (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) — Be sure you get out into the world of activity today. Learn as much as you can concerning taxation, other government matters, any and all business interests, etc. Tonight is then just fine for romantic leanings.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — Be sure you bring those fine new plans and ideas to the attention of progressive allies so that they can be put in motion quickly and greater success can be realized by all.

Scorpio (O. ct. 24 to Nov. 22) — The ideal day to handle all important monetary affairs wisely. However, you must labor industriously in order to get the respect of higher-ups, make the necessary changes practically. Be grateful, respectful.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — You are certainly in the mood for having a good time today, but before you start out it is imperative you handle vital affairs in connection with associates. Then full speed ahead. But be sure you drive carefully.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — A dynamic member of clan has excellent ideas that will help you to get ahead faster. However, there is much work attached to them, which you should gladly agree to do. Real success is possible then.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Influences are most favorable today, so be sure you get out and make the contacts necessary to carry through with your inspired plans. Be very friendly, yet purposeful. Tonight is ideal for the romantic side of your life.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — You have a great desire now to attain real success in your field of endeavor. Start in by showing respect and admiration for higher-ups, influential persons you know who can be instrumental in helping you climb. Work, too.

If your child is born today ... he will be a great deal of energetic fire in this chart. How-

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And sufferers themselves were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret of this new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Maritime Oyster Business May Boom Within 10 Years

By IRA DEYSDALE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP) — Disease-ridden oyster beds along the Atlantic coast will be producing again in five years, fisheries scientists predict.

They are hopeful that in 10 years Maritime oyster production will match or surpass its best years.

Attacked by a disease that has never been identified by fisheries scientists, oyster beds have had a fatality rate ranging as high as 99 per cent.

The catch dropped between 1949 and 1958 from 53,000 barrels a year to about 14,200 barrels and the landed value declined from $516,000 to $304,413.

P.E.I. KILLER

Researchers believe the disease is the same as the one that struck Prince Edward Island's industry 40 years ago. The island oysters managed to survive and in time built up a resistance to the disease.

Dr. Reid Loggie, Halifax research scientist, headed a federally - sponsored program called "operation oyster" that has brought 10,000 barrels of sturdy P.E.I. oysters to the disease-stricken beds on the opposite side of Northumberland Strait.

The three - year transplanting program has been completed but since it requires five to seven years for oysters to mature, it will be some time before the success of the venture is proved.

Hardest hit by the disease are the fishermen who in some areas have been deprived of autumn employment. In many families along the Nova Scotia and New Brunswick shores of the strait, oysters had an important place in the winter diet. They could usually be picked up at low tide and kept in a cool, moist basement.

Proud parents, intimate and personal friends along with nurses of former graduation exercises assembled at the BCI auditorium on Monday evening to pay tribute to the 18 members of the graduating class of 1960 from the School of Nursing of the Belleville General Hospital.

Despite the inclement weather the auditorium was filled to capacity and the assembly thrilled as the nurses in their spotless white uniforms and carrying a bouquet of beautiful red roses marched down the aisles as Alec Gordon played the Recessional, and took their seats on the platform, which was most suitably decorated for the occasion. Red roses, carnations and other spring flowers in all their daintiness were arranged about the platform, while those taking an active part in the ceremonies were seated in a semicircle directly behind the graduates.

The invocation was given by Rev. L. Arthur Pape after which the Nursing School choir under the direction of Alf Evans, sang "The Lord Is My Shepherd." The choir also sang "The Best to You" after the graduates had been welcomed by the Board of Governors, the City and the Medical Staff. They closed the evening with the "Lord's Prayer." The choir was in excellent voice and greatly appreciated by the large audience.

Miss Nancy Jean Chumbley of this city was the winner of the gold medal and the presentation was made by W. F. O. Blanchard, while the silver medal was presented to Miss Rose Anne Vandervoort of Stirling by Dr. D. E. Scott. Dr. R. S. Morphy presented the Medical and Surgical award to Miss Marion Eva Broadworth of Harold, while the Obstetrical and Operating Room award went to Gordenia Maxine Cummins of Corbyville and Marjorie Mae Cliff of Inverary. Miss St. Paul presented the Head Nurse Award to Elsie Elizabeth Seward of Carrying Place and Miss Gail Maureen Scriven of Toronto.

F. DOMENICO PRESIDES

Frank Domenico, chairman of the Board of Governors of the hospital was a most capable presiding officer. He stated this was the 55th graduation ceremony and he had no doubt that the graduates of this term would stand high with those who had gone before.

Ald. Leslie Reid brought greetings to the graduates on behalf of the city. "This is a joyous occasion for you girls tonight and I am sure the citizens extend the warmest of greetings and that you will live a useful, happy life in service," Mr. Reid expressed the thanks of the city for the wonderful work of the Board, the staff of the Nursing School and the director, Miss Doris Smith.

Others bringing greetings were Dr. D. M. Scott, president of the Medical Staff Association; Mrs. B. Burley, president of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary and the Director of Nursing, Miss Doris Smith.

The Warden of the County, Mr. Earl Sager, introduced the speaker of the evening, Arnold Edinborough, editor of Saturday Night.

Before telling of the many qualities of the speaker, Warden Sager brought the greetings of the county to the graduates and hoped for them many years of usefulness in their chosen profession. Mr. Edinborough stated he was no stranger to this city as he had spent his first Christmas in this city after arriving in Canada following the war. "Graduation," he said, "was a joyous happy time and having a real sense of accomplishment." It was a great relief for the graduate, a great relief for the parents and a greater relief for the staff.

He asked the question, "what sort of a world are you graduating into?" and he went on to show that it was no worse than it ever was. "Canada is the most exciting place in the world to graduate," said the speaker. "It is not a bunch of little separate provinces anymore but it is becoming a nation with its own identity and one that anyone can be proud of and you as graduates of the nursing profession can be justly proud of having a part in that progress."

Mr. Edinborough outlined the advances made in the past 20 years with antibiotics, medical techniques, transfusions and many forms of penicillin, but yet the profession has not conquered the common cold, mumps and the whooping cough. He touched briefly on Nationalized Health Service and stated the doctors and nurses know the answers and are against the politicians who don't.

MOVE TO CITY

"For years Canada lived on the agriculture economy but today more people are moving to the city and those today living in the city are under more pressure," he said. "Loss in the country and sad to relate many in the city are turning to drink, drugs to satisfy the loneliness that is experienced in the larger centres and probably that is where you nurses who have graduated tonight can work with quick hands, a cool head and a warm heart, Mr. Domenico expressed thanks for the fine address. The valedictory was given by Miss Joan Dobbin and will be found in another column.

Following the singing of the National Anthem, the graduates, the nursing staff and the incoming class filed from the hall and assembled in the delightful and memorable evening was brought to a close. The parents and invited guests journeyed to the Educational Hall at the Hospital, where a reception was held and a social evening was enjoyed.

Those graduating were Marion Eva Broadworth, Harold; Nancy Jean Chumbley, Belleville; Marjorie Mae Cliff, Inverary; Gordenia Maxine Cummins, Corbyville; Laurence Ruth Davis, Trenton; Doris Pauline Donnan, Stirling; Donna Maxine Elliott, Belleville; Rose Ellen Hanthorn, Carrying Place; Judith Marie Holgate, Belleville; Ann Vandervoort of Stirling, Ann Ivan, Brighton; Marjorie Eva Keicheson, Consecon; Doris Mae Macklin, Cobourg; Marilyn Marie McFee, Belleville; Darla Marie Palmer, Bowmanville; Alice Diana Petrie, Trenton; Margaret Marie Potter, Belleville; Gail Maureen Scriven, Toronto; Elsie Elizabeth Seward, Carrying Place and Rose Anne Vandervoort of Stirling.

Hospital Association Says Federal Grants Too Low But Minister Monteith Disagrees

Mr. Martin criticized federal capital grants for hospital construction as inadequate if facilities are to keep pace with the expanding population and its needs.

He told the CHA he was disappointed the government has not changed its regulations concerning hospital operating grants.

Mr. Monteith said increased government assistance had eased the burden of new hospital building.

PUBLIC INDIFFERENT

He said extension of federal and provincial responsibility over health had reinforced public indifference to hospital affairs. He urged hospital officials to strive to get their case across to the people they serve.

The government sympathized but felt it unadvisable to make outpatient services eligible for grants.

Mr. Martin said federal grants are given on a per-bed basis which overemphasizes hospital bed areas at the expense of a good integrated plan including such things as laundry services and power plant.

Mr. Martin said hospital construction cost is about $15,000 a bed, but government grants are about $2,000 a bed.

He felt there should be government assistance in paying staff doctors who treat indigent patients.

DOCTORS OPPOSED

This is opposed by the Ontario Medical Association, said Mr. Monteith, and the government would only act in such a matter when it had approval from doctors and the provinces.

Dr. A. D. Kelly of the Canadian Medical Association said the CMA is not anxious to see the federal-hospital plan used as a "back door for other medical services coverage."

He said doctors have their own plans in this matter, but he did not elaborate.

The three - day meeting continues today.

Jury Refuses To Indict Canadian Youth

"BUFFALO (AP)—A grand jury decided Monday the strangulation of Lillian Avent, 28, Saturday morning was justifiable homicide. The jury refused to indict a Canadian youth after hearing a statement he had given to police.

The grand jury's decision ended attempts to extradite the youth, Richard Kirton, 19, who did return to his home in Markham, Ont., Saturday.

A statement taken from Kirton by two Buffalo detectives in Toronto Sunday was presented to the grand jury.

Harry G. Klenk, chief of the police homicide squad, said Miss Avent, a Negro, and Kirton, who is white, apparently had an argument over money in the women's apartment here. Miss Avent drew a knife, he said, and died in the struggle that followed.

FOUND GUILTY AGAIN

CRANBROOK, B.C. (CP) — Larry Popoff, 26, was convicted Saturday for a second time on a charge of murder and sentenced to die Aug. 23. His counsel said he will appeal. Popoff was convicted May 25 and sentenced to be hanged for the beating death of Clarence Garrett. An appeal for a new trial and a change of venue was successful.

Valedictory

Miss Doris Pauline Donnan of Stirling, graduating nurse at last evening's exercises at the BCI auditorium, was given the honor of giving the valedictory for her classmates of three years. Herewith is her address to the assembly:

"It is indeed a great honor to speak of behalf of the graduating class of 1960. I wish to thank my classmates for this opportunity.

"For the past few weeks the class of "60" has eagerly counted the days until graduation. This is our zero-night. We have reached another rung in the ladder of our life. To reach this rung has taken three years. We must confess to you that we have had our moments of weakness and almost slipped at times, but they have been fleeting and satisfying years. Tonight we are happy because we have accomplished that which we set out to achieve.

"As we look back with a vision of maturer scope over this step we have taken, we can sincerely say that it pays to dedicate one's life — not to be served but to serve". Life has taken on new meaning and new horizons for us as we have witnessed the joy of a new life born, the satisfaction of health regained and the brave fight for life laid peacefully by.

"Our class days and holidays, field trips and special services, parties and teas, bake sales and mail have left us with never a dull moment.

Even tonight our residence was bubbling with excitement as we exchanged our blue stripes for a black one, or polished the blue uniform for an immaculate white one.

"For this night, we owe much to the "Lady of the Lamp" Florence Nightingale. It was 100 years ago 1960 that her vision became a reality and she started the first school for nursing education. As someone willing to her later said "she sowed the seed, the harvest has come and God is giving the increase".

"To all those who have contributed towards our professional education, Mr. Daechsel, Mrs. Hocking, Instructresses, doctors and staff nurses, we want you to know how deeply appreciative we are. To you Miss Smith we turn with pride. Since our days of nursing began you are the one who has stopped to listen to us with understanding. With your quiet humor and sound advice you have helped us over the rung tonight.

"To mother and dad we say "thank you" without your backing and encouragement this night would not be possible for most of us. It is our humble prayer that each one of us will live up to your expectations and prove worthy of your efforts.

Residence could not have been our home away from home had it not been for our house mothers. Thank you for listening to our gripes and sharing our joys."

"We are pleased to have witnessed the official opening of Education Hall. We hope with the improved teaching facilities available to our fellow students that they will find their learning experiences even more meaningful than ours.

"As we represent this school of nursing we trust that we have contributed to its reputation by the kind of nursing care we have given.

"To my classmates I say. Tonight is not the end of our climb. May the next rung taken in the ladder of your life afford you as much happiness as tonight has.

"Together as classmates let us heed Emerson's advice. Let every dawn of morning be to you as the beginning of life, and every setting sun as its close. Then let each one of these short lives leave its pure record of some kindly thing done for others.

"May our motive for nursing always be that given us us by our Lord.

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto Me".

FREE ON BAIL

VANCOUVER (CP) — Irene Rebrin, 33, was freed on bail Monday night pending an appearance tentatively set for June 14 in British Columbia Appeal Court in her fight against a deportation order.

Physical Fitness Not Spectator Sports Should Be School Aims

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Provincial directors of education across Canada agree with Education Minister Leslie Peterson of British Columbia that schools have accepted too many spectator sports and have not placed enough emphasis on physical fitness programs.

Last week Mr. Peterson announced compulsory physical education periods would be increased in B.C. high schools with an accent on outdoor activity.

Hugh Noble, Nova Scotia's director of physical education, said Mr. Peterson has "described the situation nationally rather accurately."

NOVA SCOTIA'S AIM

He said Nova Scotia is striving for a program which stresses physical fitness rather than team games.

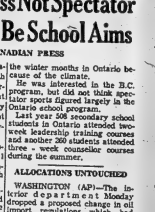
Secondary schools have two 45-minute periods of physical education each week. Soccer and track and field, which Mr. Noble says build up endurance, are stressed in the program.

Newfoundland's Education Minister Dr. G. A. Frecker said he heartily endorses the program outlined by his British Columbia counterpart.

Mr. Frecker said the program is highly desirable, but not really implemented in Newfoundland because of lack of money, qualified personnel and facilities.

The British Columbia program, to be introduced next September, will abolish many games and exercise routines which involve spectators.

NEED GYMS



Ontario Education Minister John Robarts said indoor accommodation must be provided for the winter months in Ontario because of the climate.

He was interested in the B.C. program, but did not think spectator sports figured largely in the Ontario school program.

Last year 308 secondary school students in Ontario attended two-week leadership training courses and another 360 students attended three - week counsellor courses during the summer.

ALLOCATIONS UNTOUCHED

WASHINGTON (AP)—The interior department Monday dropped a proposed change in oil import regulations which had been vigorously opposed by North Dakota and Minnesota oil interests. The change would have reduced crude and unfinished oil allocations of refiners in the Great Lakes area who import exempted Canadian oil overland.

Wins Preakness

Bally Ache Points Nuzzle At Hersey Stakes, Belmont

BALTIMORE (AP) — Before Bally Ache gives the equine version of the belly laugh and claims three - year - old racing honors, the Preakness winner has a few more lengths to cross.

The next stop for the bay colt, who was second in the Kentucky Derby to Venetian Way, will be the $100,000 Hersey Stakes at Garden State Park May 30. Then on to the $125,000 Belmont, last of the Triple Crown series, on June 11.

In both races, Bally Ache will face some of the same opposition he whipped by four lengths or more in the Preakness Saturday. In addition, Tompion will be back in action after a short rest with a chance to further complicate the three-year-old picture.

Second-place Victoria Park, the Canadian-bred colt who finished third in the Derby, and the winner, last but far behind the Preakness favorite Venetian Way, will be in the Derby at Louisville, Ky., two weeks ago. Venetian Way rambled home in fifth place in the field of six.

TOUGH GRIND

Bally Ache moved into the front as soon as he got out of the gate and stayed there throughout the 1 1-16-mile race. But it was a tougher grind for Victoria Park, who started as third betting choice behind Venetian Way and Bally Ache.

The Canadian colt owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto was in last place at the half mile and in fifth place at the mile as the field started into the stretch. Then jockey Tony DeSpirito moved him up into second, 1¾ lengths ahead of Celtic Ash at the wire.

The win was worth $121,000 to Bally Ache's new owners, a syndicate headed by Joseph L. Arojed who bought the colt for $250,000 a week ago from Leonard Trussman. Victoria Park won $30,000.

Bally Ache paid $5.60 and $2.80 and Victoria Park returned $5.80. There was no third money.

Venetian Way has knocked out any chance of a triple-crown winner in U.S. racing this year. And for the Preakness, Tompion complicates the picture.

FAVORED IN DERBY

Tompion was favored in the Derby, but threw a shoe and wound up fourth. His hoof was slightly damaged in the race. Tompion sat out the Preakness.

Joining Bally Ache, Venetian Way and Tompion in the 1¼ miles Jersey Derby will be Celtic Ash third in the Preakness.

Victoria Park, and Divine Comedy, fourth in the Preakness, were shipped to Belmont, but Horatio Luro, trainer of Victoria Park, noted that Garden State was just a short trip away—indicating he may start his colt in the Jersey Derby too.

Latta Bows To Cannifton By 8-5 Score

Cannifton Clippers, although outhit by a wide margin, scored an 8-5 victory over Latta on the weekend in a South Hastings Baseball League fixture at Cannifton.

The winners trailed 3-2 going into the fourth when they scored four runs on walks, errors and a bases-loaded single by Don Forsythe. They added singletons in the next two frames while Latta bagged a couple of runs in the sixth to make it close.

Cannifton collected only four hits off the combined efforts of Stan Reid and Lorne Cronkwright but seven Latta errors helped turn the tide. Meanwhile Latta picked up ten safeties off Don Masterson, Bradshaw and Ward, three Hamilton pitchers.

Harvey had a brace of singles to spark the visitors' attack while Don Forsythe and Hugh Ward bagged the others.

Cannifton ..... 002 411 x—8 4 0

Batteries: S. Reid, Cronkwright (5) and D. Hollihar; Masterson, Bradshaw (3), Ward (6) and Harvey.

'Venetian Way' Better Horse Says Trainer

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Trainer Vic Sovinski said Monday Venetian Way is a better horse than Bally Ache and will prove it in days to come.

Venetian Way won the Kentucky Derby but Bally Ache led all the way in capturing the Preakness Saturday with Venetian Way fifth.

Sovinski said that the mile and a half Belmont Stakes in New York next month would be the real test. "Those who think Bally Ache can lick Venetian Way by a big margin don't know what they're over after the Belmont."

Sovinski now is readying Venetian Way for the $100,000 added Jersey Derby. The trainer, who after the Preakness said jockey Bill Hartack gave his charge a "perfect ride" and didn't know who would get the assignment.

Is Hartack definitely off the horse? he was asked.

"I wouldn't say yes and I wouldn't say no," Sovinski replied. Then, he remarked, "Hartack doesn't like to ride a sore horse, does he?"

This was a crack at the jockey's comment after the Preakness that Venetian Way was sore.

Sovinski also took time to deny vehemently stories which said Venetian Way received butazolidin, a drug allowed in Kentucky but banned by Maryland racing officials. The horse allegedly was treated for a sensitive knee cap.

Big Klu Hits Batting Stride; Top American

NEW YORK (AP)—Ted Kluszewski, recovering the form that made him a feared National League slugger, has taken over the American League batting lead with one of the most productive one-week performances of his 13-year career in the majors.

In six games covering 24 times at bat last week, Kluszewski collected eight singles, four doubles and two homers for 14 hits and a .500 average. He also drove in 10 runs and scored six times.

The surge increased the Chicago White Sox first baseman's batting mark from .306 to .406. He holds a comfortable margin over runnerup Norm Cash of Detroit, .350 and Vic Runnels of Boston in third place at .339.

GAIN FROM PIRATES

Kluszewski, 35, was acquired from Pittsburgh in Aug. 25. He helped the White Sox win their first pennant in 40 years and hit .301 in the world series against Los Angeles. He batted higher than .300 in seven of 10 seasons with Cincinnati Reds.

The league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates dominate the National League in hitting race, .353. Clemente rushed up to take the lead, gaining eight points to .332, Virdon, .331 and Groat, .330 ago, had 12 hits in 29 tries.

Smoky Burgess, Pittsburgh catcher, remained in second place despite a 25-point drop to .324. Bob Skinner, Pirate outfielder, climbed from sixth to third position on a .346 clip, up from .333.

Willie Mays of San Francisco Giants, the leader a week ago, tumbled into a tie for seventh with Bill White of St. Louis. Both are hitting .311. Mays had only four hits in 22 times at bat last week and lost 39 points.

Little Play In Inter-County

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sullen skies and rain dampened the weekend opening of the 1960 Inter-County Baseball Association senior series. Only three of eight scheduled games were played.

In a one-sided game the weather played a major role. At St. Thomas Monday, cool temperatures prevented pitchers from being properly warmed up. A total of 11 issued, 28 walks as the Galt Terriers squeaked through with a 7-6 decision over St. Thomas Elgins.

At Hamilton the hometown Cardinals won their second start when they edged Kitchener Panthers 8-6 before 1,791 fans.

Saturday the Cards walloped London Diamonds 7-4 in London.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (AP) — Dave Marr of Houston gained his first tournament victory in two years of trying in vain by scoring a final-round 64, a nine under par, Sunday to win the Sam Snead golf festival.

The 36-year-old Texan scaled the heights for the first time by shaking 13 strokes off the two par-70 courses with his total of 280. He entered the final round with a one-stroke edge.

Snead, the honorord host of the tourney who won it five times out of 12, pulled in with a windup 68 and 284 for fourth place.

Royals Break Fourteen-Game Losing Streak

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Montreal Royals do things in a big way—from one extreme to another.

The Royals snapped a 14-game losing streak Sunday with a 18-8 victory over Buffalo Bisons in the first game of an International League doubleheader. Then they took a 13-5 lacing in the nightcap.

The victory was the Royals' first in 10 home games and their 18 runs were the most by any team this season. Montreal general manager Fern Dubois shaved for the first time since soon after the losing string began May 4. Dubois shed his growth at Rosa plate between games.

Havana Sugar Kings scored a 3-2, 10-inning victory over Havana Sugar Kings when pitcher John Anderson w65-pitched the winning run across the plate.

Columbus Jets won their fifth straight game with a 2-1 victory over Richmond Virginians. A doubleheader at Toronto between the Maple Leafs and Rochester Red Wings was called off after three innings because of fog. Rochester led 3-0 at the time.

HOPES DIM

Even with Montreal's heroics, Buffalo first baseman Fred Hopke stole the show with two home runs in each game, raising his total to six, and his five-for-five in the nightcap, adding a double and two singles to his homers.

Joe Altobelli hit two for the Royals in the opener to raise his league-leading total to 10. Dick Sanders also homered for the Royals in the opener and Bill Taylor smacked his fourth for Buffalo.

Bill Hunter (2-2), fourth Montreal pitcher, was the winner and Ed Keegan (1-1) lost. Don Erickson (6-3) won the nightcap for the Bisons with a 10-hit performance and Bill Kunkel (3-5) lost.

PLAYER SWAP

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland Browns announced Monday the swapping of Bob Placek, ex-Michigan quarterback, Jim Marshall, former Ohio State tackle who played last season with Roma of the WIFU.

400 Qualify For U.S. Open

NEW YORK (CP)—Bill Ezinicki, former National Hockey League star, was one of more than 400 golfers who qualified Monday in the first round of eliminations for the 60th U.S. Open golf championship.

Ezinicki's sparkling five-under-par 65 at 36 holes was one of the better performances by 2,486 entries in the regional qualifying round held at a number of U.S. courses.

The qualifiers must take part in a second elimination round June 6 or 7.

Monday's 400-plus will be competing for the 150 places in the championship round against other leading golfers who were not required to play the first qualifying round. Among those exempted were Stan Leonard of Vancouver.

Robert Jones III, son of the internal Bobby, qualified at Albany, N.Y., with 71-74—145. He has never played in the tournament that his father won four times.

Rudy Horvath of Windsor was the only one of four Canadians to qualify at Detroit where a 150-or-under score was needed. He shot 77-72—149.

NBC's Hr. of Great Mysteries Proved Entertaining TV Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Willkie Collins, father of the modern suspense story, wrote The Woman in White 100 years ago. NBC's Hour of Great Mysteries adapted it to television Thursday night, and wisely allowed it to show its age.

It proved to be a gloriously ornate old chestnut, full of concespine - tingling situations which since become a dramatic cliche.

However, Siobhan McKenna, Walker Slezak and company worked their way brightly and entertainingly through the Victorian chiller to provide a delightful and amusing hour.

Something pretty rare in the way of a TV special turns up tonight on NBC. An hour - long show with exactly two minutes of talking—just, of course, those unavoidable commercials.

The program is Sing along with Mitch, the host being Mitch Miller, an indefatigable, bearded records - company executive and radio interviewer.

"During the last 12 minutes of the show," promises Miller, "we'll play 32 old songs. And we'll flash the words on the screen. We hope everybody will open their windows and sing out to make the biggest chorus in the world."

Recommended tonight:

Sing along with Mitch, NBC, 8:30 - 9:30 — Home - audience participation show, featuring old, familiar songs.

Arthur Murray Party, NBC, 9:30-10—With three comedy guest stars, Hermione Gingold, Ann B. Davis and Alan King.

Hungary Beats England 2-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hungary's soccer wizards beat England 2-0 with brilliant goals by centre forward Florian Albert Saturday. The young English team — average age 24—played confidently in the first half at Wembley but quickly faded while the Hungarians piled up pressure in the second.

Czechoslovakia defeated Romania 2-0 in a quarter-finals match for the European Soccer Cup at Bucharest, while in Belgrade, Yugoslav national soccer team reached the semi-finals of the Cup of European Nations competition by defeating Portugal 3-1.

Will Ask Bye For Junior A

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association will ask the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association for an annual bye into the Memorial Cup finals for its Junior A league winners, if it was learned here Monday.

St. Catharines Teepees, OHA Junior A champions won the cup last season.

A resolution calling for the OHA Executive Committee to advance to the cup finals will be heard at the CAHA's annual meeting here.

OHA officials feel that a bye into the Memorial Cup finals would stimulate junior hockey interest in Eastern Canada.

TORONTO (CP)—Anita's Son, owned by Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Seymour of Toronto, won the $7,500 Seymour Stakes before a victoria Day crowd of 25,718 at Old Woodbine Monday.

The third and sixth races were run under slightly hilarious circumstances as the horses disappeared into the fog at the chute house turn and couldn't be seen again until they had turned into the home stretch.

Becerra Wins Split Verdict Over Japanese

TOKYO (AP)—World bantamweight champion Jose Becerra of Mexico gained a split decision over Japan's Kenji Yonekura in a 15 - round title bout telecast throughout Japan Monday night.

A crowd of about 25,000 in the 40,000 - seat Korakuen baseball stadium saw the hard - hitting champion chase the retreating challenger throughout the fight.

But Becerra, 24, winner of 40 fights by knockouts, didn't even score a knockdown. It was his 21st straight victory.

The broad - shouldered champion won the 118-pound decision crown by knocking out France's Alphonse Halimi in 1959 and he put Halimi down for the full count again in their return bout last February.

Anthony Macaroni, the president of the National Boxing Association, from Providence, R.I., cast the deciding ballot. He had Becerra the winner, 147 to 142, under the 15-point scoring system. Referee Ramon Benumen of Mexico voted for Becerra, 146 to 142. Judge K. Toyama of Japan had Yonekura ahead, 146 to 142.

For his second title defence, Becerra received a $50,000 guarantee. The 25-year-old Yonekura, in his 13th professional fight, was guaranteed only $2,000.

Yonekura's record is 7-4 compared to Becerra's 68-4-2 knockout-drawn log. Each weighed 117½ pounds.

"I can't understand why Yonekura's second let him run around the ring when he has a good left hand," said Macaroni. "Yonekura was the challenger and he should have gone in to get the title if he wanted it."

Real-Life Maverick Insisted On Reading the Fine Print

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When Warner Brothers cast James Garner as Maverick they didn't realize he was going to live the role, too.

Now the studio has a headache because the real-life maverick insisted on reading the fine print in his contract.

So Garner taking his ease at his new white-carpeted Westwood home (remove shoes before entering, please).

Why isn't he playing the sharp-talking Bret Maverick for TV? The reason is a couple of words the Oklahoman never heard of until recently: force majeur.

SCRIPT FAMINE

It all started when Garner was suspended March 3 through the force majeur clause in his contract. The studio argued that a major force—the writers' strike—had caused cessation of the Maverick series via a script famine.

"My point was that I wasn't under contract to the Maverick show. I was under contract to Warner Brothers, which also could have employed me in other TV series and features for which they had scripts."

So Garner, his agent and his lawyer informed the studio that its contract was at an end. The studio, of course, denied it and promptly filed suit against him. The actor is prepared for a rousing court battle.

Would he accept a compromise of his beef?

"Not for the studio exclusively again? Never," he vowed. "I just couldn't live with myself. But I might go back to playing Maverick for them — on my terms."

Bill Collins Golf Winner

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (CP)—Bill Collins, who thought that 36 holes of tournament golf in one day would be too tiring, showed enough stamina Sunday to win the Hot Springs open golf tournament with a 72-hole total of 275.

Collins entered the double round tied with Lionel Hebert at 138. He fired a 68 over the first 18 and a 69 on the final 18 to take first prize money of $2,500 in the $20,000 tourney.

Hebert finished well back. Pete Cooper was second with 278.

The next three finishers, including Al Balding of Toronto, were tied with final totals of 279. Each picked up $1,233. Balding shot rounds of 71 and 68 Sunday after two 70s.

AUSTRALIAN TV

Australia had more than 833,000 television sets at the end of March, 1960, mostly in Victoria and New South Wales.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Sportswise it was a dreary, dismal "Twenty-four-hr" extended holiday with Jupe Fleviss starring in nearly all events, and death, disappointment, defeat and a little trimming constituting the accolade.

On the other side of the picture, squalling rain and damp weather cancelled many a picnic party. Beach resorts and public parks were practically deserted. Private cabin and cottage openings were open-and-shut affairs. People missed the summer blooded then closed the doors and gave television and radio holiday Hooper ratings a break.

However, the hardier district type and visiting Izaak Waltons refused to say uncle to drenching skies and rain-dampened earthwormery. Some good hauls of fish-eet were taken from each prolific spots as Hay Bay and the Trent River. Many, though, performed indoor "high-snaking" and returned after a restful holiday.

Death and triumph rode the roaring hoods of sports cars. In Ajx-les-Bains, France, five spectators and a crack British driver, Chris Threlfal, were killed when a bridge collapsed along the route of race. An untried Black Prince of the speedway was his golden spurs at Indianapolis when he broke two qualifying records prior to the upcoming famous 500-mile classic. Jim Hurtibise of California drove the scooter to a new ten-mile record of 149.046 mph average, and established a new lap mark of 149.601.

Rack up a triumph mark in the Preakness ballot of the bangtails for gallant "Bally Ache." Beaten in the Derby by big "Bally" Sadler at the last from the start, and never saw a thing in front of him until he flashed under the wire a winner going away. Also notch up some triumph to "Victoria Park" the Canada entry which reared from fifth position to second, leaving Venetian Way, the Derby winner, and three other nags eating dust.

Under the head of "dismal and dreary" for the Saturday afternoon diehards were such items as Tony Dean while telecasting the (9-5) Yankees-White Sox game, which was hailed several times by rain, and Dean moaned and chanted his displeasure. He repeated himself several times ranting about a game in Cleveland and other verbal garbage. He forgot that practically his/entire audience can halt a game by turning a switch.

Closer at home, one of the highlights of the weekend was the cricket batting brave against the Belleville Bobcats and the Cobourg Merchants under the lukewide town's kleigs. Marco Bob Temple apparently uncovered a pocket in his well-rounded system which shone and scintillated throughout the eleven-chapter tie.

He is Roger Chapman, a neat and nifty hurler who had the Belleville Merchants practically hogtied and hamstrung while his mates were trying to find the batting choice of Messrs. Sleepy Dawe and Roly Campbell. Chapman, if he maintains this form, should be the answer to the Chief Taking Away problem.

Meanwhile one of the Merchants' mainstays in Saturday's tussle was Claude Carr, who huddled behind the plate. And don't be surprised to see more of the Ox-Pointers wearing a Cobourg softball smock before long.

This augurs well for the league. The RCAF Flyers have proved they will be a strong contender, and Trenton is more powerful than last year and is well-stacked with hurling. The Deseronto team is as pat talkative as ever, and if they come up around .500 and hold its own the Big Four can look out for some fancy softball fireworks before the bugles blow for the playoffs.

Rain almost stymied the South Hastings Baseball League activities, only one game out of three being finished. Campbellcroft topped Latta 8-5 in this Sunday fray while Saturday night the Belleville Juniors game was halted for darkness and cancelled Sunday for rain. Foxboro and Shannonville were also rained out.

Five Candidates Enter Lists For Top Position In CAHA

By DOUG HARKNESS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SYDNEY (CP) — With battle lines drawn, five candidates enter the race for the top job in Canadian amateur hockey here today.

The successful candidate, to be chosen by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association executive, will succeed the late George Dudley of Midland, Ont., as secretary-manager of Canada's policy-making committee for amateur hockey.

Selection of the new secretary-manager will be the major issue on today's agenda as the CAHA gets down to serious business in its five-day annual meeting here. Committee meetings were held Monday after a short opening session.

Speculation is that East will oppose West in a no-holds-barred battle for Dudley's position. The Ontario lawyer, who died May 3 of a heart attack, had held the post since 1945.

CANADA'S EAST

Dudley was the eldest man in Canadian hockey, professional and amateur," said W. A. Hewitt, veteran CAHA registrar-treasurer.

Leading candidate for the vacant post is Gordon Juckes of Melville, Sask., weekly newspaper publisher, who has expressed his desire for the job. It probably will pay $6,500 plus expenses. Juckes is now completing his first of a two-year term as president of the CAHA.

Other candidates are past presidest Bob LeBel of Chambley, Que., Bob Alexander of Winnipeg, and Jack Christie and Bob Hanley, both of Toronto.

The position, if the CAHA'S general assembly accepts a proposed resolution, would give the secretary-manager more jurisdiction than ever before. The post would entail taking over the duties of registrar-treasurer, held by Hewitt for 30 years. Hewitt, father of Toronto sportscaster Foster Hewitt, is planning to retire.

COMBINE JOBS

The executive Monday proposed the two jobs be combined, but an amendment to the CAHA constitution must be approved by the general assembly. Hewitt is expected to remain at his post for another year regardless of what happens.

Eastern officials feel that the secretary-manager should be a resident of either Quebec or Ontario, because of their central position in Canada. Western delegates claim its time the secretary-treasurer was a western native. The West is hoping for support from the Maritimes because delegation of Pine Caldwell of Fredericton and Bert Yerxa of Sussex, N.B. Both were non-committal Monday night.

Then the assembly will consider proposals made Monday by the rules and regulations committee. Included among the resolutions is a proposal by the Ottawa and district branch that Canada disband its practice of sending teams to international competition and divorce itself from the International Ice Hockey Federation.

The resolution is expected to be the most controversial of the meeting. A suggestion that the junior age level be raised to 21 from 20 was voted down Monday by committee sessions, but still could get by the assembly.

Dodgers Hang Zero On Bucs; Yanks Clean 'Cousins'

Koufax Blows Pirates Down With Brilliant One-Hitter; Bombers Take Two From A's

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Success has come slow of late for Sandy Koufax. But when he's sharp, Sandy's spectacular.

And he never has been sharper than he was Monday night, stopping hot-hitting Pittsburgh with the first one-hitter of his major league career as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the National League leading Pirates 1-0.

It was Sandy's...first victory since he led the major league strikeout record of 18 in a 5-3 decision over San Francisco last Aug. 31. He had lost six in a row since then, four this season.

The husky - browed lefty, a Brooklyn kid with speed and a curve, struck out 10 and was perfect over the last 8 1-3 innings. It was the Pirates' first shutout of the year and trimmed Sandy's lead over ace San Francisco to one game.

LONG GAME

In the only other NL game, Chicago's Cubs beat Cincinnati 7-6 in 13 innings on George Altman's home run.

That one game was scheduled in the American League and the New York Yankees won it, sweeping a two-game series at Kansas City with a 4-3 decision.

The only hit off Koufax was a second inning, single by losing pitcher Bertie Daniels. It came between a pair of walks that loaded the bases with two out, but Koufax settled by fanning Dick Groat to hit into a force out. Sandy walked six in the first 2 2-3 innings, but retired the next 19 men in order.

The Dodgers had four hits, all off Daniels (1-2), who gave way to a pinch-hitter in the seventh. He struck out, when he got to bat, till the seventh, when a gave up the run on a leadoff double by Norm Larker and a two-out double by rookie Tommy Davis—his first home run this season. Koufax finished for the Bucs.

Koufax, 29, now has 43 strikeouts for 35 2-3 innings this season, good for third behind teammate Don Drysdale (77) and Bob Friend (53) of the Pirates. He fanned Don Hoak and Bob Skinner twice. Bob Clemente, the NL batting leader (.372), was among the other strikeout victims and was held hitless for only the third time in the last 28 games.

GRIM DEFEAT

Cubs dealt reliever Bob Grim a defeat in his first NL decision with Altman's second home run of the season, Altman came on as a late-inning replacement for Walt Moryn, who had belled a two-run homer in a four-run first off Cal McLish.

The Reds hit four home runs, batting back on shots by reliever Jim Brosnan, Ed Bailey and Vada Pinson for 7-6 win, then squaring it 6-6 on Gus Bell's two-run homer in the 12th. Ben Johnson (2-1) won it.

The Yankees, blowing a 3-1 lead, scored the winning run in the ninth without a hit. Two walks, a wild pitch and a sacrifice fly by pinch-hitter Elston Howard did it against loser Ray Herbert (3-3). Rookie Jim Coates (2-3) won in relief as the Yankees took their sixth in a row from the A's, four this year.

The Yankees beat the Athletics 9-7 Sunday after losing 8-3 to the league-leading Chicago White Sox Saturday. The White Sox dropped two games to Washington Senators Sunday, 7-3 and 3-2.

Detroit Tigers twice beat Boston Red Sox Sunday, 6-3 and 5-2, while Baltimore Orioles defeated Cleveland Indians 7-6 in a game shortened to five innings by rain. In Saturday, Cleveland beat Boston 5-1, Baltimore defeated Detroit 7-4 and Kansas City downed Washington 5-2.

In the National League, Cincinnati and St. Louis Cardinals split a Sunday doubleheader, the Reds winning the first game 5-3 and taking the second 5-3. The Dodgers beat Philadelphia Phillies 9-6, Milwaukee Braves defeated the Cubs 3-1 and the Pirates edged the Giants 3-2 in 11 innings.

The Braves picked up a 4-2 win over the Cubs Saturday, St. Louis Cardinals defeated Chicago Giants beat the Pirates 3-1. The Dodgers and Phillies were rained out.

'Lucky Hell' Drivers Here On Thursday

International competition and an international cast pretty well sums up one phase of the 25-event thrill producing program the Lucky Heil Drivers have cooked up in preparation at Belleville Fairgrounds starting at 8:15 p.m., Thursday, May 26th.

The international competition occurs in the Crash Roll-over Contests, which has created some bitter rivalries in the Heil Driver ranks. This roll-to-win, show officials have found, can be further stimulated by cash rewards, so prize money is offered to encourage the rival teams.

The roll-over event will see the Heil boys all specialists in the crash field, flip their cars end over end, side over side from elevated rampways, attempting to bring the cars back on the four wheels. Points are awarded for each complete roll-over, with the highpoint man of each performance being the winner.

Other personnel taking part in this event changes due to injuries, the teams usually are made up of Pierre Haut, Belleville versus Frenchman" from Paris, Chance Hamilton and Hadlaw, N.S. and Juan Moralles of Mexico City on one team: while the other has Lucky Carl of Toronto, Al Fitzgerald of Los Angeles, Calif., and James Hamilton Barron of Liverpool, England.

These daredevils, of course, double up in other roles — Haut, for example, as "human battering ram" and "slide for life" performer; Chesterfield and Barron for precision driving; Carl for transit ramp jumps and blazing barrier crashes astride a motorcycle; and Marolles and Fitzgerald the man-killing "dive bomber" crash.

Quinte Racing Pigeon Club

J. Salmon of Plainfield took first, second and third places in the Quinte Racing Pigeon Club race.

Fourth, fifth and sixth spots went to R. Burton, Belleville, with seventh going to C. Sim of Belleville. T. Woodcock's birds finished in 8th, 9th, and 10th places.

Forty-six birds competed in the 222 — mile flight from Belleville to Burwash. Five city and district lofts were represented.

The first bird was released at 7.30 a.m. Saturday and the first arrived at four o'clock the same day.

The fourth Old Bird Race will be held May 28.

Women swimmers performing half a generation apart apparently set 11 Canadian records Saturday. But a conflict reduced the number to 10.

In Vancouver, Katy Campbell churned a 2:47.4 for the 440-yard women's 400-yard freestyle event in 4:47.2, knocking 6.9 seconds off the Canadian record held by Sara Barber of Brantford.

But the record will never see the books as the 19-year-old Miss Barber, swimming in block D of the Ontario swimming and diving championships at London, Ont., sped through the event in 4:46.2.

FREESTYLE RECORD

However, in the 440-yard freestyle Miss Campbell set a record of 5:15.7. Another Canadian record went to her teammate Margot Swasaki who posted a mark of fell on the coast.

The women's 400-yard freestyle team of Miss Swasaki, Pam Wilson, Miss Campbell and Mary Stewart set a time of 3:39.9.

The same team, with Carol Ann Morrow swimming for Miss Campbell, finished the women's 400-yard medley relay in the record time of 4:32.5.

Miss Stewart also set two records in the 13-14 age group, posting 58.3 for the 100-yard freestyle and 2:06.9 for the 200-yard freestyle.

In London, 10-year-old Louise Kennedy set marks of 44.1 and 38.2 respectively in the 50-yard breaststroke and 50-yard backstroke for girls under 10 years of age.

The last record was also in London by Wilma Mittelhaus who captured the 100-yard freestyle event for 40-yard events 13-15 in a time of 1:06.2.

SWEET FOR BARBER

Miss Barber swept all three senior women's events at London.

Saturday, at Vancouver, Paul McKinnon of Montreal and a sextet from Quebec swept honors in the two-day Canadian synchronized swimming championships.

In team competition, third place went to Ontario's John Innes Marlin Club, represented by Jay Rasting and Carolyn Jennings.

Bobcats, Cobourg Play 2-All Tie In Eleven-Inning Pitching Battle

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Roger Chapman is probably wondering what you have to do to win a game in the Belleville and District softball league.

Chapman, who hails from Picton way, made his mound debut for the Bobcats in Cobourg Saturday night and was slightly sensational.

The speedy, right-handed hurler struck out 20 Merchants, gave up four hits and settled for a 2-2 tie when the clubs called the game by mutual consent at the end of the 11th inning. Each club will receive one point in the league standing.

The Bobcats, who play host to the Merchants at CNRA Park here Wednesday, went with a makeshift lineup. Missing were regulars Doug Hull and Denny Hayden and subs Chuck Rowbotham, Jack Hughes, Keith Stacey, Doug Murray took over at first base and pitcher Bob Green was in the outfield.

It was a thriller right from the start as Chapman outdueled Rolly Campbell and Jim "Sleepy" Dawe. Cobourg took a 1-0 first-inning lead on a hit batter, wild pitch, stolen base and Claude Carr's fly ball. Then Chapman settled down for the duration.

He had a no-hitter going until Leo O'Brien's bunt went for a single in the sixth. That was the only Cobourg hit until the ninth when they got their other three safeties and a run to make it 2-all. Chapman got himself in hot water with eight walks but time and time again he bore down with two and three men on base to strikeout the Merchants with regularity. He fanned the side in the fifth, sixth and seventh, stranding two in the sixth and three in the seventh, then fanned Campbell to end the ninth with the backs full again.

Meanwhile the Bobcats failed to do much with the combined stanls of Campbell and Dawe. Campbell allowed all five Belleville hits in the first seven frames, fanning six and walking none. Dawe did not allow a hit from then on, also whiffing six and walking none.

Brown and Faulkner hit back-to-back triples in the first with one out but Brown had been ordered to go all the way and was out cold at the plate prior to Faulkner's hit.

Bobcats took a 2-1 lead in the ninth. Crawford beat out an infield single and Bert Faulkner slammed a home run to the hole in centre field. They never came close to scoring again after that.

Juniors, Read Game Halted By 'Darkness'

By PETER CARVER

The opening game of the South Hastings Baseball league played at the C.N.R. Saturday night was halted by darkness.

With Read leading the Ballyville Kenmor Juniors by an 8-1 score Umpire Al Kelleher stopped the game at the end of the fourth inning.

The game was scheduled to be re-played last night but was cancelled on account of wet grounds.

The Juniors travel to Read tomorrow night in their second start of the season.

The visitors tucked the game away in the initial frame by scoring five runs on three hits and four walks. They added singles in the second, third and fourth innings.

BETTERS OWN RECORD

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — John Thomas bettered the world high jump record on Saturday, sailing over the bar at seven feet, 1¾ inches. Breaking the seven-foot barrier for the first time in 16 months, Thomas improved upon his 7-1½ leap at the Penn relays April 30. That effort is pending for official recognition.

Fishing for the Elusive Permit

If you look at a map of the Florida Keys you will find, about 100 miles south and west of Key Largo, Big Pine Key. This, you may recall, is the home of the last survivors of the little Key Deer. There are only a few of these appealing little animals now in existence and Big Pine Key is their game preserve. Directly west of Big Pine, about 12 or 13 miles, lies Content Key.

Content Key isn't much of a key as keys go. But it lies right on the outer bank, right next to the open Gulf, and it is the "permit capitol of the world." A permit is a fish, a game fish, one of the most elusive inhabitants of Florida waters. It is one of the pompano family and highly prized, both as a sport fish and as table fare. They grow to considerable size, with fish the 30-pound class not being uncommon.

There is one characteristic of the permit, however, which does not endear him particularly to the sport fisherman — his nearly universal tendency to refuse all offerings of an artificial nature. I have cast flies — all manner of flies, most of which have and will catch many varieties in Florida waters — at literally hundreds of permit. I have pondered on the vagaries of this contrary fish and have put together new patterns, designed to imitate the food on which he lives. All to no avail.

FEW, FAR BETWEEN

In the Metropolitan Miami Fishing Tournament, held each year in South Florida, there are many fishermen entered each year — about 200,000 in all, annually. In the 17 years during which the tournament has been held, there has been but one permit entered that was caught on a fly, this by my good friend, Col. Jeff O'Connell. This fish was a 13 pounder.

This year Ted Williams managed to snag one, an 18 pounder, on spinning gear, using a barktail jig. That, so far as I know, is the only permit entered in that classification. The permit is definitely a hard fish and that is the way to fish for him if you want action.

Being a hard-headed citizen and having tied up some new creations, all designed to lure an unwary permit (if there is such a thing, which I doubt) to his undoing, I talked Rolle Hollenbeck into loading his bonefish skiff on to a trailer and towing it down to Big Pine Key. The place to find out about permit is, obviously, the place where there are the most permit, so we headed for Content Key.

Now if want a fishing date with Rolle, you make your plans well ahead. All of my dates with him for fishing in February, March and April, are engaged in the previous September or October. Thus, you cannot plan for weather. You go according to the arranged schedule. Unfortunately, the day chosen for our excursion was one of shaky weather and high winds.

As might be expected, the permit were not on the flats, feeding on shrimp, cock worms and fiddler crabs. We cruised miles of flats and found one, exactly one, small permit which fled for deep water while we were well out of casting range. Nothing for it but to go to the outer bank.

JUST GOT EXERCISE

This we did. The wind was blowing about 30 knots or more and the waves were running six feet high. Standing up in a boston whaler presented some problems. Just the same, being, as I said, hardheaded, I stood in that skiff for about two hours, casting at schools of cruising permit. The only result of this extended and hazardous effort was exercise. No fish.

If you really want fish at Content Key, you have no problem. Chuck Schilling, Outdoor Editor of the Stuart, Florida, News, reports the taking at retesting of about 1000 fish in five days at Content Key. Casting both surface and sinking lures in the channels thereabouts, he hooked jack crevalle, grouper, Spanish mackerel, pompano and snapper. But no permit.

At last, storm-tossed and tired, Rolle and I moved to quieter waters and talked things over. We agreed, almost without hesitation, that we, for that day anyway, were licked. We had cast flies at not less than 500 permit. We had used all methods of playing those flies. All to no avail. Regretfully, we loaded the skiff back onto the trailer and drove another weary hundred miles to home base at the Islamorada Fishing Club dock.

Some day, maybe, when the weather is fine and the permit are grubbing happily about the flats in search of food, we may — just may, mind you — try it again. Meanwhile, I guess we will stick to tarpon, bonefish, snook, redfish, and trout. They are far more co-operative.

Sports Car Accident Kills Seven People

AIX-LES-BAINS, France (AP) —A speeding racing car slammed into an overpass that collapsed across the local race course Sunday. Six persons were killed and 30 injured, 22 seriously.

The dead included the driver of the racing car, Chris Threlfall, 30, of Birmingham, England.

Witnesses estimated Threlfall was travelling 125 miles an hour when he slammed into the fallen overpass.

The wooden structure had been built to allow spectators to pass to the infield of the track but spectators were standing on it. Many were news photographers.

Quebec 'Lifters' For Olympics

QUEBEC (CP) — Three Montreal weightlifters, all with previous experience in international competition, were chosen Saturday to represent Canada in the Olympic Games.

Each lifted more than the Olympic standard at the Canadian championships and Olympic trials here. They are heavyweights Dave Ballie and Bill Swaluk and light - heavyweight Mike Lipari.

Lipari won the light - heavyweight title with 915 pounds to spare over his closest rival, Murray Veno of Sudbury. He had a combined lift of 870 pounds, 60 above standard. Lipari was also chosen the top weightlifter of the meet.

Lunker-Chasing Anglers Use Chibougamau for Jump Off

By JOHN TORSTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CHIBOUGAMAU, Que. (CP)—This bustling little mining town was once the jump-off point for mineral-hunting prospectors. The minerals have been found and today it's the headquarters for fishermen looking for the big ones.

Chibougamau is a dot in the wilderness, 300 miles north of Montreal. But thanks to the mining industry, it's fairly easy to reach.

New mines meant new roads; new roads mean it has become easier to reach two of the province's bigger fish and game preserves whose waters teem with trout, pike and ouananiche, landlocked salmon. One is Chibougamau Reserve, set aside in 1946, the other is Mistassini, established in 1953.

ROAD IS RESERVE

Copper ore reserves discovered north of here are valued at an estimated $125,000,000. To get at the ore, the provincial government completed a $4,000,000 gravel road in 1950 from Lake St. John to the town of Chibougamau. Some 90 of its 145 miles run through the middle of the 2,400-square-mile reserve.

Fishermen still have to fly into Mistassini Reserve, 5,200 square miles, but it can be done from Chibougamau, a 40-mile flight, or from Lake Waconichi, the road's end 10 miles above the town.

Train service is also available into Chibougamau over a line built to carry ore to the smelters of northwestern Quebec.

Lake Mistassini, where the season starts June 15, provides fine fishing for brook trout, northern pike and lake trout.

SOME 30-POUNDERS

Two-bedroom cabins, rented at $40 a day by the provincial fish and game department, are dotted with pictures of fishermen proudly holding up 30-to-40-pound trout.

Mistassini had 414 fishermen last season, most of them American.

More accessible Chibougamau was visited by 4,613 fishermen looking for pike, more, lake trout and ouananiche. Five camps have been established in the reserve and grounds set aside for campers and trailers.

Lake trout in both reserves can be caught on the surface with a fly early in the season when waters are still cold.

On 23-mile-long Waconichi lake, just inside Mistassini Reserve, best results can be obtained between June 15 and July 10 with large streamer flies, the fish and game department says.

At the height of the season the Waconichi lakes trout are never so deep that one has to use a metal line; they usually are caught trolling at a depth of some 12 to 15 feet.

ELVIS'S COUSIN—Alonzo (Pat) Presley, 66-year-old blacksmith at Dawson Creek in northeastern British Columbia, says he is a second cousin to rock 'n roll singer Elvis Presley. He says the Presley family moved to Quebec from Ireland. Most of the family later settled in Western Canada, but Elvis's grandfather went to the United States. (CP Photo).

Blacksmith Says Uncle Was Grandfather of Elvis Presley

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. (CP)—Alonzo (Pat) Presley, a blacksmith in this northern British Columbia community, says he is a second cousin of Elvis Presley and although 66 years old a great fan of the hip-swinging rock 'n roll singer.

Pat says the Presley family came to Canada from Ireland and settled in Quebec. One of his five uncles, Jim Presley, was a musician and went to the United States. He was Elvis's grandfather.

Pat and his father settled in the Rolla district of Saskatchewan but moved to Hythe in northwestern Alberta and, 13 years ago, to Dawson Creek where he set up a blacksmith shop.

Gordon, 18, his son, shares his father's enthusiasm for Elvis and collects Presley records.

The family here has never made any effort to get in touch with Elvis. "He probably doesn't know we even exist," Pat says.

But one of his hopes is that someday he will see Elvis in person.

Victoria Park May Not Run In Plate

TORONTO (CP)—E. P. Taylor, owner of Victoria Park, said Monday he hasn't decided whether the brilliant Canadian-bred colt will come to Toronto for the 101st running of the Queen's Plate June 11. It is unlikely that a decision will be made before next Monday night.

Victoria Park finished second to Saturday's $150,000 Preakness stakes, two weeks after he had finished third in the Kentucky Derby. Although he has started only 17 times in his career, he has won purses of $174,887, a record for Canadian-breds.

The Canadian colt is entered in next Monday's $100,000 Jersey Derby and if he wins, Mr. Taylor said, he would have an obligation to start Victoria Park in the $100,000 Belmont Stakes at New York, on the same day as the Queen's Plate.

500 MAN WINS DARTS

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — At the Ontario Dart Association championships here, Saturday Jim Nisbett of Sault Ste. Marie picked up the singles title, but both the doubles and team championships went to Windsor Riverside entries. The championships were decided after five hours of competition between entries from Timmins, Sudbury, Oshawa, Toronto, Windsor, Hamilton, Orillia, Belleville, Owen Sound London and St. Catharines.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Talk about an American Football League franchise settling in Toronto is leaving some people cold. Even Lew Hayman refuses to panic at the prospect.

Lew isn't the excitable type, but as managing director of the Big Four Toronto Argonauts, it figures he should take a long, hard look at the situation. Football is his bread and butter and, as a stockholder in Argonauts, his bank book—according to gossip—has a healthy look about it.

"I am definitely not alarmed although I am a little concerned about this situation," Hayman said in an interview last week. "If the AFL corrals into Toronto in 1961, one club will have to go by the wayside, and I don't foresee a Canadian team being knocked out of Toronto. . . .

"But basically, it's up to the fans. They are the ones who will decide what game they want to see. Should they determine they prefer to watch the American game as played by Americans, then who is to say the National Football League won't come in here?"

The NFL? That's a switch, and it adds up. Of course, there are a few "ifs" attached to it.

If Toronto interests get a franchise in the embryo AFL in 1961 — and this probably will be known in a couple of months—the fight for the football dollar in the city will be on. If Argonauts lose out, their 33,000-seat stadium would become available.

"Perhaps an NFL club might find this a territory it would like to move to," Hayman said. Argonauts' ace is the hole is that they hold a 10-year lease on the Canadian National Exhibition Stadium, a park that could easily be enlarged to 40,000-45,000 or more—entirely suitable to the NFL.

The other football park in the city is the 27,300 - seat Varsity Stadium, a trifle small for a pro American club. And there is little or no prospect of Varsity increasing capacity.

"For anything as doubtful as the American Football League, I don't see why we should spend a half a million dollars or more to double-deck a stand," said Warren Stevens, athletic director at the University of Toronto. "Besides, I don't think we'd be allowed to because arguably the areas we'd be building on pay to property."

Stevens said the university had been approached by Toronto interests on the prospect of renting Varsity if they were successful in their AFL bid.

"We're interested in renting it at our terms," Stevens said. One of these is that there is no Sunday afternoon football such as is permitted at the CNE.

"We've never had Sunday football at the stadium and I doubt very much if the university's board of governors would allow it now. It would be a major change in policy and I'm sure they'll stick to the principle of no Sunday games," Stevens added.

The Toronto promoters interested in the AFL franchise probably know all about this, but they weren't available for comment. A. J. Bennett, the group's spokesman, is in Bermuda until the end of May, his office informed callers.

Carp Wrecks Power-Boat

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — A power - boat driven by Edwin (Bull) Schroeder of Niagara Falls, N.Y., was knocked out of a race on nearby Little Lake Monday when it hit a three-foot carp at high speed and was holed in the bottom.

Although the boat was leaking fast Schroeder brought it to shore, while two crash tenders stood by.

The race program was sponsored by the Peterborough Hydroplane Club and the Independent Order of Oddfellows in aid of the order's polio, cancer and tuberculosis committee.

The A and U stock and 36 cubic inch combined was won by Keith Cavenagh of Perth.

Quinte Trap And Gun Club

Earl Marvin registered a perfect 25 score last Wednesday to lead the way at the Quinte Trap and Gun Club's two shoots this past week.

On Sunday George Hammett and W. Waldorf had top marks of 24. John Walsh, Jackie Wardhaugh and Doug Johnston had 22's in the Sunday shoot while Gerald Robertson and Gary Cranston followed with scores of 21.

Seven players tied for second place behind Marvin last Wednesday. All with scores of 23 were Denny Rosette, Doug Johnston, John Wykes, John Hutchinson, John Walsh, Doug Day and Cy Gardner. Ray McKinnon had a 22 while Gerald Robertson and Gary Cranston shot 21's.

Three jobs that truck men do best—

Building Trucks...

The men who engineer International Trucks are their own severest critics. They put trucks through unbelievable 'torture tests' that are far more severe than conditions any truck will meet on the job. Every component is designed specifically for trucks—and carefully matched for balanced truck engineering. Because they are built by truck men, International Trucks are built to work and built to last.

Selling Trucks...

There's no place for guesswork when you choose a truck. The wrong rating, engine, transmission or axle can lead to high costs, frequent breakdowns and early truck failure. What's the solution? Talk to International truck men! They have the training to size up your loads, speeds, routes and terrain—and because they offer Canada's most complete line of trucks, you can be sure of getting the right truck for your job.

Servicing Trucks...

Because International personnel service trucks day-in and day-out, they do it efficiently, with no guesswork or waste motions. They have the proper truck servicing equipment—and all parts are immediately available to reduce costly downtime. You're in safe hands when you bring your trucks to truck men for servicing. Your trucks get back on the job faster—and stay on the job longer!

VETERAN SPEAKER — Rev. Peter Dawson has served 25 years consecutively as Speaker of the Alberta Legislature, topping by one year the modern Commonwealth record set by Sir Robert Nicholls, Speaker of the South Australian house of assembly 1933-55. . Mr. Dawson, 68-year-old United Church minister, has been a Social Credit member of the legislature for Little Bow since 1935. He was named Speaker in 1937. (CP Photo).

Speaker of Alberta House, Rev. Peter Dawson, Drafted To Take Place in Politics

By BORIS MISKEW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—Despite 25 years in politics, Rev. Peter Dawson, Speaker of the Alberta legislature, says he is not a political.

He was drafted by members of his community to run as the first Social Credit candidate in Little Bow constituency and was elected when the party swept into power in 1935.

"A group of citizens came to my home and asked that I run as a Social Credit candidate. I wasn't home at the time and my wife told them to see me later.

"I had read a little on the new movement but contesting a seat was the last thing I would have thought of. However, after a little encouragement, I thought it over and decided it would be interesting to let my name stand—just to see what would happen. I got elected.

"I have represented the riding ever since but I never became a politician."

SEVENTH TERM

Mr. Dawson, 68, was named Speaker for his seventh consecutive term at the opening of the first session of the 14th legislature last February.

First named Speaker in 1937, he now has the honor of having held the position longer than any other active Speaker in the Commonwealth.

This year he completed his 23rd consecutive session, surpassing by one year the modern record set by Sir Robert Nicholls, Speaker of the Australian House of Assembly for 22 years between 1933 and 1955.

Record for the longest period is held by Arthur Onslow, Speaker of the British House of Commons 34 years from 1727 to 1761.

SELDOM ABSENT

Only once in the 23 sessions did Mr. Dawson not appear for a sitting. That was several years ago when, as a United Church minister, he officiated at the funeral of a friend.

Does being a Speaker hinder the chances of a member to give good representation to his constituents? Mr. Dawson doesn't think so.

"I have that much more reason to take up any of the problems directly with the minister because I cannot bring up such matters on the floor of the House."

Mrs. Dawson accompanies her husband each session to Edmonton, where they are provided with a special apartment at the Legislative Building. Their two sons, both electrical engineers, live in Toronto.

STILL PREACHES

Each Friday night during the session Mr. Dawson heads for his home town of Carmangay, a community of 400, where he preaches the Sunday service. He returns to Edmonton Sunday night.

The son of a blacksmith, he came to Canada at 19 from Slateford, Ayrshire, Scotland, and worked in a buggy-auto plant in Orillia, Ont., for a few years, at the same time taking a great interest in the church.

When he came to Edmonton, it was suggested he become a missionary. While studying arts and theology at St. Stephen's Theological College on the University of Alberta campus, Mr. Dawson served in the summer months as a missionary in various parts of the province.

After graduation, in 1927, Mr. Dawson was a minister in Sedgewick, Alta., for three years. He then moved to Champion, in the Little Bow riding in southern Alberta.

Mr. Dawson will retire as minister in June after 33 years in the church but hopes to continue representing the constituency.

He recommends that every clergyman should try to serve as a member of the assembly for at least four years "to grasp a better understanding of the needs of the people and their problems."

constitutional practice so that in his service and the service of the nation will be those who share his ideas and the ideas of the government of Canada."

The non-confidence move was made as an amendment to a government motion to go into consideration of spending estimates, it said:

"This House recommends for the consideration of the government the immediate setting up of a national advisory board on economic development and automation with representatives of governments, industry, labor, agriculture and universities for the purpose of developing economic policies designed to achieve a high and stable level of income and employment."

SAYS IDEA IMPOSSIBLE

Labor Minister Starr said the proposal was positive rather than negative — that much could be said for it, although it was not new and wouldn't work.

What Mr. Martin was proposing was in effect a cabinet outside the cabinet enunciating national policies. The committee's job would be impossible from the start.

He said Mr. Martin concentrates his attention on unemployment as a way to make "political hay," preferring to peer gloomily at the economy through dark-colored glasses.

Actually the economy was in a healthy state, with labor income at record levels, industrial production considerably higher than when the Liberals were in office and manufacturing and other industries employing many thousands more workers.

Harold Winch (CCF — Vancouver East) said the Liberal motion did a great service in raising again the issue of automation. The matter had been drawn to the attention of the government time after time, "and yet we do not see any action."

Disaster crews moved into Hilo, Hawaii's second city, where 33 persons were known dead, 23 missing and 33 injured in the Hawaiian islands' worst disaster since 1946. Damage was estimated unofficially at up to $50,000,000.

Four massive waves pounded a mile-long area in the heart of the port city of about 26,000 population the island of Hawaii. The biggest waves—one 12 feet high—struck the other Hawaiian islands as well, but damage was small compared to the chaos in Hilo.

An 8-foot wave hit the western Pacific Ryukyu islands, killing three Okinawan villagers, ripping boats from their moorings and doming tons of salt on rice crops. It was believed damage was heavy to the crop and to the fishing fleet.

HEAVY TOLL IN CHILE

So far 130 Chileans were reported dead as a result of the tidal wave there, but the figure was certain to rise.

Thousands of panic - stricken villagers on the Philippine east coast fled to higher ground, and at least three provinces reported towns under water. But there were no immediate reports of casualties.

A peak of 15 feet was recorded at one point on the east coast of New Zealand. Dozens of small boats were swept away.

A running four-foot tide hit eastern Australia, ripping dozens of small craft and barges from their moorings in Sydney harbor and washing away maritime beacons.

High tides also battered the North Formosa port of Keelung.

U.S. WEST COAST

The U.S. coast was hit from Los Angeles to the Oregon border. At Crescent City, in northern California, a wave pushed water three blocks back into the town.

The Los Angeles-Long Beach harbor was closed to all shipping because of drifting debris and floating small craft, torn from their moorings.

U-2 spy plane brought down deep in Russian territory May 1 was no isolated incident but the result of a deliberate strategy employed by Eisenhower and his government.

Gromyko made a special appeal to the smaller countries to resist violation of their sovereignty by U.S. aerial inspection, saying the Soviet Union could protect itself but they could not.

Lodge named a dozen Russian spies convicted in the U.S. and said that at least 360 have been convicted in free - world courts since the death of Stalin in 1953. Russia maintained "thousands of spies and subversive agents" in the non-Communist world.

The U.S. delegate quoted Eisenhower's words that spy flights had been discontinued — before Eisenhower went to Paris—and "are not to be resumed." Then Lodge added:

"I am authorized to say that were shot down and the Soviet government started to justify such overflights by an attempt to collect information on military objectives. . . . What would the Americans say to this . . . would they shrug the matter off as an insignificant episode?"

"When such a government insists on secrecy it is in effect also insisting on preserving the ability to make a surprise attack on humanity. If the free world failed to attempt to protect itself against such a danger, it would be inviting destruction."

While the term aggression had never been officially defined, "any common-sense definition of the term shows that the presence of a light, unarmed, single-engine, non-military one-man plane is not aggression."

Immigrant Racket Involving Chinese Earns $44 Million

30 Raids Carried Out But No Arrests Made

OTTAWA (CP)—A sordid immigrant racket involving black-mail, extortion, forged documents and slave Chinese labor has lined the pockets of promoters with an estimated $44,000,000.

More than 30 raids were carried out in nine Canadian cities Tuesday morning to gather evidence against promoters of the operation, described by Immigration Minister Pickersgill as a "large-scale."

In the last 10 years about 21,000 Chinese immigrants have been admitted to Canada. More than half of them, he said, entered illegally under cover of the fan-fluing racket, said RCMP Commissioner C. W. Harvison.

NO ARRESTS YET

Mr. Commissioner Harvison said on arrests are planned until the RCMP is in a position to proceed with prosecutions in the right manner.

The chief objective of Tuesday's raids, carried out in Montreal, Toronto, Peterborough, Sudbury, Winnipeg, Brandon, Regina, Edmonton and Vancouver, was to obtain evidence against the racketeers, believed to include Chinese-Canadians.

Late in the day, Montreal RCMP and Hong Kong police agents obtained special warrants to search safety deposit boxes of persons suspected to have received illegal money.

Police have entered Canada with forged documents which they bought in Hong Kong or in Portuguese Macao, a small Chinese mainland about 80 miles from the Hong Kong colony.

SOME PAID $8,000

The average price was about $4,000 and some immigrants paid as much as $8,000. The racketeers took what the traffic would bear, Commissioner Harvison said.

Many of the illegal immigrants paid off by working for low wages for a specific employer in Canada. Others who had retired their indebtedness were blackmailed for additional payments under threat of exposure.

"If both cases the Chinese could not go to anyone for help," the commissioner said, "because they knew this would mean deportation and would leave pawns in a slave labor operation."

Mrs. Fairclough said the government has taken a "humanitarian approach" to the illegals. Most had stated they have their entry into Canada legalized.

WILL GIVE AID

"In cases where Chinese come forward and ask for our help we'll do all we can to assist them," the minister said.

Commissioner Harvison said the racketeers set up "coaching schools" in Hong Kong and Macao to prepare the Chinese for their new identity. The false documents were described as "counterfeit to the last degree."

Sixty - five RCMP investigators of Hong Kong police have been working on the case since last fall.

Employers Get Contrary Advice Told to Be Tough and to Be Nice

MONTREAL (CP) — Kenneth Curtis, industrial relations consultant from New York, urged management Tuesday night to stop coddling workers and to take a harder anti-union stand.

Speaking at the annual convention of the National Office Management Association, he said the first concerns of management are profits and efficiency, not employee happiness.

Mr. Curtis, formerly of the National Association of Manufacturers, said executives should train their human relations training programs as a waste of money.

Mr. Curtis said unions now have enjoyed such high pay and so many benefits for their members that they now have nothing to ask for but to encroach on management prerogatives.

He said employers should take a firmer stand and "never mind what the employees think."

In another session at the convention, Psychologist H. H. Marcus of Pittsburgh urged employers to pay more attention to keeping employees happy and paying attention to them as individuals.

Church Critical Of Royalty's Sunday Habits

EDINBURGH (Reuters) — The General Assembly of the Church of Scotland decided today to criticize the Royal Family's attitude to the Sabbath in its loyal address to the Queen.

Various religious bodies in the past have expressed concern at Prince Philip playing polo and other sports on Sunday.

The question was raised at the church's annual meeting by Rev. Kenneth MacRae from Stornoway in the Hebrides, whose inhabitants observe the Sabbath strictly.

After the proposed loyal address was read to the assembly, he said:

"I would like inserted a sentence expressing dissatisfaction with the attitude of the Royal Family to the Lord's Day."

His motion was carried.

The Queen is head of the Presbyterian Church of Scotland as well as the Church of England.

Holstein Cow Brings $7,100

OAKVILLE (CP)— The highest price for a female in the 42nd history of the National Holstein sale was paid Tuesday by R. R. Dennis of Oak Ridges, who gave $7,100 for the five-year-old cow Bridge Lea Reflection Idona.

The cow, sold by J. E. Houck of Brampton, was a winner at the Canadian National Exhibition and Royal Winter Fair.

The previous record of $6,000 was set in 1956.

Buyers from Italy, Argentina, Venezuela, Peru, Mexico and the United States paid $87,275 for the head from Canada's top Holstein herds. The average price of 41,367 was third highest in the sale's history.

The East Central Breeders' Association Co-operative of Waupun, Wis., paid top price for a bull, $5,500 to G. R. Row of Curries, Ont., for his nine-month old calf Rosedale Reflection Royal.

Armando Presa of Toluca, Mexico, paid the highest price for an animal leaving the country when he purchased Gingdale Symbol L. Patsy, a bred heifer from Glenafton Farms, Alliston, for $4,000.

Report on Jobless Shows 517,000 on Rolls on Apr. 23

OTTAWA (CP)—A smaller-than-normal drop in Canada's unemployment between mid-March and Mid-April left the country's jobless rolls at 517,000 on April 23, the government estimated today.

The report by the bureau of statistics said the month's reduction is one in employment was smaller than the seasonal improvements that occurred in corresponding periods in 1958 and 1955. Last year an 80,000 drop in unemployment took place between mid-March and mid-April.

The report, based on a monthly labor force survey, also showed the number of persons with jobs rose by 74,000 in the month to 5,767,000 on April 23. This compared with a 112,000 increase in the corresponding month of 1959. Most of this year's rise was in farm employment, up 52,000.

The government also reported today 187,273 persons were registered for jobs at National Employment Service offices on March 17. This was 43,438 less than a month earlier but 53,336 higher than a year earlier.

The registrations figure is not considered an accurate gauge of unemployment since it includes even unknown number of persons seeking to change jobs and others who have found work on their own since registering.

The estimated 517,000 unemployed in mid-April constituted 8.2 per cent of the country's labor force of 6,259,000. This compared with the April, 1959, figure of 7.1.

RUSSIAN MOTION AGAINST U.S. DOOMED TO FAIL

Vote Not Expected Until Thursday

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Western opposition in the United Nations Security Council today doomed to advance a Soviet resolution asking for condemnation of United States spy flights.

Diplomats waited to see if the two months as the U-member council, Ceylon and Tunisia, would line up with the Western majority or would merely abstain on the vote expected Thursday.

Both Ceylon and Tunisia were to speak this afternoon along with U.S.-allied Ecuador in the third session of the council debate on the Soviet charges.

Even if the council began debate, observers here were certain the Soviet bloc would not be able to get the seven votes necessary for adoption, Tuesday session bore this out.

POLAND BACKS RUSSIA

Only Communist Poland and the Soviet Union were expected to vote for the proposal. Argentina and Italy indicated that they would vote no. France said she could not give support to the resolution. Britain and Italy did not announce their voting positions, but observers were planning to cast negative votes.

The Soviet resolution, introduced by the downing of the American U-2 spy plane deep inside Russia May 1 near Sverdlovsk, charges the Soviet Union, and subsequent statements from Washington that the U.S. had been sending flights over Soviet territory for four years.

The Russians called on the council to condemn "aggression by United States aircraft into the territory of other states" and to ask the U.S. government to prevent their recurrence.

Jerzy Michalowski of Poland said Tuesday that State Secretary Christian Herter is defending the U-2 flight, had enunciated "the monstrous thesis" that the U.S. had the right to "send spy planes over the Soviet Union for security reasons."

The Polish delegate said the 1928 Havana and 1933 Montevideo aviation conventions, both ratified by the U.S., banned the authorized flights over foreign countries.

AGGRESSION DENIED

Delegates of Britain, France, Argentina, China, Nationalist China defended the U.S. record.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's charges that American flights were aggressive acts, although he did not use the word, Tunisia said nothing could justify violation of another country's territorial sovereignty.

Sir Pierson Dixon of British Guiana, Britain's delegate had given a "categorical assurance" that the U-2 flight was unprecedented and would not be repeated, but despite this the Soviet Union used the U-2 case to build up last week's Paris Big Four summit conference "into what the nations of the world had built up as much hope."

Egidio Ortona of Italy pointed out that the U.S. had put a Midas "eye in the sky" satellite into orbit Tuesday. He said such satellites and the information they collect Soviet space ship had "enormously increased the capacity of exploring or observing certain parts of a planet," and spread a new dimension in the "gathering of messages on surprise attack and on the means to put such things to good use.

BENT BUSINESS

After taking on the Soviet resolution the council is expected to consider a proposal by another sponsored by Argentina, Ceylon, Ecuador and Tunisia urging the Big Four to resume negotiations with the help of the UN. A decision on that proposal is in prospect Friday.

It is expected to get at least nine favorable votes. But the Soviets could veto it. He would not say, told a reporter, "because I not consider that it's helpful."

BRALORNE, B.C. (CP) — A 22-year-old German immigrant is recovering in hospital after a wrestling match with a one-eyed grizzly bear.

Schmidbauer, bear hunting in the mountains near this mining community 110 miles north of Vancouver, said the bear attacked before he could get his rifle ready. He said he grabbed the animal and cuffed him into the snow.

Every time the hunter tried to stand up the bear cuffed him down again. Schmidbauer grabbed the animal's ears and tried to gouge out the good eye, but he was again knocked down.

The bear tried to break Schmidbauer's back by standing on its flanks and sticking him with its teeth. The hunter played dead and the bear backed off. After about five minutes Schmidbauer got up and ran for town, the bear hot on his heels. Schmidbauer won the race.

Deaths, Horror Mount In Chile, Millions Homeless

Toll Put at 2,000, Japan Starts Cleanup

Authorities put the toll at nearly 2,000 dead or missing and perhaps 2,000,000 without homes. Official sources predicted the total would rise considerably when full reports were in from areas still isolated by the communication breakdown.

The government has not even begun reckoning the property damage caused by the earth convulsions, but the interior ministry said the figure will be in hundreds of millions and reconstruction will take many years.

Tidal waves spawned by the quakes have taken the heaviest toll. One surging wall of water carried off the 800 residents of Queten to their death Sunday, the interior ministry said. Another killed more than 100 at Aleta Tuesday.

An 18-foot crest broke over the seaside resort of Nejuin drowning 200 persons, police said. Other reports told of whole villages swept away by waves up to 24 feet high. In all, 2,000 persons are missing in three provinces between Santiago and the Pacific at Maulllin, a town of 1,500 about 500 miles south of Santiago.

At least five dormant volcanoes were brought to life by the earth seizures and a new one was discovered.

VOLCANOES ACTIVE

Four volcanoes, Osorno, Cauller, Carran and Chaiten were erupting in Osorno province about 500 miles south of Santiago, police officials said Monday night. Communities in the area were ordered evacuated.

A pilot reported that 7,330-foot Purebue, near Osorno, also was erupting. It is a new province to the north a new volcano began spitting flame and smoke.

President Jorge Alexandri, touring the stricken area, described the destruction as enormous. He ordered all available resources thrown into relief and rescue.

Navy were joined by planes and helicopters from the United States, Argentina and Peru. Pope John tweeted that help be distributed by his nuncio in Santiago.

Tidal waves set off by the quakes swept to all corners of the Pacific, taking their greatest toll in Japan.

The entire state of Hawaii has been declared a disaster area, adding it to apply to the federal government for help. Action for aid.

A similar declaration was made for the Los Angeles-Long Beach harbor area on the California coast, where damage was put at $1 million. Ten were lost.

New Zealand's South Island was reported to have suffered a quake this morning, but there were no reports of damage.

VERWOERD TO RETURN

PRETORIA (Reuters)—Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd will fly to Cape Town tomorrow, on Monday—the first since an attempt on his life six weeks ago—it was announced Tuesday.

TOKYO (CP)— Japan today began gleaning up the destruction caused by a series of tidal waves which raced across the Pacific from quake-hit Chile and slammed into the eastern coast of these islands.

Japan was the worst hit among several Pacific islands battered by the giant waves, including the Philippines, New Guinea, Hawaii, New Guinea and the Solomons.

The death toll in Japan was counted in scores. Though still unsettled as rescue workers dug through debris, one unofficial report put the deaths as high as 600. Two were said at least 150,000 were homeless.

The police listed 95 dead, 85 missing and 654 injured, 2,521 ships sunk or washed out to sea, 4,000 homes destroyed, 41,500 flooded, dykes broken at 200 places and 251 bridges wrecked.

An 18-foot crest broke over the seaside resort of Nejuin drowning 200 persons, police said. An alert until after the first of the week were began to batter northern Honshu and Hokkaido, two of Japan's four main islands.

Tidal wave warnings were issued throughout the islands early today as observers were turned to their seaside homes after the all-clear had sounded.

The construction ministry estimated damage to public works alone throughout the country at 106,700,000 yen, about $2,750,000.

Four Parties Contest Every Seat in Sask.

REGINA (CP)—A record 222 candidates filed official nomination papers Tuesday for 54 seats in the June 8 Saskatchewan general election. Nominations end at noon Thursday, ballots, will be later.

Four parties — the governing CCF, Liberal, Progressive Conservative and Social Credit, are contesting every seat. There are also three independents and two Communists in the race.

The CCF, seeking its fifth consecutive victory, held 36 seats in the last legislature. The Liberals formed the official opposition with 12 seats and Social Credit had three.

The legislature has added two seats, making a total of 55.

The previous record for nominations was set in 1956 when 211 candidates contested 53 seats.

U.S. President Will Report On the Collapse of Summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower makes a personal report tonight on the collapse of the Paris summit conference and its effect on the policies of the free world.

He speaks out in the midst of political, diplomatic and legislative reverberations over the use of a United States spy plane brought down in Russia just before the summit blowup.

The Russians was urged by the White House to let the Russian people listen to broadcasts on the president's report tonight. Press Secretary Hagerty, making the appeal through reporters, said Eisenhower said "the Russian people, as well as the free people of the world have a right to hear it."

The president's address, from the White House at 8 p.m. EDT, will be carried live by CBS and NBC radio and TV networks and CBC's national TV network in Canada. ABC radio will broadcast the message overseas in English and 38 other languages, including Russian.

The Senate foreign relations committee, meanwhile, has called State Secretary Christian Herter for closed-door testimony Friday starting a major inquiry into the shooting down of the spy plane over Russia and the chain of events which followed it.

The Senate group is to continue into next week, with testimony by Allen W. Dulles, head of the Central Intelligence Agency, Air Force Secretary Thomas Gates, Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations and Space Agency.

Two other Senate probes are planned on a lesser scale—one by a special committee which keeps watch over the CIA and the other by the senate armed services aviation policy machinery.

Paul Butler, Democratic national chairman, called a press conference in New York that the Republican administration was guilty "too soft a policy toward Russia in the last two years."

He said the administration was taken in by Premier Khrushchev and his delegation at the Paris conference in Washington that he had hoped Butler, Adlai E. Stevenson and a few other critical Democrats "would have permitted the president to report to the nation in an atmosphere of open-mindedness on the current problem of our age: How best to deal with Soviet Russia."

NON-CONFIDENCE MOTION BURIED BY GOVT. VOTE

Canada's Economy Said in Good Shape

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's economy is ship-shape and in the hands of an able crew, the federal government avowed Tuesday night at the conclusion of a two-day debate.

The Progressive Conservatives have resticred prosperity after a Liberal - induced recession, said Paul Martineau, parliamentary secretary to the prime minister, in winding up the government's case.

He brushed off as only another Liberal party smokescreen a motion urging the administration to form a new board of advisers to study measures to increase income and employment.

"This government has advisers; it has economists; it has whole armies of people who are taking the pulse of the economic life of this country," Mr. Martineau.

The subsequent vote on the motion of non-confidence was 136 to 43, the CCF siding with the Liberals in defeat.

Mr. Martineau said the motion presented by former Liberal health minister Paul Martin erred on two counts. It assumed a gloomy economic situation contrary to all the facts as indicated by a high rate of exports, industrial employment and general activity which prompted "what will be a record year."

Further, it resurrected an idea that the Liberals had instituted in 1936 in the form of a National Employment Commission, costing more than $325,000 by 1939. Then the commission was abolished and its report buried, while those on relief in 1939 totalled more than 1,000,000.

A less optimistic view was taken by Douglas Fisher (CCF—Port Arthur) who said the Liberal suggestion was vague but contained the germ of a good idea.

The government picture of prosperity was as though it had "created a magnificent beach and from one end . . . to the other the water is warm, the sun is at a safe level and you do not have to worry."

In fact, said Mr. Fisher, there were a number of holes on the beach where people could slip and drown.

He expressed a lack of confidence in cabinet ministers or senior civil servants managing to find a solution to problems of automation, trade or unemployment.

He reminded the Commons that United States unemployment since 1946 have had a council of economic advisers. Canada's device was the one-man advisory commission.

Gordon Aiken (PC — Parry Sound) said the suggested board is unnecessary.

Paul Hellyer (L—Toronto, Trinity) renewed his suggestion of a census among unemployed to learn who they are, what they require in training and how many there are.

Council Given Permission to Pay City Debts

Final authorization from the Ontario Municipal Board for the issuing of debentures to pay off the city's floating indebtedness has been received by city council.

Approval of the debenture issue was read at last night's meeting of city council. Authorization was for the passing of by-laws for debentures amounting to $464,958.10 to cover the city's floating indebtedness.

Of this amount $275,830.10 will be raised by a special rate and will be payable in five instalments in the years 1900 to 1904. The debenture for $91,-628, covering the indebtedness of the parking authority will be repaid out of parking meter revenue.

Council last night requested the city auditors to break the above amounts down and to certify to council that the $464,-958.10 will provide for all floating indebtedness of the city to the end of 1900.

Mayor Haig Back in Chair At Session

After an absence of several weeks from city council, due to illness, Mayor A. McLean Haig returned to the Mayor's chair at Monday's regular session of the city fathers.

In a brief statement at the outset of the council proceedings, Mayor Haig expressed his appreciation to council members, committee heads, and city officials for the manner in which they had carried on in his absence.

At the same time Mayor Haig expressed his official welcome to Mr. J. B. Reynolds, new city manager, noting that this was his first meeting since the new city official had taken office.

G. A. Welch Co. Will Continue As Auditors

The audit firm of George A. Welch and Company will continue to audit the books of Belleville boots for 1900, it has been decided by city council.

Two weeks ago the finance committee was authorized to receive tenders for auditors for the year.

However, at last night's meeting Alderman Harry Jarvis moved the motion to read George A. Welch and Company, instead of Welch, Higgins Company.

City Solicitor E. Guss Porter, noting that while the city's by-law appointing George A. Welch and Company as auditors was for last year, said that in his opinion they by custom ought to limit the appointment to 1900 which would be valid void the auditors were appointed to hold office during good behavior and were answerable for same.

Alderman Walter Elliott asked, however, why council was not on the appointment of Free and Francis, auditors, and was subject to the approval of the Municipal Board.

Alderman William Jarvis as chairman of finance noted that council could not entertain the appointment of another auditor until the present by-law was cleared up. "We would have to show just cause for limiting the appointment of our last year's auditor," he said.

Hooks Laker Lunkers on Holiday

Twenty-seven pounds of lake trout were weighed with 3-pounds of speckled beauty was the creel-haul of a city holiday fishing party.

Gordon Cooper, Byron Street, David Burrows, same street, Jack Wood of Canniffton and a guy named Charlie" comprised the crew that lugged the fishers out and home.

Top catch was 10 1-2, second 9 3-4 and the third piece fish weighed seven pounds.

Cooper claimed the big ones on a Williams Wobbler spoon, while the others used bait while Burrows captured the seven pounder with a "Lucky Strike" bait, that is, Burrows was hauled in the speckle.

The party was fishing in Mr. McArthur's boat, Belleville, and the jaunt included a half-mile safari through the woods.

Cooper used a fifty-pound test line and Canadian reel and a bottom some 200 feet straight down. He said that the pounder Saturday morning and the two on the Sunday in the same spot. Monday the lakers took the holiday.

Kiwanians Will Renovate Property at Cost of $2,800

The Belleville Kiwanis Club plans to repair and renovate the Kiwanis Centre, Dundas Street, and improve the adjoining parking lot, at an estimated total cost of $2,800.

A motion to this effect was passed unanimously at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the club on Monday. The motion stipulated the total cost was not to exceed $3,000.

The main portion of repairs and renovations will be concentrated on the second floor of the building, and will include tiling the floor, repairs to the stairway and door, recarpeting of the second floor hallway, painting the main stairwell at the downstairs entrance and repairing of the fire escapes. This will be completed at an estimated cost of $2,000.

The remaining $800 will be spent on resurfacing the parking lot and repairing the parking lot drainage.

Past President Gerry Wishart outlined the proposal to renovate the centre which had been passed by the board of directors following lengthy study and discussion.

Mr. Wishart explained that the renovation of the Kiwanis Centre, which is used regularly free of charge by several local organizations, will have to be financed by using $2,000 from a general fund which is reserve for such a purpose, and $800 from the parking lot fund account. He explained the special fund was set up several years ago from the sale of the Roblin Lake camping area to the Salvation Army.

The Kiwanis Centre provides permanent headquarters for the Victorian Order of Nurses, the local unit of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society and the Belleville United Appeal. In addition, the Red Cross blood donor clinics and the Christmas Toy Project are held there, and the Boy Scout Troop and Cub Pack, the local Canteen and Radio Clubs, and the CITY-Kiwanis Centre, Dundas Street, Kiwanis Community Service Association. Drug stores in Belleville during June will have registration cards available for those who suffer from arthritis. All returns will receive a complimentary copy of "Arthritis — What You Should Know About It." Replies are confidential.

"The purpose of the registration" says President Ralph Tomlinson, president of the Ontario Division of C.A.R.S., "is to obtain names and addresses of all who suffer from Arthritis in order that they may receive authentic literature; to encourage those who are not under a doctor's care to do so — for prompt treatment may greatly minimize the disability; to acquaint them with the knowledge that much is accomplished in the conquest of arthritis".

Mr. Harold Smith, secretary-treasurer of Ontario Retail Pharmacists' Association, says the association members "are pleased to be privilege to co-operate in providing this service to arthritis sufferers" as it is in full accord with the aims of the Society".

For years Mr. Smith is unable to visit a drug store in register, a member of their family may do so for them.

Sidewalk Work On East Bridge Is Completed

Although wet weather has adversely affected the progress of a number of the projects on which the city's parks department has been engaged, several have reached final completion within the past week.

The sidewalk on the Dundas Bridge Street has been completed and the crews are now working in the area of Charlotte, Willsen and Ann Streets. This work is being done by the forces set which city council has approved and allows for minimal grading and patching but progressed satisfactorily. It is hoped that the sidewalks on these streets will be able to commence as soon as dry weather returns.

The sealing to the new extension of Dundas Street to allow for the new traffic circle is proceeding favorably, City Engineer Malcolm Turnbull said this morning. The sewer extension has been completed and the water mains are being laid now.

Insect spraying has also been going on about town and today department crews are working in the Bay Bridge district in order to stop odors which have developed around the city dump due to land locked water.

Arthritis Survey Will Be Made By Druggists

How many people in Belleville are suffering from arthritis this year? How long have they had their crippling disease? Are they receiving regular medical care?

No one knows the answer to these questions now, but the Ontario Division of The Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society is going to find out through a survey in Belleville. The results will be a basis for the first official information about arthritis in Canada — a complete and information about the sufferers will be obtained by the Society.

Will Not Hire School Guard For Rail Bridge

No action will be taken towards the hiring of a school guard for the children using the overhead railway bridge over the CNR tracks on Sidney Street.

Ald. Robert Temple told council last night that the traffic committee had recommended that such a guard be employed until such time as a sidewalk could be provided on the bridge. However, it has since been realized that a guard could not adequately protect children crossing the bridge and the matter was left in abeyance for some time.

Council had made submissions for a grant toward construction of a sidewalk on the overhead bridge but no action on the request is expected until later.

Mrs. Roosevelt Gives Praise To Canadians

MONTREAL (CP) — Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said Tuesday night that Canada and the United States "may be taking our liberties for granted" and "falling behind in the ideological and economic struggle for world leadership."

She told the women's council of Canada Chamber of Commerce that the Communist world has launched a vast cultural and economic offensive.

"The Soviet Union can tell more and more people around that the United States is not in a position to understand their problems," she said. "In a sense it may sometimes be right."

Speaking in French, Mrs. Roosevelt praised Canada's United Nations leadership in post-war years "when Europe was exhausted by war and needed help.

"I'm not so sure we in the United States succeeded so well in that task."

She called for a greater understanding in North America of "our world responsibilities."

She also urged Canadians and Americans to learn other languages.

Three Clubs Form One Body

Yesterday evening the first meeting of the recently formed Quinte Aqua Divers Club was held at the local YMCA. The club is an amalgamation of the three former clubs and SCUBA diving clubs in the city, the Aquanauts, the Shipsdrifters, Heildivers and the YMCA SCUBA divers. The new organization will still operate under the jurisdiction of the Belleville Divers' Council which it is responsible for ensuring an adequate training, supervision and safety measures by divers and providing emergency service in this district.

The training of divers was discussed and special emphasis was laid on the fact that a new diver should not attempt diving from a qualified diving instructor or a qualified YMCA diver before attempting any diving of his own. The club will be starting a new class for prospective divers and beginners in the near future, a date and location is also scheduled for the experienced divers.

The participation of the club in the forthcoming Water Safety Week was discussed. It is planned to put on a display of diving equipment and techniques and demonstration of diving techniques and of the water safety practices used by both skin and SCUBA divers.

The next meeting of the club will be on June 7th and any person interested in skin or SCUBA diving is invited to attend or to contact the club by enquiring at the YMCA or phoning WO 2-0333.

Vanier Proud To Be Canadian, West Tour Ends

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—Governor-General Vanier, his first official visit to Western Canada ended, is returning to Ottawa with a "very proud feeling of Canadianism."

After a month touring the four western provinces, the governor-general said Tuesday night, "in fact with this western way of life, with its wonderful horizons and dimensions previously unknown to me, a new pride in being a Canadian has grown within me."

The governor-general and his wife have flown from April 29 over the prairies by train and car, then spent 10 days in British Columbia travelling by land and sea.

They were to return to Ottawa today aboard an RCAF Comet jetliner.

WEST HOSPITABLE

The governor-general said he and his wife were overcome by the West's warm welcome.

"We have learned that the storied Canadian hearth and home hospitality are seldom exaggerated."

In an address to the Men's Canadian Club, he said one of his most moving testimonials came from a youngster in B.C.

"Following a holiday given in the name of the Queen, the little girl is supposed to have said to her parents that now the governor-general, I hope he won't die too soon, as I want to save up enough to go to his funeral."

Porter Routs Varlets With Broadsword

ENCINO, Calif. (AP)—It was a bad night for knaves when Errol Flynn and Garcia started swinging the broadswords.

Garcia, all-night porter at the Flynn's Arms restaurant, was knocking early Tuesday when three men unhinged the front door and entered.

Garcia awakened, grabbed a broadsword from a set of antique wall decorations, and charged, crying "cuidado!"—which translates roughly "watch out!"

The 26-year-old porter said about among the varlets until he broke the sword's dull blade upon one man's backside. The trio, beaten full sore, fled.

Ships, Cargoes Crowd Detroit Port in Strike

DETROIT (AP)—Cargoes and ships, including a Dutch coal liner, crowded the port of Detroit today as the strike of longshoremen's strike amid charges of strikebreaking against the Teamsters Union.

A strike of 2,000 American stevedores, mostly members of the ILA, began Monday morning, which started a week ago, and 2,000 Canadian dockers hampered vessel movements on almost the entire St. Lawrence seaway.

Lake vessels hauling grain, ore and other bulk cargoes were not affected. Longshoremen in Canadian ports are not involved in the contract dispute.

A break in the strike front Tuesday night, however, gave hopes for an early settlement.

TOLEDO SETTLEMENT

Strikers at Toledo, Ohio, accepted new contracts offered and talls were not announced but union representatives said the terms would set a pattern for settlements elsewhere.

Two Detroit River docks, expanded this year to handle new shipping volume, were closed beyond capacity.

The striking International Longshoremen's Association said the docks and the cargoes here were diverting from strikebound ports elsewhere on the lakes.

Mary Pickford Seeks Action About Zippers

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Mary Pickford, Toronto-born sweetheart of the silent movies, is still having trouble with the zipper on her dress.

"What are you doing about the zipper?"

Miss Pickford recalled that she was 20 minutes late for the first conference two years ago because a zipper on her dress stuck.

"Tonight it happened again—the same hotel three years afterward," she said. "I could only reach up so far. I was rescued by a married man and a bachelor. I won't tell you who they were."

Will Sentence Youth Tuesday For Escaping

TRENTON — Carl Buck, 18, appeared in magistrate's court at Trenton yesterday, charged with escaping from police custody on April 26.

Constable Sid Vickers of the Trenton police force had picked Buck up in a police cruiser and informed him that he was being taken into custody on a warrant from an out-of-town police department.

When the constable and the prisoner got as far as the police station door, Buck suddenly pushed the officer aside and ran up King Street, West. Const. Vickers fired three shots in the air in attempt to frighten the youth and to attract the attention of other police officers to have Buck taken into custody, however, and the police gave out all that night and the next morning searching for him. On the afternoon of April 27, Buck walked into the police station, accompanied by his father and gave himself up.

He was remanded one week for sentence.

Dismiss Charge Against B'ville District Driver

TRENTON — Do two feet of sidewalk or one foot of roadway walk for that matter, constitute part of the highway?

That was the question raised in magistrate's court yesterday when Richard Hall, 21, of 19 Belleville, pleaded not guilty to a charge of careless driving.

A Trenton police officer testified that on April 23, at 6.20 p.m., he saw Hall driving his side curve in a semi-circle without benefit of headlights, motion lot at the corner of Dundas and Dufferin Streets, and Scott Byron Street. The constable said that there had been a loud screeching of car tires and that the car had passed over about two feet of sidewalk. No pedestrians were in the immediate area.

Before disposing of the case, Magistrate T. Y. Wills asked the officer if he had anything further say and explained that he "could say nothing, if he cared to".

"Of course you may say nothing in your defence and be content," the magistrate told Hall. "Some people take that chance". The accused decided that he would take the chance.

The charge was dismissed.

TRENTON — Members of 413 (Transport) Wing, RCAF Association, will sponsor an Air Cadet Squadron in Picton, it was decided May 19 when the Wing held its monthly meeting at the Repair Depot.

Both 413 and 418 (Belleville) Wings will hold a joint business-social meeting at the R.D. social centre next month.

Sentence Man To Six Months In Prison

TRENTON — In magistrate's court yesterday, Robert Thornhill, 23, of Kingston, who last week pleaded guilty to two charges of forgery and two charges of fraud, was sentenced by Magistrate T. Y. Wills to six months definite and six months indeterminate. He now is lodged in Hastings County Jail, Belleville. It is expected that Thornhill will be sent to another institution to serve his term.

Thornhill pleaded guilty to an additional charge of forgery committed in Gananoque on April 28.

In a statement to Trenton police, Thornhill admitted that he had found a wallet, containing $20 in cash, credit cards and identification papers, the property of Gary Noyes, Kingston, in a theatre in that city early in April. He said he had kept the wallet in his possession, and on April 28 started to Gananoque. There he set to "cash," supposedly signed by Noyes. He was apprehended in Trenton when he attempted to cash a cheque at a bank. He had passed cheques in six other Quinte centres.

Thornhill's letter asked Magistrate Wills to give the man a suspended sentence and promised to take him home and find a job for him.

"These are serious charges for a suspended sentence," said the magistrate. "I realize that he had an asset, and often these are the roots of evil, but the public must be adequately protected. I may get out before the end of his term with good behavior."

'Under-Assessing' Causing Town's Financial Problems

TRENTON — E. M. Parker, Jr., chairman of the Board of Parker Management, said last night at the regular bi-monthly meeting of the board that Trenton's financial problems were due to the fact that the municipality was under-assessed.

Mr. Parker said that 45 per cent of the homes in town were assessed for less than $2,000. Until something was done to make lots within the confines of the town boundary as attractive as lots outside the town, people capable of building higher priced homes would build outside town.

Mr. Parker's remarks came at the end of a discussion among board members concerning the benefits of a long-range plan for bayshore improvements, incorporated in a new three-dimensional plan which the board and the Trenton and suburban Planning Board, recently acquired from Project Planners of Toronto.

The mock-up envisages a trenton of the future with the bayshore area built up into an attractive recreational and business area, with tennis courts, an indoor swimming pool, yacht basin, marina, rugby field, ball park and various other facilities.

Mr. Parker said that when the plan was eventually put into effect, it would do away with many of the unattractive features now to be found in the bayshore area." It would also make possible roads north of the area, particularly on the west side of the river, more valuable. He said that the plan also provided for a mall along the river, extending under the town bridge and providing a scenic walk for pedestrians.

"We may not see the completion of the plan within our lifetime, but we have a chance to start somewhere," he said. "Nothing can be worked out little by little."

The mock-up cost the planning board $600 and the parks board $400, Miss Marion Baker, secretary of the parks' board, suggested that before the money was paid, a blueprint copy of the plan be supplied to the board.

The planning board supplied the wanted copy and the cheque for the $400 was signed.

Present at the board meeting were Mr. Parker, Miss Baker, Norman Armstrong, Mayor Ellerson and the gardener, Bart Rogers.

Mr. Parker said arrangements to move the part of the sprinkling system which lies in the area where the library addition is to be built, must be made in the near future.

Mr. Boers said that even when the sprinkling system was moved further west of the library, smaller sprinkler heads would have to be installed "or the library windows will be washed every time we turn on the sprinkler." The secretary was instructed to get the necessary parts involved in extending the system in a westerly direction.

There was discussion, concerning new picnic tables for Hanna Park. It was suggested that the tables be set in cement to prevent vandalism. Suggestions for anchoring them from one edit of park to the other, or possibly out of the park altogether. Mr. Boers said the move might not have the desired effect. He said he had set a bench in concrete and that he had later found it at the other end of the park. Board members wondered if the person who moved the bench had employed a winch and tow truck for hire.

Mr. Mason, asked to report on the progress with research into the historical facts surrounding the Battle of Quinte, said that Quinte area, said that he had written to government sources and that he had been further asked to write to additional sources of information. The government officials had pointed out it was difficult to say a town the size of Trenton did not have a museum.

"We've got lots of relics, but they're not in museums," observed Mr. Mason.

Mr. Mason said that as far as the Battle of Quinte, records of Champlain's journey in the area were incomplete. He suggested that the board might prepare "ancient documents" which would clear up the issue, bury them and "discover" them.

MAY-LET CONTRACT

It was reported that he had contacted two other contractors for tenders for the sidewalk in Champlain Park, and that one had said he "wasn't interested" and the other had not replied. He was instructed to get the work while longer, and if no reply was forthcoming, to give the contract to Ste Griffith Construction.

The chairman reported that the flags had been raised and changed for Gilmour Hill, Fraser Park and the mountain. In connection with the latter flagpole the chairman said he had received a letter from Mrs. Sills from an angry citizens asking why the mountain flag was flying at half mast. Mr. Parker said it was because road conditions would not permit a truck and man and ladder to go up to the mountain to correct the misdirection.

The chairman suggested that the board could do something about the surroundings of the Community Gardens. He said that while the area was not the responsibility of the board, it would be a nice gesture to fix up the grounds.

"If we do it, I think we should ask for some guarantee that it will be looked after," said Mr. Mason. "That seems like a reasonable request to me."

"Well, it's a mess now," said Mr. Boers, "I don't see how it could do would be to spread it till we oiled there last year."

Mr. Boers suggested that bicycle rack should be placed on the grounds to accommodate the large number of youngsters who now are forced to lay the on the lawn.

Take Camera To Air Force Day Saturday

TRENTON — When flashy Sabre jets, piloted by the RCAF Golden Hawks, streak over the city of Quinte skies Saturday, cameratters will click on what may be the most spectacular air show Trenton-ites have ever seen.

Air Force Day at Trenton will open house" to the public, especially to children. Officials are toting a simple box camera or the more advanced type with lots of gadgets, the Air Force opening the doors to you.

No matter what camera you have, you can take excellent pictures in color or black and white of your Air Force in action. Pictures of the kids posed near Sabre jet are wonderful souvenirs of your visit and it will prove a wonderful opportunity to show movies or stills around as air force planes around display aircraft and the colorful RCAF band.

TAKE FLASH

As most cameras, including the popular box-type, use flash bulbs you'll be able to take pictures in the shade as well as in the direct sunlight. Flash is great for adding sparkle to snaps taken in the open shade. And that goes for color as well as black and white. However, be sure never to aim your flash at the cockpit of any aircraft.

The highlight of Air Force Day will be acrobatic manoeuvers of the Golden Hawks. Flying the Canadair Sabre, the seven members of Canada's famed aerobatic team will put on a 20-minute show including loops, rolls, cross-over bombburst, "Lawnmower" and many other standard manoeuvers. It's easy to get good pictures of these manoeuvers, even with a standard camera. Just follow the flying aircraft through your viewfinder. Hold the camera steady with both hands at the waist . . . push the shutter just as the planes are overhead.

A New College Here?

We see by The Hamilton Spectator that the committee investigating possible sites for the proposed Ontario Police College has ruled out that city, which was heavily favored, as a possible location due to the lack of an adequate site.

The new college, for which some $2,000,000 has been allotted so far, requires a 30 to 40-acre site and it appears that several cities are anxious to be considered as possible candidates. We feel that Belleville, too, should be proposed as a candidate.

To dwell briefly on the advantages of having an educational institution establish itself here we would point out that it will bring new jobs for local people as well as bring new people into the city. The idea of being almost 100 per cent of employment is that it is quite stable and not affected by the economic fluctuations that other fields of employment are subjected to. Another advantage is that such an institution will provide a new market and more consumers for local businesses.

Coupled with the above mentioned economic and socio-cultural benefits which a seat of learning imparts to the community in which it is located. Although the curricula of the Ontario Police College necessarily would be of a specialized nature as opposed to that of a college dedicated to a general education, the general distinctive and characteristics of any such institution should still be evident.

The problem of presenting the Ontario government with the best possible argument for the favorable consideration of this community as the eventual location of this school might be considered by city council and other interested bodies as quickly and as thoroughly as possible.

As stated earlier other communities have already applied.

Belleville has several unique points to present. This community is located on a body of water which offers good facilities for training afloat. There are also excellent airport facilities in the area and we can see where these would be of good advantage in modern police training methods. Coupled with this is the natural beauty of the area which we believe to be second to none elsewhere in the province.

These are but a few things which might be pointed out. If the city fathers and, perhaps, the Chamber of Commerce, or the Industrial Commission can come up with a site and a few other advantages the community might stand a good chance for favorable consideration.

The work will have to be done swiftly however.

Policeman's Lot Not a Simple One

We see by a news item in The New York Times that a police patrolman put a parking ticket for $15.00 (the high cost of parking) on an unmarked police car the other day. The incident might well have gone unnoticed if the car had been used by almost any other police official but it was that of police commissioner Stephen Kennedy, boss of 24,000-member police force. The car, however, was being used by the commissioner and at the time was unattended in a prohibited parking zone.

Amusing, we feel, is the statement made by the commissioner when the situation was brought to light, or brought to the attention of the press at least. Quoth he, "The young man did an intelligent piece of law enforcement." This statement sets us wondering. How much intelligence is required to write out a New York parking ticket?

Inasmuch as the fine is $15.00 might we expect to be faced with a legal document, duly written by the officer concerned, in which a charge of illegal parking is beautifully phrased in legal terminology worthy of the traditions of Blackstone? It might appear that New York City has been hiding some of its talent under its bustle. Around here we find that parking tickets are a standard, impersonal form on which a few blank lines are filled in and there is some printing about it costing you only a dollar if paid within a certain time.

Naturally we would not suggest that local residents should be faced with the prospect of receiving a more personal touch for a larger sum, but we would wonder at just what university or law school course a New York policeman has to go through in order to just be his job if the mere writing of a parking ticket becomes "an intelligent piece of law enforcement."

NEW WORD FOR OLD AILMENT

Religious doubt can involve tells of the peace which came to one in very intense suffering. There are vast multitudes of people who never think of religious matters one way or the other. Still others take their religion for granted and without much thought drive what they consider it is proper for them to believe. Still others — and they are probably not a vast number by any means — come to terms with the vertices of religion on the high plane of thought and emotional adjustment. And these have indeed the peace that passeth all understanding.

In his "Apologia," John Henry Newman, the Catholic cardinal, his heart when he made his ultimate decision regarding religious truth. The great Protestant, John Wesley, had a similar experience, when in the little prayer meeting held one evening in London he felt his heart strangely warmed and knew that Jesus Christ of Amiel had the same experience. So did Dwight L. Moody.

The agnostic is doomed to discontent and mental suffering. Religious faith lies at the basis of most of life's happiness. Security rests upon the confidence that there is a Power in the world higher than our own.

Spring Visit to England A Rewarding Experience

By G. A. MORTON

London has such a bewildering number of attractions it is difficult to select those which should be seen first. Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral, the Tower of London and the Parliament Buildings. Windsor Castle was mostly closed to visitors as the Queen was in residence, but we did get a glimpse of this historic building as we drove around the district.

The Abbey is undergoing an inside cleaning and some restoration which certainly will greatly improve its interior beauty. The beautiful stone work of the vaulted ceiling and fresh gilding give it the appearance of a new building almost. The work has been going on for years and will take years to complete. So many of the famous names of history can be seen carved in stone for the building is partly a mausoleum to England's distinguished dead, both royal and commoner, who brought great credit to the nation in war and in peace. There are many royal tombs with their wonderfully carved effigies and the unique Coronation Chair dating back to 1300 A.D. showing the initials of persons long dead cut deeply into the wood framing and back of the seat.

All coronations since Norman times have been held in the Abbey but none of our kings since George II in 1760 has been buried there. The last marriage of Princess Margaret, of England, and Antony Armstrong-Jones, the Cathedral is the cathedral church of the Bishop of London. The present structure was built on the site of Old St. Paul's which was destroyed by the Great Fire of 1666.

Sir Christopher, the huge vault of the dome we could not but marvel at the skill and genius who designed it, Sir Christopher Wren, and the artisans who put his plans and ideas into reality. Another thing of wonderment is how the bombs failed not completely down when a German bomb hit the nave on the left of the choir. It has been said the work going on behind a temporary screen. Other buildings near by were also demolished, but the great dome withstood the blitz and fire storms. It is planned to make a great square with the cathedral in the centre by wrecking all the buildings which have remained till the area.

Among the great men including Sir Wren who were buried in St. Paul's is the Duke of Wellington, the victor of Waterloo who was the one Cardinal Wolsey had had made for himself some years before his death in 1530. However, Henry VIII decided otherwise and made use of the delay in getting Vatican consent to his marriage with one of Queen Catherine's maidens Wolsey from his high position to the throne, condemned the coffin. This was not used until Wellington died in 1853 and the Government decided to use the coffin for his funeral. It is one of the finest in the world, eighteen brass cannon captured at the Battle of Waterloo were melted down and used for casting the coffin for a massive carriage to carry the coffin. The carriage has solid silver wheels and twelve pure black heavy horses were required to pull it. One London artist is said to be the art of metal working, took almost a year to complete the job.

As we stood there listening to our guide it seemed impossible that any task could be completed in such a short time. With modern methods it would be a mighty task but one hundred years ago almost as impossible as it is. What a contrast between Wellington's fairly modest funeral and the burial ment of a cathedral compared to that of Napoleon Napoleon who rests in a marble casket of great size and housed in a mausoleum under the Dome of the Invalides. We shall come to that in a short report of our trip to Paris.

Another landmark of this old city of London is the Tower of London. There the crown jewels are kept. They are now enclosed in a circular glass case through which may be viewed from all sides the treasures which lie within. They are beautiful in every of all jewels, but for us it is their associations with historical figures which we found fascinating. The smallest crown of all is one which Queen Victoria had made up because she did not like the weight of the full-sized crown. It is hardly larger than an old-fashioned tea cup, but it attracted almost as much attention as the larger and more ornate crowns resting so magnificently on their red velvet cushions.

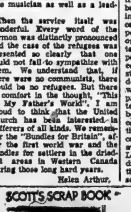
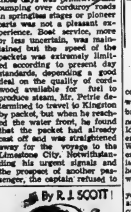
Visitor to Florida, Finds Home Wonderful

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.



On returning to Belleville May 1st, after spending the winter in a large Florida city of 100,000 home folks and over 20,000 tourists, I was pleased to find how progressive and lively was everything here. Out of the many changes and outgoings after a great throng of students; numerous cars raced up and down Victoria Avenue every morning, noon and evening; factory whistles blew to call in the workers or to dismiss them at appointed hours; numerous cars were full of new goods and purchasers thronged through them and up and down the streets.



In contrast to the south we had fast time here and the long pleasant hours of twilight. There night stood one suddenly after the setting of the sun at 7 o'clock and strollers and quiltboard parties retired to their cottages to enjoy the long evenings with radio and T.V. Then, when all had come up soon and shone with a soft yellow light over the whole park and college court, every leaf carved lacing of the tall palm trees with all their tiny fronds and every downy green leaf of the live oaks was picked out on the white ground, as plain as in the daytime, only softer and more beautiful.

Sundays in St. Petersburg there was a full house in the churches. There were two services, one at 9.30 a.m. and the other at 10.45 a.m. Both were crowded and sometimes, when the church was full, many were turned away at the second service. The choir was large, and their vocal part was sounded through the great body of the church and through the wide galleries all around. Two trumpeters added their notes to the swelling music.

Such as I had enjoyed these great services. I was thrilled by the 11 o'clock service last Sunday morning in our own Bridge Street Church. It was pleasant to watch the big gallery all around being filled with people, many with their children and with students from Albert College, while the main body of the church became almost filled. Then, after a few recent seats at the front, by other people and by long-standing appointment, the wives of certain members of the college choir and organist. The organist, Mr. Smith, played out as only professional advanced, I thought what a grand organ it was and, as the Call and Response decided, the beautiful hymns, especially hymn No. 39, and the responsive reading led, I felt that I had never heard anything so fine and inspiring and the choir and congregation were and how well it blended. Then the service itself was wonderful. Every word of the sermon by Principal Pennoyer and the case of the refugees was presented in such a way that one could not fail to sympathize with them. We understand that, if there were any objections to them it would be no refugees. But there is comfort in the thought that, in "My Father's World", I am proud to think that the United Church has been interested in sufferers of all kinds. We remember the "Sunday for Britain", after the first world war and the bundles for settlers in the dried out areas in western Canada during those long hard years.

A meeting of the executive of the Toronto Chapter of the Albert College (Belleville) Alumni was held at the home of the president, Mrs. A. F. Phillips, Rev. Principal Bert Heard outlining the plans for the growth of the college during the last few years, and assured members that the confidence placed in the faculty of Albert College would second to none in the estimation of the faculty of Queen's University, Kingston. At which seat of learning Albert is affiliated. The College is named for the late Prince Consort Albert, husband of Queen Victoria. After the coronation on June 15th, a large painting of Albert College will be hung in the college chapel.

What was said to be a memorable night in an outdoor browsing in the garden of a nearby rectory, when the Rev. Frankford Read case Wallbridge this week, according to reports from the district. Apparently Brain had wandered far from his own fireside, but his new environment appeared to have little effect on him. After sniffing about the garden, the amiable bear settled down at the rectory door-step to see what might follow.

A Long Hike — As an indication of the strength and endurance of the pioneers of this district, a story about a certain Allen, a farmer, who is still related by the oldest inhabitants, is interesting. Mr. Petrie had some business to transact in Kingston, which was then the headquarters for military, mercantile and legislative affairs for considerable area. Transportation in those days was primitive, consisting over corduroy roads in springless stages or pioneer carts was not a pleasant experience. Boat service, more or less uncertain, was maintained but the speed of the packets was extremely limited according to present day standards, depending a good deal on the quality of cordwood available for fuel to produce steam. Mr. Petrie decided to travel to Kingston by packet, but when he reached the wharf he found that the packet had already cast off and was under way for the voyage to the Limestone City. Notwithstanding his prompt signals and the prospect of another passenger, the captain refused to return and the boat continued her voyage. Mr. Petrie had made up his mind to go to Kingston, and as his legs were strong and his wind good, he proceeded to walk the distance. Upon his arrival he arrived in Kingston in time to welcome the boat on its arrival. Of course, those days steamers were rather slow, but it was a notable achievement just the same.

PAIN MAY NOT ALWAYS BE WHERE IT IS FELT

"Dear Dr. Molner: My arm gets numb. It has been causing me distress for over two months, with pain from the shoulder to the elbow. I've tried massage, heat, and rubbing medicine but the trouble continues. Should I consult my doctor? Or could it be a 'vanishing years'? I am 68. — Mrs. G. J."

"Numbness" and "pain" are not the same thing. Anyway, here's about the sort of trouble that you should take to your doctor.

He'll start out by asking some questions, observing how you move the arm, and so on.

One thing he won't do will be to say this is "the result of advancing years", because there's no reason why, from sheer age, you should have this sort of trouble. And certainly not at 68.

The likeliest cause, it occurs to me, is that somewhere the nerve which serves the upper arm has been pinched, and that's beyond the subject of infection, or some such interference.

You've heard, I am sure, of people who have lost an arm or a leg and yet have the sensation that the fingers or toes of the missing limb hurt or itch. This is an illustration of how nerve sensations which we "feel" in a limb are not actually in the place itself. The sensation is carried along a nerve train, and when it reaches the brain we say we "feel it in the toe", because we know that impulse which is particular nerve track indicate something happening in the toe.

Thus it is quite possible to have pain or numbness "in your arm" in the sense that the disturbance with the nerve elsewhere. This may be occurring at any point along that nerve, as you well William Bowers of Sulphide; Earl Haig of Tweed and Scott Elliott of Hungerford township.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It may be that the bestsinkers are the most scared of our creation. A bestseller takes on prestence of being a hero. In the newsroots of the statistic phrase "the against the machine," there appear to be some with heads, always in need of a key and others of a poetical physiognomy usually associated with bestsellism.

It occurs to me that if the Romans about the years 120 A.D. had had the word bestsink, they might have applied it to the early Christians. They were the people, you remember, who believed that the most shall inherit the earth: that the Kingdom of Heaven belongs to the poor in spirit that the peaceful shall be called children of God.

Whenever I see those young Christians in the Roman Colosseum, throwing their bodies like sheaves of unwinnowed wheat against the mighty battering ram of the status quo, I have the prosaic feeling that despite acres of dull, gruff, cunning, sophistication, rationalism and the dreadful austerity of the dollar, it will be a bunch of guileless children who will save us, in the end, from the fate we, in this bookkeeping, bank-clerking century, richly deserve. Strictly Personal

Film World Is One of Shallowness

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Speaking of autobiographies, as I was the other day, one of the most recent to land on my desk is "Confessions of a Professional Cad" by George Sanders, the film actor.

It is a blind and faintly amusing piece of work (with absolutely no justification for its existence), but what I want to comment on is Sanders' attitude toward the films he has made in a long career. He despises nearly all of them.

Screen acting, to him, is just a job he does to make a great deal of money. This is true of almost every intelligent film performer who has spoken out on the subject; the saddest portions are Joel McCrea's when he expressed his disillusionment and contempt for his work.

Admittedly, this is an unhealthy attitude to have for a craft, when a man cannot respect the work he is doing or the product he is doing it for. All screen actors of any talent look down upon their work in the legitimate theater, they know, their work is done in a meaning and some value.

Why should this be so? I think the answer rests with the critical standards in the theater. A good performance is recognized and applauded by people of taste and judgment; a poor performance is soon rubbed off the stage.

It may seem hard (and actors love to accuse the drama critics of artistic servility), but it is the only way to maintain standards in a craft. Movie actors have no agreement about doing their best, if their worst is widely applauded.

Sanders, and Flynn, and countless others are lionized by millions of movie-goers for performing mechanically in parts that require little more than lovable type-cast, one as the villain, the other as the cheerful adventurer, and kept repeating the same shallow parts year after year.

There is no incentive to improve, no urge to change and develop, no criticism worthy of the name. The movie audience wants to see "types," not individuals, and is satisfied with the slenderest imitation of reality. In fact, it feels comfortable only with types, and resents it bitterly when a film or performer steps out of "character."

Thus the actor, therefore, the cynician, the self-contempt among the more intelligent members of the Hollywood community. Its ace cabal through the Sanders' book confirms what the man looks down on the actor.

Technology Disappoints

Windsor Star

A generation or so ago one heard much about how technology advances would mean to society. They would mean a wide variety of new and interesting gadgets, appliances and materials, adding to the comfort and convenience of life. This vision has been fulfilled.

It were led to expect, however, they also would mean deeper peace and security than could be made so much more easily and quickly out of. They also were supposed to be better.

Our hopes, however, have been shattered in respect to peace and, to a degree, to quality. Mr. S. J. Randall, president of General Steel Wares, Ltd., alluded to the cost factor in a recent address.

"We are so advanced technologically that overnight we can triple these surpluses. We cannot consume them because our population is too small.

"We cannot sell them because there is no quality of life.

The sad fact is that prices, instead of being reduced by technological advances, have steadily risen despite them. How come?

Wife of Former Rector Named To High Post

Mrs. J. Grant Sparling, wife of the late Very Reverend J. Grant Sparling, former rector of Christ Church, Belleville, and Christ Church Cathedral, Edmonton, has been honored by the University of Alberta in the appointment as Dean of Women.

As the wife of a clergyman, youth groups within the church always claimed her first interest, and as dean of women, Mrs. Sparling will serve as guide, counsellor and friend to some 2,000 co-eds on the University campus.

Mrs. Sparling is a graduate in social work of Toronto and Columbia Universities. In Toronto she worked with children, playground director at the "Y" and after graduation was for three years staff resident at St. Hilda's, Trinity College, Toronto University.

Resuming again her professional life after her husband's death, she joined the staff of the Edmonton YWCA as counsellor, acting as adviser to teen-agers and to those of more mature years, as well as being adviser to the Indian girls who needed her counsel, to Ukrainian girls, German, Hungarian, Syrian, English, Irish, Welsh, Norwegian, Austrian and to all of whom her kindly understanding and assistance would brighten their future outlook.

Wasps, Hornets, Rats Causing Lots of Trouble

And city council has been asked to do something about the matter.

Monday evening Alderman Robert Temple, local lawyer among the city fathers, told council that police, witnesses and court officials were distracted by the hornets and wasps which buzz about the court room. It seems the court stenographer failed to duck fast enough and she was stung severely on the arm.

The alderman didn't know where the hornets were coming from.

And council has also been asked to do something to get rid of "about 200 rats" said to be infesting a new housing subdivision in the east end of the city.

City dog catcher Charles Thorn says the rats are too much for him to cope with and council has authorized bulldozing of the refuse piles in an attempt to get rid of the rodents.

Council also promised it would try to have something done about the hornet menace at the police station courtroom.

Tweed Team Takes Kingston Bowling Honors

The two-day tournament, largest in Eastern Ontario, had 304 bowlers competing this year on teams from Belleville, Marmora, Belleville, Tweed, Smiths Falls, Gananoque, Bend, Aldens and Kingston.

Tweed's Rollaways compiled a top pinfall of 4789 to beat all other entries while a Brockville team took second and a Marmora team third, giving Belleville area teams two of the first three positions.

The Rollaways, consisting of captain Charles Dion, Harry Cassidy, Lillian Dion, Muriel Rivers, Carthe Cassidy and Cliff Rivers, were presented with the Wright-Hetal Trophy and also individual trophies.

Marmora Victors, in third place with a 4679 score, received the Cliff Palmer Trophy as well as cash awards. The team consisted of Theresa Cassidy, Amelia Campbell, Ann Collins, V. Lynch, H. Brady and C. Brady.

High triple honors for the women bowlers went to Muriel Rivers of Tweed with a 733 score.

No Official Action Will Be Taken to Change Street Name

City council will take no official action to retain the name of Trent Road for that portion of highway No. 2 highway from Bellecity Street to the new western city limits.

This was the decision of city council Monday evening following hearing of a one woman deputation asking that the name Dundas Road be retained, in favor of the street being called a continuation of Dundas Street, West.

Last year as result of talks on the changing of certain street names in the city, council decided that what had formerly been known as Trent Road should in the interests of street continuity be named Dundas Street West. On June 17th the Ontario Municipal Board will hold a public hearing in the city to approve or otherwise on the street name.

Last night Mrs. Enid Ponton, resident on the street known as Trent Road, said Highway 2 west of the city limits had been known as Trent Road for so long that she call it anything else would be confusing.

She said a petition bearing the names of 40 ratepayers along the Trent Road would be sent to the municipal board hearing asking that the name Trent Road be retained.

Alderman Robert Temple said he agreed with Mrs. Ponton and said he was surprised that what had been known as Trent Road for years was proposed being changed to Dundas Street West.

And to support his view, the alderman tabled a recommendation asking that a traffic survey council be authorized to appear before the municipal board at the meeting asking that the street name be left Trent Road.

Alderman Jack Ellis said the proposed name change had been decided on by last years council on the grounds that it would be confusing to have the street known as Trent Road.

He said this would mean the No. 2 Highway route out of the city would traverse over streets known by four different names Bridge Street West, Highland Avenue, Dundas West and Trent Road. He maintained the street should be known as Dundas West from Highland Ave. to the city limits.

Alderman George Wishart took the attitude that if the street name on the west was changed from Trent Road, then the No. 2 highway route over the east should continue to be known as Kingston Road instead of Dundas Street East.

The motion for council to request that the street name be left as Trent Road was defeated 9-8 on a recorded vote.

Health Board Only Entitled To 5 Members

The Belleville Board of Health is improperly constituted, and that is the surprise announcement.

City council was advised of this fact yesterday (Alderman Leslie Reid, chairman of the personnel committee) when he noted he had been advised of this fact by the health unit city manager.

He said that currently there are seven members on the board of health while regulations call only for a membership of five — the mayor, the medical officer of health, and three resident ratepayers, all of whom are to be appointed annually.

He moved that all current appointees to the board be rescinded at the next meeting of council at which new appointments would be made, with appointments to be effective the following day.

Council Accepts Lowest Tender For Various Types of Equipment

Tenders for the supply of a long list of materials required for the public works department were formally approved by council yesterday.

The list ranged from various types of pipe and culverts, castings, traffic and zone paint to the purchase of new trucks and other mechanical equipment. In almost every case contracts were awarded to the lowest tenderer.

Truck and Farm Supply Ltd. of Belleville received the contract for the supply of two heavy duty trucks at a price of $14,734, less trade-in allowance of $4,392, or a net price of $10,326. This was the lowest tender in conformity with specifications.

Fred Car Sales, Belleville received the contract for the supply of a new jeep at a price of $2,320.95 less trade-in allowance of $331. And Allwin Autogoodyring Ltd. Toronto, will supply a sewer rodder at a cost of $3,248. This being the only tender.

Approval was also to by-laws authorizing the construction of certain roads, sidewalks, sanitary sewers and watermains in various parts of the city under the local improvement act. The by-laws with the exception of one for the construction of watermains in the Hillcrest area, were given two readings and will be forwarded to the Ontario Municipal Board for approval.

HELD FOR TWO WEEKS

Alderman Jack Ellis as chairman of public works asked that the by-law covering construction of watermains in the Hillcrest area be held up for two weeks, pending a conference to be held for discussion on possible re-development of the entire Hillcrest area. And the city officials would meet with department officials in Toronto on the matter.

He noted that some of the local improvement work to be done was proposed on the city's application as work which should be done and included extension of Cavell road to Victoria Ave. from Humewood to Herchimer and also on Strathcona Drive. "The work could be opposed by a majority of the property owners concerned," he said.

Council also approved of a planning committee recommendation placing both sides of Cannifton Road between Bell Street, Memorial Park, and the CNR right of way, in a commercial "D" district as requested by a petition of property owners in the area and as approved by Urban Planning Consultants Ltd.

Quality Awards Presented to 18 Members

Eighteen members of the Quinte Life Underwriters were honored recently at a dinner meeting of the Association held in the Club Canara. They received the "National Quality Award" which recognized life insurance sales representatives who place consistent emphasis on quality service to their life insurance clients. Permanence of life insurance "in force" is the basis of the award, not sales volume. Award recipients were: Carl W. Green, Albert Van Kenward, Harry F. Brant, First Year; Jack Follet, James C. Kirk, Robert W. Johnson, 2nd year; D. B. Ridley, 3rd year; Harry James Rose, 4th year; James A. Barnum, 5th year; Ralph B. Morden C.L.U., Ralph A. Knowlton, 7th year; Francis Douglas, 8th year; G. Sidney Martin, 9th year; John J. Hibberd, J. Gordon Jeffery, William Albert Holway, Harold L. Burnham C.L.U., 10th year; Donald G. Williams, C.L.U. 15th year.

The National Quality Award — commonly referred to as "NQA" — is conferred by three major life insurance associations: Life Underwriters Association of Canada, Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association, and Life Insurance Agency Management Association. To qualify, life underwriters must achieve a minimum of 90 per cent in maintaining their business "in force". They must be members and subscribe to the principles and code of ethics of the life Underwriters Association of Canada. More than 2,000 Canadian Life Insurance men and women qualified for this year's award.

Graduate

bry Oldham, C.L.U., Regional Vice President Eastern Ontario. He said, "National Quality Award gives tangible recognition to those underwriters who are contributing their best to our business. It is additional assurance to their clients of the high ideals and purposes of life insurance".

Mr. Oldham explained that persistency and permanence of business "in force" indicates clients have been professionally counselled on the basis of individual needs and have acknowledged confidence in their life insurance advisers.

He said, "These men live as good citizens in our community; they conduct themselves in such a way as to bring honor and prestige to themselves, their fellow life underwriters and the institution of life insurance".

Speaking to the meeting later, Mr. Oldham illustrated his topic "The Cathedral Concept of Life Underwriting", with a very thoughtful simile. An enquirer asked of three thin cutting stone, "What are you doing?" The first replied that he was cutting stone, the second that he was earning $2.50 an hour, the third that he was building a Cathedral. It was the third man's concept of his work that will make any job worthwhile stated Mr. Oldham.

Motion to Discontinue Walk Plow in Winter Defeated

Belleville residents are not going to have to shovel their own sidewalks next winter after all.

Following a spirited discussion, city council Monday evening turned down a recommendation which would have called for snow ploughing by the city be discontinued with the responsibility of keeping walks cleared to rest with the property owner.

Alderman Eugene Harrison introduced the recommendation noting that snowploughing of walks cost the city $10,000 last winter and pointed out that this cost would increase as more walks were constructed. He noted there were now 27½ miles of walk of which 65 miles was in the "old" city.

He argued that the sidewalk plows did not do a satisfactory job and said their use ruled out the possibility of school boys earning a bit of pocket money shovelling snow from walks.

At the same time he said it was not fair to expect property owners to have to help pay for plowing walks for those that don't have them.

He went on to assert that plowing of walks was being done illegally, with the matter having been approved only by recommendation for almost 10 years or so ago and said the original by-law authorizing the property owner to clear their own walks had never been rescinded.

SELL ON DEAF EARS

But Alderman Harrison's submissions fell generally on deaf ears with most of council lining up strongly opposed to the recommendation.

Alderman Don Whalen noted that if the city could afford to operate an arena and a library, here could also afford to plow sidewalks.

Alderman Robert Temple said the snow ploughing, notin that the city was in the box business yet all taxpayers did not ride the buses.

It would be a distinct hardship for older people to have to shovel their own walks," noted Ald. Temple, stating that while the money saving aspect of the recommendation was a good thing, the benefits of sidewalk plowing outweighed the disadvantages.

Ald. George Wishart claimed that times had changed and said the youths of today did not relish the idea of shovelling walks.

ENFORCEMENT DIFFICULT

Under the old system as all sho veling of their own walks, he said enforcement was difficult as the responsibility was on the property owner, not the tenant. It all resulted in about half of the walks not being shovelled, he said.

Ald. Jack Ellis, as chairman of public works, said he went along with Ald. Harrison's statement of snowploughing costs and said these costs would increase if the walks were constructed.

When the vote was taken the recommendation to dispense with sidewalk plowing was decisively defeated, seven voting only from the aldermen responsible for its introduction.

Quinte U.C. Conference Hears Plea Canada Refuse U.S. Defence Offers

KINGSTON (CP) — A United Church minister said Tuesday night Canada should refuse to build missile-launching bases and should reject other parts of defence by the United States.

Dr. James Findlay of St. Luke's United Church at the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church.

Dr. James R. Mutchmor, secretary of the United Church Board of Evangelism and Social Service, also took part.

Canada should take a passive role in the world struggle, Dr. Findlay said. He urged a "gradiated plan to move present defence spending by the government into channels for constructive peaceful pursuits."

Instead of being "a questionable military asset," Canada would become a pioneer in peaceful things.

Dr. Mutchmor said the tide of history now runs in the world rather than the West from now and God China should be recognized.

"The longer the United States takes to recognize this the greater peace of the world will be jeopardized," he said.

Fire and Lightning Protection Offered By Local Firm

Slavin's Radio and TV reports Three inexpensive items are now available to Belleville and district residents which will give them protection from the hazards of lightning or fire damage to their TV receivers.

A plastic station pin type connector with the Lead-in which will allow the set owner to quickly remove the TV from contact with the Antenna, if there is any fear of lightning storm damage. Cost 25c.

Something that should be attached to the outside of the house is a Lightning arrestor which will need to be connected to ground on the water pipe. This unit would cost $1.50 plus time and ground rod, if needed.

Recent news reports of fire damage to a set because of a short circuit in the wiring of the Television receiver points up the fact that there is now a specially fused plug for the power cord of such appliances which will automatically shut off all power to the set if there is any danger of fire due to a short circuit. $2.00 is not much to pay for this type of safety.

THOUGHTS ON THE BAY

Quinte's a lady dressed in green,
Bejewelled after dark
With necklace of rubies and emeralds
And diamonds all a-spark.

Flaming with glory from the sun,
She trails her scarlet gown,
Hoping to find her lost beauty
In the harbor of the town.

Demure in morning light, she wears
White caps on her restless head,
While gulls mourn over her tenderly,
She whispers of things unsaid

'Til settling down in her frozen sleep,
She dreams of ages past,
When she was young and undefiled.
And beautiful and blest."

Mocking Bird Spotted at Presqu'ile

The annual Quinte Field Naturalists spring outing was held May 23 at Presqu'ile. Dunworkin Cottage." Although it was wet and dreary, the bird watching was good as the birds stayed mostly in the sheltered areas. The usual birds were seen; gulls, terns, shore birds, thrushes, warblers, including the black polled, Wilson's warbler, redstart, waterthrush, merula and many others.

Though the group was small, several members were fortunate to see the mocking bird. This is the first known record of its appearance on Presqu'ile.

Naturalists from Brantford, Oakville, Ottawa, Tweed, Moor, Cobourg, Kingston, and Belleville, were extremely fortunate to be able to see a very rare bird which was over a thousand miles from its normal range. Mr. I. W. Knight and Dr. C. W. Brown spotted this rare species, an oyster catcher, on the sandy island between the beach and the wooded island. Wood warblers and the majority of the naturalists were able to get a good view due to the use of a viewing scope.

Though the weather was inclement, this one sighting made the whole trip worthwhile for the members in the rain.

At the lunch break, a short business meeting was held. Mr. Knight reported plans for the publication of Ontario Naturalists' field gathering on Civic Holiday weekend and Miss Fitzgerald reported energy restrictions already received for this important meeting.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

A few months ago, we had a story for you about weaving in their manufacture, their masterpiece, the Kidderminster, is nearly modern perfection. Today we add a few simple rules for you to watch, keep an accurate time as possible, although expand the absolute accuracy from any watch is a mechanical impossibility.

Of first importance is the fact that your watch should be fully wound once a day. Do it each morning to assure that the mainspring will be delivering its full power during that part of day when your watch is being worn. Keep the jars and knocks of your morning work.

Here is a "don't" to remember. Do not keep your watch near perfume or powder. The alcohol fumes from the perfume will quickly dry out the minute quantity of oil in the watch, powder tends to thicken the oil. Either one will alter the rate at which the watch runs; so remember, do not keep your watch near perfume or powder.

Summer holiday time is near at hand, and it is well to remember that dust and fine sand can stop your watch, so it is best not to wear it on the beach at all. Just soak in the sun, it can't hurt you, and forget all about the time. (Editor's note: That sunburn, ouch!)

We have some information about a new product which will interest mothers. It is a new type of seat for babies—a portable, reclining seat, designed by a doctor of the mother of four children and a member of the London, Ontario, Victoria Hospital Service League. All proceeds from the sale of these seats are turned over to the Hospital Social Service Work. We have seen the seat and like its sling used on the maternity floor of that hospital and that they have been shipped as far as California and Victoria, B.C., and east to Halifax, Bermuda, England, France, Switzerland, and Rome, as well as to hospital authorities from one to Moscow. The baby's back is supported at the sides with firm cushion and at the back with a 60 degree angle. A safety strap across the front keeps the baby from falling forward. It is evidently completely portable and, they claim, acts as a "self-burper."

Turning to yet another product, there is a tremendous interest in the use of carpeting in Canadian homes in recent years and is said to be a reflection of the many changes and developments in that commodity. Carpets are no longer a luxury item but are now a necessary and enjoy their beauty and comfort no matter how restricted their budget.

The boom in Canadian carpets has been largely because fibres first invaded the former all-wool field. Although many of these products would appear perfect they were still better when blending or mixed part with wool. The growing army of carpet buyers would probably not have covered their bare floors at all if they had had to watch their budget so closely.

This division of the market has greatly changed consumer. Carpets of wool and man-made fibres are in direct competition with each other. Many have adopted the economical tufting process and have brought the newcomers in the low priced field. Even the tufting machine which performs a variety of fabrics is now a speedy and expensive method of manufacturing carpets and rugs.

From carpets to lingerie is quite a jump, yet the fabric changes are important here, too. New Canadian fabrics for your fashions seem to appear each year. Newest is a nylon tissue fabric with a satin finish. It is soft to the touch, luxurious to look at and it is said to combine the beauty of satin with the easy care of nylon. Here, too, there are many blends of man-made fibres with cotton in light-weight broadcloths and batistes. The range of cottons in lingerie is also growing with pliaes and seersuckers, truly no-iron, very popular. For decoration, embroidery is making a big comeback in all lingerie styles and fabrics.

QUESTION BOX

Question: I am going to be married quietly in a few weeks. I am not asking anyone except close members of the family to be present at the ceremony, and I am having no reception. I am going to send out announcements. Is it permissible to place my street address on this announcement?

Answer: No. Your street address should not be placed upon a announcement itself. A separate "at home" card is enclosed with the announcement giving this information.

Question: I am to be married next month, and I am planning to be married in my going-away suit. I would like to carry a small old-fashioned bouquet, but I understand this isn't correct. What do you advise I should do?

Answer: You are correct in the assumption that a bouquet should not be carried when wearing a suit. A corsage composed of any flowers that you prefer would be correct in this instance. The bouquet is carried only when one is attired in a bridal gown.

Question: Please tell me if it is compulsory to give a wedding gift to a person who is to be married out of our province. We received an announcement. That person was only an acquaintance when she lived here.

Answer: An announcement of a wedding never calls for a gift. It is entirely up to the recipient as to whether or not he wishes to send one. Usually, it is not done. It is considered proper that a gift be sent if you are invited to the wedding ceremony itself, and the reception following, even if you cannot attend.

Question: At this time of year, when salads make up so much of the daily menu, is it proper to cut lettuce with a knife? I understand that it should not be done, and this doesn't make sense to me. I come to grief every time I try to slid a piece of lettuce around a plate, endeavoring to cut it with a fork! What to do.

Answer: By all means, use your knife! Custom used to, from upon this — chiefly because, before steel knives were invented, vinegar would turn a silver knife black. Today it is common sense to cut lettuce with regardless of the knife. Attempting to separate it with the edge of a fork usually lands it in your lap or the middle of the table. Use your knife, and play safe.

Question: As prom time is almost here, I would appreciate it if it is at all correct to accept a date to a prom from one boy by when you have already turned one down?

Answer: I see no reason why you shouldn't accept the second boy's invitation. It would be advisable, however, to try to use tact. For the sake of the boy to whom you refused, don't spread it around that you preferred to accept a later bid.

Question: At a dessert bridge party, is the fork placed to the left or the right of the dessert plate?

Answer: To the left. Should you be serving something that needs both a fork and a spoon, the spoon would be placed on the right.

Prefers Driving on Track Says Woman Stunt Driver

By RENA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Yvonne La Coste's husband says she's a good driver whether she's doing her share of the 50,000 miles of highway travel they do each year or standing on a car driving it with reins as part of a stunt driving act.

Yvonne's husband, Dean, native of Port Huron, Mich., says she has to be a good driver when she's the only girl in a unit of 13 stunt drivers touring Canada and the United States.

He did not teach his pretty blonde wife to drive. She learned in the family car, when she was a schoolgirl in Toronto. At 18, she became a stocker driver, and now at 23 is a two-year veteran of stunt driving.

NO QUALMS

Is she nervous?

"Not me," she says brightly. "I'd sooner drive in a show than on a highway. In the show, you always know what the other driver is going to do."

Yvonne maintains that track driving sharpens your senses. "You learn to be more alert and so anticipate the other guy."

Are women good drivers?

"The good ones are better than men but the bad ones are worse," she says. Some women drivers are overly cautious but a good woman driver is the best.

She says backing bumpers add sleepbacking, where the stuntman stands on the rear and guides it with reins, is all right for a girl but some of the more complicated stunts should be left to the men.

"Some of the stunts take courage, power and strength."

MUST CONCENTRATE

Yvonne says she is not conscious of the audience while the act is going on.

"Once I'm in the car, the crowd is not there. I'm often surprised when I get out and hear the applause," she explained. She's never been in an accident—but has a bruised left arm all during the tours. That's the arm that sticks out the car window and is bumped every time the car slams down.

The greatest hazard is fatigue and the greatest nuisance to her is wearing a crash helmet which ruins the styling of her long blonde hair.

What made her become a stunt driver?

"I wanted something different. If I hadn't been a driver I'd have been a nurse or a mad scientist," she said.

Public School H-S Assoc. Elects Officers

MARMORA — Marmora Public Home and School Association held the May and final meeting of the term in the Earl Prentice School on the evening of May 18.

Grade II, Miss Tait's room, were the parents' attendance banner.

Reports of committees were read and showed a coffee maker and dishes had been added to their supplies, a piano had been tuned.

The slate of officers for 1960-61 were installed by Mrs. Meiklejohn, a former president. Officers are: president, Mrs. J. Roy Barker; vice-president Mrs. Ina Dunlop; treasurer, Mrs. L. Stafford; secretary, Mrs. Earl Bingham; ways and means convener, Mrs. Jack Grant; program convener, Mrs. Wes. Caddy; publicity, Mrs. Orval Armstrong; membership convener, Mrs. Vic Neal.

Mr. E. C. Prentice, who is retiring thanked the association for their support and help through the years, Mr. Watson also voiced his appreciation of the work done by Home and School.

Kindergarten mothers were hostesses for the evening.

Consecon Camp For Children Ready July 2nd

The May meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at the home where the highlight of business was the "camp" which opens July 2nd.

CONSECON CHILDREN'S CAMP

An interesting discussion period was largely devoted to the "Consecon Children's Camp," owned and operated by the W.C.T.U. of the three counties of Hastings, Prince Edward and Lennox-Addington.

This is a valuable camp in a picturesque setting on Lake Consecon. The W.C.T.U. operates a junior and a senior camp there during the early part of July each year. For the rest of the camping season it is occupied by various worthy groups.

Three years ago, circumstances beyond the control of the citizens of the three counties made financial support in buying the campsite. The public responded in a magnificent way. The success of the campaign has enabled the W.C.T.U. to build a new kitchen and dining hall as well as two new cabins. The camp has been wired and electrical equipment has been added have it.

Club Activities

CENTRE — — VICTORIA CEREALETTES

The sixth meeting of the Centre-Victoria Cerealettes was held at Linda Shepherd's on Friday evening, May 13. First baked were ice box ginger cookies which Beverly had brought, ready in a roll. Later the group divided into three teams to make corn bread, banana bread and gingerbread. While these were baking they held a meeting.

Margaret read the minutes of the last meeting. A cereal quiz was held. The programs for Achievement Day were given. For lunch the group sampled the baking, all of which had turned out very well.

To make it a modern and efficient one, of which all are justly proud. To all those who contributed so generously, great deepest gratitude; they will appreciate the fact that they have made it possible for underprivileged children to enjoy the benefits of a non-profit camp, regardless of race, color or creed.

This year the camp to date has been reserved for various groups up to the 15th of August. This leaves a few weeks for camp use.

SEGUIN — HALEY

Pink gladioli, white chrysanthemums, pastel tulips, and daffodils, adorned the altar in Holy Rosary Catholic Church, Belleville, on Saturday, May 7th, at 10.00 a.m., for a very pretty double-ring wedding. Miss Alice Theresa Haley became the bride of F.AC John C. Seguin. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stafford Haley, Belleville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rene Seguin of Hudson, Quebec. The Reverend Michael Simson, O.F.M., officiated, and the cousins of the bride, Gerald and Joseph Bibby, of Trenton, were altar boys.

Mr. Garry Fitzgibbon presided at the console of the organ and during the ceremony accompanied the soloist, Mr. Harold Davidson of Tamworth, in his rendition of "Mother, At Thy Feet In Kneeling," and for the offertory, "Jesus, Jesus, Come To Me" and "O Lord, I Am Not Worthy," and while the register was being signed, "Ave Maria," by Schubert.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of nylon net fashioned with molded bodice having silly-pointed Chantilly lace sleeves and sweetheart neckline, outlined with scallops and matching lace, while inserts of the same accented the bodice. She wore a coronet-style headdress adorned with seed pearls and fingertip veil of embroidered tulle, and carried a cascade bouquet of red Sweetheart roses.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Ann Haley, of Toronto, as maid of honor, and by Miss Mary Joe Haley, also a sister of the bride, and Miss Connie Sickle, as bridesmaids. All the attendants were gowned in heavenly blue organza fashioned with Sweetheart neckline and short bolero, and skirts in cocktail length. They wore pillbox style hats and shoulder-length veils matching their gowns. The maid of honor carried a cascade of white stephanotis and blue mums, and the bridesmaids cascades of white mums mingled with blue.

The little flower girls, Misses Charmaine Ballerdine, and Sheila Smith, were sweet in their short full skirts of pink organza, with fitted waistline and petal necklines, with matching floral headdresses, pink gloves and white slippers. They carried white baskets of blue and white baby mums.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. John Doran of HCAF Trenton, while James Haley, RCAFA, of Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, Halifax, N.S., and Robert O'Gleien, of Belleville, cousin of the bride, were ushers.

The reception was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, where the bride's table was centred by a four-tier wedding cake and flanked by crystal candelabra holding four pink and white candles. The bridal party, guests and the gleaming white tables made a pretty setting.

The bride's mother received, gowned in beige-toned embroidered organza, beige hat and accessories, and corsage of pale pink roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a powder blue ensemble in street length, with white hat and accessories, and corsage of pale pink roses.

For travelling to Kingston, Brockville and Montreal, the bride chose a turquoise sheath with white hat, short grey fur jacket (a gift of her bridegroom), with white accessories.

Guests attended from Belleville, Oshawa, Trenton, Toronto, Perth, Portsmouth, Stoco, Rochester, Kingston, Montreal, Hudson, Quebec and St. Eustache, Quebec.

Previous to her marriage the bride was entertained at a shower held at the home of Mrs. J. Hillier, by Mrs. Connie Sickle; at a miscellaneous shower at Janet Morton and a personal shower given by Miss Jean Deschanag; also at the home of Mrs. N. Smith, assisted by Mrs. J. Hogan and Mrs. A. Even, when she was given a personal shower.

LAC and Mrs. Seguin sailed on the "Homeric" for Germany where the bridegroom is stationed with the RCAF.

On The Ground At Schipol

As conducted by Mary Moore

At the Fort van Cleve Hotel hard by the Queen's Palace in Amsterdam I awoke to a beautiful sunny day. Looking out the window across the street I saw a Dutch charwoman out on the sidewalk beating cocoa mats back and front as if her life depended on it, then shaking and beating them again. I resolved right there to give mine a few beats and shakes when I got home.

It is the last day of my visit, and as I write I am at Schipol Airport where 4,500 to 5,000 passengers are handled every day.

A French built Caravelle jet belonging to Finnair has just taken off with a banshee roar as I watch through the window. Planes are arriving and leaving constantly, the majority of them KLM of course.

Sas (Sweden); Air Ceylon; Sind Afrikaner. This will give you some idea of the high regard in which KLM catering kitchens are held by competing Airlines.

It so happens that two days from now in The Hague the seventieth anniversary of Gerry Gaelbeer is being held. This is the Hotel and Restaurant Association in Holland and means Guest and Cook Schipol kitchens the chefs are preparing works of art as their entries for the big chefs' show.

I saw chocolate sculptures of a madonna and child made from a 160-kilogram block of chocolate. This is held in a moisture-free room at 64 deg. Fahr. All of his fellow chefs are immensely proud of the chef-artist who sculpted it. There is also a two-foot model of a DC8 plane made entirely of white sugar cubes.

There are 400 people working in Schipol catering kitchens and many of them are specialists. I watched one chef making pink sugar roses from a pliable mass of shiny pink fondant. He would break off a small lump, then between thumb and fingers would shape a rose petal, then another and another until he had enough to form a rose. He would then assemble it and stand it in a wee pink paper cup to harden. These are passed to passengers on a tray of sweets at the end of a meal on transocean flights.

Some of the food I have eaten en route includes smoked salmon sliced paper thin which comes from Norway and is smoked in Holland; smoked eel another Dutch specialty which I found delicious; Golden Delicious-type apples from Argentina (pronounced with a hard "g" in Holland; Kangaroo tail soup and fresh Dutch strawberries.

Five hundred cold plates were being prepared in one department for economy class luncheons, but did not leave anything to be desired. They were made up of glazed pold whole legs and thighs of chicken, potato salad, devilled eggs and delicate Bibb lettuce.

I am intensely interested in baby travel since Marianne is bringing Susan with her when she comes to Canada in September for Pete's and Zeal's wedding so when I saw the special kit that KLM carries on all transocean flights, for babies I was all eyes and ears. It contained both American and Dutch baby foods in tins and glass jars; rusks, canned milk, plastic bottles and many emergency items which might be necessary for air travelling mothers with small babes.

Fourteen hours from the time I am writing this I will be in Montreal.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by reasonable exercise and counsellors.

Lydia T. — They should give Mike a second chance.

Mrs. R. T. — We don't think he deserves it.

Lydia T. — I am 16 and having a feud with my parents over a particular boy I want to date. They don't like him.

I used to go out with Mike about a year ago. One day my father saw him driving down town and bawled him out for going too fast. Mike said something fresh and my father refused me permission to go out with him anymore.

I saw Mike after school a few times and now he has asked me to go out with him again. He says he is willing to apologize to my father if he will just let us date again. I feel Mike has matured a lot in the past year and my parents would like him if they would just give him another chance. Dad had no right to bawl Mike out anyway.

Mrs. R. T. — My husband and I have talked this over pretty carefully and we don't see any good coming out of giving in to Lydia on this point. There are plenty of nice boys around for her to date. Why must she choose a boy who has already her father distressed to the extent he has?

I have tried very hard to reason with her and explain that a really nice boy doesn't lose his temper to the extent where he actually yells at an adult, especially when he is in the wrong and the adult happens to be his girl friend's father.

I am also very annoyed that Lydia has seen Mike after school. I thought she wouldn't be at him again. We don't want to be unfair, but we don't think this boy deserves a second chance.

The Council: Sorry Lydia, we have no sympathy for your cause.

A young man who hasn't better control of his temper than Mike is not a desirable friend for a young girl.

Even if we were to try to be extremely understanding about this incident and say that Mike probably got out of bed from the wrong side that morning, we would have to ask why it has taken him a whole year to decide to apologize.

Now he claims he is willing to apologize "if" he is granted a certain privilege — that of dating Lydia. Apparently, Lydia is flattered that Mike has made this overture. But it is not flattering. It is insulting. He is bargaining for her. He has also extracted from her, in effect, a statement that his insulting behavior toward her father was not terribly serious.

Why does Lydia favor this boy whom she has every reason to dislike? Possibly she is feeling a little rebellious at this stage of her life. She would like to show her parents she is a grown, independent woman, but she knows quite well she is far from that. Perhaps she would like to assert herself more at home, but does not dare. Secretly she may admire Mike just because he had the nerve to talk back to her father.

It is also likely that Lydia enjoys the feeling that two men are battling over her. The fact that one happens to be her father doesn't take away any of the fun.

We think the R. T.'s should stand firm and refuse to discuss the matter after they have fully explained their attitude.

Bayside Guides Brownies Aux. Sponsors Tea

A lovely afternoon tea was held by The Bayside Local Association for Guides and Brownies of Bayside School on May 14th. Snapdragons, mums and daffodils centred the delightfully appointed tea table with its gleaming silver services.

Receiving the guests were Mrs. George Caves, and Mrs. E. Cooper. Mrs. J. Little escorted the guests to the tea room.

Presiding at the silver tea services were: Mrs. J. Glydon, Mrs. E. Carter, Mrs. C. Miller and Miss Sylvia Millar.

Making tea were: Mrs. McLaughlin and Mrs. Fulton and in the kitchen were Mrs. May and Mrs. Roy Millar.

Mrs. E. Campbell and Mrs. J. Dale replenished plates and tea cups.

Mrs. M. Ackerman and the Bayside Girl Guides served the guests, and the little Brownies Mrs. W. Richards was won by Miss Elaine McLaughlin. The Guides and Brownies all had longing eyes on this lovely set and the winner was a happy little girl.

Appreciative thanks are tendered to a local florist for the beautiful floral decorations, and to the soft drink company who treated the guides and Brownies to cokes after the tea, as well as Mr. Walter Jones who assisted in the preparations.

Mrs. C. Gennery was convener and Mrs. R. Moase co-convener, and the Association extends its most sincere thanks to these untiring ladies for their efforts in making this a most successful and delightful tea.

QUEBEC CATASTROPHE — Gaund chimneys rise over ruins of part of the Quebec village of Cabano, swept by fire May 10, 1950. The disaster came only four days after fire destroyed one-quarter of the town of Rimouski, 60 miles away on the St. Lawrence River south shore. The Cabano blaze was brought under control after six hours but not before 125 homes and buildings were destroyed and 700 persons left homeless. (CP Photo)

TOWN AFIRE — Flames race through a street at Rimouski, Que., the night of May 6, 1950, in a disaster that caused nearly $25,000,000 damage. At its height the fire raged over several blocks of the St. Lawrence River town. No one was killed but 265 homes and buildings were destroyed and 900 families were left homeless. (CP Photo)

Police, Fire Chief of Rimouski Recalls Two Fires in Town Making Many Homeless

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

RIMOUSKI, Que. (CP)—Saturday, May 6, 1950, was hot and sunny in the St. Lawrence River town of Rimouski, 200 miles east of Quebec City.

Police Sergeant Yvon Desrosiers, on duty since 6 a.m., prepared to go home as the sun began to set. He looked forward to a party celebrating his 36th birthday with his wife and two children.

The telephone rang. The man on the phone told Sgt. Desrosiers a sudden burst of wind had snapped a high - tension wire which set fire to a stock of planks in the lumber yards of Price Brothers and The Gravel Lumber Company.

The sergeant and a constable jumped into the fire truck and drove to the scene on the western outskirts of the town, just across the Rimouski I ..er.

WIND STORM

"A wind storm was blowing," said Sergeant Desrosiers who today is police and fire chief of Rimouski. "The whole lumber yard was in flames. The gusts of wind reached 50 to 60 miles an hour."

He telephoned for the town's second fire truck and the whole force—seven full-time employees and 28 volunteers—hurried to the area over an old river bridge.

There was little anyone could do. Thirty minutes after the outbreak, fire - fighting equipment had been destroyed. Flames from the lumber yard set the bridge afire and spread to the bridge's part of the town on the other side of the river, Avenue on Tessier Street, 500 feet from the original outbreak, was burning.

"It was only then I realized we were face to face with a catastrophe. Instead of trying to control the blaze, we rushed back into the town over the Canadian National Railways bridge and proceeded to alert all residents."

900 HOMELESS

A massive evacuation was begun. Patients were moved from hospitals. Prisoners were taken from the jail to the town arena.

In the next 24 hours, 265 buildings or homes were destroyed and others were heavily damaged. Some 900 families were homeless, most of them without a piece of furniture left.

When reporters arrived on the scene early Sunday morning they ran into streams of people clogging the CNR bridge, the only link between the town and the western shore of the Rimouski River.

Many of the homeless were staying in houses of relatives on the outskirts of Rimouski. The rest were housed in religious institutions.

NO ONE KILLED

The Canadian Red Cross and the army sent in personnel, equipment and food and helped bring a semblance of order out of near chaos.

No one was killed or seriously injured but material damage was nearly $25,620,000.

Four days later, Mayor Emile Morin of the village of Cabano, 30 miles southwest of Rimouski, was sitting in his office when a telephone call from his fire chief informed him that a roaring fire a chimney had set a rooftop afire near the Dube Hotel.

"The weather had been incredibly dry and hot for the past few days. We had all read about the Rimouski disaster. We didn't know then the fire would grow into a second Rimouski.

"All the houses in the area were made of wood. Strong wind blew embers from one rooftop to another. Fire caught in the lumber yard of Fraser Brothers where 8,000,000 feet of board were stacked. Then we knew there was nothing we could do and we asked the villagers to move out of their homes."

NEARBY

Fortunately for Cabano, the Red Cross and army were only 60 miles away. Personnel, some of them not having slept for 24 hours, arrived by truck and took control of the situation within a few hours.

While Rimouski had burned for 24 hours, Cabano was ablaze from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Tuesday, May 16. When the flames were brought under control, 700 persons were homeless and 125 homes and buildings had been destroyed.

One-quarter of Rimouski was in ruins and one-third of Cabano had suffered the same fate.

The fires, occurring as they did within a few days, drew international attention. Donations in money and goods poured in from all provinces, the United States, Britain and France.

GOVERNMENT AID

The federal government made a grant of $5,000,000 and the provincial government $500,000 to the two communities. The Quebec government also guaranteed municipal loans that provided funds for the reconstruction of homes. Insurance companies did claims promptly.

Today, 10 years later, the most attractive areas of Rimouski and Cabano are those rebuilt after the fires. Rimouski, where rebuilding took five years, has removed all trace of the destruction although individual residents are still meeting payments on reconstruction loans.

At Cabano, it took two years to eliminate all signs of the disaster although most homes had been rebuilt by November of 1950.

As a result of the fires both communities revised their town planning to make it less likely that a similar disaster could occur. More space is required between buildings and use of materials more resistant to fire is encouraged.

Chief Desrosiers still lives in the house he had in 1950. Flames then did not reach the eastern section of town.

Fire Sites — Ten years ago this month a $25,000,000 fire raced through the town of Rimouski on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River in Quebec. A few days later a second blaze laid waste to a large part of the village of Cabano, 60 miles away. The two fires, coming as they did only a few days apart and leaving hundreds homeless, attracted attention. Map locates the two fire sites and the CNR line linking them and Quebec City, 200 miles to the southwest. (CP Newsmap)

Fall of Singapore Laid to Muddled Defence Planning

LONDON (Reuters) — A journalist who investigated the fall of Singapore to Japan in 1942 laid the blame Monday on muddled defensive planning.

Frank Owen, in his book The Fall of Singapore, gives a blow-by-blow account of the 70 - day campaign. He recounts the efforts of the defenders, expecting an attack from the sea, to beat off a Japanese land thrust into Malaya.

Owen poses the questions:

Why, after 10 years' warning, were the defenders of Malaya and Singapore "in surprise, muddle and alarm" when the battle finally started?

Why did the Allies fail to go ahead with Operation Matador, designed to forestall the Japanese when they attempted to land in southern Thailand?

Why were the huge gasoline and oil reserves on the island of Singapore not used to make "a wall of flame" to hold back the advancing Japanese at the very end?

MISSED CHANCES

Owen says there might well have been a chance, about a month before Singapore fell, the Allied forces to strike a smashing blow at the Japanese.

"It might well have been so—if strategic intelligent action had been taken at topmost service levels to tackle the problem.

"It was not."

He sums up the whole story as one "of muddle, misfortune—and of many a culpable mistake. But also of devotion to duty, of heroism and of self-sacrifice."

Source Says Govt. Will Not Break CCF Filibuster on Divorce Bills This Session

OTTAWA (CP) — A highly-placed source says the government intends neither to break the current CCF filibuster in the Commons against parliamentary divorce bills nor to propose any new way of dealing with them.

After considering all possible alternatives, the government has decided it should do nothing to make it any easier for Parliament to deal with individual cases coming to it from those provinces which do not have divorce courts, Quebec and Newfoundland.

Any other system, the government is convinced, would tend to make divorce easier in those provinces which, by long-standing practice and deep religious conviction, refuse to recognize divorce.

CHURCH, POLITICAL SUPPORT

The source said that this conviction is supported not only by the political leaders of those provinces, but by the church leaders of more than one denomination.

More than 300 divorce bills now await action in the Commons. Time for discussing them is limited to one hour on Tuesdays and Fridays. Seven bills have passed through the CCF blockade since March 31.

The CCF campaign to force the Commons into finding some other way of handling divorce bills is a long-standing one.

The late J. S. Woodsworth, founder of the CCF party, almost single - handedly forced Ontario into establishing divorce courts in the 1930s by similar blockading tactics.

HOW THEY'RE HANDLED

Divorce actions from Quebec and Newfoundland are initiated by petition to Parliament by the aggrieved party. The Senate divorce committee, broken into several subcommittees, hears evidence under rules almost as strict as regular court rules. Bills passed by the Senate are sent to the Commons for concurrence.

The principal objection raised by CCF members to parliamentary divorces is that the federal Parliament has no power to require that the children of divorced couples be provided for. This is a matter of property and civil rights, strictly reserved for provincial jurisdiction by the British North America Act.

In recent years, the Senate has sought to have a provincial judicial separation order, providing for the children, precede consideration of a parliamentary divorce. But Parliament has no power to enforce this condition.

Jesuits Build Pretty Villa In Colorful Haitian Hills

By BERNARD DIEDERICH

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (CP) —Villa Manresa, a pastel-colored concrete building tucked in the green hills of Haiti with a commanding view of Port-au-Prince, is the latest gift to this Caribbean island republic by Canadian Jesuits.

"I walked in the hills of Haiti for five months to find the right location," said Rev. Antonio Poulin, designer and now rector of the Roman Catholic retreat, first in the country, built in less than two years and opened last Nov. 20.

Two retreats are held weekly at the villa during 10 months of each year. Since it was opened more than 1,300 people have retreated behind its walls for three days of meditation and prayer.

"The time passes so quickly that people generally want to stay an extra two or three days," said Father Poulin, a native of Notre Dame des Pins, Que., who came to Haiti in 1953.

"There are many people who express the wish to come back for a second time in the same year but our problem is finding room for everyone and at present we have a lengthy waiting list of Haitian people wishing to enter in retreat." Five dollars is charged for the three-day stay.

ALUMINUM CROSS

The villa, surmounted by a gleaming aluminum cross, is a few hundred yards up in the hills from the Grand Seminar, where Haitians are trained for the priesthood by the Canadian Jesuits. 14 of whom now are serving in the French-speaking and predominantly Catholic country.

The Jesuits first came to Haiti in the 18th century, bringing with them what is today the republic's top export—coffee. Some 10 Jesuits are buried here.

Other Canadians of the order serving at the villa are Fathers Elaise Turcotti of Huberdeau, Que., former chaplain of the Canadian navy cadets, and Bruno Duplessis of Montreal, and Brothers Eloberg Desjagues of Ste. Donat de Rimouski, Que., and Emile Dupuis of Jonquiere, Que.

Villa Manresa, which takes its name from the little town in Spain near a grotto where the founder of the Jesuits, St. Ignatius Loyola, spent some time in writing and meditation, was planned and built by the Jesuits and 125 Haitian workmen.

SKILLED IN TRADES

All the Jesuits at the villa are skilled in trades and they installed electrical fittings, plumbing and kitchen equipment themselves.

Each of the four floors has wide tiled verandas and high ceilings. The approach to the 2,000 entrance is up a long sharply ascending flight of wide steps flanked by gardens.

"There is nothing but rooms and more rooms here," said Father Duplessis. There are 66 rooms, furnished simply with beds, tables and chairs, for those in retreat and 15 others for the staff.

MADE IN CANADA

The aluminum sinks, table tops and warming cupboards were made in Canada by brothers of the order.

Three huge tanks, also built in Canada, catch all the rain from the roof and provide water for washing in a modern laundry.

The big kitchen is staffed by nuns from the Sisters of Charity order of St. Louis, Que.

On the second floor is a chapel with mauve tinted shades on its windows, used by those in retreat. The priests have a meeting room, library, chapel and printing shop.

Gordon Juckes Named Manager Of Hockey Assoc.

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Gordon Juckes of Melville, Sask., a weekly newspaper publisher, Tuesday was named secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Juckes, 45, defeated two other candidates on a first ballot at the CAHA's special executive meeting here. He succeeds the late George Dudley of Midland, Ont., who held the post since 1943. Mr. Dudley died May 8 of a heart attack.

Defeated candidates were Robert Alexander, 49, of Winnipeg and William Hanley, 41, of Toronto. Bob LeBel of Chambly Que., and Jack Christie of Toronto withdrew.

Juckes, also president of the CAHA, will resign that post later this week when the CAHA elects new officers. He had a year to run on a two-year term.

The meeting also agreed to combine the duties of the secretary-manager with that of registrar-treasurer. However, this is not expected to take place for a year when W. A. Hewitt, veteran registrar-treasurer, will retire.

'No Show' Is Top Problem Of North American Airlines

By GERRY McNEIL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) —The man in the business suit doesn't know whether his meeting will end at four or six. Perhaps it will drag until eight.

So he tells his secretary to reserve him a seat on each Montreal-Toronto flight that evening.

The meeting ends at seven. The businessman catches the new flight. He has missed three earlier ones. And so have other people who wanted to leave Toronto for Montreal that night but couldn't get space.

"The secretary never bothers to cancel the other reservations," says Bea Allison, trim, expert travel adviser for Trans-Canada Air Lines. "Our flights each leave with an empty seat that night, except for the one the executive does use."

NO-SHOW PROBLEM

This is the problem of the "no-show" — the passenger who makes a reservation and doesn't show up for the flight and doesn't bother to cancel his ticket in advance. About the only thing he does is collect a refund for the unused ticket.

In one week in March, passengers who missed transatlantic flights without cancelling their reservations cost TCA $1,063.

"And that isn't where we have the problem," says Miss Allison. "It's most acute on popular intercity flights at peak hours."

The no-show is conspicuous by his absence on Halifax-Boston or Edmonton-Calgary flights. He's especially not seen on the busy Montreal-New York runs.

Miss Allison feels passenger education might whittle down that figure in future. She also places some of the blame on the airlines, themselves.

"Sometimes a passenger will get an advance refund on his ticket and the agency doesn't notify us," she explains.

That means we hold the reservation and the flight takes off with the empty seat."

She frowns on penalty charges as poor public relations.

"They just wouldn't work."

Some United States airlines tried to charge a percentage of the fare on a missed flight but gave it up as an impossible task.

"It was the passenger's word against the airlines'," said Miss Allison. "The passengers simply said they had cancelled their reservation by phone.

"It was a case of believe them or call them liars."

European airlines, where the profit margins of a flight may be slimmer than in North America, aren't so careful about the feelings of the passengers.

Some European lines charge the full fare if the passenger misses his flight without advance cancellation. And even though he cancels his reservation, he may have to pay 15 per cent of the fare if the seat isn't re-sold.

AIRLINE ADVISER

Bea Allison, travel adviser for Trans-Canada Air Lines, says airlines lose millions of dollars annually because of passengers who make reservations and then fail to show up at flight time. She rates the "no-show" as the top problem for North American companies. Miss Allison believes passenger education may ease the problem in future. (CP Photo).

Liberals, CCF Argue Daley Negligent in Land Purchase But No Fraud Involved

TORONTO (CP)—There was no evidence of collusion, corruption or fraud in Labor Minister Daley's purchase of former Niagara Parks Commission land, counsel for the Liberal and CCF parties agreed in argument Tuesday before the royal commission investigating the transaction.

Both counsel submitted, however, that the minister had been grossly negligent and careless as a parks commissioner when he bought the property in 1948 from St. Catharines millionaire Arthur Schmon, president of Ontario Paper Company.

Ontario CCF Leader Donald MacDonald Tuesday night said minister Frost of trying to cover up facts. The premier earlier in the day leased a letter in which he refused Mr. MacDonald's request for wiidening of the terms of reference of the royal commission. Mr. MacDonald wanted the royal commission to hear evidence from parks commission employees about gardening and carpentry alleged to have been done on Mr. Daley property.

Mr. Frost wrote that the royal commission had referred to it only with matters originally referred to the legislature's committee on privileges. The commission was set up because the committee was not unanimous in exonerating Mr. Daley.

Mr. MacDonald in a statement to the press said he had tried to raise additional matters before the committee but was ruled out of order.

In argument before the royal commissioner, Judge Ian Macdonell, Elmer Sopha, a lawyer and Liberal member of the legislature for Sudbury, submitted that the NPC's purchase of the property in 1945 contravened the Ni-tup agara Parks Act, which requires cabinet approval for acquisition of land.

Mr. Sopha also argued that the NPC's sale of the land in 1945 was illegal, for the Public Works Act requires cabinet approval for the sale of public lands.

The judge heard evidence that the NPC obtained retroactive approval by cabinet and council in 1951 for previous land sales and acquisitions, but said this did not pertain to the present hearings.

The NPC was also accused by Mr. Sopha of failing to learn the contents of the Niagara Parks Act. He said the commissioners since 1944 had been "playing by ear."

He said Mr. Schmon enjoyed a measure of prestige which led to his being favored as a buyer of the land.

CCF counsel Andrew Brewin said Mr. Daley was "gravely indicted" in his purchase of the land from Mr. Schmon.

Both counsel argued that a former commissioner, the late W. B. Rollason, acted as real estate agent for Mr. Schmon. Mr. Daley was aware of this, said Mr. Brewin.

Referring to the testimony of George Inglis, former commissioner of parks for the City of Niagara Falls, T. G. Spencer, parks commissioner solicitor, said some of the evidence before the commission should not be regarded too highly.

Mr. A. Seymour, representing Mr. Schmon, said it had not been established whether Mr. Schmon or Mr. Rollason inquired about the land or had been advised by Mr. Rollason that it was for sale. If Mr. Schmon had inquired about it many people in the Niagara area would have "considered surplus by the NPC."

Mr. Daley's counsel was to sum up Wednesday.

Non-op Workers Express Doubts About Value

MONTREAL (CP)—The chairman of a three-man conciliation board hearing a wage dispute between Canada's railways and their 120,000 non-operating employees expressed serious doubts Tuesday about the value of a major piece of railway evidence.

The evidence is a study done by Woods, Gordon and Co., a private consulting firm, comparing the wages of the non-ops with similar workers in outside industries.

Scheduled to be presented today, the Woods, Gordon report is the most important argument in the railways' thesis that the non-ops are already adequately paid.

When conciliation hearings resumed Tuesday after a four-day adjournment, a railway spokesman told union questioners that none of the sources of information presented in the survey would be available since the outside industries surveyed had been promised it was confidential.

PROOF IMPORTANT—

Mr. Justice J. V. H. Milvain, chairman of the board, said evidence presented before the conciliation board had weight only in accordance with how well it was proved.

If they (Woods, Gordon) do not disclose the source of their information then naturally the evidence is weakened, there is no question of that."

Dr. Jack Weldon, a McGill University economist and the board's other chief adviser, who had been given a copy of the report by the railways, said it is impossible for the unions to assess the report unless they could see the working papers.—

Teamsters Union Out of CLC Automatically on Saturday Unless It Abides by Rules

OTTAWA (CP) — The 40,000-member Teamsters brotherhood will be automatically ousted from the Canadian Labor Congress this Saturday unless it agrees to live up to the CLC no-raiding rule.

The Teamsters Union was given until May 28 to abide by the congress constitution which forbids unions to raid each other's membership ranks.

So far a CLC spokesman said Tuesday, the Teamsters brotherhood has remained mum—doing nothing about the CLC executive order issued last month in Montreal by the CLC biennial convention.

The Teamsters were found guilty of raiding the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks which represents workers in the CPR's new merchandise service at Vancouver.

I. M. (Casey) Dodds of Toronto, the Teamsters' Canadian director, forced the international executive to the convention floor when his compromise settlement was turned down by the CLC's executive council.

He had rejected a CLC pledge to protect the proper jurisdiction of the Teamsters Union in any future conflict between the Teamsters and the Railway Clerks. The CPR's merchandise service, which integrates road, rail and sea transport, may eventually expand across Canada, thus promising new areas of conflict between the rival unions.

If the CLC boots out the Teamsters Union, an alliance of the Teamsters and Seafarers' International Union is expected, linking the Teamsters with the Great Lakes with the powerful truck driver's brotherhood.

The SIU, headed in Canada by Hal C. Banks of Montreal, was expelled by the congress at the Montreal convention. It was also found guilty of raiding a rival union—the smaller Association of Marine Engineers which has been merged with the Busky Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers.

Gaitskell Likely to Mend Defence Policy of Party

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Judicious use of an unexpected supply of plaster of Paris may yet enable Hugh Gaitskell to heal the crumbling defence policy of Britain's Labor party.

Before Nikita Khrushchev staged his surgery without peer the summit talks in the French capital last week, a mounting tide of opposition was sweeping through Labor's rank and file and beginning to lap around the foundations of Gaitskell's party leadership.

The normal minority group of party members who are partial to long and deeply - held convictions had been swelled by Gaitskell's involvement in the defence crisis that arose when the government abandoned the Blue Streak missile program and demolished Britain's capacity to deliver a nuclear blow.

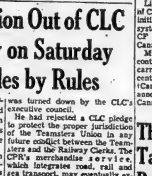
At the head of the opposition, Gaitskell was prevented from capitalizing on the rebellion of fusion in government ranks because his own forces were in almost equal disarray.

Gaitskell himself had strongly supported an independent British nuclear deterrent. A powerful group of Labor MPs had backed it as strategically and financially impracticable, backed by the pacifists who wanted Britain to have nothing whatever to do with nuclear weapons.

With the collapse of Gaitskell's position as a result of the scrapping of the Blue Streak, the issues became blurred. Making the most of their opportunity, the pacifists succeeded in winning substantial support for unilateral nuclear disarmament from the trade unions, traditionally the strongest supporters of the party leadership.

The unlikely alliance of economy - minded unionists, highbrow idealists and ill - informed leftists was born in an anything.

atmosphere of improved East-West relations, when Khrushchev was amiably touring the corn fields of Iowa and chatting glasses with it visiting United States legislators at the Kremlin.



His abrupt return in Paris to the language and attitudes of the cold war shattered the makeshift unity - Gaitskell coalition at a stroke. The left wing of the party leader who was prompt to exploit his windfall.

He lost no time in launching a hard - hitting campaign against the advocates of unilateral disarmament and Britain's withdrawal from the NATO alliance. His first audience, the National Union of General and Municipal Workers, resoundingly supported him.

Gaitskell still was faced with the task of supplying his party with a workable defence policy. A problem he shared with Prime Minister Macmillan. But, with Khrushchev's help, his rout of the unilateralists has given him a sorely-needed breathing space.

U.S. 'Spy' Satellite Ready To Try Detecting Missiles

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —An experimental American "spy" satellite "whirled about the earth every 90 minutes today, ready to test its missile-detection equipment on giant flares and friendly rockets.

The Midas, weighing 2½ tons, will attempt the feasibility of using a series of such satellites to detect the launch of enemy missiles. These orbiting early-warning stations will use infra-red sensing devices to detect the heat trail of a hostile missile the instant it lifts off.

The test vehicle was launched Tuesday into a near-circular orbit 2,000 miles high. Air Force officials reported its path was "very close" to the original apogee of 322 miles in a perigee of 282.1 miles. They said its radio and other key functions worked perfectly and that it performed as planned. Its path of 91 minutes 40 seconds was always in pointed at the earth.

TEST TO START SOON

The mammoth satellite, 22 feet long and five feet in diameter, will undergo its first test in space for the first time on huge sodium flares to be ignited by rockets.

The first flare will be fired within a few days, at a time when the satellite is over Canada.

Midas also will try to pick up the sodium flares when Hawaii and California bases during its 14th orbit, and on the next three or four weeks. It probably will remain in orbit about three years.

The scientists say the difficulty is different between rockets and other man-producing sources on the earth.

NOT CROSSING RUSSIA

The satellite is following a course that covers all territory 28 degrees north and south of the equator. That it does not pass over Russia. However, by the end of the year, advanced Midas and the first Samos reconnaissance satellite are expected to be spinning in polar orbits that will take them over the Soviet Union.

By 1961, officials say, a total of eight of these "spies in the sky" are to be slated to provide complete and constant scanning of the earth's surface. Samos will photograph the Soviet Union's military movements, war plants, airfields and missile bases.

CONTEST PLANNED

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An insurance company went to court Tuesday seeking cancellation of a $100,000 policy on the life of the late Mrs. Betty Lanza. The United Central Life Insurance Company contends the widow of singer Mario Lanza concealed diseases or ailments at the time the policy was issued a year ago. Mrs. Lanza, 37, died June 31. Her husband died last October in Rome.

Hospital Assoc. Refuses Certain Govt. Grants

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Hospital Association is unwilling to accept certain government grants because they may lead to political interference in hospitals, the CHA was told Tuesday night.

J. E. Robinson of Winnipeg, vice-chairman of the Canadian Council on Hospital Accreditation, said the council, short of the $80,000 necessary for its accreditation program, went to the federal government for money. The government granted the payments, made through the provinces, he said.

Although the council needs the $31,000, there is not sufficient assurance of freedom from provincial interference to justify acceptance in the manner proposed by Ottawa, he said.

The council's board of directors has recommended against any direct federal aid only.

The final five seats on the 12 - member council which sets standards for Canada's hospitals, Mr. Robinson said the federal government was approached for a grant because of the large number of hospitals being surveyed and the difficulty of raising funds.

Dr. A. D. Kelly, general secretary of the Canadian Medical Association, said the council should seek public funds only when public benefits from high hospital standards.

TORONTO (CP) — James Kilner, 75, died Tuesday of injuries suffered May 3 when struck by a car in West Toronto.

Born in Port Elgin, Kilner had lived here 43 years, working as a taxi driver three years ago.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) Clarence Dally, a pioneer in X-rays for cancer, died Tuesday at 78, was a pioneer on the use of x-rays to fight cancer. He wrote more than 150 papers on radiology and surgery and was honored for his research by a dozen countries.

RCAF Making Certain Planes Do Not Stray

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF is making as certain as it can that pilots of the new supersonic CF-104 strike-reconnaissance plane to be based in Europe do not stray across the Iron Curtain.

This delicate matter will be even more sensitive when the CF-104 goes into service with the RCAF air division in Europe because the plane has only one navigator armament. The plane is a giant going into squadron service in late 1962.

Informants say there have been a few occasions when Sabre jet interceptors have thought to have inadvertently crossed into Communist territory for a few seconds. The RCAF bases are only 10 to 15 minutes flying time from the Iron Curtain.

USE NEW SYSTEM

Such a possibility in future will be almost totally eliminated by adoption of a new navigation system for the CF-104. It will cost a maximum of $25,200,000.

RCAF spokesman said Tuesday that the system, inertial navigation guidance, is completely automatic and will control every human error, invulnerable to enemy jamming devices and ground facilities such as radio or radar. There will be no signals which might lead to enemy detection.

Litton Engineering Laboratories of California has been awarded an initial $3,000,000 contract for the system to be installed in the 200 CF-104s being assembled in Canadair Limited, Montreal.

Much of the subsequent contracts with Litton may be carried out in Canada, as recently acquired Servomechanisms (Canada) Limited, Rexdale, Ont., has announced it will expand its Canadian operations.

Think Eichmann Taken to Israel By Secret Agents

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli lawyers for Adolf Eichmann are still excitedly discussing the news that Adolf Eichmann has been captured and is being held in Israel to face trial.

The former Hitler official's trial is expected to take place in several months in Jerusalem.

The Israeli government is expected to ask the death penalty for the 54-year-old war criminal who ordered millions of Jews executed during the Nazi era.

The place and circumstances of his arrest are being kept secret and so are the whereabouts of his wife and children. It was believed they had been transferred him in a foreign country and spirited him to Israel.

NO ARRAIGNMENT

Police said Eichmann "is perfectly composed, shows no signs of nervousness and is unperturbed at the fair treatment he's receiving at his hands in Israeli prisons is kosher, Eichmann is eating kosher prepared food in accordance with dietary laws.

Israeli Premier Pinhas Rosen received a cable Tuesday night from Robert Kempner of New York, who served under U.S. prosecutor at the Nuremberg trials, of the Jewish Israeli who is the large number of hitherto-unpublished documents concerning Nazi war crimes.

Reports from Bonn said the West German government would like to try Eichmann. A government spokesman said that Germany is glad that Israel prepare his trial it asked.

Died of Poisoning

TORONTO (CP)—Andrew Desmembly, 40, of Toronto, died Monday night in his father's car from accidental carbon monoxide asphyxiation, an autop y showed Tuesday.

After driving from Pickering, his father, John, and six-year-old sister arrived at their home before Andrew sleeping in the car. Then the man later his father found him dead.

SATELLITE BURNED

BEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—Air force space scientists said Tuesday that the Russian satellite Lunik III which took pictures of the moon and then went into an earth orbit has apparently burned up. The national space surveillance control center in Bedford said calculations indicate the satellite reentered the denser part of the earth's atmosphere about May 20. The Russians launched the satellite Oct. 4, 1959.

Credits in Industrial Pension Funds Should Be Portable Argument Advanced in House

OTTAWA (CP) — Government and opposition MPs made strong pleas in the Commons Tuesday night for measures to enable employees to transfer credits in industrial pension funds if they change jobs.

Several members said transferable industrial pensions on a national scale would remove financial and security handicaps for employees.

Finance Minister Fleming reiterated the government stand that the matter is primarily provincial. The only federal control was exercised through the Income Tax Act, which gave exemptions to employers and employees contributing to industrial pension funds.

The matter was raised as a grievance by Dr. J. M. McMillan (L—Wellland), , d. W. Howard (CC—Kootenay West) and Hazen Argue (CC—Assiniboia).

MONETARY LOSS

Under most industrial pension plans, Mr. McMillan said, an employee has no right to the contributions made on his behalf by the employer if the employee leaves before the plan matures. Existence of such pension credits such as radio or radar, could mean the loss of that money.

Sometimes men were kept pinned to jobs because they feared to lose the pension they were faced with a loss of security. This made it more and more difficult to get work because most pensions mature only after 20 or 25 years.

Mr. McMillan agreed with Mr. Herridge that there should be uniformity across the country, provided through the Income Tax Act.

Mr. Herridge referred to representations from the Canadian Conference of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.).

Mr. Fleming said the question remains under study. He noted that Ontario has a legislature committee studying the matter.

Mr. Bonland disagreed with Mr. Fleming's view that the matter is of provincial concern. The federal government had some responsibility in seeing that pension plans were portable.

Lawrence E. Kindt (PC—Macdonald) said it was time to act on them where the worker can shift from one pension interest.

C. W. Carter (L—Burin-Burgeo) said the federal Income Tax Act did not discriminate in its tax exemptions ensuring such a system.

Harry Peters (CC—Hamilton Wentworth) said that in some cases employees don't want pension plans because they are tied to one job unless they forfeit the right to their own contributions.

As such employees got older, the employer obtained correspondingly greater control over them.

He said Mr. Fleming stated around the problem in stating this was a provincial responsibility.

Canada Gaining In Exchange Of Engineers

WINNIPEG (CP)—More American engineers move to Canada than this country loses to the United States, a past president of the Engineering Institute of Canada said Tuesday.

"From the last figures available," K. F. Tupper of Toronto said at a press conference, "more lost about one engineering graduate in 10 to the United States, but about twice that number came to Canada both from the United States and Europe".

Mr. Tupper is a member of EIC's education committee, said no national shortages develop in engineering faculties. There may be a shortage of metallurgical engineers but this would be temporary and could stimulate training in that specialty.

Mr. Tupper commented favorably on the engineering school at Waterloo College in Waterloo, Ontario, where after months of classes with four months of working.

Mr. Tupper said "the main benefit of this plan is that it gives a student to earn enough money for his education."

He said the calibre of engineers from such a school is not necessarily lighter than graduates from other engineering schools because the students may be doing menial factory work.

Brooks Atkinson Retiring As Reviewer But Not Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Brooks Atkinson, dean of Broadway drama critics, retires next month from the newspapers' ranks, but not from writing.

"I'm really interested in newspapers, that's what really interests me," says the man whose reviews have been read nationally by chance just 35 years ago.

Atkinson, 63, is continuing as a member of the staff of the New York Times. He will write several articles a week on a wide assortment of topics.

Succeeding as drama critic will be Howard Taubman, previously music critic for The Times.

Atkinson, grabbed by the growing depression of the theatrical influence, has been widely praised by everyone from star to stagehand.

"Critics have some influence, but I'm sure no one knows what it is," Atkinson said. "Certainly it isn't any ability to make or break a show.

The slender man from The Times has written more than 3,000 play premieres (he was fired from the theatre in 1943-45 as a foreign correspondent). After each he has hurried to his desk to write the comments—in pencil on yellow copy paper—which subsequently suffused producers with joy or anguish.

"Difference of opinion about a play is healthy," he said, speaking before the annual convention of the German society of rocket engineers and space travel, did not say when the moon satellite would be launched.

Seven Basic Plots Given For Good Western Series

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Gruber, writer of westerns and currently producer of Shotgun Slade, once made a list of the seven basic plots for the western. They are:

The marshal story—Exploits of the dedicated law man.

The Union Pacific story—Bringing transportation or communications to the West.

TITLE IS TIP-OFF

The western flavor is so standardized that most of us veteran TV watchers can tell what kind of a show it will be just from the title: Bronco, Wanted Dead or Alive, Gunsmoke, Overland Trail.

Western heroes have names that usually sound western, wonder if Bat Masterson really would have made gunslinging history if his name had been with work of legal aid societies.

Stanley F. Sturtevant? And I suspect that Wyatt Earp's toughest fight was getting his name accepted.

UNLIKELY NAME

What I'm worrying about today is the name of the hero of a forthcoming NBC cat-hunter, The Lone Westerner, which starts this fall.

Maybe the writers just don't know about fitting western names: They are Samuel Peckinpah, Cyril Hume and Reuce Gelien—not a fast gun's name among them.

First Showings
"The Sword And The Cross"

"The Sword and The Cross," a lavish spectacle in Cinetelascope and Color opening at the air conditioned Park Theatre Thursday presents with chilling accuracy the persecution of the early Christians by the Romans. In fact, one scene shows the mass crucifixion of the Christian martyrs has never before been shown in films. One sees the Christians, lead by Paul, brought out to the hills of Tarsus and chained to massive crosses. While the hills erupt with flames, the pagan citizens are entertained by the suffering Christians.

A Valiant Films Release, "The Sword and The Cross" stars Marisa Allasio as the beautiful Martha, Christian maiden saved by the Romans. Her gentleness, beauty and faith bring her true love and protection of the celebrated Roman warrior Marcus Valerius, played by Jorge Mistral. Gianna Maria Canale, the statuesque Italian beauty who starred in "Theodora, Slave Empress," is cast in the proud and vengeful daughter of the Proconsul, Ruben Rojo and Luigi Pavese appear as the ambitious schemers who use the Christians as scapegoats to cover their crimes and corruption. Although "The Sword and The Cross" is a sweeping spectacle, it also takes a close and intimate look at the intrigue and violence of the officials ruling the conquered provinces far from Rome who prove that absolute power corrupts absolutely.

In addition to a mighty cast, "The Sword and The Cross" has opulent settings, fabulous costumes and an abundance of horses and chariots. The amount of research that went into this production is apparent as scene after scene unfold with the look and sound of authenticity. Especially memorable are the exciting scenes in the slave market, the orgy in the Roman court, the battle in the Roman arenas, the wild flight in the chariot and, of course, the unforgettable and tense scene of the pagan crucifixion.

On the same family program, the screen opens its heart for the great human adventure of a boy and his dog. Suspense and heart warming drama, as a runaway boy and his running-wild dog join forces in a breathless flight from terror. "A Dog's Best Friend" stars Bill Henderson and Marcia Henderson.

Dark Horse May Go to Derby Post

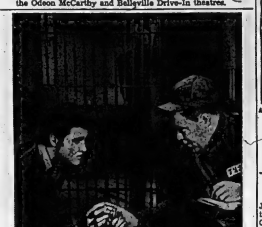
By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A gallop over a Berkshire training ground this week is expected to decide whether the dark horse of the Derby goes to the post in the 181st running of Britain's Blue Riband race.

The unknown quantity is Marango, a Provencellon colt owned by Canadian-born Mal Herbert Holt. Marengo suffered a bruised hock last week and a workout Thursday morning will determine whether he stays in the June 1 race.

Marengo now is at 16 to 1. The 70-year-old Holt, who went from Montreal but has lived in Britain or The Bahamas since 1910, says the colt is the best he has ever bred.

Unraced at two, Marengo placed third in the first race of his life this spring. Then he came into the Derby picture with a bang, coming from dead last to win a 14-mile race at Sandown a month ago.



Marengo is one of two British-bred hopes among top candidates for next week's Derby. The other is Sir Paddy, owned by Sir Victor Sassoon who has won the race three times in the last six renewals. Angers, owned by the Strassburger family of Paris, is a firm favorite at 100 to 30 but some say Sir Paddy, now 5 to 1, will supplant him as favorite when the big money goes down.

One of the chief challengers from Ireland, Lustrous Hope, is owned by Max Bell of Calgary.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Tony Randall and Wilfred Hyde White were driving toward Gene Autry's Melody Ranch recently when Randall (wanderlust): Oh dear, I have a film today, I think. Something like "What a life!"

White (soothingly): Never up, old boy. If you need help with it, call on me.

Randall: Do you have any lines today?

White: Heavens, no. I haven't had a line in a fortnight.

Such grim humor has helped keep a hardy band of male performers from blowing their top in the last six months. They are engaged in supporting Marilyn Monroe in one of the weirdest film projects in history.

GREGORY PECK WITHDREW

First, Gregory Peck was supposed to play the lead, but dropped out. Then there was a search for another star, with Wrenchman Ives Montand winning out. Once there was the actors' strike. Then there is Marilyn.

On a recent day Marilyn was scheduled to arrive at 10:30, came at 3, did her first scene at 4:34. A film that was scheduled for 63 days will take six months.

"Nothing ever goes as it is scheduled," says director George Cukor cheerfully. But the actors . . .

JAPANESE TRIP OFF

Montand was under the gun to fulfill a concert date in Japan. Marilyn's pregnancy apparent he could not make it, the Japanese promoters were paid off.

"The studio paid them the full amount—$120,000," he said. "In return, I had to give the studio another commitment, to make a film in 1961."

Less fortunate was Frankie Vaughan, Dellke color actors who get weekly salaries, the British entertainer is drawing a flat fee for the picture. He has had to pass up thousands of pounds for engagements at home, where he is a hot ticket.

"It has sometimes been difficult to keep from going mad," said Randall, putting down a novel. "I try to read, but it is hard to do on a movie set. Sometimes I sneak off and do television shows."

You Could Hear the Bat Swish As the Babe Swung, Missed

CHICAGO (AP)—Babe Ruth hit his 714th—and last—home run a quarter of a century ago today.

Guy Bush still can hear it whistling out of Pittsburgh's Forbes Field. He threw Babe his last homer.

"I remember it all just like it was yesterday," said Bush, a wiry 54 - year - old Chicago sporting goods salesman who was a 20-game winner for the Chicago Cubs in 1933.

"The Bambino (he was with the Boston Braves then) worked me for a 3 and 1 count. My catcher, Tommy Padden, called for a fast ball.

"The fast one was about knee high. As soon as Babe swung, I knew it was gone. It sailed over the right field roof. Never saw a ball hit that hard before or since.

"The Babe was 40 and on the beefy side in those days. To me he always will remain the most powerful hitter of all time. He's the man I ever faced whose swish of the bat could be heard all the way to the mound when he missed a ball.

"I was always afraid in the few times I faced him that he would slam one back through the box and kill me."

Ruth hit three homers that day in Forbes Field. He got his 712th off Red Lucas in the first inning. He got No. 713 off Bush in the third. His last homer came in the seventh.

Eight days later the Bambino called it quits after terrorizing pitchers for 22 years.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Nominations for 11 stakes races to be run during the summer meeting at New Woodbine close at midnight tonight. Woodbine's 35-day meeting opens June 4 and continues to July 16.

Purses of $736,600 will be distributed.

Nominations already have closed for the three major events. The $50,000 Queen's Plate, the $10,000 Woodbine Oaks and the $10,000 Canadian Maturity Stakes.

The 101st annual running of the Queen's Plate, scheduled for June 11, will have a gross purse of more than $90,000.

Memorial Cup Outdrew Big Brother Allan

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—Memorial Cup playoffs in 1959 outdrew Allan Cup playoffs by $47,631, it was disclosed Tuesday in the annual financial statement of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

W. G. Hewitt of Toronto, registrar-treasurer, told the annual meeting hat the national organization received more than four times as much operating profit from junior competition as it did from senior competition during 1959.

In 33 Memorial Cup games, the CAHA recorded a $45,487 surplus as compared to $10,494 for 29 Allan Cup contests. Gate receipts for the junior games, before expenses, were $95,528 while Allan Cup gate receipts were $39,896.

In the seven-game 1959 Memorial Cup finals between Peterborough and Winnipeg Braves $28,-124 in gate receipts were recorded, giving the CAHA a $20,-954 surplus.

Best-drawing Allan Cup series in 1959 was the final between Whitby Dunlops and Vernon Canadiens which had $11,884 in gate receipts. The CAHA had a $2,568 profit on the five - game series, played in smaller rinks than the Memorial Cup final.

The CAHA lost $1,005 on the Hull Legion-Miramichi Beavers eastern Allan Cup quarter-finals in 1958.

Hartack Denies Trainer Was Not Satisfied

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Bill Hartack said Tuesday reports of trainer Vic Sovinski's displeasure over the way the jockey handled Venetian Way in the Preakness is news to him.

"I had dinner with him Saturday night and he never mentioned anything about the way I rode the colt," said Hartack.

The controversial jockey, currently riding at Garden State Park, said "I rode him just the way Vic told me to ride him. He told me to lay second or third in the early part of it and that's exactly what I did."

Garden State Park reported Tuesday Hartack would ride Celtic Ash in the Jersey Derby Memorial Day. A spokesman said trainer Tom Barry, Hartack and his agent, Howard Pelzaso, had reached agreement.

RESPECTABLE FIELD

Venetian Way, Bally Ache, Tompion and Bourbon Prince, four of the first five Kentucky Derby finishers, are slated to run in the Jersey.

Sovinski criticized Hartack after Venetian Way finished third in a six-horse Preakness field. Bally Ache won.

The trainer said Hartack should have forced the pace. Hartack is reported to have said Venetian Way was sore. The jockey implied something else was wrong but refused to elaborate.

Hartack's statements led to reports Venetian Way had been administered a pain-deadening drug for a knee-cap collision before the Kentucky Derby, legal in Kentucky, but not before the Preakness in Maryland where such a drug is illegal. It also is outlawed in New Jersey. Sovinski denied that such a drug ever had been given to the horse.

Jose Becerra Is Named Fighter of Month

NEW YORK (AP) — Bantamweight champion Jose Becerra's victory over Japan's Kenji Yonekura in a title defence in Tokyo has earned him "fighter of the month" honors from Ring magazine.

The Mexican won a split decision over Yonekura Monday. Yonekura was listed as the No. 1 contender in the latest ring ratings, released today. Listed ahead of him are Friday's opponent Halimi, the former champion, and Brazil's Eder Jofre.

In the biggest upset of the last month, Hank Casey of Richmond, Calif., whipped Henry Hank of Detroit, and gained a place in the middleweight top 10. Casey was moved into the No. 8 spot, replacing inactive Carmen Basilio. Hank dropped to fifth from fourth.

Former welterweight champion Virgil Akins of Los Angeles regained a ranking on the strength of his victory over Charley Scott, of Philadelphia. Akins was given the ninth spot and Scott was demoted to eighth from ninth.

No Canadians were listed.

Drivers Arrive For Big Race

TORONTO (CP)—Drivers and cars began arriving today for Canada's first auto race on international status.

FIA sanction does not give the Canadian event world championship status but places it on the international racing calendar. Only two other North American races—the United States Grand Prix at Sebring, Fla., and the Indianapolis 500—have been FIA sanctioned.

CRDA president Tom Gilmour said Tuesday the entry list has climbed to 36—about half from the U.S.—and includes some of the most potent sports racing machinery currently in action.

Among top drivers is Belgium ace Olivier Gendebien, two-time Sebring winner, His car, an ISO-60 Porsche, is being brought from Florida.

Cumulative times in the race being run in three heats of 100 kilometres each will count toward the $6,000 purse, believed the richest ever offered in a Canadian sports car event.

Harness Racing

NEW YORK (CP) — Champ Volo and Mighty Dudley were the pacers selected Tuesday to represent Canada in the $150,000 Interbreed international pacing series at Yonkers Raceway June 2, 9 and 23.

Nellie Fox Plays 700 in Row, Has Missed Pair Since 1951

CHICAGO (AP)—You can have your flag-pole perchers, but for raw endurance, give us Nellie Fox.

Fox, last season's most valuable player in the American League, has missed only two games since 1951.

Baltimore manager Paul Richards remembers his benching attempt with Fox when he was piloting the Sox in 1951.

"Nellie needed a rest and I ordered him benched for his own sake," recalled Richard. "The next thing I knew, there was Fox dashing around the outfield under fly balls during pre-game batting practice. Finally, I got him to the dugout. I hid his glove.

During the game, Nellie was jumping up and down like the bench was a hot seat. One game of this bench-jockeying stuff was enough—Fox wasn't getting any rest and he was driving the rest of us crazy. I put him back in the lineup the next day."

Fox was given another rest by then Sox skipper Marty Marion on Aug. 5, 1955. That was the last time an attempt was made to corral him in the dugout—709 games ago. If that hadn't happened, Fox, 32, would have a string of 974 games.

Long gone is the record by a second baseman of 477 games, set by Eddie Collins of the White Sox in 1914-1917. The all-time record for any player is the 2,130 games by Lou Gehrig.

Name Soccer Pairing for Rome Games

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP)—Yugoslavia and Bulgaria, record and third in soccer at the Melbourne Olympics, were placed Tuesday in the same section of the competition that will determine the winner at the Rome Games this summer.

Only the winner of each section's round-robin moves into the Olympic final round. Turkey and the United Arab Republic are in the same grouping with the two favorites.

Pairings in the three other divisions:

Italy, Great Britain, Brazil and Formosa.

Poland, Denmark, Argentina, Tunisia.

France, Hungary Peru and India.

Ex-Sports Editor New President Hockey Barons

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ed Bang, 40, sports editor of the Cleveland News until its sale earlier this year, Tuesday was named president of the American Hockey League Cleveland Barons.

Bang, who became sports editor of The News in 1957, is generally considered the dean of America's sportswriters. He helped found the Baseball Writers Association of America and holds the No. 1 membership card of that organization.

Born in Sandusky, Ohio, he came to The News from Youngstown as a baseball writer in 1937. Later that year he took over the sports editor's job.

After The News was sold Jan. 25 to the Cleveland Press, Bang wrote some stories for the Cleveland Press and handled a radio sports broadcast.

Olympic Boxers Start Openers

MONTREAL (CP) — Harold Mann, a mechanic from Prince George, B.C., highlighted Tuesday night's 17-bout preliminary card launching the Canadian boxing championships and Olympic trials. All bouts were scheduled three-rounders.

Mann, a southpaw with a hit-and-run style, scored an upset decision over three-time Canadian light - middleweight champion Robert Pisic of Windsor Millwoc.

Canada's five-man team for the Olympics in Rome is to be selected Thursday night after the finals in the 65-competitor elimination tournament which will see champions crowned in 10 weight divisions.

Semi - finals and a few preliminaries are set for tonight.

In a welterweight bout Denis Gouskas of Montreal was awarded a decision over Omer Gagnon of Sudbury.

Files Suit To Attach German's Purse

The action alleged Besmanoff owed $6,000 on a house being purchased under contract. Besmanoff threatened to withdraw from the fight but later said he would be in the ring for the 10-round bout.

The Indiana State Athletic Commission already has agreed to hold up 40 per cent of Besmanoff's purse for Ed Metrie, the Milwaukee manager he is trying to discard.

APPROVE HOCKEY HALL

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto city council Tuesday unanimously approved a decision by board of control to build a hockey hall of fame on the Canadian National Exhibition grounds. The city will raise $300,000 for the building and the National League, will pay back the sum in eight instalments.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, deep in annual pow-wow amid the Gaelic hospitality of Sydney, Cape Breton, had two important matters to consider before it dealt with the small washing.

One is to decide whether Canada will continue in International hockey competition; the other to name a successor to George Dudley, deceased secretary-treasurer.

It is hoped the CAHA will take a broad and comprehensive view of the international situation. In the past, and more so recently, it has been under heavy fire for its part in the promotion of Olympics and world tournaments.

If it was nationally weak in the handling of the 1958 Olympics when Canada went down to defeat before a practically unknown American squad and finished in second place. It had legislation all right, but it was toothless.

But a defeat in the Olympics or world competition does not necessarily mean that Canada should meekly lose in the sponge and call it quits. We have not lost any prestige that cannot be regained. It is not that we have lost any of our natural ability to play hockey or develop the proper type of players as it is the fact European nations have undergone and are undergoing a resurgence in their calibre of play.

For years innumerable, British was the king-pin of soccer. Then the "world" took up the game. The result was that the British claim to "soccer-superdom" has disappeared. Crack British teams have gone down to defeat in world tournaments before brilliant European and South American squads.

But you don't see nor hear the 'Arrys and 'Arriets weeping in their arf-and-arf and crying "let's call the bloody thing off. If we can't blasted well win, we won't bloody well play."

Canadian senior hockey is as good and in most cases a heluva lot better than it was when Canadian teams were walking through European rinks in world championships. The seeding is good. The harvest is good. It is the packaging and readying for overseas trade that is all wrong.

There are, we understand some executive members, and provincial representatives against Canada continuing in International competition.

One of the latter is the Ottawa Valley and District League. As far as senior hockey is concerned, with perhaps the exception of last year, this circuit has been an extinct as the dodo bird. Perhaps not extinct for it had enough life to enlist the game Remus from Beckwith-Carleton and Pembroke clubs during their sojourn in Eastern Ontario senior "A" and "B" hockey. Its interest in International hockey has been purely confined to this district, with the exception of scraping up a local team to enter the Allan Cup playdowns.

A news despatch says: "Failure of the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen to win the 1960 Square Valley Olympics touched off a series of protests about the calibre of Canadian teams in the competition. Some observers feel Canada should bow from International play."

We do not agree. As we said, we believe the calibre of Canadian senior hockey is as good if not better than ever before. You cannot expect to toss in eight players with the representative team's seven, shake well once before using and come up with a winner.

We have said it before—and we repeat—that in order to defeat the international hockey "Romans" Canada must do as the Romans do. And that is select the topflight senior "A" players from the country's circuits, call it a national club, train and play it as a unit for at least three months before tournament time—and above all, let the government foot the bill.

The time has come when Canada as a nation, if she wants to maintain her proud status in the realm of hockey, must deal with the situation as a nation and not be represented by some community which is expected to pay the shot and depend on the goodwill of other sixth man-agers and players to get a team ready the night before it is scheduled to sail, run or fly to the tournament site.

Archie Heavy, 'Not Too Fat' But 2-1 Favorite, at That

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Archie Moore, venerable king of the light heavyweights, is 2-to-1 favorite against Germany's transplanted Willie Besmanoff in a 15-round non-title bout tonight.

Moore's manager, Jack (Doc) Kearns, says the 175-pound champion is "heavy, but not fat" for the outdoor heavyweight match, which will attract an estimated 9,000 and produce a gross of about $60,000. Moore is expected to weigh in at close to 200 pounds.

The bout is to be televised by ABC starting at 10 p.m., and will be scored under the five - point system.

The retired Moore claims he is not rusty, even though his last start was last Aug. 12, when he whipped Yvon Durelle in a title bout.

MUCH YOUNGER

Besmanoff, 27, who also weighs close to 200, is a native of Munich, Germany, but now fights out of Milwaukee. Some 18 or 18 years younger than Moore, Besmanoff dropped a 10-round split decision to Archie May 2, 1958.

Moore, at least between 43 and 46 years old, appeared nonchalant in preparing for this second meeting with Besmanoff. He also appeared raunch, compared with the trim Besmanoff.

Doc Kearns has Moore set up for a $25,000 guarantee against 33 per cent of the net, including TV, Besmanoff, who has dropped his last four starts, has a $6,000 guarantee or 25 per cent.

Moore will be seeking his 178th victory against 24 defeats and six draws. Besmanoff has a 41-13-7 record.

Kearns, professing to be unconcerned about Archie's leisurely training for this fight, is more interested in Moore's next title bout, against Erich Schoppner, in July.

"They want us up in Toronto," said Kearns. There are 90,000 Germans there, believe it or not."

Giants Pass Bucs; Orioles Return To Top Perch

Sad Sam Blacks Out Phillies As Padres Punches Pirates; Birds Push Chisox to Third

By RED WILKES
Associated Press Staff Writer

Baltimore Orioles, it appears, no longer are pigeons for American League clubs.

The Birds, backing southpaw rookie Steve Barber with a five-run fourth-inning rode back into first place with a 5-1 victory over Chicago Tuesday night, dropping the White Sox to third with their third straight defeat in the opener of a two-game series.

It was the third consecutive victory for the Orioles. They have a half-game lead over Cleveland Indians and the White Sox.

Cleveland moved into second place, five percentage points ahead of Chicago, with a 7-2 victory over Washington Senators. Detroit Tigers closed within one game of fourth-place New York as Don Mossi whipped the Yankees 4-3 with a four-hitter. Kansas City Athletics sent Boston Red Sox to a 10th straight defeat with a 6-2 decision.

SCORE LOSES AGAIN

The Orioles got a beat southpaw Herb Score (1-3) with two men out in the fourth inning. Baltimore collected 12 safties off four White Sox pitchers and Score, winner of only one of his last 10 decisions, gave up seven of them, two in the five-run outburst.

Roseln Maxwell, Jim Gentile and pinch-hitter Jim Gentile each had two-run singles in the rally.

Barber, 21, won his third game in a row with a seven-hitter. He walked four and struck out five. The White Sox runner his shutout bid in the sixth on a triple by Minnie Minoso and an infield out.

John Romano drove in three runs for Cleveland, two with a seventh - inning homer. The Indians then counted four in the eighth.

Jim (Mudcat) Grant was the winning hurler with a four-hitter for a 12 - 3 record. Reyes up in two-run homer in Jim Lemon in the ninth inning. It was Lemon's 10th, tops in the major leagues. Chuck Stobbs (1-1) lost it in his first start.

The Tigers, finally back to .500 (14-14) after a 10-game losing streak, won with a first-inning run on a walk, a wild pitch and Al Kaline's two-out single off loser Bill Short (2-3). Charlie Maxwell's second hit—a run in the two games sent the other three runs home—a homer.

Mossi, 3-3 with his second shutout, had a two-hitter until the ninth, when he got Roger Maris on a grounder after two - out singles by Bill Skowron and Elston Howard.

Marv Throneberry hit a home run, triple and double for the Athletics, scoring three runs and driving in three. His two - run double decided the game in the fourth inning. Dave Hillman was the loser. Bud Daley (4-2) won his third in a row although giving up eight hits, one a ninth-inning homer to Shannonville, 8.45 p.m.

Sandpaw pitching has dumped Pittsburgh Pirates out of the National League lead.

They dropped a 4-3 decision to Los Angeles Dodgers and Johnny Podres Tuesday night and slipped eight percentage points behind San Francisco Giants. The Giants got back on top with a 6-0 victory over Philadelphia Phillies behind four-hit pitching of Sam Jones, who gained his first road success of the season.

It was the second straight defeat for the Pirates and their third in four games. All three losses were to lefthanders—Podres and Dodger teammate Sandy Koufax and the Giants' Johnny Antonelli.

Lefthanded hurlers have been responsible for the Pirate's last four losses and four of their six losses the last two weeks.

The other two league games—Milwaukee at St. Louis, which Chicago at Cincinnati—were rained out.

TWO-RUN SHOOND

The Dodgers got two runs in the first inning, lining on Gil Hodges' homer off losing lefthander Joe Gibson (2-2), then scored the clincher in the seventh on Wally Moon's single by Jim Gilliam, Charlie Neal's double and Gibson's run to Gibbon's run - scoring error, and a sacrifice fly by rookie Frank Howard that sent Neal home.

Koufax (3-4) had lost three in a row. He put away his first complete game in four starts with an eight-hitter, walking five men and striking out five.

Willie Mays's double and a single by Gino Cimoli gave the Pirate's a run in the second inning. They got their other in the fifth on a two-out double by Roberto Clemente and tied the game at one-one when Podres fanned Dick Stuart, Clemente was 3-for-4, increasing his batting average to .345 to .313.

The Giants used only three of their seven hits for their runs, beating Jim Owens (3-3) with the help of five walks, three wild pitches and an error by the Phils' lightfielder.

Jones (5-3) had little trouble in his first complete game in six starts. He scattered the giving three singles and a double. He walked none, struck out three and retired the last 15 men in order for his second shutout, both over Philadelphia at Owens.

The Giants scored in the first inning on Don Blasingame's walk and a double by Willie Mays, then got another in the third when Blasingame walked again and went around on Mays' single and an error by second baseman Chuck Taylor.

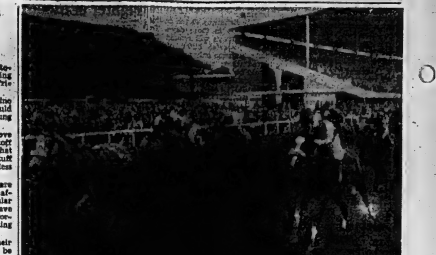
Bravo Brothers Meet Russians Here Friday

Two handsome young Romans make their first wrestling debut in the city come Friday evening.

They are the Bravos, Dino and Dominic, who could model for two daring young men on a flying trapeze.



And they'll be out to prove to the bearded Kalmikoff Brothers Ivan and Karol, that a lot of good wrestling stuff is wrapped in packages less than 5'7 pounds.

These young Italians are fast, agile and something after the style of the popular Brunetti Brothers. They have become very popular in Toronto and other wrestling centres.

The Russians will have their hands full. They won't be meeting lumbering slow-moving wrestlers, but something that is lightning swift and exceedingly clever.

Huge Don Leo Jonathan is back again and is a popular Frenchy Bernard Vignal. The two clash in a semi-final and this should be something for the archives.

OOPS — NO JOCKEY — Grey Car romped home first in the stretch at Old Woodbine but left jockey Avelino Gomez on the starting gate. Gomez, who had ridden the winning horses in the previous three races, grebbed the frame of the starting gate when he thought the mare had stumbled as she dropped her head. Grey Car beat the field by a length but was disqualified. (CP Wirephoto)

Two Champions Fight June 9

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) — Two Canadian boxing champions, lightheavyweight Burke Emery of Sherbrooke and Ottawa welterweight Gale Kerwin, have signed to appear on a card here June 9.

Emery meets Hank Marcer of Valleyfield, Que. Kerwin tangles with Peter Martinez of Mexico City. Both bouts are scheduled for 10 rounds.

Eighteen months ago Emery was an eight-round split decision over Marcer.

HANDY WHEELS

AUTONA, Man. (CP)—Farmer Cornelius Krahn solved a puncture problem by jacking up his tractor and using the large rear wheels as paddle wheels to shift water from his low fields into a dry pond.

And No Jockey to Guide Him

TORONTO (CP) — Avelino Gomez rode three consecutive winners in the first half-hour of five races at Old Woodbine Tuesday and then was left clinging to the sides of the starting gate as the field broke in the sixth race.

His riderless mount, Grey Car, must have thought Gomez was still aboard as she ran the seven furlongs and finished a length ahead of her nearest rival.

Unfortunately for her backers, she was listed as an also-ran.

Gomez came back to ride his fourth winner of the afternoon on Prince V. J. in the eighth race.

Grey Car dropped her head just as the starter pressed the button to open the gates. Thinking that the mare had stumbled, Gomez grabbed the frame of the starting gate when he thought the mare had stumbled as she dropped her head. Grey Car beat the field by a length but was disqualified.

CRICKET MATCH DRAWN

LONDON (Reuters) — Set to score 197 runs in 170 minutes to beat MCC, South Africa could not keep up with the clock against some excellent bowling Tuesday and the cricket match ended in a draw. Bob Barber, Lancashire's captain, constantly had South African batsmen in trouble during their second innings with his leg-spin deliveries and took three for 33 in 11 overs. Top scorer of the day was South African opener Trevor Goddard, who hit 56.

Novice Bowler Turns in Big Surprise

TORONTO (CP)—Young Montrealer Real Deblois, who has only bowled 30 games of five - pin bowling in his life, Tuesday night created the biggest surprise in the second round of the Masters championship tournament.

He beat John Harrison of Portage la Prairie, Man., champion last year, 2,448 to 2,386.

Ontario bowlers who qualified in Monday's opening round include: Ken Drury, Sarnia; Tony Levitick, Kirkland Lake; Merle Reeson, Oshawa; John Scholes, Welland; and Bill Nickason, Sudbury.

World Hockey Will Be Hot CAHA Issue

Ottawa Resolution to Quit World Tourney, Olympics Deferred in Committee Stage

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — The ruling body of Canadian Amateur Hockey deferred decision Tuesday on a resolution that would prevent Canadian teams from entering international competition.

The resolution, introduced by the Ottawa and District Hockey Association, was sidelined in the committee stage of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's annual meeting.

The resolution also asked that the CAHA divorce itself from the International Ice Hockey Federation in the "interest of Canadian hockey and the association."

When it is discussed sometime later in the meeting the resolution is expected to provide hot debate.

Gordon Juckes, appointed secretary-manager Tuesday, said he expects Canadian teams to continue in world and Olympic play. He favored a stronger development of international hockey.

SEES SLOW CHANGE

Jack Christie of Toronto, chairman of the CAHA minor hockey week committee, said in an interview that any change in Canada's status in international competition will come about slowly.

Major issues are the cost of sending a team to the competitions, who will pay the cost and the manner of selecting players for strengthening Canadian teams.

Then CAHA's resolution committee will meet today to consider a proposal made by the late George Dudley, former secretary-manager, on how players should be selected.

SPOILING PLAYOFFS

Many delegates contend that Canadian World and Olympic representatives are spoiling Allan Cup playoffs by borrowing top players from other teams.

The question of international competition has been a contentious one since the reinforced Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the Ontario Hockey Association defeated a select all-star team for 1960 Winter Olympics crown at Squaw Valley, Calif.

The CAHA decided Tuesday that rates for televising Allan and Memorial Cup games will come under the jurisdiction of the CAHA president.

The Manitoba brash gained approval of a resolution calling for the president to set fees. Previously, television stations could carry games for the same rate as radio stations.

Richmond, Kings Win Over Miami, Jets

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Richmond Virginians are looking forward to a happy association in the International League with southpaw Fred Kipp. He seems to be just what the doctor ordered to help out a spotty pitching staff.

Kipp, released by New York Yankees last week, took over from Gil Crbs with one man on in the fourth inning Tuesday night and scattered three hits for a 4-2 victory over Columbus Jets.

In the only other game on a nine-curtailed schedule, Havana Sugar Kings defeated Miami Marlins 11-7. Rochester at Toronto and Buffalo at Montreal were cancelled because of rain and cold weather.

Kipp balked out Orbs by getting Bill Hall to ground into an inning-ending double play after Hall had scored one run. He struck out four men and didn't allow a walk. Coot Veale (2-1) was the loser.

Dan Morejon's first homer, a two-run shot, in the sixth inning broke a 2-2 tie and the Cubans nailed down the victory with Borrego Alvarez' second homer of the game an inning later. Miami, trailing 6-5, tied it in the fifth with losing pitcher Vito Valentinetti's homer; singles by Jim Busby, Al Nagle and Gene Green and Ron Samford's L'pie doing the damage.

Felix Torres' seventh homer of the year gave Havana the edge again but Jerry Adair's double and Fred Valentine's single tied things at 7-7. Reliever Luis Arroyo (5-2) was the winner.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Thursday, May 26

General tendencies: This is a day when you can combine your mental agility with your physical ingenuity to get almost anything requiring your attention done in a very inventive fashion. It is one of those times when you have all kinds of opportunities to sell, buy, make formulas for success, give lectures, speeches, state your point of view. Action.

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — The perfect day to handle all outside matters, appointments, travel, buying, selling, etc. Dress in good detail and taste, then carry through methodically. P.M. enjoy the company of good friends at preferred recreation.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) — You are able to think very clearly and accurately now about all practical and property affairs, so be sure you work out a more modern-method that will insure far greater success and bring you an abundance, and to spare.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — A day to think of self mainly and your wants and desires. Then be off to see the key people who can assist you to become more resourceful and successful. Tonight you should relax and enjoy light sports with friends.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Be sure you make the changes that are necessary in any business or personal affairs so that they are more to your liking and run far more smoothly. Then you will do well to assist those who are in need and look to you for help.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Now you truly understand the views of allies and can get together to work out constructive ideas and plans harmoniously. P. M. get out socially and make new contacts while having a really good time. Be sociable, charming.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Important you follow through with orders or suggestions from executives, higher-ups and particularly important you meet any obligations made. Advancement is imminent and you can gain a tremendous amount of added good will.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Get out of that comfortable little rut and branch out to greener pastures. Find interests that are lucrative and far more interesting. Do research work, study. Be broad - minded. Grow.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Do your best today to get bookkeeping system more efficient and financial affairs straightened—must relax with friends for a delightful evening of fun and pleasure.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — It is possible to cement better relations with any associate today simply by stating your ideas honestly and listening carefully to his, or hers. A fine compromise is more than possible. P. M. go out for recreation.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Aspects are very favorable for accomplishing a great deal today, so be sure you use every moment constructively. Frivolity will get you nowhere. P. M. take treatments to improve health.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — If properly attuned astrologically, you should today feel very much alive and rarin' to go. So, be sure you perfect all creative interests and see only those persons with whom you are very compatible. Have fun, too.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 24) — Make the improvements necessary around your home or place of business. It would be wise to bring home little gifts and please family. Then entertain your friends at own fireside and have a delightful evening.

If your child is born today ... he, or she, will have such a vivid imagination and fine mind that you would do well to see that much education is afforded this bright youngster. Such lucidity of thought should be put to use in truly big and important enterprises, and this is definitely possible once you teach your prodigy that he, or she, should be very thorough and precise, persevering.

WHISKY TASTER — Art Hock of New Westminster, B.C., head of the British Columbia distillery's quality control department, is a whisky taster by trade. His job is to compare the blend of bottled liquor with standard samples of each brand. If there is any consistent difference in taste, the blend is sent back for further blending. Mr. Hock and his assistants also sniff test liquor. "Seventy-five per cent of what people think they are tasting is really what they smell," he says. (CP Photo).

Whisky-Taster Saves Drinking For Parties, Evenings at Home

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—Arthur Hock is a whisky-taster by trade but he never drinks on the job.

"Tasting is not the only thing we do," he said in an interview, "We have a lot of laboratory tests to make and they have to be very precise. I save my drinking for parties and evenings at home."

Mr. Hock is head of the British Columbia Distillery's quality-control department. He and his assistants, Peter Clelland and Mike Hearle, need three qualifications for their work: laboratory training, a well-trained taste bud and strong willower.

Testers must be able to spot specific differences between two whiskies that might both be agreeable to the palate.

Each brand of liquor is blended with specific taste. Testers compare the blends with standard samples and no discernible difference is permitted.

Samples to be tested is poured into one glass, the standard sample into another. Water is added to both and the liquor shuffled around by one tester so the other does not know which is which.

Delicate sniffs and studied sips follow. Each man repeats the test four times. If two of the testers can consistently identify a difference, the whisky must go through further blending.

Mr. Hock says sniffing is as important as tasting. "Seventy-five per cent of what people think they are tasting is really what they smell."

"Just a Second"

"We had a terrific gale last night."

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE HELPS BREAK DOWN FATS
IN THE DIGESTIVE TRACT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fats . . . actually breaks them down. It is an established fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fats are broken down and form a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your digestive tract, the bile helps break down fats the same way. Many of the foods you eat reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down these fats . . . for easier and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills' exclusive blend of vegetable ingredients restores irregularity quickly and effectively. At the same time, it actually increases the flow of liver bile needed to break down fats in your digestive tract.

Eisenhower Calls For Business-Like Deal With Reds

U.S. Not to Back Away From Commitments

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States bombarded the U.S.S.R. and the world with President Eisenhower's address Wednesday night, but early indications were that few Russians heard it.

In his message, the American leader asked that the failure of the Paris summit conference be forgotten and that East and West join in "business-like dealings" for peace.

Voice of America headquarters here said the Russians let the first 10 minutes of the speech get through, then jammed the remaining 15 minutes.

Even without the jamming, relatively few Russians could have been expected to hear the address when the broadcasting first began, since it was 3 a.m. Moscow time. Translations were to be beamed to the Russian people today in 22 separate broadcasts in seven language spoken in that area.

Eisenhower declared that "the path of reason and common sense still is open" if the Russians will but use it.

Undeterred by Khrushchev's display of abuse at the "heart of government" in Paris, Eisenhower, speaking from the Texas broadcast on radio and television, said "we shall not back away, on account of recent events, from any word or commitments that we have undertaken."

With a touch of humility, he declared that "we have not asked for an East-West nuclear test ban with controlled disarmament and were content with ways of reducing the risk of war by miscalculation.

He also would urge before the United Nations that Russia reconsider its previous rejections and agree with the U.S. to open both their skies to aerial inspection so that there would be no further need of such incidents as the U-2 spy-plane operation.

The U.S. would even put up some of the now-grounded U-2

Quakes, Volcanic Eruptions, Tidal Waves Continue

Official Death Toll 3,000 And Could Total 6,000

SANTIAGO (AP) — No respite appeared in sight today for southern Chile, wracked by five days of continuing earthquakes, tidal waves, avalanches and volcanic eruptions.

The official toll so far was nearly 3,000 dead or missing — 2,000,000 homeless and $300,000,000 property damage. And the count was mounting steadily.

Reuters news agency said estimates indicated the dead and missing could reach 6,000.

"The whole world seemed to be shaking and quivering," said one survivor from the hospital from shattered Valdivia province.

"Everything danced in a terrible whirlwind."

UPHEAVALS CONTINUE

With countless communities still out of touch and the upheavals of nature continuing, officials could not predict the final toll. Rolling clouds of ash rain hampered aerial rescue operations. Smoke and fire from volcanoes hung over much of the southern part of the mountainous, narrow country on South America's Pacific coast.

The interior industry listed the known dead at 1,706, with 1,123 missing and presumed dead.

The face of the country itself has been altered in countless ways. Tidal waves up to 15 feet high still pounded the long 750 miles of the southern coast.

FEAR FURTHER QUAKES

The homeless, numbering one-quarter of the population, bundled in open fields or in the mountains to which they fled, or plodded away from the scene of destruction, fearful of the tremors that so far showed no sign of stopping. Heavy rains over much of the vast quake area added to their misery.

In Cautin province the earth's surface was in a turmoil as

ASSISTANCE ACT FOR GOLD MINES EXTENDED 3 YRS.

Debate Restricted To Specialists

OTTAWA (CP) — Gold mining provided the Commons bill of late Wednesday in debate restricted to specialists.

Canada's gold mines have received more than $131,000,000 since 1948 under the Emergency Gold Mining Assistance Act, Mines Minister Coyne told as the Commons gave first reading to a bill extending its powers another three years past next December 31.

He stoutly resisted a series of suggestions by members from hard-rock mining constituencies that his department should recognize more care in making sure only qualified mines are getting the assistance paid out at about $12,000,000 a year.

WARNING NEEDED

"Probably there is no mine in Canada where any tomfoolery is going on," said Douglas Fisher (CCF—Port Arthur), a one-time gold miner in Northern Ontario. But the government was expected to be suspicious of anybody accepting money from the public purse.

"We all know the reputation that certain segments of the industry have for its stock promotion practice and other kinds of deal," he said. The mines department should do more checking right in the mine as well as by studying the papers. Otherwise make sure that production costs aren't being heeled up to collect assistance.

It doesn't pay a mine to do that, Mr. Coyne said. If it did, the 13 Canadian mined now operating without assistance, in comparison with 40 who do not, would be applying for aid.

His inspectors went underground as often as necessary.

FUTURE STILL DARK

But Commons critics agreed generally that the act is only a stop-gap measure after 12 years and $131,000,000, still leaves gold mining a precarious industry, and expects some day of becoming a ghost town. More far-reaching action should be undertaken.

Under the act, gold mines can collect assistance based on production

Two Brothers Held in Death At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Police said Wednesday night two brothers—one in the other a juvenile—have been detained in connection with the death of Albert Beaudoin six days after he was shoved in a scuffle with a group of noisy teenagers.

Beaudoin had left his apartment to remonstrate with the group.

Police said the two brothers, both boys and three girls, aged 15 to 18, as well as a third witness gave an autopsy and inquest. The girls and two of the boys were released after questioning.

In Quebec, no charges are laid in cases of accidental death after the inquest.

It thought that for $99 a month he was entitled to some peace and quiet," said his 30-year-old wife.

"They were yelling and clattering up and down the stairs just outside our apartment. I couldn't get my children to sleep.

"It was unnerving, 'comedians on cuisle and we'll fix you.'"

Controller Jean Will Be in Mayor's Race

TORONTO (CP) — Controller Jean Newman announced Wednesday night she will seek for mayor at the next civic election here.

But Mrs. Newman, a life member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, said liquor will not be an issue.

She shall confine myself to campaigning upon improvements made and the needs of within the power of the municipality, Mrs. Newman said.

Some observers have speculated Wednesday that an issue might be made of Mayor Nathan Phillips' support of a dining lounge and bar for a restaurant in Exhibition Park.

Mrs. Newman led the opposition when council voted 11 to 10 in favor of the license. But she said Wednesday that support

"Liquor is not within the jurisdiction of a municipality, and I am not going to make it the basis of a campaign.

Israeli Planes Shoot Down Arab Fighter

TEL- AVIV (Reuters)—Israeli fighter planes today shot down a United Arab Republic MiG jet fighter in an engagement within Israeli air space, it was officially announced here.

The announcement said the air fight took place over the Sinai desert near the U.A.R. - Israeli border.

Cairo's version of the incident, as reported by The Associated Press, was that two U.A.R. planes and two Israeli fighters clashed over Egypt's Sinai desert. One Israeli plane was damaged and both U.A.R. planes returned to base safely after challenging the Israeli intruders, the U.A.R. said.

The last air battle between Israeli and U.A.R. fighters occurred Feb. 1 when, according to the U.A.R. Army, an Israeli Mystere jet was shot down and another hit.

Israel said then that four Syrian MiG fighters were driven off after a "brief encounter," and did not say whether any planes were shot down.

An Israeli military spokesman said four Egyptian and two Israeli planes were involved today. The Egyptian fighters penetrated Israeli air space for one to three minutes, the spokesman said.

Two Israeli fighters hit one of the enemy planes, which was seen diving in smoke and flames, the spokesman concluded.

Historic Site To Be Probed

TORONTO (CP) — A historic site at the mouth of the Humber River will be investigated by two archeological students in June to see if the site is the early location of Fort Albany.

The site may be the same as that of the original fort founded by the Hudson's Bay Company in the 1670s.

Walter Kenyon and Kenneth Kidd will conduct the search under Ontario government sponsorship. The site is near the present Hudson's Bay post on Albany Island where the river empties into James Bay.

Toronto Chinese Leaders Assert Hong Kong Officials Demand Tips

TORONTO (CP)—Two leaders of the Chinese community here charged today that Oriental immigrants sometimes have to make payoffs before they can migrate to Canada legally.

William C. Wong, chairman of the Chinese Community Services Association, said, "It is the rotten conditions in Hong Kong that cause some immigrants to come here in other ways."

His remarks followed cross-country raids by RCMP as part of an investigation of a ring smuggling Chinese into Canada.

Mr. Wong said Chinese who could migrate legally are often delayed until they make payments.

Association relations official Roger Chow said: "A lot of tipping and stuff goes on. Officials in Hong Kong put unfair questions in interviews to block the way of immigrants. All of this is done in an attempt at monetary gain."

Mr. Wong said, "They ask a 16-year-old boy how many steps to the front door and how many chickens at his house."

Fifty officials of Toronto's Chinatown are to meet tonight to discuss the RCMP raids. Mr. Wong said they may decide to protest to Immigration Minister Fairclough.

"We have a meeting scheduled with her in Ottawa for June 3. We are here almost every year to present the unfair immigration laws. This year we may have something different to protest."

Forced Down by Gunfire From Six Soviet MiG Jets

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)—The pilot of a United States Air Force transport forced down in East Germany last Friday said today that six Soviet MiG jet fighters fired machine-gun bursts to make him land.

Capt. James Lundy, who was grounded by the air force after his return Wednesday, told a press conference:

"There was no indication that we were off course until the MiGs appeared. There was no doubt in my mind but that they wanted us to land."

The battered old air force C-47 with eight servicemen and an air force colonel aboard strayed 22 miles into East Germany while flying a flight from Copenhagen to Hamburg. The Russians released the plane and its seven Americans Tuesday, but had weather prevented their flying to the West until Wednesday night.

The air force, in grounding the pilot, a 27-year-old pilot for investigation, said he "clearly had violated pertinent flying directives."

Lundy blamed it on the wind report for his getting off course and said he realized, when the Russian fighters appeared, that he had strayed.

The pilot said forecasters in Copenhagen had reported an easterly wind, but it was actually blowing from the west.

Lundy said he expected the investigation. He said, however, that as far as he knew, he did not violate any flying procedures.

He said Soviet questioners had referred to the U-2 spy plane incident but did not suggest that his flight over East German territory was similar to the intelligence mission of the U-2 over Russia.

He said he was questioned for several hours and then by Rev. Clark, an Episcopal minister.

He said East German officials searched all except the women passenger, Mrs. Barbara A. McCash, who was on a leave trip with her doctor husband, Capt. Robert L.

Lundy added: "Our treatment was fair. The food was good. The Russians helped us out in any way they could—for our comfort."

Seven Ordained At Quinte U.C. Conference

KINGSTON (CP)—Seven ministerial candidates were ordained and a woman missionary was dedicated by the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada Wednesday night.

The service at Sydenham Street church, was conducted by Rev. M. C. Fisher of Newcastle, conference president.

GROMYKO SAYS RUSSIA NABBED 'TENS OF SPIES'

Scoffs at U.S. Plan For 'Open Skies'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told the United Nations Security Council today that "in only the most recent years Russia has caught tens of United States spies."

Gromyko made only a brief reference to the alleged capture of the spies and gave no details as he made his final argument in support of Russia's charge that the U.S. committed aggression by sending spy planes over Russia.

He did not give the exact number of spies but said the expression "tens" is much the same way as "dozens" is used in English.

Apparently seeking to counter the U.S. statement that a dozen spies had been arrested in the U.S. since Stalin died, Gromyko said it was a question of when Russia shot down a U-2 spy plane May 1.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was expected to deliver a rebuttal after today's session on a resolution that, on the basis of speeches by all 11 members of the emergency meeting of the Security Council, already is doomed to defeat.

SCOFFS AT OPEN SKIES

Gromyko scoffed at President Eisenhower's proposal for an "open skies" inspection under United Nations observers in the U.S. view that would do away with the need for espionage to guard against surprise attack by the U.S.

The "logic is marvellous, I must say," said Gromyko of the U.S. proposal. He said it was made in the first place merely because of American reluctance to accept real disarmament.

Eisenhower had "confirmed" what Gromyko described as policies of aggressive circles of the future and he repeated his charges that had previously against the U.S.

The U.S. had made a flight by one small unarmed plane which not be described as aggression, Gromyko said. But the number of planes would rightfully constitute aggression.

If one did not, would three or four be sufficient?

The U.S. admitted its spy flights were to guard against surprise attack.

WHENCE MANDATE?

"But when and from what people does the United States get a mandate for this?" Gromyko asked, stating no such mandate has been obtained, even from "allies in the military bloc." Norway and Pakistan had refused to allow use of their territory in the flight plane of the U-2 which had been shot down.

France had used "strange logic" in backing the U.S. while at the same time calling for condemnation of methods of delivering nuclear weapons.

Gromyko accused the Soviet Union of magnifying the incident which it did not but he regarded in the same manner as something that happened in the Pacific Ocean. Nevertheless, it was more dangerous to violate borders now than in former cessation calm, careful consideration."

Witness Asserts Police Forced His Statement

COOKSVILLE (CP)—A witness Wednesday said police pressure forced him to make parts of a statement in connection with a $160,000 truck fire in Mallon May 17.

Paul Knoll, 36, of York Township, is being held as a material witness along with Westaway and Gregory on $10,000 bail.

Earlier in Wednesday's hearing Cook was declared a hostile witness by Magistrate R. I. Bick, thereby allowing Crown Attorney Harry Deyman to cross-examine his own witness.

Cook said a statement taken by police was "dreamed up" by them. He said he had never read it.

The two accused and Knoll and Cook were among 60 drivers who were called to work at 3:30 a.m. four days before the fire. The company also had been threatened with picketing the day of the fire.

At the first day's hearing police testified a company gasoline pump had been found jammed open after the fire, with a burned out fuse 30 feet away.

Knoll said he had seen Westaway and Gregory near the fire scene with a flare. A company official testified Westaway was one of the two persons with keys to unlock the pump.

The hearing was adjourned to June 11.

Jet Aircraft Parts Suppliers Sought in Canada

The company opened a two-day symposium today with representatives from 100 Canadian companies that have done work for the department of engine production in Ottawa and are considered able to make precision parts for jets.

The Canadian suppliers will be given an opportunity to bid with United States firms under the defence sharing program started last year by Canada and the U.S.

Since the defence sharing program started the company has let subcontracts valued at more than $1,000,000 in Canada.

Open Skies Plan Will Go Before UN Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) United States Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said Wednesday night President Eisenhower's new, broadened "open skies" plan would be presented for study to the 82-nation General Assembly session opening Sept. 20.

"If we get it into the Security Council," he said, "the Russians would probably veto it. We want to get calm, careful consideration."

Government Looking for a Buyer For Sable Island Stunted Ponies

SABLE ISLAND, N.S. (CP)—If this ghostly chunk of sand off Nova Scotia has a mystery, it's the origin of the hungry-looking ponies whose ancestors got here via a shipwreck centuries ago.

The ponies have been on Sable Island between 50 and 400 years, depending on whose theory you take. All 250 of them are for sale.

The government has put them up for auction, acting for the federal transport department, and the highest bidder goes to the highest bidder.

The auctioneer who rode a Sable Island pony in a recent sale says he didn't like it, "except possibly because it was so cheap and so glue."

Some people say the animals were brought here in the 1500s by Portuguese who deserted them on the island. Others say they became too rough.

Another story says a kindly priest left the horses for survivors of a ship wrecked regularly along the island's shore. Still another says the herd's ancestors were taken from a Spanish vessel.

The transport department inherited them when it established a lighthouse and weather station here. The department has had its problems.

It has had to fly in hay from the Nova Scotia mainland to keep the ponies alive during severe winter months. The short-legged animals, bearing years of inbreeding and lack of a good diet, are eating the semi-desert grass above the sand in heaving ways.

A. E. Johnson, Halifax horseman, suggested when he bought the ponies were brought to Halifax for pet shows.

"They were not the gentlest of ponies. They were very untrustworthy."

Impressed by the ponies' strength, Mike F. S. Hunter of Kentville, N.S. once bought 150 of the animals and sold them to farmers.

Members of his family recall his telling of the time a passenger steamer had getting the ponies aboard ship. The animals were tied to barrels and pulled piggyback to the vessel.

That's another problem facing a purchaser. He would also have to catch and corral them. Islanders say it will not be an easy job.

Other requirements: a loud, threatening voice, patience, strong hands and an accurate kicking foot.

Quakes, Volcanic Eruptions Tidal Waves Continue

Official Death Toll 3,000 And Could Total 6,000

SANTIAGO (AP) — No respite appeared in sight today for southern Chile, wracked by five days of continuing earthquakes, tidal waves, avalanches and volcanic eruptions.

The official toll so far was nearly 3,000 dead or missing. 2,000,000 homeless and $300.- 000,000 property damage. And the count was mounting steadily.

Reuters news agency said estimates indicated the dead and missing could total 6,000.

"The whole world seemed to be shaking and quivering," said one survivor from his refuge cellar from shattered Valdivia province.

"Everything danced in a terrible rhythm."

UPHEAVALS CONTINUE

With countless communities still cut off and the upheavals of nature continuing, officials could not predict the final toll. Lowering clouds and rain hampered aerial rescue operations. Smoke and ash from volcanoes hung over much of the southern part of the mountainous, narrow country on the South America's Pacific coast.

The interior ministry listed the known dead at 1,706, with 1,185 missing and presumed dead.

The face of the country itself was changed. Lakes and mountain ecs which began Saturday. Three new earth tremors were reported Wednesday. 7 tidal waves up to 25 feet high and pounded along 750 miles of the southern coast. Many coastal islands could not be reached for word of their inhabitants.

FEAR FURTHER QUAKES

The homeless, numbering one-quarter of the population, bedded in open fields or in the mountains to which they fled, or plodded away from the stricken areas, fearful of the tremors that so far showed no sign of stopping. Heavy rains over much of the vast quake area added to their misery.

In Caution province the earth's surface dropped as much as Assistance Act For Gold Mines Extended 3 Yrs.

Debate Restricted To Specialists

OTTAWA (CP) — Gold mining provided the Commons bill of Sare Wednesday in debate restricted to specialists.

Canada's gold mines have received more than $131,000,000 since 1948 under the Emergency Gold Mining Assistance Act, Mines Minister Coglido said as the Commons gave first reading to a Bill extending its powers another three years past next December 31.

He stoutly resisted a series of suggestions by members from hard-rock mining constituencies that his department should exercise more care in making sure only qualified mines are getting the assistance and not at about $12,000,000 a year.

WARNING NEEDED

"Probably there is no mine in Canada where any tomfoolery is going on," said Douglas Fisher (CCF—Port Arthur), a one-time gold miner in Northern Ontario. But the government was expected to be suspicious of anybody accepting money from the public purse.

He will know the reputation that certain segments of the industry have for its stock promotion practice and other kinds of deal," he said. The mines department must do more than just sit in the mine as well as by studying the company bookkeeping. Assistance funds aren't being beefed up to collect assistance.

It doesn't pay a mine to do that, Dr. Coglido said. If it did, the 13 Canadian mines now operating without assistance, in comparison with 40 who do not, would be applying for it.

His inspectors went underground as often as necessary.

FUTURE BLEAK

But Commons critics agreed generally that the act is only a stop-gap measure after 12 years and $131,000,000, still leaves gold-mining communities facing the prospect some day of becoming ghost towns. More far-reaching action should be undertaken.

Under the act, gold miners can collect assistance based on profits

Controller Jean Will Be in Mayor's Race

TORONTO (CP) — Controller Jean Newman announced Wednesday night she will run for mayor at the next civic election here.

But Mrs. Newman, a life member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, said liquor will not be an issue.

"I shall confine myself to campaigning upon improvements and changes that might be within the power of the municipality, Mrs. Newman said.

Some aldermen have speculated Wednesday that an issue might be made of Mayor Nathan Phillips' support of a dining lounge license for a restaurant in Exhibition Park.

Mrs. Newman led the opposition when aldermen voted 11 to 10 in favor of the license. But she said Wednesday night:

"Liquor is not within the jurisdiction of a municipality, and I am not going to make it the basis of a campaign.

Two Brothers Held in Death At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Police said Wednesday night two brothers—one 18, the other a juvenile—have been detained in connection with the death of Albert Beaudoin six days after he was beaten in a scuffle with a group of noisy teenagers.

Beaudoin had left his apartment to remonstrate with the group.

Police said the fight started when boys and three girls, aged 15 to 18, as students, were leaving after an autopsy and inquest. The girls and two of the boys were released after questioning.

Beaudoin, an old-time coach driver for Provincial Transport Company, is believed to have fallen against a concrete curb ledge during the scuffle. The bone in the skull caused a suspected skull fracture.

"I thought that for $70 a month we were entitled to some peace and quiet," said his 30-year-old son.

"They were yelling and clattering up and down the stairs just outside our apartment. I couldn't get my children to sleep.

"I heard someone saying, 'come on outside and we'll fix you.' "

Historic Site To Be Probed

TORONTO (CP) — A historic site at the mouth of the Humber River will be investigated by two Canadian archaeologists in June to see if the site is the early location of Fort Albany.

The site may be the same as that of the original fort founded by the Hudson's Bay Company in the 1670s.

Walter Kenyon and Kenneth Kidd will conduct the search under Ontario government sponsorship. The site is near the present Hudson's Bay post on Albany Island near the river empties into James Bay.

Toronto Chinese Leaders Assert Hong Kong Officials Demand Tips

TORONTO (CP)—Two leaders of the Chinese community here charged today that Oriental immigrants sometimes have to make payoffs to get into Canada.

Mr. Wong said, "They ask a 16 year-old boy how many steps to the front door and how many chickens at his house."

Fifty officials of Toronto's Chinatown are to meet tonight to discuss the RCMP raids. Mr. Wong said they may decide to protest to Immigration Minister Fairclough.

"We have a meeting scheduled with her in Ottawa for June 3. We go there almost every year to protest the unfair immigration laws. This year we have something different to protest."

William C. Wong, chairman of the Chinese Community Service Association, said, "It is the rotten conditions in Hong Kong that cause some immigrants to come here in other ways."

His remarks followed cross-country raids by RCMP as part of an investigation of a ring smuggling Chinese into Canada.

Mr. Wong said Chinese who could migrate legally are often stalled until they make payments.

Asked for specifics, Mr. Wong floor George Chow said: "A lot of tipping and stuff goes on. Officials here foolish and ask questions in interviews to block the way of immigrants. All of this is done in an attempt at monetary gain."

Israeli Planes Shoot Down Arab Fighter

TEL AVIV (Reuters)—Israeli fighter planes today shot down a United Arab Republic MiG jet fighter in an engagement within Israeli air space, it was officially announced here.

The announcement said the air fight took place over the Sinai Desert near the U.A.R., Israeli border.

Cairo's version of the incident, as reported by The Associated Press, was that two U.A.R. planes and two Israeli fighters clashed over Egypt's Sinai desert. One Israeli plane was damaged and both U.A.R. planes returned to base safely after challenging the Israeli inflitrators, the U.A.R. said.

The last air battle between Israeli and U.A.R. fighters occurred Feb. 1 when, according to the U.A.R. Army, an Israeli Mystere jet was shot down and another hit.

Israel said then that four Syrian MiG fighters were driven off after a "brief encounter," and did not say whether any planes were shot down.

An Israeli military spokesman said four Egyptian and two Israeli planes were involved today. The Egyptian fighters penetrated Israeli air space for one to two minutes, the spokesman said.

Two Israeli fighters hit the of the enemy planes, which was seen diving in uncontrolled flight, the spokesman concluded.

Forced Down by Gunfire From Six Soviet MiG Jets

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)— The pilot of a United States Air Force transport forced down in East Germany last Friday said today that six Soviet MiG jet fighters fired machine-gun bursts to make him land.

The announcement said the air fight took place over the Sinai Desert near the U.A.R., Israeli border.

Capt. James Lundy, who was grounded by the air force after his return Wednesday, told a press conference:

"There was no indication that we were off course until the MiGs appeared. There was no doubt in my mind but that they wanted us to land."

The battered old air force C-47 with eight servicemen and an air force dependent crashed 22 miles into East Germany while on a flight from Copenhagen to Hamburg. The Russians released the plane and the seven Americans Tuesday, but had weather prevented their flying to the West until Wednesday night.

The air force, in grounding the 24-year-old pilot for investigation, said he "clearly had violated pertinent flying directives."

Lundy blamed a false wind report for his getting off course and said he realized, when the Russian fighters appeared, that he had strayed.

The pilot said forecasters in Copenhagen had predicted an easterly wind, but it was actually blowing from the west.

Lundy said he expected the investigation. He said, however, that as far as he knew, he did not violate any flying procedures.

He said Soviet questioners had referred to the U-2 spy plane incident but did not suggest that his flight over East German would in any way similar to the intelligence mission of the U-2 over Russia.

He said he was questioned about engine trouble, but the pilot he landed and the next day, he said East German officials searched all except the woman passenger, Mrs. Barbara A. McCash, who was on a leave trip with her doctor husband, Capt. Robert.

Lundy added: "Our treatment was good. The food was good. The Russians helped us out in any way they could for our comfort."

Jet Aircraft Parts Suppliers Sought in Canada

The company opened a two-day symposium today with representatives from 100 Canadian companies that have done work for the division or which are now in production in Ottawa and are considered able to make precision parts for jets.

The Canadian suppliers will be given equal opportunity to deal with United States firms under the defence sharing program started last year by Canada and the U.S.

Since the defence sharing program started the company has let sub-contracts valued at more than $1,000,000 in Canada.

Witness Asserts Police Forced His Statement

COOKSVILLE (CP)—A witness Wednesday said police pressure forced him to make parts of a statement in connection with a $160,000 truck fire in Malton May 17.

Ralph Mayberry, 35, of Toronto, and Edward Charles Gregory, 30, of New Toronto, are charged with setting the fire which destroyed six diesel tractor units and damaged seven others at the Malton terminal of Gill Interprovincial Lines Limited.

Paul Knoll, 36, of York Township, is being held as a material witness along with Mayberry and Gregory on $10,000 bail.

Earlier in Wednesday's hearing Cook was declared a hostile witness by Magistrate J. I. Bird, thereby allowing Crown Attorney Harry Deyman to cross-examine his own witness.

Cook said a statement taken by police was "dreamed up" by them. He said he had never read it.

The boy accused and Knoll and Cook were among 50 drivers who left their jobs in a wildcat strike days before the fire. The company had obtained an injunction against picketing the day of the fire.

At the first day's hearing police testified a company gasoline pump had been found jammed open after the fire, with a burned out fuse 30 feet away.

Knoll said he had seen Mayberry and Gregory near the fire scene with a flare. A company official testified Westaway was one of the two persons with keys to unlock the pump.

The hearing was adjourned to June 11.

Government Looking for a Buyer For Sable Island Stunted Ponies

SABLE ISLAND, N.S. (CP)— If this ghostly chunk of sand off the Atlantic coast of Nova Scotia has a mystery, it's the origin of the hungry-looking ponies whose ancestors got here via a shipwreck centuries ago.

The ponies have been on Sable Island for hundreds of years, depending on whose theory you take. All 250 of them are for sale.

The government is accepting tenders, acting for the federal transport department, which has offered them to the highest bidder.

The horsemen who rode a Sable Island pony in a race probably are also likely, "except possibly the lighthouse keeper and his family."

Some people say the animals were brought here in the 1500s by Portuguese who deserted them when their ship, the Sable, became too rough.

Another story says a kindly priest left the horses for survivors of ships wrecked regularly along the island's shore. Still another says the herd's ancestors swam ashore from a wrecked vessel.

The transport department inherited them when it established a lighthouse and weather station here. The department has had its problems.

It has had to fly in hay from the Nova Scotia mainland to keep the ponies alive during winter months. The short-legged animals, stunted by years of breeding and lack of a good diet, are eating the scrub-locust grass on the sand dunes.

A. E. Johnson, Halifax horseman, said the boatloads of ponies were brought to Halifax for quarantine.

"They were not the gentlest of ponies. They were very untrustworthy."

Impressed by the ponies' strength, the late J. F. B. Hunter of Kentville, N.S., once bought 150 of the animals and sold them to farmers.

Members of his family recall his telling of the Portuguese legend that the animals are descended from a cargo of horses washed ashore from a wrecked Spanish vessel.

Everett S. Fairman Is Named Chairman of Hastings County Advisory Board for Blind

By GLADYS WARD

MARMORA — "There has grown up in Canada a society conducive to growth for the blind, producing an individual fully trained, with certain limitations, but capable of being a useful citizen," A. D. Hagill, M.A., superintendent of the Ontario division of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, told the Hastings County Advisory Board at its initial meeting in St. Paul's Anglican Church hall, Marmora, on Wednesday evening.

The ladies of the church had prepared an excellent turkey dinner. The tables were arranged with fragrant bouquets of spring flowers. The reports from the county showed a year of progress and the ladies which all contributed to a successful evening. Mrs. Hitchenson, the own funds, but in Belleville the Institute depends on the United Appeal.

Everett S. Fairman was elected chairman of the board succeeding Mrs. George Wishart. The other officers for the year are: first vice-chairman, Mrs. Sprague, Trenton; second vice-chairman, Mrs. L. Rev. R. Fleming pronounced the blessing, and Mrs. G. Wishart welcomed the members and guests, noting that an annual meeting was to be assembled in efforts of the year; that in a world of rapid change, as well as changes accelerated, one thing never changed, the need for men and women interested in the welfare of others.

Reeve of Shannon of Marmora, brought greetings from the community, commenting that he was pleased to meet the key people who were doing a great work of humanitarianism.

RECEIVE REPORTS

Reports were given by all the representatives of the organization with Mrs. LeSage explaining the eye survey undertaken in Tweed recently. Mrs. Webb of the public health nurse and forty children under the number of eye defects were discovered and the operations and other follow-up services had been undertaken. In Trenton, Mr. Sprague reported that they had completed an eye examination of all students in the municipality purchased by the Lions club. The Rotary club is also interested in conducting a survey in all public and rural schools to assist in the detection of eye defects.

Miss Virginia Philpotts, home teacher from Kingston, explained the organization of service clubs in Picton, Kingston, Brockville, Napanee and Belleville.

"It is amazing how the handicapped will support you if you courage one another," said the teacher. "In some places we are making cancer dressings, which give the blind a feeling of being helpful to others. Making a social adjustment is even more important than learning a craft for the handicapped. Three at a time is about all that can be taught in group learning. A small group of men has been organized and is meeting at the Recreation Centre in Belleville. Here, especially, the volunteers help with the sale of our products, because it gives purpose to the work when we can offer it for sale."

440 BLIND IN DISTRICT

Assistant field secretary Don Ferguson gave an excellent report on the individual service given to the four hundred and forty blind in this district, which are visited regularly and their welfare looked after. The newly referred cases must fill out a questionnaire and have an eye report before beginning services with C.N.I.B. They are given a white cane for instruction in using it, supplied with a Braille watch and taught to tell time. Many books are available from the library in Toronto, written in Braille. If the sight was lost in later years the talking book was easier to use and required no training. These were the forerunners of the long playing records. Books from England and the United States are purchased, with fine readers doing the recording. It is expected that there will soon be records of 16 or even 8 r.p.m. Employment remains a problem, particularly for the younger blind, with intensive training if they wished to be made from the city centres were in residence at the Institute in Toronto. All but one pay board with their blind allowance of $53 a month, the balance being made up by the Board and the Provincial Government. The field workers are very happy to be asked to speak at school and public gatherings in the interest of the prevention of blindness, and they had a number of films to show to interested organizations. Emergency assistance of clothing and fuel had been given to families with limited incomes.

HAVE SUBSIDIES

Deputy Secretary P. I. Timmins stated that the reports reflected the fine way the work was going in the county, "I cannot overstress the importance of local help and local interest in case finding cases, and in the prevention of blindness," he said in closing. The work is carried out with the co-operation of the board and the C.N.I.B. Although the county has shown a surplus this year, the money will be carried forward to serve and had to be carried by the C.N.I.B. which, making a surplus of $2,715.39."

Mr. Timmins thanked the Kiwanis Club of Belleville and the White Cane Club; the Rotary Club of Belleville and Trenton; the Lions Club for transportation and its sight conservation which had been carried out by the Institute; the L.O.D.E.; church organizations, Women's Institutes; the volunteers, conveners, volunteers and others who contributed to the work for the blind.

Mrs. R. G. Fleming and Mrs. R. C. Jackson were in charge of the lunch, with a pleasing blending of colors. Mrs. D. Frost accompanied at the piano.

BLIND LEADER SPEAKS

Another leader in the work was blinded in an industrial accident; was present from Toronto to address the meeting. He had earned his Masters, degree in Social Work and had become one of the United Nations agency to the Egypt and establish a rehabilitation centre in Cairo. He brought the sincere thanks of the Institute for the help, love and support given to his colleagues in the county.

"We are proud of our building in Toronto on Bayview Avenue which the Belleville Library has 22,000 volumes in Braille, and 80,000 records. One of the things we are proud of is the distributed every week to blind people in Canada. We have also graduates from Trinity College and the Toronto Conservatory of Music and what was vital to the blind was a Braille sheet reading material. This was so expensive that it was discontinued existant at that time. With some of the money from the Lions we started a library board, extended and developed it, but every week we receive hundreds of requests from the blind for further reading material and we don't have the personnel to handle. Mrs. Cecil Baker and others blinded in the accident, up a committee, drafted a constitution for a national organization with two objectives, to encourage the prevention of blindness and the prevention of blindness. The basic services have been developed as new techniques were developed. Home teaching was given to accommodate the individual in his home and social environment. Blind men and women now have jobs as dark room technicians in hospitals, as hospitals, as dictaphone typists, and even in the professions.

"So many premature babies lost their sight by the over use of oxygen. Now that a complete pre-school training program was completed, and 200 children under sixteen years are now in the clients of this training. This is followed through with public, secondary school and even education facilities, with the exception of blind students free of charge.

"The social and recreation clubs play a most important part. Our course so vital and necessary to those who have lost their sight. These have grown over the years and have required a lot of planning, thought and heartache, and co-operation on the part of many people. The planning organization has raised the status of the blind individual its success has been due to the assistance and faith of the volunteer workers, to the blind themselves, who have discovered that they are capable of taking advantage of the training given to establish themselves in the economic life of the nation, and to the people who have given so generously to the Institute for the Blind to keep it operating."

The speaker was introduced by Mr. George Wishart and thanked by Mrs. M. C. Ward.

The report from the nominating committee, which was brought in by Mrs. H. Rollins, recommended that Mr. E. J. Fuke, former campaign manager for Mrs. P. Houchin, Sidney, be made honorary members of the Board in view of the service given during their terms of membership.

Urgent Need For Workers in United Church

KINGSTON (CP)—The urgent need for trained workers within the United Church of Canada may create new roles for women.

Rev. Percy Gordon White, representing the church's general council, told delegates to the Bay of Quinte conference the church is facing a shortage of workers in all fields.

He predicted a proposal may be brought forward at the national church meeting at Edmonton in September that will put more women in a more important role.

Mr. White said the pastoral charges were created during England last year. He said the church ministries are on a 10 to 1 ratio and charges will be added by 1965 and by 1970.

"We are facing a continuing need for more men," he said.

The report of the committees on colleges and students stated the number of candidates for the ministry dropped to 124 in 1959 from 134 in 1958.

In his president's address Rev. H. C. Fisher of Newcastle said the church must find the answers to new local leaders, stimulate lay work and obtain new canvassing facilities.

North Hastings Lakes Now Under Survey

Lake surveys by the Department of Lands and Forests are now in progress in the Tweed district. Survey crews have recently completed work on Kamaniskeg Lake in Grimsthorpe township, and will now proceed to Diamond Lake in Herschel township.

Work on Diamond Lake and Kamaniskeg Lake was recorded at 1,000 acres, but not as deep as suspected by some local residents.

Fish species found there included lake trout, s.m. bass, l.m. bass, pickerel, pike, perching, whitefish, rock bass, perch, sunfish, chubs, suckers and stickers.

Anglers fishing the body of water have a wide variety of fish to choose from, although the lake trout appeared to be the most abundant of the game-fish species.

'Peenie' Mills Dies Suddenly At His Home

Stricken with a heart attack in his home, 16 Chatham Street, on Thursday morning, William James "Peenie" Mills, noted sports figure and veteran employee of the Canadian National Railways for 41 years, retirement last year, died suddenly. Although he had been in failing health for the past year, his death was most unexpected by his many friends here in this city and the district.

He was born in this city, 65 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Alexander Mills and with the exception of the time he spent overseas in the defence of his country he had been a resident of this city and took an active interest in all its phases. He was educated at the public schools here and on the completion of his Grade 8 course he entered the employ of the C.N.R. in 1913 and for 46 years he was a valued employee of the railway system. For many years he was the switchtender east of the station and it was here that the athletic spirit, when the employees were off duty for gala fests, especially about sports, "Peenie" made a wide circle of acquaintances. A walk of life, especially among railway workers. He retired in May of last year. The many fellow employees joined in giving him a splendid farewell.

In the defence of his country he played an active part, having joined the 33rd Battery, when the First World War broke out in 1914 and proceeded overseas and thence to France, where he served his battery with distinction. Mr. Mills was badly gassed in France and was invalided to England and he came home to be discharged in 1919 and immediately he took up where he had left off in employment and playing his favorite game. He kept up his interest and friendship with his buddies through the years by being an active member of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in this city.

A GREAT BALL PLAYER

"Peenie" Mills was one of the great baseball players developed in this district. From his earliest childhood he took an active interest in the game and as he became probably the greatest amateur catcher this Province has ever seen. He led the Canadian Trunk Nationals to two Provincial championships, one against the Hamilton Harvesters in 1913 and the other against the Cornerville Chicks in 1928. He handled two of the greatest pitchers, southpaw Freddie Fitzgerald and Johnny Williams, ever to be developed in the Province and his catching helped to make them great although both of them had great natural ability. It was a pleasure to watch this fine specimen of manhood behind the plate, directing the field, studying the batters and calling the pitches.

He could have been a member of a team of high classification in the professional ranks but he chose to be at home with his family and play ball for the pure love of the game. On his home from overseas he was invited to try out with Brantford in the Canadian-American Pro loop but he stayed only a short time before he was back playing and playing ball in Belleville and he played out the entire string in his native city.

"Peenie" Mills could certainly clout a ball. He could lay any kind of pitching and was always a most dangerous in the "clutches." He was an excellent team man and a hard loser. He never asked for any quarter, while guarding the plate, and many was the injury he received by throwing abandon to the wind. He had a fine arm and many a runner was nipped at second by his precision throws.

Mr. Mills enjoyed the confidence of his teammates and the opposition. He was known the length and breadth of the Province and he had the capacity of making and holding friends, and there were many in this Province who called him friend. He enjoyed the companionship of the sporting world and his knowledge was put to good stead when he was made a member of the Ontario Athletic Commission by the late Premier Hepburn. After his playing days were over he coached and managed teams to keep his hand in the game.

A KINDLY MAN

As a citizen Mr. Mills took an active part. Although he never sought public office he could always talk intelligently on civic matters and express his opinions. As a friend one could not find a better. He was a loving husband and father and always enjoyed being with "the boys" as he called his numerous friends. He was generous, kind and considerate to all with whom he came in contact. He was unselfish and sometimes gruff exterior underneath it all was a heart of gold. He will be sadly missed in this community.

A member of St. Andrew's Church, he is survived by his wife, the former Hilda Fitzgerald; two sons, Jack Mills of this city, James Mills of Sudbury; three daughters, Mrs. Vincent (Kay) Campbell, Mrs. Norman (Kay) Wilson of this city, Miss Shirley Mills at home, and one sister, Mrs. J. R. (Kathleen) Miller, also of this city. Also surviving are five grandchildren.

The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon from the John R. Bush Funeral Home.

Health Board Asks Council To Study the Sociological Conditions in Town Areas

TRENTON — At a meeting Wednesday of the Board of Health, a resolution was passed requesting the town council to investigate action for the undertaking of a study of sociological conditions in the town with a view to eventual redevelopment of certain areas.

Several heads of municipal bodies have voiced the opinion recently that under-assessment is at the root of Trenton's financial difficulties.

O. W. Larry, town clerk-treasurer and board member, said there are a number of governments and municipalities now undertaking measures for redevelopment programs.

Miss Marjorie Gothard, board member, said she had made a study of the redevelopment programs in England and Scotland and that she was undecided as to their merit. It was a matter for some individuals, when removing slums, undertaken by governments to cleaner, more attractive surroundings, quickly returned to their original habits.

Dr. E. W. Dow wondered "if slum conditions did not, in most cases, tend to another way defeat the purpose intended, if given a chance, the majority might not improve their living habits."

The board members, also agreed that a comprehensive survey of all homes in town, with outdoor toilets, should be made, where the dwellings in question had easy access to a sewer, be compelled, within the list forwarded to the Department of Health in Toronto, to install conveniences.

H. B. Pane, chairman of the board, reported that one resident on John Street, who had been asked to pay $15 for his water and sewer facilities would not be prosecuted at the present time and charged back to the 1939 taxes. The bills over a five-year period, had been allowed to come into the town office and applied for. Mr. Pane said he had written the PUC to install water services.

"It took her five years to do it," said Mr. Pane.

Mr. Pane said he had been bothered constantly in the public interest by people calling to complain about neighbors using outdoor facilities.

He said that a town-owned house at 19 Water Street was in bad repair although he had been told that when it rained, the occupant would be twice as wet inside because the rain fell harder in the house than outdoors. He said that the floor sloped up and down when walked on." There are no sewer facilities. The occupant uses his neighbor's facilities.

The town has not been receiving rent for the house. When counsel was asked about the condition of the house, Chairman Pane said, "It's a dump."

It should be closed," said the chairman. "But that's only my opinion."

"You have to pay rent if the roof leaks!" asked Miss Gothard and Pane said, "It does not matter, they don't control, they didn't."

The discussion ended on a hopeful note that if the tenant fell behind in his rent he could be evicted and the whole problem solved.

Mr. Pane's town should clean up its own holdings before we start bothering private owners," remarked Del Topping.

This has been a week for complaints," observed the chairman. He added that in a report done on milk samples sent to a Kingston laboratory for testing, it had been noted that the temperature of the milk was 60 degrees, instead of 32 degrees. Because of this, he said he decided to save money by sending the samples by express instead of the former method employing the use of a taxi. Dr. Dow said he thought it would be better to revert to the taxi during the hot weather and decided to follow this procedure.

Mr. Pane said the building inspector had received a request for a building permit to convert a garage on Bay Street into a curb-side lunch counter. He said he did not consider the building and its surroundings suitable for this purpose, but that he could find nothing in the regulations to forbid the issuing of the permit.

"If the owner complies with health regulations, we can't do anything about it," said Mr. Pane.

MAN OF ACTION

Mr. Pane outlined a number of improvements to do with local sanitary conditions. He said one property owner who would have to replaster the house, fix an upstairs floor, redecorate and clean the cellar up recently, had come up with a bulldozer and knocked the front veranda off the house.

"He's a man of action," observed Mr. Larry, amid laughter.

Mr. Pane said he had received complaints from the probation officer about a house on Quinte Street. The roof leaks and three months behind in his rent. The water main had burst under the house and the owner refused to have it fixed until the rent was paid. The tenant refuses to get out of the house.

He probably won't pay the rent, but the owner says he won't fix the main," said Mr. Pane.

The board decided it was a matter between the owner and the tenant. The probation officer's comment that "one boy in the home had got into trouble" seemed beside the point to the board.

Will Add Eight Rooms to Town High School

TRENTON — At a meeting of the Board of Education's planning committee, including the whole board Wednesday evening it was unanimously agreed that an eight-classroom addition be added to the existing high school.

The present high school this fall will have accommodation for approximately 800 students in a building originally designed for 710. This will necessitate making classrooms of the present cafeteria and all available space. The expected enrolment for 1961 is 975, so it is with this increase in mind that the board is planning the new extension.

At the present time this is the most economical solution, but inquiries are being made as to land available for new schools, public and high, on the north side of Trenton, where the next developments will have to take place.

Steps are now being taken to obtain the necessary approvals.

At a meeting to be held on Monday, May 30, at 7.30 p.m. to discuss the proposed addition with High School Principal Cornell Johnston, and Architect B. R. Cook, the town was the architect for the original building and the first addition.

RCAF Provides Facilities for General Public

TRENTON — Personnel of RCAF Station Trenton are working every effort to provide facilities for the general public and assistance of visitors on Air Force Day, Saturday, May 25. Ample facilities will be provided. It is hoped visitors will co-operate to make this a day of safe space available.

Air Force Police will be working to direct traffic in the parking areas. To help in this regard, there will be baby sitting facilities. This work will be carried out by a competent staff of Officers' wives and daughters.

Between hangars 6 and 7 there will be a first aid post to treat victims of any accidents. There will be rest rooms for ladies and gentlemen in hangars 5 and 7.

There will be refreshment stands at various points within the RCAF area. Special attention is being given to provide seating arrangements for as many visitors as possible, and for the convenience and assistance of visitors there will be a lost and found department situated near the north gate.

City Tax Bills Now Going Out To Ratepayers

Several weeks later than during the normal year, city tax bills are now going out to Belleville property owners with a substantial percentage already having been received.

The bills started going out on May 10 and already some city property owners have paid their taxes for the year. The due date for the first instalment of taxes is June 15th.

With the residential mill rate up five mills from last year at 84.5, property owners are finding their current year's taxes are higher they in 1939. The business and industrial rate this year is 91.3 mills.

The tax bills, now going out are for the current year's taxes only with the special levy to cover the city's floating indebtedness to the end of 1939 to go out later. Property owners will have the choice of paying the special levy in one lump sum or spreading it over a five-year period.

Three Persons Escape Injury

Three persons escaped with only a scare and a shaking up yesterday when a car driven by Keith Reid, R.R. 6, Belleville, went out of control on a rural road over on the 3rd concession of Thurlow township, just east of Cannifton.

The accident occurred at the CNR railway crossing near the old pipeline tank farm. Police said Mr. Reid spotted a car approaching truck on the opposite side of the track and applied his brakes. The car went into a skid, then rolled onto its top when it struck the railway track. Damage to the car was estimated at about $300.

High School Activities

By TRINA JANITCH

As this school year draws to a close and next year's plans are presented, we wonder if in a few years, 50-60 graduates will be able to recognize their old alma mater, B.C.I.V.S.

Many radical changes have reached the "possibility" stage. Rumors of school uniforms are persistent, and the Student's Council has been asked to give its opinion on a proposed 2 or 3 dismissal instead of the current 4.00. Of course this would mean a corresponding shortening of the present long lunch period. Such activities would then take place after dismissal which would reduce the quantity (and perhaps increase the quality) of student participation. The Board will naturally have the final decision on this matter.

Something new and different for those who don't quite succeed at their June exams is a six weeks' summer school course to be held in Kingston. It is expected that a number of students from our school will register in an effort to gain a passing standing or improved grades in three or more subjects. This is certainly a wonderful "second chance" for those who might otherwise have to repeat a year.

Careful scientific research has recently discovered what, in spring, a young man's fancy really turns to thoughts of . . . softball of course. At B.C.I.V.S. this form of spring fever has even spread to the co-ed side, and, upon hour, both masculine and feminine versions of the famous game entertain scores of spectators.

Last Wednesday, a mighty B.C.I.V.S. all-star team played host to M.S.S. and somehow suffered a slight defeat (1-0). However we are confident that next Wednesday's game will be an entirely different story.

What are the sights and sounds of B.C.I.V.S.? Weird and wonderful, anyone would conclude who saw the assembly presented by the Radio Club and 12D. Candid shots of various celebrated students and teachers with appropriate sound effects kept the audience in uproarious amusement through one of the year's zest assemblies.

Twice this year, students of one of our more enterprising classes, 12A have pooled their time and talent (?) to produce their own newspaper "The Courier". Extra copies are available and the school have been snapped up like the proverbial hot cakes for the entertaining and informative (especially the social columns) pieces of work. The last edition will appear very soon and promises to be another star in its history.

The B.C.I.V.S. Keyettes held their last meeting for this year on Friday, May 24th. The Keyettes have had a very good year and have completed numerous projects among them being the installation of a new mirror and ledges in one of the girls' powder rooms, the sponsoring of the May Queen contest, the purchase of curtains for the new executive room and of course ushering for many school activities.

Education On Parliament Hill

Just a few days ago several hundred school children were treated to a trip to Ottawa where they crowded into the galleries of the House of Commons to hear the leaders of our country debate upon the problems of the nation. This, of course, should be a wonderful educational experience and should inspire any child with a sense of pride and appreciation of what our legislators are doing.

Unfortunately it appears that the children were treated to a session of extraordinary name-calling and rowdiness which undoubtedly left its impression upon them. We doubt if it was good. In the course of debate such choice phrases as "shut your mouth" and "be a man" and such descriptive verbiage as "cannot conduct himself like a minister he might at least speak like a human", "irresponsible conduct" and "misleading the House" were used in reference to members of the Cabinet.

We cannot help but wonder just what sort of a reaction this would have on the young mind. One might even wonder whose education had been neglected, that of those in the galleries, or that of those on the floor of the House.

If the honorable members must express their indignation of another honorable member's actions, words or conduct they might cloak their sentiments in a richer cloth of the King's English rather than the shoddy which appears to be common cloth at the present.

A Stitch In Time . . .

Two Ontario children lost their left eyes during Victoria Day weekend celebrations. Fifteen persons in Toronto required hospital treatment for firecracker burns. One youth lost the tips of two left-hand fingers while the rest of his hand was severely damaged. Another youth suffered painful injury to an eye when he and others threw firecrackers at each other. Yet another child suffered painful burns when a little girl threw a firecracker which bounded into his hip pocket and touched off several firecrackers.

That was the aftermath of Victoria Day weekend celebrations in Ontario. We have not bothered to calculate the injuries suffered by persons in the other nine provinces.

When is this foolishness going to stop? A better question might be when will it stop? What might happen before the sale of firecrackers is regulated.

Some communities prohibit the sale of firecrackers period. Others restrict their sale to adults or, better yet, to organizations staging a fireworks display.

Belleville does not restrict the sale of fireworks. Perhaps it should. Although no accidents were reported over the holiday weekend we did see something that sent shivers down our spine. We saw a father light finger-length firecrackers and pass them to his son, who was barely old enough to walk. Fortunately the toddler managed to toss them away before they exploded.

No Lack Of Champions

Old Bomarcs will never die, we feel. Neither will they fade away apparently. General Thomas D. White of the United States Air Force has recommended that Congress once more support and allow the $294 million appropriation recently cut from the defence program.

Recent tests of the earlier model of the Bomarc the Bomarc-A that is, have proven successful the General states. He also says that the head of the North American Air Defence Command regards the Bomarc "as the backbone of our defences."

What all this makes us wonder just how well off the North American defence program is. Our own Defence Minister, Mr. Pearkes, has stated his faith in the Bomarc in no uncertain terms and has shown no inclination to allow anything else to supplant it. Now we are told that General Lawrence Kuter, head of the Defence Command, also relies heavily on this Bomarc.

It appears that it is too bad nobody is going to develop a missile with so many important people charged with the defence of the people of North America, relying on it as "the backbone of our defence."

There is certainly one thing which no person can deny about the Bomarcs, however. They certainly have been well withheavied.

PLANTING AND REAPING

The phenomenon of planting a thing have made us. Our minds are fertile soil indeed. Over them we can cast seeds of evil which will grow into a crop capable of shocking out any good growth. By the reckless management of our purpose and imagery we can plant seeds which will grow into glory, righteousness, and peace.

But the soul is the most fertile field of all. Into it we not only cast seed but the hand of God is busy all the sowing also. Our faith looks up and sustains us in moments of danger, in seasons of sorrow. Our will power is reinforced by strength from God when we have done all we can and stand under the power of God's spirit. We are not only partners in the planting and a continual reaping.

Spring Visit to England
A Rewarding Experience

By G. A. MORTON
Article 8

One of the sights in London we were told was Covent Garden flower market so one morning Albert Mitchell called for us at 7.30 with the result we put in a pleasant hour looking around this famous flower building. Narrow aisles led us past stalls filled with cut flowers in every conceivable kind of box containing flowers in orderly array.

Besides the usual spring blossoms there were many we did not recognize, but all very lovely. Flowers are actually cheap by our standards in Canada and a large bouquet of tulips, daffodils, and iris could be purchased for less than one dollar. Crates of lily of the valley and roses added their fragrance to the air so that the tour was one of the most pleasant which could be taken.

From there we proceeded to the fruit and vegetable section of the market where huge quantities of apples from all over the world were being offered to the wholesale trade. South Africa, Australia, Tasmania, Italy, Argentina, New Zealand, Virginia, Oregon and a very few from Canada. Greater quantities are imported from one country of course, in the fall. We found the apples from Argentina of good flavor and quite crisp. Cyprus and Israel supply much English market with oranges and grapefruit.

Hothouse grapes from Belgium in large bunches held on green stalk in a box equivalent to three dollars per pound in the states and huge baskets of fresh asparagus eight to ten inches long, from Montpelier, France were in the market supply. These are served in the better restaurants, and I had them to order, and were eiten by dipping the asparagus tips of the stalks first in butter and biting off sections as we do celery. Extra choice strawberries were packed by the pint in the same way as chocolates are, each berry having its own paper cup. Others, less choice, were in pint boxes for the season was not yet in full swing.

Tremendous quantities of tomatoes, some two inches in diameter and packed in thin wooden boxes occupied large stretches of the stalls also. These were grown in the Canary Islands and take five days to reach the London markets if the weather is favorable. Sometimes as such is the nature of the English climate and the temperature in the spring that they keep well without spoiling.

Potatoes were in plentiful supply as large as our arena deals only in extra fresh, bananas and pears and here again the oranges were of good quality and would also can stand storage up to a month before spoilage sets in.

SMITHFIELD MEAT MARKET

Having completed our tour of this market, we decided to visit the Smithfield meat market on Charterhouse Street. This is rated as the largest of its kind in the world and handles large tons of meat in the carcass variety. It could be startling to some everyone would want to visit this market, but it proved interesting enough to our party at least.

It occupies a site which in the long distant past was known as the "smooth field" lying outside the city wall and was used as a place for jousting, St. Bartholomew's Priest-Hospital conducted many executions. Among those who were put to death were William Wallace, beheaded in 1305 for supporting Robert Bruce's claim to the Scottish throne and several Protestant and Roman Catholic martyrs were burnt at the stake during the 16th and early 17th centuries for their beliefs.

We hesitate to estimate the ground floor area of the meat building cover but it must be nearly the area of Victoria Park. Every inch of space was filled with carcasses of dressed beef, hogs and sheep. Some of the dressed beef we met there was beef from Argentina and Uruguay matured from New Zealand but most of the hogs appeared to be from English sources. This is the wholesale market only where hotels, restaurants and big shops store up their supplies.

Each wholesale dealer was asked how long before the meat reached the market it was killed and dressed slaughtered and he said two or three days. Then we asked how long after it was sold would it be sold to the consumer and he thought about three or four days. He got indignant when we suggested that beef should be sold before two weeks at the earliest for greater tenderness. He said "Good beef, he stated, "the finest in the world and every tender matter when it is eaten." That was that.

Later we met another dealer, R. C. Lister of Petitwood, Kent, Lister, Clifford, lives at Peterborough, Ontario. Also R. C. Foulds, editor of George Kean and Co. and The Stock Breeders Mutual Co. Ltd., 78 Long Lane, London, E.C. 1. Foulds was formerly with the Swift Company in Chicago but has been living for many years in England. His son, incidentally, is an amateur boxer of renown in England and also plays with one of the top field hockey teams in London. His father visited him one of the matches and looked every inch the athlete that he is.

Mr. Foulds said that it was true, Scottish beef was highly rated with the best breeds being Shorthorn, Highland and Herrfords in that order. Others rated Highland breed first. Irish beef was highly rated, especially for finishing and sometimes sold as Scottish beef, but were not considered to be in the same class by the experts.

Argentina and Uruguayan beef took a mouth to reach the English market and during the voyage was kept at a temperature of 29½ degrees and it reached the market in better meat condition than the domestic beef which was killed and sold at time according to Mr. Foulds. So you have your choice and take your pick.

Witty Minds Meet and the Insults Fly

Purely Personal Prejudices:

In language clarity is everything. And it must be the clarity that separates ideas from the passions surrounding them, not the false clarity that offers simple passions as a substitute for ideas.

Those in a restaurant or other public place who are always looking around apprehensively as if were, losing themselves in the crowd, are usually the ones generally incapable of enjoying themselves and are afraid that their others are having a better time than they are. Their curiosity does not spring from a desire to be sociable, but from a nagging sense of weak identity.

Many husbands who pride themselves on being "good providers" would have much more factory home lives if they would help with the housework.

The disguises some men adopt to hide their true selves are thin as the single candor of others.

The most powerful combination in the world, a man will not called out by any grand cosmic principle, but by the lowest or in history books — but merely by his sitting down upon a sleeping child.

Humanity has the persistent habit of overlooking the central character into a set of principles, and then, being disappointed, "a man will do more for his country than for his religion or his country."

The layman today is overcome by the vast complexity which only makes him jittery; he has neither the desire nor the will to be coming down with every new disease he learns about in the medical books.

It is a recurrent paradox in history that the worst cowardly always overcome the strength of the brave, not by their strength but with good models they can be a man, but they need to be considered that they will seek out models who will not pressure need of an unformed personality is to find some model.

"Go and eat grass" an irate young wife said to her husband the other day, in a fit of temper. Hubby, who had been keeping abreast of the times, smiled and replied, "It wouldn't be a bad idea if we both did that. It would cure a lot of things". He had read about the tremendous strides made by science in the development of the health-giving properties of any humble blade of grass, during the past four years. Three weeks ago, Drs. W. R. Graham, George O. Kohler and C. F. Schnabel, research scientists with the Western Dairies of Kansas City, after four years of scientific research, decided to 'make hay for humanity'. They had already found that grass contains all the vitamins except 'D' and that it is three times richer in vitamins per pound than dried fruits or vegetables. Buried in the leafy shoots, they discovered were 28 times more Vitamin 'A' than in carrots, nine times more Vitamin 'B' than in leafy green vegetables; twenty-two times more Vitamin 'B2' than in lettuce and fourteen times more Vitamin 'C' than in lemons or citrus fruits. But most important of all, they discovered the grass contains the new Vitamin 'K' which has worked wonders for hemorrhage in both infants and grown-ups. Dr. W. R. Graham who is a son of Graham, of the firm now of Guelph, Ont., is a member of the Graham family of this city.

How Belleville Got Its Name.

The comidg centennial celebration of Belleville brings up a very interesting story as to how Belleville got its name. One day General Gore, who was then Governor of Upper Canada, was driving from Kingston to Toronto. On the way he came across into the little village then called Myers Creek by some, and by others Thurlow village, and a stop was made for the party to take dinner. Being delighted with the picturesque little place and with the people he met, he decided to remain over night. The only hotel in the village was kept by John Simpson and stood at the corner of Dundas Street and Front Street. Some of this old hotel is still standing and forms part of Mr. Williams Clarke's dry goods shop. The inn had a reputation for good liquors, good food, comfortable beds and cleanliness. The Governor and his wife, Lady Bella Gore, were taken out fishing and in the meantime arrangements were made for Belleville's first great ball that evening. The Governor and Lady Bella made such a favorable impression on the inhabitants of the little village that it was decided to name the place Belleville after Lady Bella Gore. This is the version in connection with the Centennial and Old Boys' Reunion to be held this summer in Belleville.

Reduce Words To Minimum

There always are a few folks who seem able to reduce language to the absolute minimum and still succeed in communicating with others.

A case in point is provided by the conversation or two South Shore men concerning the eating of lunch. As we overheard it, the exchange went like this:

"Yes?

"Yep.

"Yes."

His one good example of the local colloquialisms of this province. In the Annapolis Valley, the same conversation probably would have gone thus:

EMPHYSEMA OF THE LUNG DENOTES LACK OF ELASTICITY

To offer another example, suppose someone in the family has impaired eyesight. It may be because he was born with some defect of the eye. Or his eyes may have been damaged from some injury. But we know that his poor eyesight isn't contagious. If no infection is present, then no precautions are necessary. If lung infection is present, your physician will tell you what to do.

"Dear Dr. Molner: All my life I've wondered how long a person's hair and fingernails go on growing after he's dead."

The hair, from about a quarter of an inch a month up to nearly twice that much; the nails, about one-sixth of an inch a month.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is the main difference between mitral stenosis and aortic stenosis? Would it be dangerous for a person to have surgery for aortic stenosis? — Mrs. K. of K."

Stenosis, or partial closing off, of a heart valve naturally interferes with the heart's efficiency. The mitral valve lies between the chambers of the heart; the aortic valve is in the aorta, or large artery, near the heart. The difference, then, is in place at which the stenosis has its effect. Surgery may be, of course, a major operation; whether it is depends on conditions. I would depend on your general physical condition as weighed against the value of the surgery.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

KEEP IN THE CENTRE OF THINGS

Go to any place where activity seems to be, and you will note that the activity is in the centre — where all onlookers get as soon as possible. The interest is greatest there. In our active life a fact is learned. Most things happen in the centre of the village. Even a dog fight! By keeping in the centre of events we are made capable to think out things as we may wish.

All great newspapers display the most important news in their most heralded positions. These are those who like to associate with the famous folk, but that in itself is unimportant. They are bigger than we do. Mere fame is the tricky affair. It is fleeting in so many places. We should, however, keep in the centre of things where we can learn. Something important shaping its way. We can learn by observing. Also if we pour so much of us still into the centre of things is where the crowds will be gathered. This is not much interest in the side-lines. All great leaders see and learn! The Hero travels alone all his life long, but remains always kind to the genuinely great.

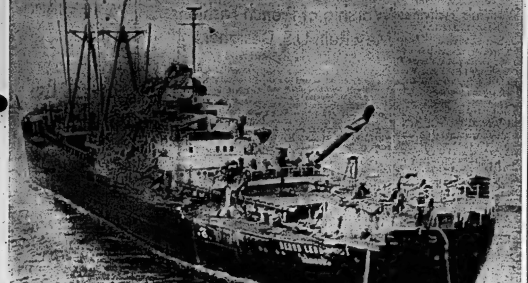
Shorthand At Top Speed

St. Thomas Times - Journal



A point little noticed in the Chessman case is that step by step, through state and federal courts, his office has remained intact, that his trial transcript was incorrect because a dead reporter notes were transcribed by a typist. The point fascinate a succession of judges from the lower benches to the United States Supreme Court, who entertained 16 of his appeals.

The average office stenographers, and even the average court reporter would have a high rate of speed, frequently have difficulty in transcribing their own notes. Accordingly, they have taken down the words of a fast speaker. They may even have to substitute a word, or words, that appear to fit. But as for transcribing the notes of another person, that seems almost impossible; there are so many variations in the writing of shorthand outlines as there are between the longhand writing of one person and that of another. Deciphering shorthand notes, therefore, is a much more difficult than

Probably the world's best stenographers are the dozen or so up sky scrapers before the reporter, who jumps from one book to the other, the former taking down every word he messenger. This is repeated every day in the week committees, and back in the office a corps of readers dictate a transcription of the notes to a corps of typists. Next morning a verbatim and accurate printed transcription of the proceedings is in the hands of everybody concerned. After five hours of notetaking the reporters are finished for the day. They can go home.

EISENHOWER

planes for such an inspection if the UN would agree.

MUST STAY STRONG

At the same time Eisenhower acknowledged in the events that led to the summit crash the "unpredictability of despotic rule" and called on the U.S. to maintain a steady military strength for the "long pull." He stressed the importance of maintaining American foreign aid programs to improve conditions in which human freedom can flourish.

Eisenhower went before his people to explain his actions at the summit, including the timing on the U-2 plane flight over Russia. The issue of his speech was that Khrushchev deliberately exaggerated the importance of the incident in order to "scuttle" the conference.

"It is apparent," he said, "that the Soviets had decided even before the Soviet delegation left Moscow that my trip to the Soviet Union (scheduled for June 10) should be cancelled and that nothing constructive from their viewpoint would come out of the summit conference."

ONLY OPPORTUNITY

Timing of the May 1 flight was essential to gather "important information" which was "likely to be unavailable at a later date."

He did not disclose what this "important information" was, but he added a point which may have weighed even more heavily on American minds — that never again would they be caught as they had by the Japanese at Pearl Harbor.

From Pearl Harbor we learned that even negotiation itself can be used to conceal preparations for surprise attack," said Eisenhower.

Eisenhower said he took responsibility for what the U.S. government did, including the military communications alert on the eve of the summit and the original masking of the truth on the U-2's real mission in Russia.

PILOT SHIELDED

The government's first statement, that the plane was merely on a routine weather - testing flight, was a "cover" to protect pilot Francis Powers if he were still alive and trying to escape. The truth had been told when Khrushchev disclosed that Powers was in Russian custody.

Why had Washington been so slow in announcing that the U-2 flights would not be continued?

"I wanted no public announcement of this decision until I could personally disclose it at the summit meeting in conjunction with certain proposals I had prepared for the conference," Eisenhower said, referring to his aerial surveillance plan.

Explaining that it was taken from an altitude more than 70,000 feet, about 13 miles, he said that some of the lines clearly shown in the picture were only six inches wide.

The photograph provided an example of "what could be accomplished through United Nations aerial surveillance," the president said.

Relief supplies are being sent by the United States, Argentina, Chile, Ecuador, Haiti, Peru, the Netherlands and Norway. The Chilean Red Cross appealed for food and tents for the homeless survivors.

SURVIVORS' EFFORTS

Ashen—faced refugees flown here from battered Puerto Montt said the city of 20,000 on the south-central coast was a shambles.

"There is little water and almost no food," said one. "The injured in the hospital had to be moved into the street for fear the building would collapse."

Another group of survivors from Valdivia reported thousands were suffering from hunger and cold. The armed forces took over the entire food supply and began rationing it.

Private-plane pilots pressed into an airlift of food and supplies to the tiny island of Mocha, 20 miles off the coast. The island's wharf and most of the buildings were demolished by giant waves and earthquakes, leaving only a few survivors among the 600 inhabitants and they were reported near starvation in the hills.

WILL NEED LOANS

Finance Minister Roberto Vergara emphasized the grave economic crisis posed by the disaster.

"Foreign loans will be necessary," he said. "We cannot handle the enormous job alone."

"Not only are thousands and thousands of people without shelter, clothing or food. The earthquakes have destroyed railways and roads, telephones and telegraphic, electric power supply, bridges, schools, hospitals and hotels. And the industries which provided work for a high percentage of the population in the south have been ruined."

Welding Sparks Caused Blaze At Peterborough

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP)—Sparks from a welder's torch being used by construction workers were the cause of a $60,000 fire May 3 at Civic Hospital, according to a report submitted Wednesday to the Ontario fire marshal's office.

The report said the fire guard armed with an extinguisher, had been instructed to carry out other duties more beneficial, and the torch-burning operation at the time the fire broke out.

The report was compiled by Inspector Allen Williams of the Belleville district fire office and John Balcerak, an engineer.

More than 120 patients were evacuated during the fire which destroyed the staff cafeteria and filled the wards with smoke. It began in a new wing under construction.

Hospital board chairman Max J. Swanson said a meeting of the board has been called for next Monday.

"No legal action will be contemplated until we have fully examined and discussed this report," he said.

Pigott Construction Company of Toronto is general contractor for the new wing.

Early Warning Line Working To Perfection

PARAMUS, N.J. (CP)—United States military aircraft have been unsuccessful in attempts to penetrate without detection the Distant Early Warning Line in Canada's far north, it was disclosed Wednesday.

Richard H. Cruzen, civilian project manager of the radar warning system, told this to a military and civilian personnel meeting here to discuss the efficiency of the North American radar system in light of the U-2 spy-plane incident.

The Air Defence Command official in charge of the DEW line concluded after the two - day meeting that it would be impossible for an enemy spy plane to sneak over U.S. soil and take photographs.

ASSISTANCE ACT

Armand Dumas (L — Villeneuve), Liberal party mining spokesman from northern Quebec, said that if the Canadian dollar reaches par with the American dollar, the rate of guidemining aid will be just about right. The Canadian dollar's premium has worked hardship on the industry.

Mundo Martin (CCF—Timmins) said Northern Ontario isn't anywhere to a solution of its problems after 21 years of the program. The act was good enough within its scope but he repeated his call for a federal-provincial commission including employee-employer representatives to find a lasting solution.

HIRING U.K. MINERS

Gold mines still pay low wages, he said. While unemployed miners were being plentiful, such as Hollinger Consolidated Mines and Siscoe-Porcupine Limited now had recruiting teams in Britain looking for miners.

They had collected a total of $15,000,000 under the assistance act and yet Hollinger had managed to move into Ungava iron ore and McIntyre was reported to have acquired Algoma Steel.

"Are a few smart operators putting it over the Canadian people?" he asked.

Mr. Fisher noted that small operations acquired by larger companies now had stopped paying dividends to shareholders in some cases, although they were getting assistance.

ELLIOT LAKE'S CLAIM

Arnold Peters (CCF — Timiskaming), once a gold miner too, agreed that the position of gold prime communities hasn't changed since the act was passed. It could be argued that Elliot Lake, having hardship due to lack of uranium markets, should get help too.

Commenting that the mining industry's point of view is not necessarily that of the community or its workers, Mr. Fisher said go moves have been made to bring secondary industry into gold mining towns.

The basic purpose of the emergency legislation must have been to solve the problems of the community and its workers by building up new industry against the time when ores were depleted.

But no action had been taken no industry built up, no contributions made to workers' pensions from the government aid. The position was exactly the same as in 1948.

J. C. Van Horne (PC—Restigouche-Madawaska) urged that a royal commission investigate subsidies to all Canadian mining.

60 Tamsworth Students Learn Geography and History EasyWay

TORONTO — How to learn Canadian history and geography? Visit the sites that are described in the text books.

That's the experience of 60 secondary school students from Tamworth, 20 miles north of Napanee.

Last Friday, the students went on a Canadian National Railways educational tour of Toronto and the Niagara Peninsula to visit historical and geographical points in southern Ontario which have played a part in the development of Canada.

The genesis of the trip goes back to the beginning of the school term when the students, with the assistance of their principal, R. M. Park, organized an excursion committee.

Throughout the term, they conducted various special projects to raise the money required for the trip for each pupil. The projects included a presentation of the play "Arsenic and Old Lace," selling magazine subscriptions, staging a dance, and collecting coat hangers.

The students' efforts brought them $10 apiece, and the remainder of the money was put up by their parents, the Home and School Association and the Tamworth School Board. A few students, prompted by pride and industry, used some of their personal savings to make up the balance.

The group, representing the entire school, left Napanee Friday afternoon, aboard a reserved CNR day coach which was their "home on wheels" during the trip. They were accompanied by Ken Fleming, CNR passenger agent, who made all the travel arrangements.

When they arrived in Toronto they were greeted by J. A. Breau, special assistant to CNR's passenger traffic manager. Once off the train, the students headed for Toronto's Royal Connaught Hotel where they had dinner and spent the night. Before retiring, the group was given a bus tour of the city which included visits to the Legislative Buildings, the Royal Ontario Museum and Toronto's famed Casa Loma.

The next morning they boarded their special coach and headed for St. Catharines where they transferred to CNR buses for a tour of the Niagara Peninsula.

On the second section of the trip, students and teachers visited Lock No. 4 of the Welland Canal, St. Andrew's Church, St. Mark's Church, founded in 1792, and the monument erected to General Brock, Ontario's hero in the war of 1812.

One of the highlights of the trip included a ride on the Skylon Aero Car over the fabulous Whirlpool Basin in the Niagara gorge. Not all the students took advantage of this opportunity, but those who did, readily admitted on their return that they were glad to get their feet back on solid ground.

The next stop on the tour marked the end of the trip — Niagara Falls. Here cameras clicked, eyes popped and a mad dash for the souvenir stands started. Only one student in the entire group had ever been to Niagara before.

The return portion of the trip was marked by a stop in Toronto for two hours, and this gave the students a chance to take in a movie before heading for home.

Opinions of the trip? Principal Park was enthusiastic about it. The trip, he said, gave the students a better insight into history, geography and their texts.

"For instance", he said, "They are more likely to remember General Brock now, after climbing the steps to the top of his monuments".

Settle Dispute Between Unions

WINNIPEG (CP) — A dispute that split the International Brotherhood of Firemen and Engineers (CLC) in Canada was settled Wednesday in meetings between a rebel group and international officers.

D. F. L. McDougall, a leader of the group which seeks to set up a separate Canadian division of the union, said international president H. E. Gilbert of Cleveland agreed to a referendum on the question among Canadian firemen.

Lodges which withheld dues from the grand lodge in Cleveland to support their demand for a separate Canadian division have been told to release the money, he said in an interview. Mr. Gilbert agreed to withdraw legal action and reinstate suspended lodges.

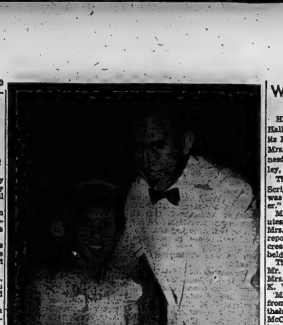
Man Pushover For Properly Perfumed Mate

WINNIPEG (CP)—Almost any man is a pushover for a properly perfumed woman, says beautiful Regina Beaujard of Paris.

"The trouble with most women is that they just dab perfume behind the ears, it doesn't do a thing for me.

"Apply it to the crook of the elbow, at the temples, around the hairline, at the base of the throat and behind the knees."

Explaining the perfumed legs, Miss Beaujard said "when you walk, the fragrance rises and that's important."



She is touring North America as the director of a fragrance education program sponsored by a Paris perfume manufacturer.

Different perfumes should be worn to fit the occasion, she said.

A woman should want to date with a man should avoid too heavy a scent, otherwise, "the poor man won't even be able to taste his food."

For tennis or golf, a "sporting scent" should be chosen. And perfumes never should be put on clothing, only on the body.

Miss Beaujard's main mission for a woman, and on certain men it has an effect like champagne."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert James Grieve are shown signing the register in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, following their recent marriage.

GRIEVE-SMITH

Large white baskets of white and yellow chrysanthemums adorned the altar of the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on Saturday, May 7th, at 2 p.m. when white satin bows designated the guest pews, for the lovely spring wedding when Audrey Adeline Smith, of Bellleville, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Smith, became the bride of Robert James Grieve, of Belleville, youngest son of Mr. John Grieve, of Paris, Ontario, and the late Mrs. Grieve. The Reverend W. J. McGee officiated at the double ring ceremony. The altar boys were Peter Smith, brother of the bride, and Teddy Young.

Miss Dorothy Grant, church organist, presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Robert Burke, in his rendition of "Ave Maria," "Panis Angelicus" and "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother."

Given in marriage by her father, the radiantly lovely bride wore a full-length bridal gown of pure silk organza with bouffant skirt with lace appliqué, molded bodice of Alencon lace, Sabrina neckline, long tight sleevez; sheer elbow-length veil with matching appliqué. The bridal gown was a stylish one style, encrusted with sequins and seed pearls, and she carried a cascade of deep red roses and white stephanotis with ivy and white satin streamers.

Mrs. Leona Grier of Belleville was her sister's matron of honor, and Miss Linda Herrington and Miss Carolyn Vos, both of Belleville, were bridesmaids. All wore gowns of yellow silk organza with poinsettia accessories, cummerbund waists, bouffant skirts with deep hem treatment. Bow hats and veils, mitts and pumps of yellow completed their outfits.

The matron of honor carried a bouquet of white carnations while the bridesmaids carried yellow and white carnation corsages.

Little Miss Cynthia Grier of Belleville, niece of the bride, as flower girl, was demure in her dainty yellow organza dress with fancy collar and puff sleeves, bouffant skirt with deep hem treatment, yellow headband and white shoes and gloves. She carried a basket of yellow Shasta daisies and white carnations.

Mr. Cecil Rampersaud of Toronto, acted as groomsman, while Mr. William Grier, brother-in-law of the bride, and Mr. John Grieve, of Freeport, Ill., brother of the bridegroom, acted as ushers.

The bridegroom, groomsman, ushers and ring bearer were attired alike in white dinner jackets with midnight blue trousers.

Following the ceremony, the reception and wedding dinner were held at Club Canada, where the bride's mother, attired in her original inspired model of lilac silk peasant with picture hat of white and corsage of white Shasta daisies, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing a beige non blue lace sheath, matching hat and corsage of pink carnations.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Frederick Ritchi, assisted in the receiving line, attired in a beige shirtwaist of silk twill with a picture hat of pink and a corsage of pink Pinocchio roses.

The bride's table was daintily appointed with white damask, and centred by an all-white wedding cake, topped by two white doves beneath an arch of white roses and misted about the base with white tulle. Tall pink candles in silver holders and the bridal bouquets added a pretty nuptial accent.

For the wedding trip to New York State, the New England states, New Brunswick and Quebec, the bride chose a three-piece costume of beige flaxlinen, beige alligator pandanus with a beige gloves, chocolate brown accessories and a corsage of yellow orchids.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride was a single strand of matured pearls. The bride's gift to her bridegroom was a lighter. The bride's gifts to her attendants were pearls and earrings, to the groom's men a pearl cuff link. The bridegroom's gifts to his attendants were wallets, and to the ring bearer a signet ring.

Guests were present from Freeport, Ill., Paris, Toronto, Belleville, Montreal, Kingston, Deseronto and Picton.

Previous to her marriage the bride was entertained at a pantry shower by the bride's mother at the home of the bride's mother, also at a linen shower given by Miss Linda Herrington and Mrs. Inez Lloyd, at the home of Mrs. Thelma Davis.

The bride was also the recipient of a white telephone, telephone index and matching picture frame and silk trays, given by the traffic department staff of Bell Telephone, of which she is a member.

Mr. and Mrs. Grieve will reside at 44 Pouton Street, Belleville.

Women to Be Tied up in Bows This Fall

LONDON (Reuter)—Christian Dior of London, the wholesale house which exports to 26 countries, modelled inspired by the famous Paris high fashion house, suggested Wednesday that the fashionable women will be tied up in bows this fall.

In a collection of 166 models, bows were used restrainedly for the first profusion for afternoon and evening.

A simple cocktail dress had a matching bows from shoulder to elbow on each three-quarter length sleeve.

Bows were used as the starting point for puffed fullness in the back of short and long evening dresses, which fell straight in front after gently modding the figure.

The sleeves in suit was longer jackets, slightly fitted in front and straight at the back. This longer-bodice look was echoed in day and evening dresses, and in swinging coats with loose hip-lines.

Suits, in wool or tweed for day and rich metallic brocades for evening, were shown with short-sleeved or sleeveless overblouses in the same fabric.

Worship of French Fashions May Ruin U.S. Designers

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—The worship by American women of anything that's imported may ruin the American fashion industry, says Oleg Cassini, designer, dress manufacturer and man about town.

"I expect my business to fall off $1,000,000 next year, just because of the hysteria of American stores and females," he says the suave Cassini. "All over the country stores are displaying French fashions—some are copies of couture designs and others are French ready-mades. Within a month of the Paris openings you'll see copies selling for as low as $14.95.

"Some stores even have the nerve to ask well-known American designers, like me, to make French copies. That's the ultimate insult."

Cassini points out that U.S. stores now can buy French ready-made clothes at much less than they would cost to make here, even including import duties. And the glamor of a French label continues to dazzle the American public, even if it's sewed on a gunny sack.

"The flood of French clothes in this country is creating a real American tragedy in fashion. We have many great designers in this country, but store buyers have no hesitation in deserting them and running like sheep to Paris.

"No matter how ugly, grotesque and unflattering a new style may be, Americans rush to buy it and copy it, if it's first shown in Paris.

"I was nearly murdered when I refused to make a sack dress a couple of years ago. Practically every other American manufacturer was following the lead of Paris and turning out sacks by the carload. But this was too much for me. Why make a woman look like an old bag, just to get on the fashion bandwagon?"

The rage for French labels is more widespread now than ever before, says Cassini. And if U.S. designers don't take a firm stand, he says, many of them are going to find themselves out of business.

Biggest Baby Shower Proved Huge Success

OTTAWA (CP) — The world's biggest baby shower proved such a huge success it is being extended.

The all-Canadian "layette list"—an enterprise of the Unitarian Service Committee—has sent 25,000 basic layettes to Middle East mothers last month.

Now it is to be extended to help needy mothers and their babies in Hong Kong and Greece.

The 15-year-old non-denominational Canadian agency pledged 25,000 layettes to the United Nations Mothers in refugee camps in Jordan, Lebanon, Syria and the Gaza Strip before Christmas for the first time to dress their babies in warm and cosy garments.

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, the committee's executive director, said gifts of new and used baby clothes—diapers, towels and baby blankets especially — are most welcome at committee depots for babies now being helped in Hong Kong, Korea and Greece.

375 Attend 'Fantasy in Fashions' Sponsored by Med. Society WA

A capacity audience of approximately 375 were given a preview of this year's spring and summer fashions last night when they attended the "Fantasy in Fashions" show in the auditorium of the new nurses' residence, Dundas St.

"Fantasy in Fashion" was sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the Hastings and Prince Edward County Medical Society, and featured the latest in beach wear, travel ensembles, casuals, and dresses for formal occasions.

The commentator, Mrs. G. Allen, who was attractively attired in a sleeveless, v-neck dress of black linen outlined in white and accented by large white buttons, did a capable job of describing the lovely ensembles. The creations, by such well known designers as Mr. Mort. Rose, and Jean Scott, were shown to advantage by eight local models.

MODELS

The models were Carolyn Forhan, Winn Maloney, Wendy Waters, Mrs. Jim Cathcart, Mrs. W. P. Mascaro, Mrs. Jo Gist, Stevie Dahl, and Barbara Chapelle.

An address of welcome was given prior to the start of the show by the Auxiliary president, Mrs. R. S. Morphy, who briefly outlined the charitable and humanitarian projects which the Auxiliary supports financially through such fund-raising projects as fashion shows. She commended Mrs. Rota and Mrs. T. Ryley, convenors of the fashion show.

The show opened with the showing of beachwear for 1960. A striking beach ensemble was of Sabrina model bathing suit in Egyptian colors, worn under a yellow lacey cloth model coat. Another attention drawing number was a pumpkin-colored poncho lined in terry cloth with interesting detailing and and slit pockets, ideal for wearing after a swim.

Capri slims of bright red, featuring a flor:l insert down one leg, and worn with a gaily patterned topper tied in native fashion, are among the latest in summer casuals. Another popular ensemble for the beach is a reversible four-piece set consisting of Bermuda shorts, slims, blouse and cape. The set is in a delicate mauve flagrad pattern which reverses to a deep purple to make the narrow belt.

CASUAL TRAVEL WEAR

Featured in casual and travel wear was a dress of multi-colored terylene in browns, olive greens, and blues, with a mid-calf collared neckline, short sleeves, and permanently pleated skirt.

The Eastern Oriental influence, much in evidence this season, was shown in an Anne Klein oriental inspiration patterned in sunny yellow, red, and black, with mandarin-type top. The surprising feature is the removable, matching silk-lined skirt, which reveals a striking skirt of sunny yellow underneath, which contrasts with the patterned top.

FORMAL ATTIRE

In formal attire a must in every girls' wardrobe is a chantecoal and white lace formal, featuring an inset bodice of white lace, shirred waist, tiny straps and a full, dancing skirt.

Women with maternity-type figures who want to look chic on formal occasions, will look stunning in a deep rosewood organza gown, fashioned with a surplus bodice of organza over lace. The midriff is finely tucked, and a rose of the same material blends softly into the graduated tucking of the sheath skirt, which re-vovices a surprisingly slim line.

Perfect for the sophisticated traveller is a heavenly blue linen ensemble of simple sheath with accentuated waist under a trim, straight-lined coat.

The audience had a preview of the newest idea of cotton lace which will be quite fashionable this summer. It was a simple sheath in a baby floral pattern, accented by a cummerbund of dark brown organza, worn under an elegant matching coat with boned neckline.

PRIZES DRAWN

Draws for prizes were made during intermission. The draws were made by Mrs. G. E. Cronk and Dr. L. B. Matheson. A presentation was made to Miss Doris Smith, nursing director at R.C.H., on behalf of the Auxiliary, and was received by Mrs. Kilpatrick in the absence of Miss Smith.

The second half of the show featured a wedding scene complete with the bride in a floor-length white gown, and chapel veil, surrounded by her attendants. Her matron of honor, in apple green organza with cascade drape at the back caught by a rose of the same material, and wide collar. The bridesmaids were similar styled dresses in bright yellow.

LOVELY FURS

A "Fashion Flash of Furs" was presented by Woodley's, featuring mink, seal, squirrel, persian lamb, and muskrats in coats from full-length to short jackets and capes. Much in evidence this year is the wide cape collars and set-on cuffs, so popular this year.

A real stunner was a grey lamb cape jacket trimmed with luxurious grey Arctic fox cuffs. Another popular number was a black Persian lamb coat specially made and exhibited in the Canadian fur fashion show in Montreal, May 10th, featuring a cape collar of seven sapphire mink skins.

Furs were modelled by Mrs. Stan Wiggins and Mrs. Douglas Woodley.

At the conclusion of the show a draw for a trip for two to New York was held and refreshments were served.

Fashions were provided by Rachfels, Bags and shoes, from sophisticated polished - toed pumps to colourful striped casuals, were supplied by Leslie Shoe Store. Hats, featuring styles from dramatic to frothy, and luxurious furs were supplied by Woodley's. And smart jewellery to complement each outfit was provided by O'Connor's Jewel Box.

Prior to the show, a home baking sale was held. Convenor was Mrs. R. Douglas. The tea room convener was Mrs. P. Lodge, and assistants were Mrs. W. P. Mascaro, Mrs. S. Salley, Mrs. T. Ryley, Mrs. D. Rota, Mrs. J. Bell, Mrs. B Cronk, Mrs. B. Nugent, Mrs. T. Lyons, Mrs. R. Scott and Mrs. H. Williams.

Fashion show convenors were Mrs. A. Rota and Mrs. T. Ryley. Stage decorations were provided by Mrs. Ryley and Mrs. J. Elliot. Mrs. T. Welles and Mrs. S. Miles were in charge of tickets.

Hair Styles For 1960 Like Proverbial Bride

By PEGGY MASSEY

PARIS (Reuter) — Hair styles for 1960 are like the proverbial bride who wears "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue."

Trends incorporate classic upsweept styling adapted in new shapes, with a blue-black rinse and chignons have been borrowed to lend a long-haired look to short hair. The brunette is complete with blue and dark ash shades replacing honey blonde shades as the most popular hair coloring.

Today's connotation of the word "wardrobe" no longer is confined to dresses hanging in the cupboard. "Hair wardrobes" are the newest idea, with detachable wigs to numberless small artificial pieces. Pony tails can be draped and coiled or will frizzled chignons, caged under cobweb sheer nets, are ready draped by Paris hairdressers. Gay little fringed bangs or side wings, set on invisible hairpins, reveal endless new effects and variations.

Hair color is the most startling rare. Over the years, bleaching and permanent waves have changed the weekend women's crowning glory, and it is rare to see the ordered waist-length hair styles across the order of the day until the early 1930s. Medical experts also agree that the growth of hair slows down considerably when a woman is over 30.

Because Paris wives usually dictates a long - haired look, false hairs are at present as commonplace as lipstick and other cosmetics.

Casually groomed and curly hair is out today, in favor of sleek, up - swept styles. Rattling and teasing the hair by backcombing, brushing and back frequently avoiding the need for constant curling. Short ends left at the nape of the neck are crossed, twisted over a rat-tailed comb, and held in place by a retaining spray of lacquer.

BARRY — STEWART

Tall white standards of white snapdragons, white pom pons, and white gladioli interspersed with ferns, and candelabra with tall white candles formed a lovely setting on Saturday, May 14, at 2.30 p.m., in Albert College Chapel, Belleville, for the marriage of Barbara Jane Stewart, B.R. 3, niece of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Stewart, to Gerard Joseph Barry, of Hoboken, New Jersey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Barry. The Reverend Andrew MacKenzie, D.D., principal of Albert College, officiated at the double-ring ceremony. White satin bows adorned the guest pews.

Mr. Douglas B. Hoare, organist at the College, provided the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Helen Scott, Reg. B. Sec'd Woods City, California, in her rendition of "Ave Maria," and "Because."

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. John L. Stewart, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of white silk embroidered organza and French lace, featuring a fitted bodice with bateau neckline, empire waistline of inserted French lace, and long pointed sleeves ending in wee "p" points over the wrists. The floor-length skirt of organza, accented by a front panel of lace detailed with tiny bows of organza, featured a bouffant back and scalloped, embroidered hemline. She wore a double tiara encrusted with rhinestones and seed pearls, and fingertip length veil of silk tulle illusion, and carried a Colonial bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Marie Schell, Reg. N., Toronto, attended the bride, wearing a street-length gown of pastel yellow organza over taffeta, with bonded mauve petal lace bodice, accented by matching organza sash bow, with tiny face veil of mauve tulle illusion. Mauve and white glove and shoe ensemble and a cascade of mauve orchids matched with white stephanotis, completed her nuptial costume.

Mr. Lloyd Garrett of Montreal, brother, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. John Doolittle, Toronto, and Mr. Brian Steel, of Toronto, ushered the guests.

The wedding reception was held in the Prince Edward suite of Hotel Quinte, where the guests were received by the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Bismart, wearing a navy blue ensemble with matching three-quarter coat, pink accessories and corsage of pale pink carnations. Assisting in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, gowned in green printed silk dress with beige accessories, squirrel neckpiece and corsage of tawny gold roses.

The bride's table was appointed with white damask, centred by a three-star wedding cake topped by two wedding bells and white doves, and circled about the base with white tulle misting mauve carnations.

For the wedding trip to New York State, and the province of Quebec, by motor, the bride wore an avocado green formfitting suit with white petal cloche hat, white gloves, matching green shoes and bag, and white orchid corsage.

Guests attended from Hoboken, New Jersey; Toronto, Deseronto, Belleville, Montreal, Redwater City California and New York City.

The bride was the honored guest prior to the wedding at a bathroom shower given by classmates of Miss Barry 50 of Wellesley Hospital, Toronto, in presentation by the staff of the Wellesley nursing room; at the presentation of a gift from the bobby-pin friends of Trent Road, and at a trousseau tea given by her aunt, Mrs. John L. Stewart, of Belleville R. 3.

The bridegroom was also honored by a presentation from the Needle-Thompson and Company, New York office, and by the directors of the Needle-Thompson and Bond Trading Department of Nesbitt-Thompson, Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Barry will reside in Montreal, Quebec.

Pine Grove W.I. Hears Report On Public Relations Parley

MARSH HILL — The May meeting of Pine Grove W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. William Slater with 17 ladies present.

The president, Mrs. Charles Ross, opened the meeting with a reading, "Though It Be Little."

One membership fee was paid. Convenors of standing committees reported. Mrs. Frank Pinkle read an article from the Federated News, Mrs. Ruth Dale passed out the C.A.C. bulletins and Mrs. Fred Campbell read an article from the Countrywoman Magazine.

Mrs. Clifford Rowe, who had attended the 12th. annual officers' conference for Public Relations representatives at the Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph, gave her report.

The theme of the conference was "All that is necessary for the triumph of evil is that good men do nothing." Forty-two delegates attended this conference.

The delegates enjoyed a conducted tour of Macdonald Institute, Mrs. Rowe reported.

Mr. J. A. Eccles, director of public relations at O.A.C. welcomed the delegates and said they were the first of approximately 20,000 visitors who would come to the college this summer.

Community singing was enjoyed during the conference and was led by Mr. Ivor Wynne, college chaplain, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kidd.

Greetings were brought from the W.I. by the president, Mrs. L. G. Lyndborne, who opened the conference.

Mrs. Ruth Dale, secretary-treasurer of F.W.I.O., introduced the guest speaker.

Dr. J. D. Maclachlan, president of O.A.C., heartily welcomed the delegates and said the college would soon be celebrating its 100th anniversary.

A highlight of the conference was an address by Mrs. L. G. Lyndborne, who outlined the need for business men to analyze and keep in step with the trends. She said not just in his own business, but in developments outside his immediate field.

The world of the future will demand from almost everyone more intellectual skills, a greater ability to analyze, and exercise a creative imagination, and to the skill of communication, the delegate said. Every one's thoughts and ideas effectively add also to grasp the ideas of others.

In days when life was simpler and many family units were isolated farm groups interchanged thoughts and ideas. They almost had to, for one alone and none is self sufficient. Recognize your own special talent and share it, and the contribution will be invaluable to the community. The best way to become truly important is to improve by doing little things. The smallest act done in good faith is worth the highest intention.

She said that the Women's Institute has many opportunities for associations in that their membership included all creeds, races and religions and urged that they make a conscious effort to develop talent within the organization for real living.

"We should strive to the best our ability to promote international goodwill, friendship and understanding between the country women of the world, and we shall endeavor to further good relations between nations if we should read and remember what we read. Most of us are average individuals and have some valuable talent, large or small."

The delegates were divided into discussion groups on the duties of public relations representatives and the chairman was Mrs. Sandiman, FWIO of Public Relations Officer. The public relations officer can sit in all monthly meetings, but has no vote.

Thursday evening greetings were brought from the Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Minister of Agriculture. He said he was proud of the Institute members and glad some were present at the conference for the first time.

Mrs. Lyndburner then introduced Mrs. Ruth Dale, secretary of the FWIO, whose home is in Belleville. She said the next ACWW conference will be held in Australia.

Miss Helen McKercher director, home economics service of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, brought a message of the keen interest paid 80 per cent of farm families are using raw milk. She reminded them that since Blake read, "Kings Golings", Mrs. Harold Detlor, delegate to the 24th district annual gave her report.

During the business, it was decided to have the annual picnic, "Hospitality Foods", and also to canvass for the Blind in the fall.

Current events were given by Mrs. Ivan Clare.

After the singing of the National Anthem the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Gerri Dwyer, served refreshments.

Ladies Guild of St. Paul's Enjoys European Travelogue

ROSLIN — On Wednesday evening the Ladies' Guild of St. Paul's Church, Roslin entertained in St Paul's Parish Hall.

Guests were present from Christ Church Guild, Thomasburg; St. John's Guild, Moneymore; the United Church W.A., Roslin; St. Andrew's W.M.S., Roslin and St. Paul's W.A., Roslin.

All joined in singing the opening hymn, "Stand Up, Stand Up, For Jesus."

A solo, "I Have Found a Hiding Place" by Mrs. Wannamaker, with Mrs. Gray at accompanist. A humorous reading by Mrs. Phillips entitled, "On to the Clinic."

Mrs. G. Simpson sang a solo, "How Great Thou Art" with Mrs. E. Alexander accompanying her on the piano.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Hamilton, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. J. Nicholls, who gave an interesting travelogue of her trip last summer to Europe and showed a number of colored slides. She explained when going abroad, just call on your travel bureau, tell them where you are planning to go, and how long you intend to stay, and they will do the rest. They apply for your passport and will have your brochure in readiness for you, all you have to do is sign the cheques.

They sailed via "Empress of England" from Montreal on July 31st. The ship is manned by officers and their boarding 463 and there were over 1,000 passengers and everyone excited.

It was a ticker-tape send-off; some relatives gathered on board at bidding farewell to loved ones. The ship menus were wonderful and entertainment for all ages, bingo, horseracing, theatre, a wonderful library, swimming, badminton, never a dull moment.

Over the loud speaker it was announced the ship was passing an iceberg. It was a 600 yards away, height 300 feet, width 800 feet at the base. They met the sister ship, "Empress of Britain". It was a glowing picture, pure white in the blue water.

The first stop, Greenock, in Scotland, where 250 disembarked. The leader and pipe band came out to greet them. This is a regular custom and gives a welcome from the home land. It took seven days going over, and it was a smooth crossing, docking at Liverpool on Monday night, but could not land till Tuesday morning due to the rising tide. Passed customs and went directly to trains.

The trains look so queer, they are tiny and dirty, but travel fast. Reached London about 2.30.

So this is London! Not easy to define because nobody knows where it begins or ends. I had better be content with definition of Greater London where 8 million people live or work. It is 24 1-2 miles in length.

The hotel was in the westend at Piccadilly Circus, centrally located at the Regent Palace Hotel. There is much in the city of interest to the tourist. When one speaks of the Westend, he speaks of London, of shops, theatres, clubs, Piccadilly Circus, Trafalger Square, Bond St., Regent St. and Green Park and St. James' Park.

...ost of the theatres are in the west end, Sadler's Wells, Covent Garden, Royal Festival Hall. From the roof terrace of Royal Hall you get a splendid view of Westminster, The Victoria embankment and St. Paul's.

The group visited the public records office in Chancery Lane. Here are ten centuries of documents, including part of the Domesday Book, the Houses of Parliament, built in 1852 upon the site of Palace of Westminster, were badly destroyed during the war but have since been rebuilt.

St. Paul's Cathedral, Sir Christopher Wren's masterpiece, was completed in 1710. The Tower of London, the medieval fortress of the City of London, with its winding staircase of 272 stairs; Westminster Abbey, traditional setting of historical ceremonies; the Coronation Chair, Stone of Scone, and the Tomb of the Unknown Warrior.

WAX WORKES

Madame Tussaud's Wax Exhibition was visited, where there was a collection of wax works, models of famous celebrities, and the Chamber of Horrors. The London Planetarium was thoroughly enjoyed, with a 45-minute presentation of the wonders of the universe, the movements of the stars and planets.

Petticoat Lane, a famous Street Market; one cannot visit London and not walk up and down Petticoat Lane. Here you mingle with every nationality in the world. Everything is sold —just name it, and you can buy it.

Off to Dover by bus; the country is beautiful, many people walk from Kent to London.

Passed the White House from which Churchill or Eisenhower decided operations for D. Day. This is near Folkstone, and crossed the channel by boat to Brussels. Had to show passports. Left at 6 p.m. and arrived in Bruge, where a tour of the city was taken and an interpreter as from now on there would be difficulty with the foreign speech and currency. The English currency was easy to learn.

Then out to the International Fair ground and viewed the Atonium building which cost $160 million to build; later entered Germany at Aachen and after lunching proceeded via Cologne.

The highways in Germany are wonderful, but very busy. Agriculture is flourishing.

WONDERFUL VINEYARDS

The grape vineyards on the Rhine are a marvelous sight and the grapes from the base of the mountains to the top. There are retaining walls to support them at the steepest places.

Houses are all built at the foot of the mountains. There are many medieval castles along the route. The Rhine river is used extensively for transportation.

The women are seen in the fields doing the heavy work; very little modern machinery is seen. Cows or mules are used from Boppard to St. Goar. Taking the treasure "Lorelei" a lovely cruise up the Rhine was enjoyed. A stay was made at Baden-Baden at the entrance to the Black Forest where a drive was taken through the forest.

Zurich is the largest city in Switzerland beautifully situated and an important communication centre. It was to Zurich that the Protestants fled during the reign of the Catholic Queen Mary of England, sincerne was visited with its spectacular mountain railway.

There is a roofed wooden bridge spanning the River Reuss which dates from 1333, with painted panels depicting the history of the city. The watch tower, cathedral and the famous Lion Monument which commemorates the Swiss Guards who died in the defence of Marie Antoinette in the French Revolution, were also visited.

AGRICULTURE BOOMS

All land is put to production Oxen and carts are seen in the fields. They love their flowers and yards and surroundings are spotlessly kept.

On the way to St. Anton, via Lichtenstein and the Alberg Pass, we passed by the Memorial to Queen Astrid, of Belgium, who was killed in a car accident.

Lichtenstein is one of the smallest sovereign states in Europe, with only 17,000 population and covers an area of 60 square miles. We passed through the Alberg Pass 5912 ft. The train tunnel runs 8 1-2 miles through the heart of the mountains.

St. Anton is a world famous holiday resort, situated in the Stanzer valley, 3,912 ft. above sea level, lies at the eastern end of the Alberg tunnel. It owes its fame partly to Hannes Schneider, the inventor of modern skiing and former Olympic world champion, and possesses one of the finest aerial cable railways, the highest in the Tyrol. Cattle and sheep were grazing on the mountainside.

On to Bolzano via Brenner Pass and Dolomites, past Lanebeck, which is an important road junction. Roads radiate from here towards Italy, Germany and Switzerland.

The road joins the river Inn and travels along the fertile valley, picturesquely set between high mountains, entering and recrossing the fast flowing River Inn. On through Innsbruck, an ancient town which dominates the road over the Brenner Pass to Italy, and the Inn Valley trading route of the east.

This is a richly preserved old quarter with narrow streets, gabled houses, old houses and monuments.

OLDEST MT. PASS

The Brenner Pass (over 4,000 feet) is the oldest known mountain pass through the Alps, making communication possible between North and South Europe. It was here also where the meeting between Hitler and Mussolini took place.

It was a day's run to Venice, famous health and winter sports resorts. Visited Cortina where the Olympic winter sports in 1956 took place.

The city of Venice is built on a group of islands, traversed by 160 canals and linked by over 400 bridges. It is divided from the open sea (Adriatic) by the famous Lido. The Grand Canal is the main thoroughfare of the city.

On either side stand the famous palaces of Venice and Astride. There is no sanitation here, the canals consume the wastage and are washed out by the tides.

On to Rome where two days were spent. In the "Eternal City" there are beautifully preserved relics and remains of the Roman era, such as the Colosseum, the Arch of Constantine, the Pantheon, the Forum, and the Baths.

As the centre of the Catholic world, there is the Vatican City, and many beautiful Basilicas, including St. Peter's.

Modern Rome presents an unique contrast, a bustling up-to-date city. The group was among 28,000 which filled an audience with the Pope and received his official blessing.

Stopped off at Bolsena, situated on Lake Bolsena, which is of volcanic origin, famous to the Christian world for the miracle which took place here in the 13th century. This has been commemorated by "Corpus Christi."

The city of Florence is the cradle of Italian art and culture. There, gardens are beautiful. Milan, with its many important buildings, such as the magnificent cathedral in Gothic style, the word famous La Scala Theatre, and the Monumental Cemetery.

LAKE MAGGIORE

Lake Maggiore is famous for the setting, giving the impression of a large inland sea. The north half belongs to Switzerland and the southern half to Italy.

Leaving Italy at Iselle, enroute to the famous Simplon Tunnel (12 1-2 miles in length), the road begins to climb through narrow gorges surrounded by gigantic peaks.

Here streams and waterfalls make a glowing picture. At 5,-906 feet stands the Hospic Monastery, built by the order of Napoleon to help the traveller in distress. It was Napoleon, too, who ordered the contruction of this great, broad road after the Brenner which was begun in 1800.

The descent is equally lovely. At the bottom is the Rhone Valley, a fertile region with many vineyards. Visited was the town of Chillon, one of the best preserved medieval castles in Europe, rich in history and immortalized in Lord Byron's poem, "The Prisoner of Chillon."

Passed through Dyon, Lausanne, Fontainbleau, situated in the midst of a forest whose name it bears, and on to Paris, on the banks of the Seine, enclosed by rows of hills, densely populated.

There are many boulevards, for Paris is a perfectly planned city. There are many beautiful churches, the Madeline and Notre Dame are great architectural masterpieces. The Napoleon, the Louvre, the Arc de Triumphe and the world accepted symbol of Paris, the Eiffel Tower. It is a city rich in tradition, art and culture.

Paris comes to life after dark, with its tremendously variety of amusements and entertainments.

The last day's drive was across France, and through the battlefields of the two great world wars. Back across the channel to England and returned to London. The end of a glorious 21 days tour in Europe.

Mrs. Don Chisholm ran the projector and Mrs. H. Chisholm explained the pictures.

Next they visited England and Scotland. Leaving London they passed through Elstry where the film industry is located. At St. Albans, the Abbey gateway is 14th century. There are numerous Georgian houses and "The King Cock's Inn," one of the oldest in the country.

During the war of the Roses, two great battles were fought at St. Albans, 1455-1461.

The town of Hatfield is noted mainly for the Sir Havilard jet plane factory.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY

Cambridge is visited for its University consisting of 19 lovely old colleges, (mainly science), of which two are for women. We passed by an American cemetery and each year 3,000 plants of sweet peas are planted.

Many thatched cottages are seen along this route. The Englishman is justly proud of his flowers and they are everywhere. The question was asked why so much mustard was started to grow. This is used as a green crop to destroy the weeds as acts as a fertilizer.

Ellington, the birthplace of Oliver Cromwell; Peterborough, a cathedral city and market town.

Seaford has a 12th century church with a spire rising 193 feet and was built in 1671. Lincoln is a cathedral city, it is 11th century and one of its treasures the last of the four copies of Magna Charta.

Harrogate, a famous inland spa, noted for its sulphur springs; through Ripley, Ripon, Richmond, Scotch Corner, Durham, Newcastle, Morpeth, Alnwick, Berwick, Edinburgh, Stirling, Perth, Dundee, Aberdeen, Inverness, Loch Ness, Fort William, Glencoe, Loch Lomond, the queen of the Scottish Lakes was much written about, by Sir Walter Scott and is the largest lake in Great Britain.

Many important shipbuilding towns were seen along this route; Clydebank is the world's two ocean liners, Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth, were built. On to Glasgow a university town. It is the largest city and seaport of Scotland. Here all visited Alloway, birthplace of Robert Burns.

Gretna Green, noted worldwide for the marriage place for eloping couples. On to Liverpool, a most important seaport and University City, with docks extending over seven miles. The leading dock exchange for the British Isles is here.

Taking a circular tour of North Wales, visited many holiday resorts. Stratford-on-Avon, famous throughout the world for its poet, William Shakespeare. Many outstanding dats from 14 century. Tudor Times, Wells and Glastonbury were also visited. Then to Plymouth an important naval station, and seaport.

The Mayflower sailed from here in 1620 with the Pilgrim Fathers. A night was spent in Salisbury on the river Avon. Then a trip up the East Coast and down the west coast covered a distance of 2,000 miles. Then by rail for home.

Thanks were expressed to Mrs. Chisholm for her interesting travelogue and pictures, by Mrs. Miller.

Refreshments were served buffet style to the many guests present and a social hour was enjoyed, bringing a most interesting and enjoyable evening to a close.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Allen S. — We're living for the house — not in it.

Marjorie S. — We'll pull through with flying colors.

Allen S. — My wife and I have been married 12 years and have three youngsters. We recently moved into a new house and this has caused me a lot of grief.

My wife wanted a big place in a particular community — the most expensive, of course. I felt it was much beyond our means and I feel more and more so every day. This big house calls for so much more in the way of expenses than I had expected. We also have to furnish it in a suitable way — and that's costing an arm and a leg.

I feel we're living for the house instead of in it. I love it when I'm licked and I want to call it quits. I know a nice little place we can get for a song and furnish it in modest style.

Marjorie S. — All my life I dreamed of a spacious house in a nice community. I was brought up in the city and lived 11½ years of our married life in cramped quarters.

Allen thinks I just want to show off and be a big shot by living in a swank neighborhood, but that isn't true. I want the children to have the advantages of better schools and contacts with better educated families — all available in this community.

I don't enjoy being in debt any better than Allen does, but I think there is every prospect that we'll be able to pull through the next few years with flying colors. I don't want Allen's policy "nice little house."

The Council: Allen wants peace of mind and Marjorie wants the greatest possible benefits for her children. Certainly these are both worthwhile goals and they shouldn't be incompatible for they are deeply dependent upon one another.

We think, for example, that these children will not benefit very much from their superior environment if their father is a harried, nerve-wracked man. We also think that Allen cannot have peace of mind if he is made to feel he is depriving his children of important advantages.

As we get the picture Allen allowed himself to be talked into a bigger involvement than he felt he could handle. He may have been over-persuaded or slightly pressured. Perhaps Marjorie realized that the bigger house entailed considerably bigger expenses and altered the fact over, even to herself. Or, she may have felt once the family was in the house, the problems would "work themselves out."

In any case, in such major matters as buying a house, it is vital that both husband and wife understand fully everything involved. It is foolish for one partner to use too much pressure on the other because nobody can live happily with a situation that is against his better judgment.

We can't solve Allen and Marjorie's problem by telling them to move or not move. We can only point out that a compromise is essential. If Marjorie can cut down expenses enough to give her husband a little more mental ease, perhaps he'll be able to relax enough to live in the house and not for it.

Tante Marie School of Cookery At Woking Surrey

As conducted by Mary Moore

By great good luck a demonstration by Cordon Bleu trained cooks was being given at the Tante Marie School of Cookery in Woking, Surrey. Marianne's friend, Joe MacLachlan had the inspiration to reserve some seats and invited Marianne and I to attend. The principal, Mrs. Iris Syrett, got wind of my interest in cooking and insisted that we should be her guests.

It was a fascinating experience to watch Miss Stanway and her diminutive French assistant Yvonne, prepare an elegant French meal in two hours. Or reproduction in a French cookbook but were ordered in advance and bought by a Woking hostess (a Mrs. Billington) to be delivered after they were completed and school was out. I think the price was high — as was proper.

I am going to give you all of these recipes, but since they are lengthy I will have to space them in instalments of one per week for three weeks starting now.

ESCALOPES DE VEAU VIENNOISE:

(Breaded Veal a la Cordon Bleu).

Using 4 pieces of shoulder veal cut into about 3 x 4" cutlets weighing around 2 lbs. in all, pound them to make them thin and to break the meat fibres. Our demonstrator smashed them with the bottom of a clean heavy aluminum pan, first dusting each one with one fell swoop. Each piece of veal (in future called escalope) was dipped in highly seasoned flour, then in beaten egg. The demonstrator used 4 beaten eggs mixed with 2 tablespoons olive oil for this egging. The addition of oil to the eggs was a new idea to me. She then dipped them with a very fine, very fresh breadcrumbs. She lifted them to her working board, pressed them down with her hand, let them stand for 10 minutes, then egged and crumbed them again. The crumb covering was nearly 1-4" thick by this time. She used half loaf of fresh bread for these crumbs. She then fried them in about 2-3 cup melted butter, that was bubbling and dark gold. She gave them only about 2 or 3 minutes on each side, then removed them to an elaborately garnished platter, overlapping. She added about 1 tablespoons lemon juice to the pan butter, boiled it up, then poured it over the escalopes and they were ready to serve. Wonderful! Do try it. Typical of the French while no trouble was spared to make food delicious and beautiful this dish originated as an economical cut of meat.

Next week: Gnocchi a la Florentine.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

Meat Loaf with Mushroom Soup-Sauce; Fluffy Mashed Potatoes; Broccoli; Relish Tray: Gherkins, Celery, Green Onions; Shredded Fresh Pineapple; Banana Bread (see Tuesday); Tea.

SUNDAY

First Course: Strawberries au Naturel with Berry Sugar; Breaded Veal (Escalope de Veau Viennoise — see Thursday); Potato Dumplings; Hearts and Oil; Asparagus-box Dessert (cut Friday's creamed Asparagus, Celery recipe in half); Coffee.

The audience included all of the regular students (104) and the one-shot observers such as our party.

The menu was posted-up on a blackboard on an easel for all to see: Escalopes de Veau Viennoise, Gnocchis a la Florentine and Creme Beau Rivage. Interpreted these are glorified Wiener Schnitzel (breaded veal) tiny potato dumplings with herbs and a delectable custard garnished with cookie-cornucopias filled with tinted cream.

Finished these dishes were masterpieces worthy of full col-

QUESTION BOX

Question: Whose responsibility is it to give the wedding rehearsal dinner, the bride's family or that of the bridegroom?

Answer: Actually it is not obligatory that a dinner be given after the wedding rehearsal. Usually, the members of the wedding party have a very informal get-together at the home of the bride-to-be. But, should a dinner be held, or any kind of party for that matter, all expenses incurred are assumed by the bride's family, never the bridegroom's.

Question: I recently received an invitation to a cocktail party. It was on a folded-over card about four inches square. The names of the people inviting me were engraved in the middle and their address was in the lower right hand corner. The invitation itself was on the inside. It asked for an answer. How do I accept this invitation?

Answer: If you have the same type of informal fold-over card, it is perfectly proper to send your reply on it. Simply write on the inside "I will be delighted to come on June sixth. Thank you so much for thinking of me," or words to that effect. If you do not have such a card, a hand-written note on plain, white stationery is acceptable. There is one thing to remember when answering an informal invitation. Never type it. Always handwrite it. The wording itself is not too important. Just be gracious, whether accepting or regretting.

Question: My friend's baby died when it was only five days old. She has asked me to write you to find out if she should return all the gifts that she received before the baby's birth. Some of them were presented at showers, and some of them are from different members of the family. Naturally she is very upset, but she does want to do the right thing.

Answer: The gifts should not be returned. This would make it very difficult for her, and also would upset the friends who had presented them. Suggest that they all be packed away for the happy day that will come in the future.

Canadian Woman Chosen To Fill Ambassador Post

WINNIPEG (CP)—When Count Serge de Fleury retired as French consul at Winnipeg the French ambassador at Ottawa asked a charming Canadian woman to fill the position.

"I was honored and quite thrilled when I was appointed acting consul," said Suzanne Tremblay in an interview. "Of course it is only an interim appointment, but I am pleased they considered me."

Miss Tremblay was 21 and looking for her first job when she joined the consulate staff here as a secretary, 15 years ago. She was well qualified by education and language, being completely bilingual.

The French consul at Winnipeg is responsible for French interest in culture dovetails with chewan, primary duties being the diffusion of French culture and the promotion of trade.

ACTIVE POST

Two scholarships to study in France are awarded each year—one to a University of Manitoba student and the other to a University of Saskatchewan student. The consul here help with the applications, although the selections are made by the ambassador in Ottawa.

"Much of my work is concerned with issuing passports and visas for French nationals", Miss Tremblay said, "and with helping them apply for pensions.

"There is no possibility of my becoming permanent consul. I lack the exhaustive training required by the French diplomatic service. Besides, I am content where I am."

Miss Tremblay was the 10th child of a family of 14 in adjacent St. Boniface, and she lives with her mother.

Although she finds her work absorbing, she said: "Should I meet the right man I would most certainly marry and forget my career. That, I feel, is the best life for a woman."

WIDE INTERESTS

Miss Tremblay's personal interests in Manitoba and Saskatchewan are many and varied.

She has directed plays for Le Cercle Molière, a St. Boniface theatrical group, and has been its representative to the Manitoba Drama League and the Manitoba region of the Dominion Drama Festival.

An active member of l'Association d'Education des Canadiens

Woman Consul — Suzanne Tremblay, new French consul in Winnipeg, is an attractive Canadian who began working in the consulate as secretary 15 years ago. The interim appointment was made by the French ambassador in Ottawa after Count Serge de Fleury retired. Born in St. Boniface, Man., Miss Tremblay, completely bilingual, taught herself to type and joined the consulate after one year in university. Her work concerns the promotion of French culture and trade and issuing passports and visas for French nationals. (CP Photo)

Francais du Manitoba, Miss Tremblay holds an external affairs medal from the French government for services to France.

Hobbies include her record collection—"Chopin if I want something light. Bach or Beethoven if I feel sombre"—and her library, mostly history and politics.

She is an avid television sports fan and roots for the Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Montreal Canadiens.

"I tried golf last summer", she said, "My brother - in - law was quite impressed when I told him I scored a 42, until I mentioned it was for the first three holes."

"Lines on Life"

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Twenty commandments that's what this teacher called them On one side of his desk were the "Ten" of Moses, On the other he placed these:

1. Stop worrying.

kills life.

2. Begin each day with prayer. Prayer arms the soul.

3. Accept your limitations. All of us can't be great.

4. Control appetite. Over-indulgence clogs the body and mind.

5. Don't envy, It wastes time and energy.

6. Have faith in people. Cynicism sours the disposition.

7. Find a hobby. It will relax the nerves.

8. Read a book a week. It will stimulate the imagination and broaden your view.

9. Spend some time alone. It will give you the peace of solitude and silence.

10. Want what you have instead of spending your strength trying to get what you want.

Physical health, we all know, is dependent upon physical exercise. What some of us don't realize is that the same truth applies to spiritual and mental health. Spiritual laziness causes stunted souls, with no room for movement and growth.

This teacher's suggestions were put on a practical daily basis and translated into the regular routine of living.

Spiritual health cannot be achieved by dreaming of some "never-never" world at the end of the purple horizon. Peace of mind is not achievable when we wonder if from afar! Too many of us make it an unreal and therefore unrealistic goal.

We conquer our problems when we face them head-on. Never by fleeting them, or by erecting dream worlds in the sky.

We have a fair chance of achieving some happiness and mental ease when we face up to ourselves. But only practically, realistically, in ways we can measure and gauge. And not as a matter of speech but as a way of daily living.

We often think of our difficulties as being so large and tremendous that we can only discern them with trembling. They seem so overwhelming.

Did you ever look out the rear window of your car as you moved up a hilly highway? Looking backward, the hill - seemed so high and precipitous. But as you climbed, it flattened out before you, because you moved squarely and speedily into it.

Life is much like that. Go yet for yourself some basic rules of the road. Realistic, helpful ones: And then, don't pause to consider your troubles. Just keep moving, and the hills will melt away.

Women's Activities

ELDORADO WMS

ELDORADO — The Madoc and Eldorado Missionary Society held its May meeting in the Standard Church, Madoc, on Thursday evening. The president, Mrs. Hermon, opened the meeting.

The Scripture was read from Psalm 37, by Mrs. Herman.

Roll call by Mr. Lough showed 22 present. Offering was $14.32.

Mr. Lough read a poem "What My Absence From Church Did", a solo by Miss Hicks, "I Don't Know About Tomorrow" a short play entitled "An Unfaithful Steward," by eight ladies; hymns "Jesus Calls Us O'er the Tea", and "Wonderful Words of Life" were sung. Mrs. Herman closed the meeting with prayer.

SCOTT'S W.F.

SCOTT'S N.F.

SO. SIDNEY — A lovely dinner was held in Scott's United Church Hall on May 18 with a good crowd attending and Mrs. A. Martyn as hostess. In the p.m. Mrs. Pollard called the Women's Federation meeting to order.

The parsonage committee reported meeting two weeks ago and gave an outline of repairs needed. Mrs. E. Sine and Mrs. M. Dafoe were appointed as a committee to buy new curtains for the dining hall.

Mrs. Pollard will be hostess for June meeting with Members C. Sine, A. Pollard and M. Dafoe as program committee.

There were nine members present.

Mrs. K. Faul took charge of program. Mrs. M. Dafoe read 126 Psalm. Mrs. A. Sine rendered a harp selection and Mrs. Faul had the study book. In part, she said, "In Africa the people are changing from the old to the new. It is a tremendous task. The west is helping. They are choosing the best from the old and the new. They are using new knowledge (mechanization) but not forgetting the old heritage. "In the old days our eyes were low, but today we lift up our eyes!. The church is doing much for the people and has much power. Africa women are on the bridge, —they are taking larger part in public life as are their western sisters".

Mrs. M. Sine closed the meeting with prayer.

RYLSTONE — The memorial service for William Chester Metkiejohn was held on Tuesday afternoon from his late residence to the Rylstone United Church, where the service was conducted by his pastor, Rev. H. E. Beare, assisted by Rev. Gordon Whitehouse. Pallbearers were: Messrs. Wilfred Spencer, Charles Stewart, Hilbie Metkiejohn, Earl Mumby, Fred Pelkie and Don Stewart. Bearers of the many beautiful floral arrangements were Messrs. Robert Spencer, Gerald Barnum, Lloyd Anderson, Francis and Percy Rake. Interment was in Rylstone cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Spencer, Johnny, Douglas and Phillip visited their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Mumby and Mrs. Leah McNair in Springbrook on Friday evening.

CHANGING AFRICA — The Union of South Africa marks its 50th anniversary this month under the glare of world-wide attention because of racial disorders.

Our map above shows major cities in the union and areas of recent clashes between police and Negroes protesting the government's apartheid (racial segregation) policies.

Upper maps show the growth of independent nations in Africa since 1945. (CP Newsmap.)

Anniversary Observance Of Union of South Africa Begins in Blaze of Gunfire

By HENDERSON GALL

JOHANNESBURG (CP)—Mostmerger of two British possessions of Cape Colony and Natal with Negro and Dutch settlerrepublics of Transvaal and Orange Free State.

RACIAL HOSTILITY

Hostility between the Boers and English — speaking whites dates back more than 100 years, and song predicted the shooting of the Boer prime minister by an Englishman would deepen the gulf.

The Dutch were the first white men to settle in South Africa, coming here in the middle of the 17th century. The British arrived about 100 years later. They occupied Cape Colony and Natal, and some 12,000 Dutch settlers and French Huguenots trekked north to form the Orange Free State and what now is known as the Transvaal.

The Boer War began in 1899 and ended in 1902 with the British victorious. Ill-feeling between the two groups was at its height but there was an attempt to bury the past. Two Boer military leaders, Jan Christian Smuts and Louis Botha, worked with the British, but a militant Boer general, Barry Hertzog, was building the foundation for present-day Afrikaner nationalism.

On Sept. 20, 1909, the British parliament passed the South Africa act and the Union came into being the following May 31.

POLITICAL STABILITY

As prime minister and United party leader, Field Marshal Smuts was credited with a major part in keeping South Africa politically stable from 1919 until 1945 although Nationalists often attacked him for, bringing the Union into the two world wars.

Among his strongest opponents were Daniel Malan, Johannes Stridoen and Hendrik Verwoerd.

All became prime ministers and all were dedicated to the National party's apartheid policies.

Apartheid—segregation of the nearly 2,000,000 whites and more than 10,000,000 non-whites—prescribed regulations restricting the movements of non-whites which led to the violence early this year.

The state of emergency was imposed March 30 after 67 persons were slain by police gunfire at nearby Sharpeville during an anti-apartheid demonstration.

CELEBRATION GOES ON

But while the English-language press has condemned the state of emergency should be taken seriously and the anniversary celebrations suspended or that the emergency should be lifted, the observances have continued.

Europeans have crowded anniversary parades and festivals in the country. In Johannesburg, the crush was so great on one festival night 16 persons were hurt.

The celebrations have meant little, however, to the country's Africans and other non-whites. In Johannesburg, which has the largest urban African population in the union, festival organizers announced that "present circumstances" — the emergency—did not lend themselves to African participation. But in tribal areas the government and tribal authorities have arranged for feasting, beer drinking and dancing.

Meanwhile, amid the remembrances, there is speculation about the nation's future—politically as well as racially.

Parliament is completing work on a government-sponsored bill to hold a referendum among white voters on whether the country should become a republic.

The opposition United party has been opposing the bill mainly on the ground that it gives no guarantee of the union retaining its membership in the commonwealth although Verwoerd indicated earlier this year that, for economic reasons, he wanted to see the country stay in the Commonwealth "in the present circumstances."

POISON ARROW GONE

CAPETOWN (AP)—A poisoned Bushman arrow capable of causing death even from a scratch is missing from the South African Museum here. The case containing the exhibit was opened Monday. When the window was repaired, it was noticed that the arrow had gone.

POLICE CHARGE AFRICAN WOMEN — Cane-swinging police disperse a group of African women in a native slum in Durban, South Africa, after the women gathered to protest police action against their home brewing activities. Increasing violence racks the Union of South Africa as the Negro population continues its demonstrations against the government's apartheid (racial segregation) policies. Growing republican sentiment among the Boers has been met with hostility by South Africans of English descent. (CP from AP)

Seven television sets for the officers and crew are only part of the story.

Officers quarters abroad the new flagship of Canada Steamship Lines have wall-to-wall carpeting, furniture of birch, bleached mahogany and polished light oak; upholstered chairs and draperies.

Crew quarters are light green with metal furnishings in grey and green. Floors are a chestnut tone and there are lumber green curtains.

PRIVATE BATHS

The officers have private baths while crew members have semi-private baths. All are complete with showers.

There are special dining rooms for officers, passengers and crew and separate lounges fore and aft.

St. Anthony Not No-Man's Land Covered With Ice, Snow But Fine, Healthy Community

By JOE DUFUIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. ANTHONY, Nfld. (CP) — A misconception about this picture-postcard town at the northern tip of Newfoundland is that it is a no-man's land covered with ice and snow.

True, only 2,000 people live here and the snow stays on the ground 10 months of the year. Residents can't motor any distance because there is no connection with the provincial road system. But the town's 400 families lead few modern deprivations.

Twenty-five retail stores sell just about everything required for modern living. All the 220 automobiles and 150 trucks the citizens own are late models. Big, lumbering $4,000 snowmobiles are fast replacing dog-sleds for travel between isolated communities.

Two theatres do a lively business, particularly when they feature a Hopalong Cassidy movie.

FEW ARE POOR

"There's nobody really wealthy around here but not too many are poor either," says Horace Mac Neil, assistant superintendent of the Grenfell Mission, around which this town grew. You could might be two families you could consider in poor straits."

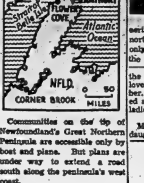
Radio is the chief communications link with the outside. Television may be years coming because of northern Newfoundland's sparse population and rugged terrain.

St. Anthony is perched in the snow belt and its winter temperatures are usually 10 to 20 degrees colder than the east coast, but they reach 85 degrees during the short summer.

"We have an uninviting climate which we accept," says Mr. MacNeil. "We know we can't do anything about it. I've been here all my life. Many times I've thought what the hell am I here for? I may pack up one of these days, but who knows?"

OUTPORT SETTLERS

One of the first three Newfoundland communities to incorporate as a town, in 1941, St. Anthony's population has risen steadily. A provincial government plan to move settlers from outports where public services are available has brought 40 families here. Twenty have moved here in the last eight years.



A U.S. radar base on the hill overlooking the town employs 60 civilians who, like the Mission, are a year but the base's 130 troops rarely come into town.

Five two years ago wiped out a fish filleting plant which employed 50 to 75 people. It has never been rebuilt and many of those who lost their jobs left town. Fisheries Products Limited of St. John's says it plans to rebuild the plant but doesn't say when.

With a harbor almost landlocked, the town hopes to interest $11 company in establishing bunker facilities which would attract ships piying the coastal trade.

NO STREET LIGHTS

There is no central electric power station here although the Grenfell mission has its own 250 kilowatt power plant to supply its 12 buildings. Most homes have their own small generators. There are no street lights for the Communities on the tip of Newfoundland's Great Northern Peninsula are accessible only by boat and plane. But plans are under way to extend a road south along the peninsula's west coast.

Map locates St. Anthony, incorporated as a town in 1941 and built around the Grenfell Labrador Medical Mission which maintains public health facilities at remote Labrador centres including Forteau on the Strait of Belle Isle.

A 73-mile road now links St. Anthony and Flower's Cove on the west coast. The Newfoundland government plans to complete a road connection between Flower's Cove and Corner Brook by next fall. (CP Newsmap.)

ISOLATED BUT MODERN — This is an aerial view of St. Anthony, a town of 2,000 in northern Newfoundland. Though it is accessible only by air and water, residents have most of the conveniences for modern living — cars, theatres and retail stores. In the background is an almost landlocked harbor where the town hopes to get oil companies to establish bunker facilities, thus attracting the coastal shipping trade. (CP Photo)

Governor Rockefeller Finally Says He'll Accept Republican Nomination if It Is Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller has finally said he will accept the Republican nomination for president of the United States

—if it is offered.

Observers said he was taking out insurance—just in case miracles can happen—and he made the announcement Wednesday.

At this moment Vice-President Richard M. Nixon still seems to have the nomination tied up. Rockefeller conceded that his chances of being drafted by the Republican convention in July appear slim.

This seems to be his only chance if something goes badly wrong for the Eisenhower administration between now and July such as a foreign crisis.

Then the professional Republican politicians might give up on Nixon and bring a prominent part of the Eisenhower administration —and turn to Rockefeller.

The longest gap that the beginning of May it made sense for Rockefeller to stick to his Dec 26 decision not to be a candidate. At the beginning of this month it was a question of the President Eisenhower's finishing out his term in a burst of glory which, of course, would be reflected beneficially on his administration and Nixon.

There was to be a summit conference in mid-May and it was about anything, at least would melt the cold war a little more; then a Ike's speech on his visit to Russia.

Republicans in the campaign could point to all this and say: Look, we kept the peace.

Then it didn't turn out that way. Instead, there was the administration's bungling of the U-2 plane episode and the insulting roughhouse inflicted on Eisenhower in Paris. Khrushchev when he blew up the summit conference and called off Eisenhower's trip to Russia.

It was the greatest humiliation ever suffered by an American president in modern times.

Now, instead of a triumphal last eight months in office, Eisenhower is the victim of international problems, particularly with Russia, don't get worse.

Schools Training Not Educating Says Expert

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—An educational psychologist says Canadian schools are "training but not educating" students and warned of "difficult alternatives" ahead.

Dr. John MacDonald, professor of educational psychology at the University of Alberta, told the Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation Wednesday that placing of students in categories according to ability is "mad."

He said teachers must place challenges in the paths of students, worrying less about promoting the child's happiness and more about eliminating "serious unhappiness."

The major objective of education, he said, must be sound learning, with other aims subsidiary. A "friendly" relationship must be employed to eliminate from school curriculums things which hamper the main aim.

TELEVISION RESOLUTION

Delegates Wednesday voted back to committee for further study a recommendation concerning television and the future of the Canadian Indian.

The recommendation would have asked the CBC board of governors to use its influence against TV excesses in which Indians are represented as crafty underdogs.

"Indians 'should not continuously see their ancestors portrayed this way," the recommendation said.

Saturday annual meeting was to conclude today with a workshop.

VOTE TO STRIKE

North American Record Average Seen at Sale

OAKVILLE (CP) — A North American record average of $2,-464 for the sale of a herd of dairy cattle was established here Wednesday as the Sheffield Farms herd of Polled Herefords of St. George went under the hammer.

John Powell, chief of extension of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, described the auction as "the greatest sale of dairy cattle ever held in Canada."

The average price beat the previous Canadian record of $2,-223 set in 1958 at the sale of the Brookside herd at Brampton and the North American record of $2,679 set in 1946 when the J. E. Cooper herd was sold at Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

he.75 Sheffield Holsteins realized a total of $236,350.

The Canadian record price for dairy cows was broken twice, first when the Canadian champion producer Lonelm Rag Apple Marigold was sold for $18,000 and again when Rosafe Inspiration Pontiac, reserve grand champion at the 1958 Royal Winter Fair, went for $22,000.

The previous record was $17,-500.

FOREIGNERS LOSE OUT

Leading Holstein breeders from all over the Americas were outbid by the $18,000 and $22,000 modest Ontario breeders, who combined to purchase the top animals.

Fourteen head went to the United States, 10 to Peru, four to Mexico and one to Italy.

Floyd and Orval Eby of Kitchener and R. F. Bernat of Paris, Ont., bought inspiration, while Sheffield group combined with J. S. Jones of Woodstock and Ray and Angus Schuyler of Kitchener to buy Marjorie.

An Eby-Bivoh-Brubacher syndicate paid $15,000 for Maple Leaf Pond Hope Patsy, the all-Canadian milking shorthorn cow.

The Ebys paid $11,500 for the all-Canadian four-year-old heifer of 1958, Sheffield Jessie, who's paid was $3,200 by E. D. Seed-ham of Bridgewater.

Other high prices included: $1,-800 by Folsetter and Peland, Paris, for a milking female and $2,350 for a heifer calf and $1,700 for a milking female by Robert Miller, Paris.

Suspension of U-2 Flights Forces U.S. to Fall Back on Other Espionage Practices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The suspension of U-2 plane flights over Russia has forced the United States to fall back on more conventional espionage practices until still-untried space spies can take up the slack.

Until that time, which could be many months away, U.S. officials probably will have to do without the flow of clear photographs which could help them learn what is going on within Russia.

A space system designed to provide photographs is in the works. But the first test firing of the Samos satellite isn't scheduled until September, and a much longer time will be needed to get a series of them in orbit and operating satisfactorily.

Reconnaissance pix of geography, though taken from great heights, provide important clues to where the Russians are setting up missile bases, how they are placing their defenses and to what extent they are doing with their other military forces.

Such information is important in determining the chance of a Russian surprise attack, a decision hotly noted in publicly defending the U-2 flights.

With the U-2 flights abandoned, the intelligence job will be pieced together painstakingly from refugees, observant travellers, published documents and various earth other intelligence sources including, where they are used, paid informants.

The U.S. Air Force launched this week a test model of the Midas satellite, which quickly was dubbed a space spy. It isn't. It's designed only to detect the actual launching of ballistic missiles.

The Samos satellite will be the first orbiting vehicle to qualify for the description "space spy." A team of Samos satellites, orbiting at regular intervals, would feed a stream of pictures to ground stations, keeping large areas of the Soviet Union under surveillance.

Although pictures televised from a Samos satellite would be useful for analysis, American defence chiefs want to get the actual film back to earth for close scrutiny under powerful magnifying apparatus.

Hence the importance of the Discoverer satellite program. Discoverer is the perfect method of ejecting capsules containing exposed film of interesting areas and recovering such capsules. Several Discoverers have achieved orbit and a few capsules have been rejected, but none has been recovered.

Eventually it is hoped that the Samos can be developed with a capability of taking pictures of objects and return the film to earth.

Last Rites on Avro Arrow, Scrapped Unceremoniously By Govt. in 1959, Are Held

OTTAWA (CP) — The Avro Arrow by any other name would be as dead.

With the Progressive Conservatives driving the last nails in its coffin and one Liberal trailing behind as the sole apparent mourner, the 15-man Commons defence committee completed Wednesday the 15-months funeral rites for the supersonic interceptor scrapped unceremoniously by the government in February, 1959.

Privately, committee members conceded they were only going through the motions in their inquest into the death of the Arrow. Nobody, not even parliamentary Paul Hellyer, Liberal defence critic, suggested recalling the Arrow from the graveyard.

The committee has met six times and nearly all the testimony has been about the Arrow cancellation.

For the most part, the testimony was an accountant's nightmare, a labyrinth of cost figures and a jungle of purported intelligence reports, plane performance statistics and estimated expenditures for the interceptor's armament.

The point was reached where Defence Minister Pearkes and his deputy minister, Frank Miller, were giving contradictory figures. Just for good measure, Mr. Hellyer, MP for Toronto Trinity, threw in his own set of cost estimates.

Out of this snakes-and-ladders game has come, in the private words of committee members, nothing. It will not be used to make political hay, it can't be seen for the chaff.

It is doubtful whether, in the long history of Parliament, so much has been said to so little purpose.

Now the committee can be expected to get down soon to its real business: Studying the 1960-61 defence budget of $1,-526,000,000.

Farewell, Arrow. You were one of the best controversial subjects on Parliament Hill since the invention of elections.

Hoffa Called 'Anti-Christ' by Joey Smallwood

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland lashed out at two of his old foes Wednesday — the teamsters union and the international longshoremen's of America (CLC).

In fiery legislative speech, the premier called James Hoffa, head of the international teamsters, "the anti-Christ of North America" and the IWA a "brutal, despicable body."

Mr. Smallwood's speech came as he unveiled amendments to contentious labor laws enacted to snuff out the violent 1959 woods strike in central Newfoundland.

While the amendments showed no softening towards the Teamsters, they stuck to the decertification of the two IWA locals, one of which struck the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company.

"I would personally speak as premier . . . before I would be agreeable to changing decertification of that brutal, despicable body—the IWA," Mr. Smallwood said.

RECORD "SULLIED"

In proposing changes to laws affecting the Teamsters, the government was removing "the only part of our record . . . which was sullied" during the strike.

The premier said Hoffa is "the anti-Christ of North America, the living embodiment of all that is rotten in North America, the hate and rottenness and immorality of North American life."

Paramount in the revisions is one which transfers from the cabinet to the Newfoundland Supreme Court the power to dissolve any union in which a substantial number of its officers outside the province have been convicted of crimes such as "trafficking in narcotics, manslaughter, extortion, conspiracy or perjury."

Aimed at the Teamsters, but applicable to other unions, the amendments also provide that a union can within three months of decertification regain its bid by affiliating with a bona fide union.

Legislation has been drafted to remove a provision calling for decertification of unions whose officers remain in office after being convicted of offences under the Criminal Code in connection with a strike.

POLITICAL COOK — Michael Maccagno has a reputation as the best cook among members of the Alberta legislature. Left-Wing Japs Still Protesting Treaty With U.S.

TOKYO (Reuters)—Demonstrators swirled around Tokyo today in protest against the ratification of the United States-Japan security treaty.

Thousands of unionists and students stormed past the Parliament buildings and the American Embassy.

The demonstration was expected to be the windup of 16 days of protests organized by the People's Council against the Security Treaty, ratified by the Japan Diet in the early Friday.

Police estimate the crowd at 50,000. Left - wing organizations said before hand that 150,000 supporters were being called out.

There was no violence.

The demonstrations were ordered peacefully to disperse when rightists hurled what was believed to be ammonia over several demonstrators. Three rightists were arrested.

The demonstrators chanted outside, ruling Liberal Democratic party headquarters and passed a 50-day extension of the current session, originally due to end today.

The extension will enable Premier Nobusuke Kishi to push to complete formal ratification of the accord, treaty before President Eisenhower's scheduled visit June 19.

KEEP SCOTCH

The All-Japan Dock Workers Union said it has requested dock workers outside Japan in countries Canada, the United States, Russia, Australia, Indonesia and Nationalist China—to suspend the unloading of Japanese goods in support of the unions campaign against the treaty.

Tomomo Kaneta, vice-chairman of the General Council of Japan Trade Unions, said the boycott would affect Japanese goods carried both by Japanese and foreign vessels.

Report Expresses Concern Over Hospital Bed Shortage

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons estimates committee expressed concern for hospital crowding has recommended that an immediate review be made to determine the available space in relation to demand for beds.

The report, tabled Wednesday in the Commons, urged federal, provincial and municipal governments to assess the results of this survey so as to avert any future critical bed shortage and to provide more space for critically-ill patients, "the most urgent problem of chronic bed care."

Roughly half the $400-million spending estimates of the federal health department preceded the report.

On other subjects the committee made these observations and comments:

1. Further money grants should be provided to increase scientific knowledge of the causes of mental ill health and mental illness.

2. A joint federal - provincial study should now be made to improve standards of treatment and facilities for care of mentally ill.

3. With 70,000 Canadians in mental hospitals or mentally-defective training schools, "no State money has been directed toward research into mental ill health.

4. The federal health department should speed up its survey of resources and needs to cope with the problem of emotionally-disturbed children.

5. Too many private institutions are left with responsibility for providing custodial care for mentally - retarded youngsters without adequate professional facilities.

6. With 5,967 children in institutions ineligible for family allowances, the government should consider changing this "unfair and unjust" exclusion.

7. It is vital that a government should review its policy of not paying family allowances for children of servicemens stationed abroad.

8. On civil defence, the national survival program should be approved with full responsibility by the federal government on condition that it "delinquent provincial programs."

9. Immediate action should be taken to augment treatment and rehabilitation for narcotic addicts.

Fear Investigation May Be Turned Into Political Circus

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In bagging the United States U-2 spy plane affair, Premier Khrushchev may have handed the Eisenhower administration in the 1960 presidential election campaign.

Observers of this political gift made the Democrats slow in accepting it. They have seen many of the American people, following a natural inclination, rally round their national loyalty and rally round President Eisenhower.

The U-2 has given rise to a great way to expressions of doubt. Democrats have questioned the administration of bungling leadership and discouraging world confidence in U.S. policy.

Hostile voices are being heard even inside Republican ranks. Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine says the government is open to criticism and that the Democrats should not be silenced by a "loyalty gag."

The Republicans have fallen back on the Democratic charge that those who accuse the Eisenhower administration of being soft on the American ideal are "soft" on communism.

There is doubt, however, whether this charge has the effectiveness it had in years gone by.

A move that probably will keep the issue boiling is the proposal by the 17-man Senate foreign relations committee to investigate the U-2 event. The committee has 11 Democrats and six Republicans.

The investigation is planned as a closed executive session. It likely will be far from that, with political demands exceeding philosophical detachment. The chairman is to hold a press conference every day. Excerpts of testimony are to be issued almost hourly.

The possibility that the investigation may be turned into a political circus.

Problem Laid At Doorstep of United Nations

OTTAWA (CP)—The problem of Canada's Indians has been laid at the doorstep of the United Nations.

W. I. (Bill) Wuttenee of Regina, counsel for the government of Saskatchewan Indians, said Wednesday he has sent the UN a copy of a federation resolution calling for help with Canada's Indian problem.

He had received a reply that the resolution would be considered at a meeting of the human rights commission's subcommittee on prevention of discrimination and protection of minorities, he said. But the subcommittee could not solve the federal government.

The lawyer was one of three Indians who presented a federation brief to the Commons-Senate committee on Indian affairs.

Main theme of the brief was that Indians should be given more say in their own affairs.

One suggested means was that reserves be incorporated and their lands vested in the Indians' personal reserve itself instead of the Crown.

Another was that much of the authority now given the citizenship minister be transferred to band councils.

The brief also called for Indian representation in Parliament, more social studies into the Indian problem and a federal-provincial conference on Indian affairs in which the two levels of government both have jurisdiction.

Sing Along With Mitch Show One of The Best of Season

At the Belle

"When Comedy Was King", and "Bobbikens", filled with Laughter.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—NBC received over 200 letters Tuesday night about its Sing along with Mitch show. They loved it.

It was an hour of old, familiar songs, sung by a 32-man chorus in a key that most of us could stay with easily. The chorus danced a little, were perfect at tunes, and there was a beguiling chorus of six youngsters around too. But my family, and I'm sure millions of others, had a wonderful time singing along with Mitch.

If you've wondered whatever became of Hal March since the collapse of the big quiz shows, he'll turn up as a dance contestant on next week's Arthur Murray Show . . . Ted Collins, Kate Smith's manager-partner, took an eight-foot fall from the stairs of his Lake Placid home and injured his spine. He'll be in hospital for months, but it won't interfere with the Kate Smith Show. It's taped through June 6 and then will go into repeats for the rest of the summer season. . . .

Shooting of Hal Holbrook's 90-hour version of Macbeth, to be shown in November, starts this week on location in England and Scotland. Stars are Maurice Evans and Dame Judith Anderson.

Recommended tonight:

Philadelphia Orchestra, CBS, 10-11—Eugene Ormandy conducting a concert of Bach, Beethoven, Liszt and Wagner.

SA TAKES LEAD

NORTHAMPTON (Reuters) Roy McLean, with 180, and Trevor Goddard, 126 not out, monopolized the scoring Wednesday when the South African cricketers opened their three-day match against Northamptonshire. The tourists played the bowling, scoring 461 for three—their highest total in the tour so far.

The biggest change planned

AT THE PARK — Bill Williams takes a head on an intruder while his adopted son, played by Roger Mobley watches. The heart warming adventure story through United Artists release, "A Dog's Best Friend", will open tonight at the Park theatre. On the same program is Gloria Color "The Sword and the Cross", starring Gianna Maria Canale and an all-star cast. Both attractions are first district showings.

Famed Hollywood Boulevard Now Taking on Modern Look

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—For decades, the appearance of the movie capital remained the same. While most of Los Angeles boomed, its much-publicized subject continued static, even a little seedy.

Now famed Hollywood Boulevard is taking on a modern look, getting a touch of seeded glamor. The Chamber of Commerce is leading a campaign to reclaim the street from the orange juice stands and close-out stores. Building and theatres, most of them dating back to the '20s, are refurbishing their fronts. A handsome office building is the first additions to the skyline in years; others may follow.

Tourists have long complained that there was little to see in Hollywood itself, aside from the footprints at Grauman's Chinese Theatre. Now they'll be able to see a glittering sidewalk along the boulevard, imprinted with the names of stars. And plans are under-way to build a motion picture museum opposite Hollywood Bowl.

RESIDENTIAL AREA

Since its inception, Hollywood has nestled against a picturesque backdrop of brush-covered hills. That will all be changed in future years. The city council has approved a master plan to develop the Hollywood hills into a vast residential area to house 4,000,000.

Top Golfer Defeated in British Amateur

PORTRUSH, Northern Ireland (AP) — Colin MacLaine, a 22-year-old dentist, pulled off one of the biggest upsets in the British amateur golf championship Wednesday by knocking out seeded Guy Wolstenholme—in the fourth round.

Wolstenholme, a British Walker Cup competitor, was defeated with the last shot of this rain-soaked day.

Wolstenholme's defeat left only four of the original eight seeds in the field as the players went into the round of 16.

Surviving seeds are Michael Bonallack of England, Irishman Joe Carr and Ken Cradock, and Scotland's Jimmy Walker.

Leafs Take Two From Red Wings; Royals Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Put in a vote for Havana's Bob Miller as the International League's hard luck pitcher this year.

Miller allowed the Miami Marlins only one hit Wednesday night but lost 1-0—and the hit didn't even figure in the scoring in a way he has himself to blame because it was a walk to Ron Busby, a wild pitch which moved Busby to second and a two-base throwing error by shortstop Leo Cardenas that got the run home.

Miami's only hit—a single by Fred Valentine — never offered anything of a threat.

LEAFS GET 19 HITS

But the Toronto Maple Leafs, the league's weakest hitting team in the averages, belted out 19 runs and 19 hits in a 4-2 and 15-6 doubleheader sweep over Rochester. This kept them in first place, 31 percentage points ahead of Buffalo which also won a doubleheader from Montreal.

The Bisons had to go an extra inning in the seven-inning opener to win 8-7 and easily took the nightcap 9-2. Richmond bombed Columbus 9-1 in the other game.

Miller, now 5-3, fanned six and walked only two. Winner Wes Stock gave up his first struggout nine in posting his third victory.

Toronto, last in hitting, didn't get started until the nightcap, winning the opener on four hits as Bob Smith (3-1) pitched a six-hitter and batsmen Jim King's fifth homer drove in the eventual winning run in the opener in which Rochester shortstop Rob Kabbes slid into a concrete retaining wall and was hospitalized with a fractured right knee.

BASE-OF HOMERS

King also homered in the nightcap as Leafs' Steve Demeter, Earl Hersh, Allan Jones and Sparky Anderson, Luke Easter walloped one for Rochester, Pat Scanlebury won his first and Bob Keegan (1-4) lost.

Solly Drake sacrified the winning run home in Buffalo's opener after Montreal blew a 6-1 lead. Babe Birrer (3-4) lost and Max Surkont (1-0) won. Montreal's Joe Amoboldi hit his 11th homer. Buffalo also overhauled a 3-1 lead with a three - run seventh in the nightcap as Dallas Green cracked his second of 3-0 and Nels Chittum (0-1) lost.

Grinny Hamsay had three RBI's for Richmond and Deron Johnson added a triple and two singles to help Dick Manero get his third victory in six decisions. Al Jackson lost.

New Stand For Riders

OTTAWA (CP)—A new stand to seat between 4,000 and 6,800 fans is proposed for the south side of Lansdowne Park, home of the Ottawa Rough Rider football team.

Agreement on the project was reached Wednesday night between the football club and the Central Canada Exhibition Association, which owns the park.

The new stand will not be ready until the 1961 season. It will cost an estimated $250,000. The present seating capacity of Lansdowne Park is 20,000.

What's This, Horses Have Heart Trouble?

TONKERS, N. Y. (AP) — Twenty-three per cent of the horses racing on harness or thoroughbred tracks have had, or will have, a heart condition known as myocarditis.

That is the estimate of Dr. James D. Steel, senior lecturer in veterinary medicine at the University of Sydney, Australia.

Steel is here in connection with the series of International Paces to be held at Yonkers Raceway June 2, 9 and 22.

The Australian veterinarian has developed what he terms as a "heart score" in ruling horses. His theory is that horses must His theory is that horses must have a heart score of 120 or better to have a chance at greatness.

He tested four star pacers entered in the series: Bye Bye Byrd, Fetle, Widower Creed and Cadaceus. Fetle, an Australian entry, and Widower Creed had heart scores of 133, and Bye Bye Byrd and Cadaceus, the latter from New Zealand, were registered 126.

Two Canadian pacers, Champ Volo and Mighty Dudley, have been entered in the three-race series.

Bombers Claim They Have Signed Delveaux

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union announced Wednesday they have fullback and linebacker Jack Delveaux signed to a 1960 contract.

He signed two weeks ago with New York Giants of the National Football League.

The Bombers say Delveaux has since indicated in a signed statement that he wants to play football here. Bomber manager Jim Ausley told a press conference that the hard-hacking defensive star of the 1959 Grey Cup champions signed with Winnipeg last week.

Ausley said the contract conflict is being discussed by Sydney Halter, commissioner of the Canadian Football League, and Pete Rozelle, his NFL counterpart.

Delveaux, former University of Illinois star, came to Bombers from the Giants mid-way through the 1959 campaign.

OHA Juniors Must Play In a League

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—Powerful junior hockey teams were barred by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association Wednesday that they must participate in regular Junior-A competition to be eligible for Memorial Cup play.

The CAHA passed a resolution Wednesday that requires all junior teams, with the exception of those in Alberta, British Columbia and the Maritime Provinces, to play in a junior league.

The junior Canadiens, sponsored by the NHL Montreal Canadiens, will be affected by the ruling. A powerhouse in junior hockey for some years, the Canadiens operated out of Brockville last winter.

Alberta, B.C. and the Maritimes were excluded from the ruling because of the lack of good Junior A competition in those areas.

Joe Louis Enters the Tourist Game

NEW YORK (AP) — An associate of Joe Louis announced Wednesday the former world heavyweight boxing champion's role is attracting tourists to Cuba. Louis is a partner in a public relations firm that has registered in Washington as an agent of the Cuban government to promote tourism.

The firm—Louis, Rowe, Fisher, Lockhart Enterprises, Inc.—signed a $287,000-a-year contract to represent the National Tourist Commission of Cuba, a government agency. It registered with the United States justice department last month.

Alvin Lockhart, a partner in the firm, said Louis was the account executive.

"I brought in the account. Joe is busy with two other accounts —Ehlers coffee and promotion of the Ingemar Johansson - Floyd Patterson heavyweight championship bout."

Al Grossinger, N.Y., where he is advising Patterson on how to regain his heavyweight title, Louis said:

"We have nothing to do with politics and nothing to do with Castro. We are concerned solely in developing tourism in Cuba."

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Winning Shot will carry top weight of 127 pounds in Saturday's $7,500 Inverne Handicap as Old Woodbine stages the first double feature of the Toronto racing season. On the same Saturday program will be the $7,500 Marine Stakes for three-year-olds.

There is a possibility that a stage entry in the Marine Stakes might result in Jockey Club officials splitting this event into two divisions.

Winning Shot, owned by John S. Evans, retired Toronto building contractor, has won his only two starts so far this season.

The Evans colt will concede 10 pounds to Wonder Where if the filly runs against him. Wonder Where, Canada's "horse of the year" in 1959, has been assigned 117 pounds.

Though he couldn't quite overhaul the meet's leading rider Jockey Avelino Gomez put over a consecutive trip with five mounts Wednesday. Gomez had four winners Tuesday.

Al Coy, the 1959-60 meeting's top rider in point of wins, added one more and remained one ahead of Gomez, 25 to 24.

NEW YORK (AP) — The first $200,000 weekend at one racetrack could be profitable for three jockeys in particular at Aqueduct next Saturday and Monday.

Eddie Arcaro, Manuel Ycza or Jimmy Boulmetic could bank $15,000, with no traveling expenses and Sunday off to play golf.

The $100,000 - added Withers Mile for three-year-olds will run Saturday, and the $100,000-added Metropolitan Handicap, also one mile, comes on Memorial Day. The three riders have hot prospects in both races.

Scots Team Beats Germans

NEW YORK (AP) — Kilmarnock Scottish League runners-up defeated Bayern Munchen of Western Germany 3-1 Wednesday night in the opening game of the United States International Soccer League at the Polo Grounds.

The win gave the Scottish club a good chance to win its section in the two-month $60,000 competition organized in an effort to popularize soccer in the U.S. Nice, France; Burnley, England, and Glenavon, Northern Ireland, compete in the same section.

Bruce Kidd, Canada's most exciting track and field athlete, doesn't care about an expensive paid three-week trip to the Rome Olympic Games this summer. He doesn't wish to line up with the world's greatest distance runners.

Before anyone says this isn't normal behavior for a teen-ager, they should listen to this clear-eyed youngster from Toronto, an honors high school student and one of the most dedicated athletes in the country. He makes sense.

"I'm not ready for international experience, at least not against the type of competition I'd run up against at Rome," he explains.

That's a knock at experts who have been saying for years that Canadians are also-rans in international meets because they lack competition. Their reasoning: how can anyone expect us to win if we don't meet up against the best and learn the tricks and strategy of world-class runners?

But Bruce, who will be 17 years old on July 26, one month before the Games open, doesn't agree. He has been racing competitively just over a year at distances from 880 yards to 10,000 metres and has been record-smashing successfully by half-a-dozen American colleges with offers to continue his studies at their expense.

He will concentrate in the future on the three-mile distance and he doesn't want to be thrown in against men at Rome who would trample him under their spiked shoes. They wouldn't break his heart or crush his spirit. He isn't ready for them—yet.

"Track and field is a lot different than swimming," says this straight-backed 140-pounder who earlier this month bettered his own world three-mile record for boys under 17 with a time of 14:07.6. "Distance runners don't develop into world class until they are in their mid-twenties, while it is not uncommon for swimmers of my age to win Olympic gold medals.

"The only distance track man who holds a world record that I know about is Herb Elliott of Australia." The 22-year-old Elliott, the world's greatest miler and 1958 British Empire Games champion, is the favorite to win the gold medal event in the mile at Rome.

Ottawa-born Bruce, who averages a 50 - mile training grind each week the year round, can wait. He has his sights levelled on a gold medal—"that's my ambition and I don't want to settle for a second-place silver, or any other medal," he says.

That's in the future—maybe in the 1964 Olympics when experts say he should reach his peak.

TRACK STAR — Bruce Kidd, 16-year-old Toronto high school student, is regarded as one of the most exciting track and field athletes on the Canadian scene. He holds the world three-mile record for boys under 17 and observers say he should reach his peak by the '64 Olympic Games. Kidd is shown breaking the tape at the end of a recent indoor mile race in Hamilton. (CP Photo)

Olympic trials in July."

He has been piling up titles since he first took up the sport seriously and last year won the Viscount Alexander Trophy, awarded to the outstanding athlete in midget, juvenile or junior competition sponsored by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

He has raced in Eastern Canada and in the U.S. and in 1959 climaxed a terrific season by winning the U.S. national AAU junior 10,000-metre cross-country race at Detroit. That's when American coaches took serious notice of him and scholarship offers followed.

But he has decided to stay in Canada. He graduates from high school next year, and then it is on to the University of Toronto. "I'm not accepting American offers," he says.

Coach Fred Foot of Toronto, who looked after Canada's track team in the 1956 Olympic Games in Australia, says his timetable calls for the youngster's first international competition in the 1962 BE Games in Australia.

"I agree with my coach," says Bruce.

Provincial Darts Tourney Held At Merriton

MERRITTON — Over 150 of the Province's top dart players, converged on this Niagara peninsula town to take part in the 10th Annual Dart Championship Tourney held under the auspices of the Ontario Dart Association. At stake were the coveted Labatts trophies, symbolic of the provincial dart's championship as well as prizes of silverware and cash.

The doubles trophy was taken by the Windsor area players, Pat Harwood and Roy Reeve taking a close fought series from Len Dobson and T. Gow representing Leamington.

The Windsor men were also members of the Riverside (Windsor) Team which copped the Ontario Championship in the Team competitions from the Beaches of Toronto.

The 1960 Championships produced some of the stiffest competition in the 10 year history of the events with finalists from Sudbury, Timmins, Owen Sound, Ottawa, Belleville, Toronto, Hamilton, Malton, Orillia, St. Catharines, London and Windsor areas taking part.

Players from the Quinte area were: Art Jinks, R.R. 1, Trenton; H. R. Young, 299 John St., Belleville; R. W. Hallam, R. R. 2, Picton, H. J. Rice, R.C.S.A., Picton.

Girl Daredevil Featured in 'Hell Drivers'

There's been nothing monotonous in the life of Yvonne LeCosta since she turned 19, 1960 that's the age at which she first began driving automobiles at a high rate of speed.

Not long after that, Yvonne turned to stock car racing on tracks throughout Ontario — particularly in the vicinity of her Toronto home — and soon she won recognition as the "Queen of Speed."

But today Yvonne is internationally famed as "Queen of the Daredevils" a title she quickly earned after joining the Lucky Hell Drivers of Canada which makes appearance here tonight at Belleville Fairgrounds at 8.15 p.m.

Fabulous Yvonne looks not much older than 19 now. A lithe, striking brunette with an infectious smile, the 100-pound miss hardly resembles the petite female one would associate with steel-nerved precision driving, deliberate crashes and - like death-defying stunts.

But Yvonne shows 'em, and her male counterparts with The Hell Drivers have come to respect the pretty French girl's ability at chauffeuring 1960 model Fords and Falcons through the intricate patterns required of precision drivers.

Yvonne has had built for her a "Flying Perch," and she permits herself to be strapped into the revolving contraption which is atop a car. She spins into a near-blackout as the car speeds around the grandstand infield. Some day Yvonne hopes to be able to ride her "Flying Perch" through a series of ramp to ramp maneuvers.

Roman steeplechase racing is another of Yvonne's specialities. This time she stands precariously atop one of the new Fords,

They Laughed at The Trades, Now It's The Traders' Turn

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Some experts and fans laughed when Philadelphia traded Gene Freese, hard - hitting third baseman to Chicago for Johnny Callison, an inexperienced 20 - year - old outfielder.

Callison, playing regularly, is hitting .290 with three home runs. Freese, who slammed 26 home runs and drove in 70 runs for the Phillies last year, is batting .167 for the White Sox with no homers.

Here's how things have panned out after the more important trades among big league clubs:

When Kansas City traded its No. 1 catcher to Pittsburgh for a couple of minor leaguers, pitcher Dick Hall and infielder Ken Hamlin, there were snickers.

Smith, No. 2 catcher behind Smoky Burgess, is batting .323 but Hall has become the Athletes' top winner with a 4-0 record. Hamlin, although hitting only .179, is sparkling as the team's regular shortstop.

IDOL TRADED

They were riled when Cleveland traded Rocky Colavito, last year's home run co - champion and the Indian fans' idol, to Detroit for Harvey Kuenn.

Colavito is sitting on the bench with a .162 average while Kuenn is up among the leaders with a .304 mark.

They were skeptical when Baltimore traded top-ranked pitcher Billy O'Dell and Billy Loes to San Francisco for Jackie Brandt, a part-time .270 hitting outfielder.

O'Dell has won one of five decisions and Loes has been a disappointment in relief. Brandt is hitting .280 with five homers and 17 runs batted in and starring on defence.

Many were critical when St. Louis traded steady Don Blasingame to San Francisco for erratic Daryl Spencer and thrown in Leon Wagner.

Spencer, one of the National League's slugging leaders, is batting .339 with eight home runs and 29 runs batted in. Wagner has hit 4 homers and driven in eleven runs. Blasingame? Hi-holding a check rein as the car is piloted over the ramps. A slip of the foot in this hazardous stunt could result in a fatal tumble.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Canyer, Sports Editor

Perhaps the Belleville McFarlands should have waited a couple of years before going after that world championship. Or was their financial fate and the hockey destiny of the Kitchener Dutchmen at the 1953 Olympics mere stepping stones to something which should have been done years ago?

By that is meant that something is in the "cooking" stages designed to help finance and reimburse Canadian teams seeking hockey glory overseas or wherever world tournaments and Olympic games are played.

It could be the new broom is in its inaugural cleaning effort. Newly-elected Canadian Amateur Hockey Association secretary-manager Gordon Juckes, of Melville, Saskatchewan, succeeding George Dudley of Midland, who died of a heart attack May 8, told reporters at the annual confab in Sydney, N.S., that if is now proposed to set aside a substantial amount of the gross revenue for world tournaments to be split among competing teams.

Juckes is quoted as saying this might be as much as 15 per cent. It was indeed viewed the CAHA gathering that the gross take of the world tournament in Czechoslovakia was one million dollars. We were told it was $500,000 for the estimated No. 2 "gate" Moscow, but the million is probably closer to the exact figure.

This would mean that some $150,000 would have been divided among the contestant clubs, probably on the basis of attendance at their games.

And that, mes amis, would have meant a big chunk of money to the Belleville McFarlands, for they were by far the biggest drawing card in the world tournament deck.

Add to this the share of the club's money in pre- and post-tournament exhibition tilts, and the accumulated intake would have paid all the expenses with probably a bit left for plus money.

Come to think of it there has never been a public expose of the distribution of the "million-dollar" take of the 1959 world tournament. One thing is sure. The Canadian team did not have any in that "excess airline baggage" they allegedly toted in Europe. All they got was a bill for $1,000.

But that is now water under the bridge even if it does constitute an item on the tax bills.

At this writing, the debate on whether Canada will be represented in world hockey in the future had not reached the CAHA floor. But word from Sydney has it that the "yes" have plenty of support both from Canadian delegates and World Ice Federation men from overseas.

The latter would be foolish not to support the move to keep Canada in world competition. As was mentioned earlier, Canadian teams with their aggressive colorful play are the tournaments' best attraction. In exhibition games against the "native sons," thousands packing European arenas to watch the Canucks go through their pre-tournament calisthenics.

Meanwhile the question arises, if Canada is to be represented at the world tournament scheduled for Lucerne and Zurich, Switzerland, next March, which team will wear the Canadian colors?

As Allan Cup winners, and according to former CAHA custom, the Chatham Maroons are the logical standard-bearers. But, and this is not funny, just typical, no word of participation in any world safari (there are two) has been received from lacquadous Johnny Horeck, mentor of the Allan Cup winners.

Just after parking the Allan Cup in his travelling gear, and heading for the beet-root district of Ontario, Horeck stated the Maroons might prefer the Russian exhibition tour to that of the world tournament. (The CAHA had planned a Russian exhibition tour for November.)

But at this writing the CAHA knows nothing of Horeck's plans, wishes or intentions. It was stated by officials that until the Maroons indicate they are not interested, they'll be given the first chance at the world title. Who would go to Russia if Chatham takes the later date is not known at this time.

The Trail Smoke Eaters have indicated they would take the trip the Maroons didn't want. They had a win one tie to the Maroons in Allan Cup play, and their strength for world tournament play could be questionable.

However, if the suggested new financial set-up for Canadian teams taking part in world tournaments becomes a reality, perhaps Horeck and his Maroons would jump at the chance. Officials say that it isn't necessary to send the best team to Russia, but they admit that it must be a strong club that will have a better than average chance of winning a majority of its games.

Orioles, Indians Ride High; Giants Sweep Phils

Fledgeling Five-Hits Chisox As Tribe Nips Nats in 11; 'Bums' Take Trio From Bucs

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Pitching is getting to be a young man's game in the American League. And if you need a convincer take a squint at the Baltimore Orioles and Cleveland Indians, running 1-2 in the pennant chase.

Chuck Estrada, 22, a right-handed rookie, allowed only five hits for a 3-2 victory over 40-year-old Early Wynn at Chicago Wednesday that gave the Orioles a sweep of the two-game series. It was Steve Barber, a 21-year-old southpaw rookie, who plunked the White Sox out of first place with a seven-hitter Tuesday.

And Wednesday night, Jim Perry, an old hand at 24, pitched an 11-inning shutout for Cleveland as the Indians defeated Washington 1-0 and stayed within a half-game of Baltimore.

TIGERS-YANKS TIED

Detroit tied New York for fourth place, three games behind, by beating the Yankees 9-3. And Boston finally banked its losing slump at 10 games, defeating Kansas City 5-3.

Estrada (3-1), who had a 144-record in triple-A at Vancouver last season, walked four but struck out five as the Birds won their fourth in a row. They rallied it in the sixth when pinch-hitter Bob Boyd singled and came around on Estrada's sacrifice and Clint Courtney's pinch single. That gave Baltimore a 2-1 cushion in one-run decisions and wrapped up a 6-3 log of the week.

Sherm Lollar drove in both White Sox runs, tying it one-all in the fourth and deadlocking it at two-all in the seventh with a home run.

FRANCONA ENDS SHUTOUT

Tito Francona's two-out single broke up Perry's duel with pitcher Bill Fischer (0-1) who had a four-hitter until the 11th.

Perry (3-2) allowed eight hits, walked two and struck out eight in the route.

It was the third 11-inning shutout job of the season in the majors, all in the AL, and the second against the Senators.

Frank Bolling drove in four runs for the Tigers, who won their fourth in a row as Bolling, Charlie Maxwell and Red Wilson all slugged bases-loaded doubles. Frank Lary (4-3) won it for a 22-7 lifetime record against New York. Ralph Terry (2-2) lost it, with Roger Maris belted his eighth and ninth homers for the Yanks.

Don Buddin's second double and a squeeze bunt by reliever Ted Bowsfield gave the Red Sox the deciding run in the eighth at Kansas City.

There was nothing wrong with San Francisco Giants that a series with Philadelphia Phillies couldn't cure.

They went into Philadelphia in second place, San Jones, their right-handed ace, was winless on the road. Southpaw Mike McCormick had lost two in a row after winning his first five. And the hitters couldn't match the runs given up by a suddenly wobbly pitching staff.

But in Philly Jones won the opener with a fourth-inning shutout that put the Giants back in the National League lead. Wednesday night the Giants made it a sweep behind McCormick's five - hitter. Willie Mays hit a game-cut to eight innings by rain and picking up a one-game lead over second place Pittsburgh with 4-3 decision.

Los Angeles Dodgers swept a three-game series against second place Pittsburgh with a 5-1 decision on three-hit pitching and 250-foot wallop by rookie Frank Howard.

St. Louis Cardinals defeated Milwaukee Braves 8-3 in the ninth on George Crowe's two-run batting pinch - hit home run. Cincinnati Redlegs defeated Chicago Cubs and Don Cardwell 7-4 in a game held to 7 2-3 innings by rain.

The Giants swept 3-0 against the last-place Phillies, beat Robin Roberts (1-3) with Willie Kirkland's two-run homer in the second inning. Kirkland had three hits and drove in three runs. The Phils' run was unearned in the third inning but ended their scoreless slump against the Giants at 31 innings.

The Dodgers won their fourth in a row, scoring their first four runs on homers by Howard, Johnny Roseboro and pinch-hitter Don Demeter. Right-hander Don Drysdale, winless for a month, squared his record at 4-4 with a 7-hitter. He blanked the Bucs on three hits until Rocky Nelson homered in the ninth.

Jim Umbricht (0-2) was the loser as a replacement for Bob Friend, who failed to start because of a throat infection.

Crowe's first home run of the season, a two-run shot off losing pitcher Don Schwall (1-4), was his 311th as a pinch-hitter, breaking a tie with Dusty Rhodes (Pittsburgh) and Gus Zernial (Detroit) for the major - league career record. Schwall in three games went eight innings for the Braves and allowed only three hits, but two were home runs by Ken Boyer.

Larry Jackson (4-4) won his third in a row, giving up nine hits. The Reds socked Cardwell (2-3) rain came.

Wet grounds forced the postponement of the Belleville and District softball league game between the Cobourg Merchants and Belleville Rebels scheduled for CNRA Park last night.

'If Ingy Doesn't Look Good Nor Does the Guy He Beats', Says Impish Charlie Goldman

By WHITNEY MARTIN

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP) — Charley Goldman has no axe to grind.

The impish little fellow trained Rocky Marciano for all his championship bouts and, with Rocky retired, can'look at a fighter with cool impartiality and not as a prospective opponent for the man for whom he is working.

So his comments on Ingemar Johansson as he studied sweymoves of the current champion during a sparring session Tuesday can be accepted as expert and unbiased.

CITES OLD SAW

"There is an old saying you can do without a right hand but you can't do without a left," he said as Johansson tried ineffectually to land roundhouse rights on elusive little Artie Towne.

"Only sadness get hit with deliberate right hands.

"They say sometimes Johansson doesn't look so good, but looks don't count. It's the results, and so far his results have been pretty good. He knocked out our two best men—Floyd Patterson and Eddie Machen.

"Some fellow said about Rocky once: 'Rocky doesn't look so good from outside the ring, but the guy laying in the ring doesn't look so good either.'"

Goldman chuckled and then watched in silence as Johansson, looking very big and very strong, chased the wary Towne about the ring.

"This Towne is a real cutey," he resumed. "He's had a lot of experience. Johansson is very lenient on his sparring partners. He's working for speed now. He knows he can punch. Nature gave him power."

BELABORS BAG

Later Goldman watched the champion belabor the heavy bag.

"That's good," he said. "He looks back against his sparring partners, and if you get in the habit of doing that it might take you two or three rounds to start hitting hard when you get in a fight. He can turn loose on the heavy bag and keep in practice."

Johansson warned up for the exhibition with 11 holes of golf Wednesday in a foursome which included former heavyweight champion Joe Louis.

Louis has predicted a knockout victory for challenger Floyd Patterson in the June 20 heavyweight fight.

Canada Remains In World Hockey

New CAHA Legislation Kills Ottawa Proposal to Quit; Includes New Player Rules

By DOUG HARKNESS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association virtually gave the green light Wednesday for Canada to continue in international hockey competition.

Canada's governing body for amateur hockey passed a resolution that sets out how Canada's representatives in international hockey can add player strength to their teams. The resolution, passed at the CAHA's annual meeting here, ended speculation that Canada would withdraw from Olympic and world play.

The Ottawa district branch has a resolution before the annual meeting calling for just that, but it is expected to be turned down.

FREE CHOICE

The resolution, which had been proposed by the late George Dudley of Midland, empowers teams to pick up any number of players from other teams before entering international competition. The players must return to their original teams after completing the series.

Formerly Canada's representatives could pick up only one player from a club and no more than 10 from all teams.

Observers here feel the new legislation killed any chance of the CAHA ceasing to send teams into international play.

In world competition, former professionals can be used, but in Olympic play they are not eligible.

How the team will be financed is expected to be discussed when the Ottawa district proposal comes before the assembly.

Discussion on intern a t i o n a l hockey is expected to come up Friday.

NO PLAYOFF TIES

The CAHA also approved Wednesday a resolution that would eliminate tie games in Allan and Memorial Cup competition.

The resolution stipulated if a game ends in a tie, a 10-minute overtime session be played, and if a tie still exists, successive 20-minute sudden-death periods will be played until a winner has been declared. In sudden-death, the first team to score wins.

Under former regulations, only a 10-minute overtime session was played in the event of a tie.

The rules committee is advocating heavier penalties for high sticking.

Proposed regulations call for a player to receive a five-minute penalty for his second high-stick offence in a game. If a third high-sticking penalty is imposed against the player, a match penalty will be levied, and the player will be banished with a match penalty for a fourth similar penalty.

Read Hands City Juniors 5-2 Setback

By PETER CARVER

Read handed the Belleville Kenora Juniors a 5-2 loss in their first game of the 1964 South Hastings League schedule last night at Read. The juniors play host to Shannonville next Saturday afternoon at the C.N.R.A. at 2:00.

Read got off to a fast start scoring three runs in the first inning and two in the second capitalizing on weak defensive play on the loser's part. Belleville's two runs came in the first and fourth stanzas.

Basil Hanley went all the way for the winners giving up six hits, walking two, and striking out five.

Glenn Dalrand took the loss allowing five base hits while walking eight and passing six.

Two walks and base hits by Callery, Brennan and Masters plus an error scored the first Read's three in the first. Errors played a major part in the second and Junior consolidated no less than three. Two more walks paved the way to victory as two crossed the plate to finish the winner's scoring.

Clapp drew a walk in the junior's half of the first but was forced at second, Clarke going to first on the fielders choice and stealing second. Dick Morris drove him home with a single.

"Red" Keller singled in the fourth and raced home on Larry Sodon's double.

Percy Milligan, Ken Brennan and Baz Hanley each connected for a double in the winning cause while Callery and Masters rammed singles.

Larry Soden was 2 for 3 with a double and a single, Moe Hunter left a double, while Keller, Morris and Clarke rounded out Belleville's scoring.

Belleville — Clapp, Clarke, Morris, Hanley, Elliott, Keller, Soden, Mawby, Dalrand.

Read — Milligan, McKechan, Callery, J. Brennan, Masters, K. Brennan, Enright, Steele, Hanley, Detwiler, Moe Hunter, Read.

Umpires — Pointer (p) Dixon. Time: 1½ hours.

Paunch Was Behind Punch But He KO'd Willie in 10th

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Staff Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Old Archie Moore (48) still has the punch, but the paunch must go before he defends his light heavyweight title against Tom Schoonover of Germany next July 18.

Moore, carrying a billowy 205½ pounds, scored a tenth - round technical knockout Wednesday night over a blood-spurting Willi Besmanoff of Milwaukee.

The 175-pound king from San Diego, Calif., was dropped to one knee by a right-hand punch by Besmanoff in the second round.

Moore dropped Besmanoff for a mandatory eight-count in the third and then caught Besmanoff flush on the beak and decked him near the end of the ninth.

COMMISSIONER F OPS IT

Besmanoff's nose was bleeding profusely and referee Frank Gilmer, chairman of the Illinois State Athletic Commission, called it quits at 1:32.

Promoter Jack Fugazy of New York said Moore would defend his 175-pound crown against Schoonover on a July 18. The site was not announced.

"Have no fear," announced Jack (Doc) Kearns, Moore's well-traveled manager. "Archie don't take much time to get down to 175 pounds. We have a $200,000 guarantee for the July 18 date."

"It's just too bad this fight didn't go 30 rounds. Archie would have fought himself into shape for Schoppert."

Moore was the winner in more ways than one in the bout which launched a big courts building for Monday's Memorial Day 500-mile auto race.

Archie collected a $25,000 guarantee.

That's more than the gross gate of $24,422 paid by a Coliseum crowd of 5,653. Promoter Al Peck, Indianapolis ball boodsman, had to go the bondsmen, his one - hour bankroll of $6,000 guarantee attached before the host by Milwaukee promoter, Phil Valley. The TV fee took Barb off the hook a little.

Moore conceded he was stunned by Besmanoff's solid right hand shot to the chin in the second. "I finally got over the right I wanted in the ninth" said Archie. "It was a right arched at 90 degrees and really bent his nore."

Besmanoff weighed 196½.

WARM OUTLOOK — Most of Canada will have near-normal or above-normal temperatures from mid-May to mid-June, according to the 30-day outlook of the United States weather bureau.

Map detail predicted temperatures and precipitation across the country for the period. Tables give normal readings for various centres.

These maps are based on predictions of the weather office which says its monthly outlook is not a specific forecast and that a change in weather pattern may produce major errors. (CP Newsmap.)

Federal Govt. Ready to Help Develop Harbors

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government stands ready to consider making loans to local harbor commissions lacking funds to improve port facilities, Transport Minister Hees said Tuesday.

Mr. Hees made the remarks in announcing a new split-the-cost policy for improving local harbor commission ports.

Sparked partly by the St. Lawrence Seaway, the new policy is aimed at getting local harbor commissions to put up some of the cash for building port facilities.

There are about 2,300 public harbors in Canada, but 2,000 of them are too small to warrant a harbor master or full-time management. Eight bigger ports—such as Montreal, Vancouver, Halifax, Saint John, N.B. and Quebec—are administered by the National Harbors Board.

Nine other harbors — Port Alberni, North Fraser, New Westminster, all in B.C., Winnipeg, Lakehead, Windsor, Hamilton, Toronto and Belleville—are run by harbor commission.

Two more are expected to be incorporated soon—one at Nanaimo, B.C. and the other at Chatham. Bills to create them were approved by the Common committee Tuesday. The bills, already passed by the Senate, are to go to the Commons soon.

MORE COMMISSIONS

Other communities — particularly some hopefuls ambitious ones on the seaway route—are likely to emerge as commission-run ports.

The policy statement, replacing a rather piecemeal practice of the past, lays out the ground rules for up-and-coming ports seeking commission administration, then says how they are to help pay for some of the necessary port facilities.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21)—The important data you require can be garnered now, provided you do the necessary research work. Improve your financial condition. Then assist those in need. Be sure this evening that you put abode in best possible order.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23)—Look to good pals for the information and advice you need in order to advance more quickly in your career, both the emotional and the material types. Friendliness wins out. Evening fine for entertaining or being entertained.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)—Highups will be in the mood to give you support if you make it your business to contact them now. Also, become more efficient in your regular work. P. M. happens one in authority who can help you.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—It would be the height of wisdom today to study those phases of your work or personal life that have kept you puzzled for some time. Put more modern systems to work, too. P. M. socialize with new friend for advancement.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—You often get flashes of foresight, and if you get into the so-called Silence for a while today, many inspired thoughts will flow through. They will be most helpful. Evening is fine for romance. Be kind and considerate.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Be sure you keep those appointments today and make new contacts so that you impress associates or others who are vital to your well-being. Get their full admiration. Tonight is fine for fun with good allies.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—An early start, plus real enthusiasm gets so much done today that not one moment should be lost of this day's excellent aspects. Evening is also ideal for getting your artistic talents before the right people.

Pisces (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20)—Much fun is possible now with good friends, though it may be only during lunch, dinner, when long conversations are most pleasing. Work out this evening and then off to sports or the theatre, a spin in your car — as you will.

If your child is born today ... he, or she, will have an almost uncanny knack of taking what is seemingly obsolete and making it operate like a charm, whether for self or others. A highly practical course in business administration or the art of selling is a must here. Also, give a special course in psychology for better nerve control and ridding himself, or herself, of fears and phobias.

Use the Naran Plan to Lose Ugly Fat

It's simple how quickly and easy long pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home remedy yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Then take it to plant bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from back, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Naran may be had at any druggist by many who have tried this plan and left trying back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. No how painful, how long conversations are most pleasing. Find out this evening and then off to sports or the theatre, a spin in your car — as you will.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

SPLIT-LEVEL

Would you like to live on a quiet street—where there is no through traffic—and yet all the homes are new. We have a slightly fine brick that the owner has had to leave because of a transfer and it is now ready for you to move in. It has just the layout—an immediate condition throughout. The living room is big—you would like the kitchen. This one we must sell right quick—you would be pleased to show it to you day or night and submit your offer. The downpayment is easy.

A LITTLE HOUSE

BUT what a wonderful place for retirement — not very far at all from downtown. Has a fine garage and could have two with some re-arranging. It's as cute as can be and has a lot, big enough to care for when "retiring". It's a little home — it's a little price — and we are sure it would make you more than a little happy. $6,200.

SOUTH CHURCH ST.

A 5-bedroom home plus an extra apartment and work shop. A good investment or a good place to live and have your own business in the small business. Terms less than $100. $9,500.

Russia Charges U.S. Puts World 'On Brink Of War'

Gromyko Bitter After Censure Motion Beaten

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — A Russian charge that United States policies are placing "mankind on the brink of war" was before an emergency session of the United Nations Security Council today.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's attack on the U.S. increased its bitterness Thursday after the Security Council knocked down a Russian charge that the U.S. was guilty of aggression by sending spy planes over Russia.

The 11-member council voted 7 to 2 with two abstentions against a Soviet proposal for condemning the U.S., but Gromyko promptly returned to the attack against President Eisenhower and his government.

The council had turned to a "Little Summit" proposal for a renewal of East-West negotiations when Gromyko unleashed his blast against Eisenhower. He will someday night speech on last week's abortive summit conference.

Eisenhower clearly worsened the international situation, said Gromyko, adding:

"The world is full of its expression above all in the demonstrative anti-Soviet actions of the Americans, that the United States government is pursuing a course in its policy of military espionage and sabotage against the Soviet Union, a policy of provocations which, indeed, place mankind on the brink of war."

Hopes that the council would get Washington and Moscow to submit received a setback in the statement by Gromyko, who was apparently annoyed by the U.S. defeat in the council, whose members have congress of leaders.

He said the judges would pass sentence on Khrushchev if they rejected Russia's contention that aggression was committed in U.S. flights which resulted in the destruction of a U-2 plane deep in Soviet territory May 1.

WARNS LITTLE NATIONS

Repeating an earlier warning to other countries, Gromyko said:

Price Unchanged

OTTAWA (CP) — The government support price for honey will remain unchanged from last year at 12½ cents a pound, while No. 1, Agriculture Minister Harkness announced Thursday in the Commons.

He said the support price is 102 per cent of the average during the 1950-59 period.

Storage Charges On Surplus Pork Are $4,729,197

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government paid $4,729,197 in storage charges on surplus pork stocks in the five years ended March 31, the government reported Thursday.

In that period it canned 121,500,000 pounds from frozen cuts and fresh stocks — 34,617,000 pounds under government label and the rest for commercial packers — said in a tabled Commons reply to Arnold Peters (CCF—Timiskaming).

The stocks accumulated under the price support program which was replaced by another form of price support last January to curb the rising surplus.

Last month the government began selling some of the pork to processors in the form of canned luncheon meat carrying commercial labels. The governmental-labelled meat has been available free in carload lots to approved welfare and charitable organizations.

Worker Buried

TORONTO (CP) — Gabrielle Carbone, 49, was killed Thursday night when the corner of an apartment excavation in suburban Weston collapsed. His cousin, Rogero Carbone, escaped being buried alive when he saw the wall start to fall and ran to safety. Antonio Salvadigo, was rescued after being buried partially.

Victims Wait for Hours to Get Typhoid Shots and Powdered Milk

PUERTO MONTT, Chile (AP) — A long line of women, children and men inched along the sidewalk of this earthquake-shattered port in southern Chile today.

They had been waiting for hours to get typhoid shots and powdered milk.

Inside the frame building through the day and into the night, the confused, stunned people got a pound of milk and a needle, then left the milk powder for their feed-starved babies.

"We've vaccinated more than 1,000 and we have thousands more to go," said pretty but weary Teresa Bazan, leaning against a door jamb for a few minutes of rest.

"The only hospital in town was destroyed. The sick and injured have been taken to another city or place else where there is a roof over their heads or a cot on the floor."

Scattered at these aid stations throughout the city are more than a 300 injured.

The line outside stands a young mother, bareheaded, with a baby in her arms.

"I have been in line three hours now," she said tiredly. "The baby is getting heavier every minute but she has not had any fresh milk for three days. I have been feeding her a little warm soup some mashed potatoes and anything she will take. She is eight months old but she doesn't seem to complain."

The baby looked up at her exhausted mother and gurgled. The young woman straightened the child's knit sweater and moved along in line.

Dr. Luis Edenbepger stood on the sidewalk in front of his shattered house and looked across the street at the ruins of the State Bank.

"It will take us 50 years to rebuild Puerto Montt," he sighed, then added, "but at least it will be modern."

It was not a modern city last week before the two violent earthquakes and tidal waves struck that tumbled were old and of wood.

"Now," said the doctor, pointing to a heap of debris, "is what is left of La Barcha Hotel."

"It had 30 rooms. Now look at it. But one thing, everybody got out."

The bank's funds also were safe. There's 30,000,000 escudos ($28,000,000) in that safe over there," said the doctor.

Roberts and Robinette Plan Probe of TV Divorce Program

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Roberts of Ontario says today he will investigate the case of a woman who says she acted as a professional co-respondent in divorce cases.

Mr. Roberts said he wants to see a tape of Thursday night's CBC television program Close-up, on which the woman was interviewed. She said she acted in 120 divorce cases during four years, making a total of $12,000.

She said she has rediscovered perjury." Mr. Roberts said.

John J. Robinette, Toronto lawyer and head of the Law Society of Upper Canada, said the society will carefully look into the case. He said he had never heard of manufactured evidence being used in divorce cases.

"If what she says is true, then that's unethical and improper conduct," Mr. Robinette said. "If the case came to our notice and was proven, the lawyer would be disciplined."

Other reaction to the television interview ranged from congratulations to disgust.

Arnold Peters, CCF member of Parliament for Timiskaming, said the CBC should be congratulated. He said the program showed many lawyers were guilty of connivance and underlined the need to broaden the grounds for divorce. CCF members have been blocking passage of divorce bills this session in protest against Parliament's having to handle divorces cases from Newfoundland and Quebec.

CBC officials in Toronto said they received 14 telephone calls after the show, 10 in favor and four against.

New York Paper to Explore Relations of U.S., Canada

NEW YORK (CP)—The New York Herald Tribune posed the question, "Who cares about Canada?" in the headline of an editorial today, and announced that it intends to explore Canadian-American relationships on its editorial page.

The newspaper said Prime Minister Diefenbaker would be coming to Washington. Diefenbaker is scheduled to visit Washington May 31 to meet with President Eisenhower.

The editorial declared that the U.S. and Canada have their share of ignorance about each other, despite their geographical proximity, and that "ignorance breeds fear and mistrust."

The Herald Tribune, it had implied "six statesmen and reporters who live in the troubled and baffling ways of Canadian-American relations" to take part in the forum.

The editorial described Canadians as a "people of courage and character who have done more than most of us recently to defend and strengthen the free world."

To begin its discussion the newspaper picked representative Frank M. Coffin, Maine Republican who has been a steadfast friend of Canada. Coffin and former representative Brooks Hays of Arkansas made what Coffin described as a "study mission" in Canada in 1958.

Coffin says there was an erosion in Canadian - American relationships after the Second World War. As the reasons, he lists various economic difficulties, conflicts over defence, and Canadian fears of "absorption."

The study mission showed that a lack of communication between the two countries was probably more to blame than a "failure of policy."

Coffin says "the waiving of buy American requirements as applied to Canada in defence procurement and the initiation of a production sharing program based on mutual needs and will be responsible for 496,300,000 in Canadian contracts in the first year of operation."

Irritations still exist between the two, coffin reports, but "they must face together the challenge of economic diplomacy resulting from the formation of two European blocs—the common market and the Outer Seven."

Charlotte Hot Over Interview

OTTAWA (CP)—Former mayor Charlotte Whitton denounced the CBC Thursday night for what she called a "decadent and revolting" television interview with a professional divorce co-respondent.

"This is even a worse flouting of the law than I had anticipated," said Miss Whitton, newspaper columnist and social worker.

"A woman is a criminal and any responsible citizen would report her to the police for breaking of the law than I had anticipated," said Miss Whitton, newspaper columnist and social worker.

"A woman is a criminal and any responsible citizen would report her to the police for breaking of the law than I had anticipated," said Miss Whitton. "But not the CBC. It is responsible to no one."

All the program did was to describe people at various stages of undress, with a giggling interviewer seeming to enjoy every minute of it.

"The whole program was nobody but above - mentioned people signed up to appeal to the lowest human instincts."

She moved to investigate the possibility of placing charges through the Crown attorney at Ottawa.

UNIONS, RAILS GIVEN TIME TO REFUTE BRIEFS

CNR Presents Final Argument

MONTREAL (CP) — A three-man conciliation board hearing Canada's largest wage dispute has adjourned until June 8 to give both union and management time to prepare rebuttal testimony.

The board adjourned Thursday after Dan P. Mc. the CNR's general economist, of the Canadian Railways' Department against the wage increases demanded by their 120,000 non-operating employees — all those not actually engaged in running trains.

It was the eighth brief in a massive file of railway evidence. The railways are trying to convince the board to abandon a wage-standard accepted by previous boards and to give weight to their contentions that they cannot pay increases.

The unions, headed by veteran negotiator Frank H. Hall, have presented largely the same arguments they have been successful with before.

REPORT IN MID-JULY

Rebuttal evidence and further cross - examination of witnesses from both sides is expected to take all the week and then the board's report not expected before mid-July.

If that is handed down it will not be binding on either side and despite the generally amicable tone of the hearings there was nothing to indicate any decision could prove acceptable to both parties.

Are unions, basing their demand on the durable-goods standard of 40 cents an hour, are asking their average hourly wage of $1.77 be boosted to one place 180 days by a two-year contract.

INFLATIONARY EFFECT

Mr. Watt's report re-emphasized the railways' contention they are already paying adequate wages and cannot afford more.

He also said the unions' demands might have an adverse inflationary effect on the economy.

Either a cut in the number of jobs in freight rates or government subsidies would be needed to pay for raises, Mr. Watn said.

He described the railways' steadily decreasing share of the transportation market in the face of increasing competition from pipelines and trucks and said the unions should not exchange short-term money gains for job-security in a healthy railway industry.

FA OF THE YEAR

NEW YORK (AP)—Robert F. Kennedy, 34, Thursday night was named as America's "father of the year." Kennedy, former chief counsel of the Senate committee investigating racketeering and labor-management practices, was honored by the National Father's Day Committee.

Bloodless Coup Follows Unrest, Menderes Held

Leaders Promise Loyalty To NATO, Free Vote

ISTANBUL (AP)—The armed forces took over Turkey in a bloodless coup D'etat this morning, promising to hold free elections and turn over power to the winner.

The army takeover followed weeks of unrest sparked by student demonstrations against Premier Adnan Menderes' strongman rule and oppressive government measures against Menderes' chief political opponent, the Republican People's party of former president Ismet Inonu.

Ankara radio broadcasts monitored in London said President Celal Bayar and members of Menderes' cabinet had been taken into army custody. The broadcast made no mention of the premier, who has been on a cruising tour of cities in western Turkey.

(The broadcast announcement said Turkey—the Middle Eastern anchor of the Western defence line against Communist aggression—would remain loyal to the NATO and other alliances with the West. The army also promised to ensure the safety and security of all foreigners in the country).

The army called by radio on all Turkish officers and troops to obey the instructions of the military. The broadcast said the armed forces had taken over civil administration throughout the country "to avoid anarchy and fratricide."

The army said it had acted "because of the crisis through which democracy in Turkey is passing." It said it would stay in power until "free and honest elections can be held, and then will hand over administration to the winners of the election.

The Ankara broadcasts repeatedly stressed that the coup had been bloodless. The army declared that all Turkish citizens would be treated according to the laws of the country.

The Ankara broadcasts made no mention of who was leading the army revolt, but Ankara said that Gen. Cemal Gursel, commander of land forces were among those taken into custody, indicating that the leaders of the group were lesser-ranking army officers.

The simmering resentment erupted into violence when Menderes' Democrats in April set up a special parliamentary commission with sweeping powers to investigate Socialist Ismet Inonu's opposition party. All political activity was banned for the commission's duration. Violations were placed on the country's press.

STUDENTS DEMONSTRATE

University students in Istanbul and Ankara took to the streets in demonstrations against Menderes as foreign ministers of the NATO countries met in Ankara.

The demonstrations were dispersed with some bloodshed, mainly in Istanbul, Turkey's largest city, and the colleges and universities were closed. But unrest continued.

The 61-year-old Menderes, who had run the country with an iron hand since becoming premier in 1950, sought to quiet the students by promising new national elections, but he failed to set a date.

Menderes announced Thursday that the parliamentary commission set up to investigate the opposition Inonu party had completed the work ahead of time and was preparing its report.

About 1,000 medical students cheered 75-year-old former premier Inonu in Ankara as he walked a hospital to see a Republican deputy hurt in a scuffle on the floor of Parliament Wednesday.

Despite the word from Turkey that the coup was bloodless, one report to the foreign office in London said the takeover was preceded by shooting in the streets of Ankara before dawn.

All members of the government were similarly rounded up by troops.

Yaremko Named To Post of Provincial Sec.

TORONTO (CP) — Transport Minister Yaremko assumed another provincial portfolio Thursday — that of provincial secretary and registrar.

The 41-year-old minister was sworn in by Lieutenant-Governor J. Keiller Mackay following a cabinet meeting.

Always Look Gift Eagle in Beak Is Memo to U.S. Ambassadors

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Home to United States ambassadors: Always look a gift eagle in the beak.

Otherwise the great bird might turn out to be a spy, like the one found in the wood and stone seal of the United States which Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zarubin displayed to the United Nations Security Council Thursday as a concrete example of Soviet espionage.

Zarubin, speaking in the council debate on Soviet charges against American spy flights, said the wooden plaque was given the U.S. ambassador in Moscow by a group of Russians.

Later, he continued, the plaque was hung in the U.S. embassy.

"Here is the clandestine listening device with the aerial, right under the eagle's beak," said Lodge, taking the plaque apart and explaining that persons outside with a receiver could pick up conversations in the eagle overhead.

Lodge did not say to which ambassador the plaque was given, or when it was discovered.

But W. Averell Harriman told reporters that the plaque had been given to him in 1945 when he was ambassador to Moscow, and he understood the listening device was discovered in 1952.

"I had no idea it was in the place in my study," said Harriman. "I'll look more carefully when I had it."

Harriman added that the listening apparatus could have been installed in the seal after his departure, when the eagle was being redecorated, for example.

Harriman showed the plaque to the council to counter Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko's contention that U.S. allegations of Soviet espionage were fanciful. Gromyko earlier said more than 100 such listening devices had been found in embassies in Communist countries, including 25 in Poland.

Polish delegate Jerzy Michalowsky said he wouldn't try to answer Lodge but that he could give some interesting information about "microphones and telephones in some of our buildings in this country."

Salvation Army Band to Mark Anniversary

The Belleville Citadel Salvation Army Band this weekend observes its 50th anniversary of service in this community. Ever since 1879, when the first Salvation Army Corps Band was formed at Consett in England, Salvationists here used this medium of music to reach the people with the message of Christ. There are today some 15,000 bandsmen dedicating to this task, and every week in hospitals and other institutions as well as on the street corners around the world their messages can be heard.

In 1904 Charles Smith commenced instruction here of the first learners, among them E. Burke, who now lives at 31 Charlotte Street, and is now a registered bandsman. In 1905 David Wardle arrived in the city from the Salt Country became bandmaster in this capacity Mr. Wardle gave 43 years of valuable service and the band under his leadership achieved much progress and travelled considerably.

In 1949 at the retirement of Bandmaster Wardle, the leadership of the band was given to Jack Green, who remains the leader today. Most of the present members of the band have received instruction from Mr. Green as well as many other musicians in the city. Mr. Green, as a young man, was an outstanding cornetist and in 1926 won first prize at the Canadian National Exhibition.

A special program of Salvation Army music will be presented by the band this Saturday night in the citadel at 8:00 o'clock. An interesting feature of this event will be items given by some of the families which comprise the band.

The service this Sunday will be conducted by the band and special music will be featured throughout the day.

Will Try Monday Store Closing June 6 to Sept. 30

TRENTON — The majority of retail merchants here want to close their stores Monday to remain open Wednesdays. An experiment will be held from June 6 to Sept. 30.

The Chamber of Commerce, which acted as a fact - finding body in the issue, will study and prepare a by-law to make the new store hours a permanent arrangement if the experiment is successful. The by-law will be submitted to town council at the end of the trial period.

At a well-attended meeting of representative merchants held Thursday night, the pros and cons of the issue were argued for two and a half hours. Several merchants had previously signified in writing that they favored the Monday closing. Many of the merchants who were unable to attend the meeting empowered proxies to vote for them with the majority.

A deciding factor in the matter was a last-minute decision by the large chain food stores to go along with the majority vote.

Douglas Whitley, provincial president of the Chamber of Commerce, said many towns were trying the experiment and finding it successful.

The small grocers unanimously favored the idea. They said that with the present Wednesday half-day closing, by the time they get their stock away in the afternoon it was 5 or 6 o'clock, before they could start on their holiday.

Jewellers had previously come to an agreement that their stores will remain closed Monday and open Wednesdays no matter what decision the other retail merchants reached.

Barbers had agreed to go along with the general trend. One hardware merchant said that he would close if Belleville merchants agreed to the Monday closing. Another said he would never close Mondays "unless the whole world does" he decided.

John Saylor, a hardware merchant, said that he thought the by-law should be passed at once. He said that the trial period would be a poor test if some of the merchants stayed open and some closed.

"What is Belleville doing anyhow?" he asked.

STEAL FROM BELLEVILLE

"This is our own problem," said Mr. Saylor. "We can take a nice piece of business away from Belleville on Wednesdays."

Clay Finkle, owner of an engraving station, said he would like to close Mondays but that his staff had to process regustomed to the stores closing Saturdays at 6 p.m. once it was instigated.

Ken Couch, merchant, considered " the merchants were selling Trenton short by the Monday closing.

It was suggested that in order to orient the public to the idea that the stores would be open all day Wednesdays small gifts be given away on the street in front of each shop on Wednesday afternoons during the first part of the trial period.

"In that case, I" leave my store and stay on the street," remarked a jeweller.

VOTE 3-1

A polled vote was taken on the issue, and, with the exception of two negative votes, and four abstentions, the motion was carried.

Mr. Whitley, chairman of the meeting, said he was pleased to see so many citizens gathered together for friendly debate on the question. He said the aim of the Chamber of Commerce was to foster such discussion for the betterment of the public. Mr. Whitley praised the press and radio for the amount of co-operation shown to the Chamber.

Might Convert Old Gravel Pit Into Gridiron

TRENTON — At a meeting Tuesday night of the Parks Board, chairman, Clarence Jr., said that Stance Klemencic, a contractor who is building a 119-unit subdivision in the recently-annexed area west of Champlain Heights, had asked council and the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board to consider the use of an old gravel pit for the five per cent parks requirement by the planning by-law.

Mr. Parker said he thought the idea had possibilities. He said that the sides of the pit could be graded and seeded partially grassed, trees planted along the sides of the pit and the area used as a safe playground for children.

Members of the board members were dubious about the suggestion.

"Would we have to fill it up?" asked one. "That would be an expensive project."

Another member suggested that the pit might be made into a "sunken garden."

"I still think it's a good idea," reaffirmed the chairman. "It's as big as a rugby football and it might even be used for that."

Discuss Million Dollar Meat Processing Plant

TRENTON — One hundred Quinte District Holstein Breeders at Bloomfield Wednesday night to discuss a co-operative meat processing and packing plant to serve the counties of Prince Edward, Hastings, Lennox and Addington and Northumberland. The project is made into a "sunken garden."

It will cost about $1,000,000, would be financed by the farmers of the area interested.

By a unanimous decision it was decided to carry on with obtaining more information on the subject.

Lindsay Inglis and James Simpson, president and manager of the Co-Pac-O co-operative company at Barrie, were present to explain details concerning the Barrie Co-operative company in the early thirties.

Until further information is obtained, subjects such as a site for the plant and methods of financing would not be pursued.

Temporary Loan Of $150,000 Made to City

A temporary loan from the Public School Board to the city of Belleville is saving the city interest by reducing loan needs until tax money starts coming in.

At the May meeting of the school board, members approved a temporary loan of $150,000 to the city to tide it over a difficult financial period caused from tax bills being late in going out this year.

The money was available from the school board through receipt of certain government educational grants. The city has had the money interest free since May 1st.

Board members were told by schools superintendent Lawrence Kelly that the Department of Education had given its approval to sketch plans for additions to Princess Charlotte and King George public schools. Financial approval had also been granted. It was stated. Tenders for the two additions are expected to be called shortly, as are tenders for the construction of a new public school in East Belleville.

The board supported a resolution from the district home and school Association asking for a historical museum in Hastings county.

Fuel tenders for the next heating season were approved. Harry Smiths Fuels Ltd., will supply fuel oil at the market price, less $2 per 100 gallons. Contract price for stoker coal is $15.15, prepared stoker at $13.30 and rice anthracite, $21.65.

Reicayers immediately east of the Bayview School met with the board regarding drainage proolem which has arisen and a committee has been formed to work out a solution.

BRITISH MEASURE

A hundredweight of coal in Britain weighs 112 pounds, and the ton is 2,240 pounds.

District Farmers Are Welcoming Bright Weather

Bay of Quinte district farmers are welcoming with open arms the bright sunny weather of the past two days, hoping that it will last long enough to dry fields and allow catching up of spring seeding.

"It has been the weitest spring that I can remember," F. J. Mullvihill, Sidney township farmer, said yesterday. There are hundreds of farmers who have still to do their first bit of spring seeding."

Many farmers have been able only to cultivate fields in patches and even then have been unable to do seeding because of the wet.

'Quinte' Sea Cadet Corps Highly Praised at Inspection

The annual inspection of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Quinte" was held Thursday evening at the Belleville Armouries by Commander G. J. Manson, Command Officer, Sea Cadets, for the Royal Canadian Navy.

Proud parents, brothers and sisters of the cadets, smartly turned out in traditional naval cadet uniforms, were on hand for the inspection which got underway at the Armouries sharply at 7:30.

Following the inspection and march past with Commander Manson taking the salute, the "Quinte" precision squad went through their intricate drill and were roundly applauded by the spectators.

Also at the Armouries there was a range display, following which the sea cadets paraded back to their barracks on South Front Street, where the cadets had the opportunity of showing just what they had learned in sea cadet training.

Seamanship demonstrations included cutter pulling, dinghy rigging, lead and line and cheerlegs. In the communications field the cadets did semaphore and morse code signalling and also showed they were adept at the more modern radio version of communications. In gunnery demonstrations the cadets showed their knowledge of firearms by stripping and assembling F.N. and .303 rifles.

The inter-corps hockey trophy was presented to A/C S. Grigg, team captain while A/C M. Bly received the honor of being the most outstanding cadet. Highest standing in Able Cadet examinations went to A/C D. Cox, and highest in Ordinary Cadet examinations went to O/C R. Allen.

The Dr. J. E. Guthridge Shield, awarded to the best marksman team went to A/C R. Lott and O/C A. Allen.

And a special award for six continuous years outstanding service went to Chief Petty Officer W. Burnett who is retiring from the corps but will continue to serve as senior chief petty officer.

SPOKE TO CADETS

Speaking briefly to the cadets following the inspection, Commander Manson complimented the boys on their drees and on their drill and marching during the inspection.

He emphasized the importance of getting a good education in this age when technical and other skills were in demand and suggested that if possible the boys should continue on to university.

For those who desired to continue on with a naval career he said there were opportunities in the Royal Canadian Navy.

Officers of the Quinte Cadet corps to whom much of the credit for the smart turnout of the cadet corps, are as follows: Lieut. John Donovan, commanding officer; Lieut. A. Clark, executive officer; Chaplain (P), B. Massiah; Chaplain (RC), Rev. W. McGee; Sub-Lieut. R. Bailey; Sub-Lieut. Doug Phippen; Sub-Lieut. R. Davis, and Surgeon Lieut. Dr. W. Beattie.

ANCIENT UNIVERSITIES

Among Italian state universities the oldest are those founded in 1088, and Genoa, Naples and Padua were established in the 13th century.

SIGNALS — Demonstrations were entered into enthusiastically by the "Quinte" corps members following last night's annual inspection. Seen above are two signalling methods demonstrated. On the left Cadet Ricky Adams makes ready with the flags, while Dennis Donoghue holds signal lamp.

Youth Work ... Its Worth

A campaign manager for a Community Chest fund drive has suggested that current youth-work programs should be scientifically analyzed to determine whether they are effective." We do not find this sort of a suggestion to be unusual, for people seem to be constantly trying to classify human behavior patterns by some sort of scientific formula. The only formula which has ever proved satisfactory in this respect is that there is always the exception to whatever rule or generalization one might care to make.

What really interested us about the above suggestion was the proposal to survey "1,000 convicted criminals" to find out if they had ever belonged to any youth organizations. We are not too sure as to just what this might or might not prove.

If some of the "convicted criminals" turn out to have been members of some youth group at some time or other in their lives, will the conclusion be that the youth groups have not been doing their job? On the other hand, if none of the convicts interviewed has ever belonged to a Sea Cadet Corps or a Scout troop or a "Pi" or a Cub pack or similar organization will the conclusion be that these organizations have failed inasmuch as they did not reach these malefactors during their youth?

If there is to be any degree of accurate scientific assessment of the value of any youth organization we might suggest that a positive attitude be taken towards the whole undertaking. Why not interview people who have been members of youth organizations and determine whether they may credit this experience in their lives with having contributed to keeping them or making them what they might possibly have been otherwise?

It would seem that the creditable performance of any group or device should be measured by its successes, not by its failures. If one then wishes to arrive at some sort of a probability factor then one may correlate the number of successes to the number of failures. Nothing, however, will be gained that will be of much use in determining the value of youth work through interviewing the convicted criminal.

There is one way in which the campaign manager might quickly prove the value of a youth group in any value. Ask the parents of any lad or lass who belongs to one.

The Right Decision

Members of the Belleville City Council who voted against discontinuance of the policy of the city plowing sidewalks have our complete support.

That their decision was the correct one, we most emphatically agree.

At the same time, we can appreciate Ald. Eugene Harrison's point that residents in the outlying districts, which have no sidewalks, are likely to feel that they are being unfairly taxed.

The plain truth of the matter is that it is almost impossible for any government, federal, provincial or municipal, to accord all taxpayers equal treatment. There are always some services which the majority of the citizens use but which some others feel should be done without.

It strikes us, though, that the residents in outlying districts may have less reason to complain about the cost of sidewalk plowing than about some other expenditures. Is not one of the most expensive features of the bus service likely to be the provision of service to the annexed areas? If the residents of the central portion of the city help pay the cost of those in the outlying areas riding, shouldn't these riders help make it possible for those in the central area to walk with ease and safety?

Of course, residents in the annexed areas could answer that the bus service has not yet been extended to serve all of them. That is a good point. Can we expect some action shortly?

If the American Air Force must have its "morale flights," it might be more enticing parts of Europe to fly over than the edge of the Sept Iles-Seven Rivers area.

Riviera would be just as good for morals and much less perilous for a jittery world. (Ottawa Journal.)

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHAT WILL HISTORY SAY OF US?

"War cuts away the margins of ordinary life and, in most cases, it adjusts the temperament to the new environment by its brutal training."

Who wrote these words? Some modern psychiatrist? Not at all. They were written by Thucydides, the Greek historian who lived almost 2,500 years ago. He had observed that war does something to individuals and to the times which it takes generations and sometimes centuries to eliminate.

We are living today in what Historians are in the habit of calling "troubled times." Periods like this occur in world history, and almost always they follow protracted and brutal wars. Those who have visited Europe recently found it we do not see it we in recent months, and even those who have not been there have had illustrations of this from among us who through correspondence with certain persons in Europe, have had access to right into their suffering, can realize the profound and confused dislocation which the past war has involved. The youngest child in the family will be old before the evil effects of this holocaust have been wiped out.

This all adds up to the impression that the quality of getting rid of war, important as it undoubtedly problems are, neither bottomless, nor any other equipment of the human race. Thucydides saw it 2,500 years ago, and we are history's worst fools if we do not see it to-day.

Spring Visit to England A Rewarding Experience

By C. A. MORTON
Article 7

There is another market in London which appeals much more to the tourist than those which have been mentioned. It is the Caledonian just south of the Tower bridge in Bermondsey. Mrs. Stan Hagerman acted as our guide and it can be truly said that she and Stan are "quite a team." Stan is a dealer specializing in bric-a-brac, china, glass, silver, odd pieces of old furniture, jewellery to name only a few of the many classes of merchandise he handles. He opens his premises in the early afternoon, and occupies a city block of space.

Each dealer sets up a portable booth and displays his items for sale on a counter or suspends some of them from the cross beams and down the shelter supports, and soon he is in business, using the skills of his wife or a helper. There are literally thousands of items for sale and it is quite an experience examining those things which have been collected and then trying to get them at a bargain price. Old pottery, vases, brass, old looking jars, silver picture frames and so on were the more sought after items. Stan claims a certain lot and most willing to share their knowledge of the various techniques. Everybody seemed to be quite unintentionally violated the banding the bundles who appeared to be handing out the pounds and shillings in change as usual.

One merchant had a collection of miniature paintings set in brooches. They were of men, women and children and most of them expertly painted in crystal-clear detail on the glass reverse side, and enclosed by the glass cover, were beautifully made and in many instances they set in human hair usually taken, we were told, from the person whose picture was on the front and usually after death.

The display was in all different sort, some in basket weave or wire-type frames, others with twin Prince-of-Wales feathers. Every strand of hair was held securely in place and was not affected by jars and handling.

Then we were amazed at these unusual items another customer was also looking them over. He turned out to be an English jeweller. He explained that all the wearing of the insignia was almost a lost one and chiefly because of deterioration. He said the women who formerly did this artistry were dying off and the younger moving away or by death. Some of these objects didn't fetch a price of pounds and other several times that depending on the type of case and the name on the sign. The brooches are for collectors rather than as a topic of conversation when things get dull. But they were interesting to just the same.

AMBER SHOP

Walking up Bond Street one day we passed a small shop dealing only in amber. The show window had many displays of necklaces, pins, bracelets, trinkets and other items. In the most extensive and loveliest display of amber we had ever seen. We stopped to have a closer look. It was a rewarding visit.

The proprietor, Arthur Sebastian, is a man who certainly knows his amber. He has studied it for the greater part of his life and he is well past middle age. In the window of some of his choice pieces of amber jewellery were displayed where the raw material comes from and how it was worked.

It takes quite a bit to get the most out of the amber blocks for they come in all shapes and the size is never large. A piece the size of our pound of butter would be a good average, but there is no uniformity to the specimens. Besides that, he said, there are only two other men in England capable of working with amber. He claimed to be the biggest dealer in the world and certainly he has the right to add to us we believe him. Letters from satisfied customers all over the U.S., France, the U.K. and some from Canada attested to his fame.

Amber is the petrified resin from ancient trees of a species similar to pines and spruce. We were interested because the substance is thirty to fifty million years old, and who can say what trees were in those days. The mass of resin eventually fell to the ground which had by this city and close to the sea to achieve petrification. Through time it became covered with the clay and this with the chemical reaction of salt water turned the resin into amber. Occasionally the bodies of insects are found in the amber because they were trapped in the resin when it was in a liquid state. We recall reading a news story recently from London that a piece of petrified amber being found in north western Mexico. This amber contained insects which had been identified as thirty million years ago according to a radio carbon test.

Mr. Charsten said it takes many years to establish sources of supply for amber is never found in large quantities. Some is washed ashore on the east coast of England and is found by shore residents or it is sometimes brought up in fishermen's nets. It is a bit too heavy to float but is thought to be rolled along the sea bottom by currents and tidal movements. Other sources are Italy which supplies a green sun-

Good Names Are Hard To Protect

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I recently received a wind bat missatory letter from the American Home Products Co., telling me that some months ago I had unintentionally violated the company's registered trademark "Thermos" by referring to a "thermos jug" in writing about a general term.

This morning I regularly receive such letters from firms seeking to protect their trademarks — but language is no respecter of laws, and it is ironic that when a product becomes extremely successful enough its name often passes into general speech.

The U.S. Supreme court has held that trademarks or names that companies could no longer claim exclusive use of a name. "Aspirin" and "Cellophane" are two trade names, but they are now in the public domain. Sometimes the company fails to protect its trademark, but most usually the word is so useful as a descriptive of a whole group of products that it becomes the identifying label for all of them.

"Kodak," for instance, is a premium gasoline; "Scotch tape" is a brand of cellophane tape; "Mercurochrome" is a first aid medicating machine; "Technicolor" is a special film process; and "Dacroleers" is a brand of trousers that don't need pressing. Sometimes the company fails to protect its trademark, but most usually the word is so useful as a descriptive of a whole group of products that it becomes the identifying label for all of them.

"Kodak," for instance, is a premium gasoline; "Scotch tape" is a brand of cellophane tape; "Mercurochrome" is a first aid medicating machine; "Technicolor" is a special film process; and "Dacroleers" is a brand of trousers that don't need pressing. Sometimes it is possible that all these words will have passed into common usage. "Kodak," "Aspirin" and "Cellophane" are clearly marked and protected the name "Coke," but it was unable to prevent other soft-drink companies from adopting "Cola" in their name and in their slogan. The brand name of metal fastener "Zipper" is used by fasteners are called "zippers" by the public. And it will be interesting to see how long it can remain the property of one company.

Word-coining, when a company chooses a poor or mediocre name for its product, is not to us risk of usurpation. But an excellent name — like "Frigidaire" for electric refrigerator or suffers from its own success, and soon the name of the manufactured products are being called by the name of the firm.

For many years, during the 1920s and later, the term "Victrola" was used as a generic word by language as general terms—and they stayed with us long after their origins have been forgotten. But in the case of what makes a name take hold: surely it is, as Dr. Samuel Johnson once dreamed he would be immortalized on every mason in the English-speaking world.

A Union Jack that flattered over the army headquarters in France in the last Great War, when His Majesty the late King George V inspected his troops during the dark days of that great conflict, draped its colours in a new environment on Sunday. It graced the pulpit of St. Thomas' Church at a solemnly impressive 9:00 o'clock Prayer Day service Sunday morning. The flag was the property of the Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne, vicar of the church, who was present at Airie-sur-Lys on the occasion of the historic royal visit in 1972. He was brought back from France and is a highly-treasured memento of his owner.

About 125 years ago, Capt. John Walden Meyers, a United Empire Loyalist, started the first industry in this vicinity by erecting a mill on the river bank. The river was then called Singhiers River, the Indian name being Sagonsaka-son. Later the river took the name of the mill which was the first to use its power by industrial. Meyers passed and was called Meyers' Creek and later Moira. Capt. John Walden Meyers built the first brick house in Upper Canada upon the hill which has still across the road from the residence of Mr. C. B. Hall. The Meyers' home has long since disappeared.

Historic Hastings

The History of Kingsford

BY AUDREY BRENNAN

(Article 20 in a series sponsored by the Hastings County Historical Society).

Kingsford is located on the boundary road between the counties of Lennox and Hastings, approximately miles north of Toronto. The Salmon River divided the village approximately in half.

In the early days, Kingsford was called "The Watermill". This was because of the many saw mills operated by waterpower. At that time the community was mostly wilderness.

Many of the men "credited" their wheat in the early days. Even those who lived far from a mill would carry a bag of grain great distances to have it ground into flour. This often involved a walk of three or four days, over long winding trails, through woods and across swamps. Later on, walking gave way to horseback riding and then to lumber wagons.

Every winter most of the men went to the woods to cut timber cut timber. In the spring came the drive down the river when the logs were floated down the river to Redshore's Mill. Here the logs were sawed into lumber and local farmers drew it to Belleville, a distance of eight miles. Their wages consisted of a mere "dollar per thousand feet." Some farmers would haul corwood to Deseronto at a price of 50 cents per cord.

Besides the mill, 12 log houses were inhabited in the early years. G. R. Gordon operated a store and post office. The supplies for the store were brought in by horse and buggy. The mail came from Marysville, either by foot or by horseback. It was owned both a blacksmith and woodworking shop. Mr. Dafoe's occupation was shearing sheep.

The English Church situated on "the north hill" is named St. Judge's. It is one of the earliest churches in the area to hold services.

There was a private cemetery on the Jayne's place. Today there are a few weather-beaten headstones lying along the fence.

A cheese factory was built about 1900 and still functions. It draws from about the month of April or May daily until some time in November. It is then closed during the cold winter months. During the past season it operated under the direction and Son.

Next week: The Salmon River and its importance to Kingsford.

Editor's Note: This series of articles on Kingsford has been prepared by Miss Audrey Brennan, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Brennan of Kingsford. A grade eleven student at Belleville.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.,

SOMETIMES A PERSON IS LUCKY ENOUGH TO OUTGROW AN ALLERGY

"Dear Dr.. Molner: Please write about allergies involving food. Does a person outgrow them with age? — B.C."

This is a yes-and-no answer. Sometimes such allergies are outgrown, sometimes not. And most adult females that we do not yet know all of the whys and wherefores, but I think we can give you enough sound ideas for practical purposes.

Food allergy or any allergy varies in degree. Some people are so sensitive to a certain food that they will break out in a rash, or their lips or faces will start to swell within minutes after eating even very small amounts of it.

For them, there is scant chance of ever "outgrowing" the allergy. It is too severe, although I know of plenty of instances in which the sensitivity becomes less pronounced in time passes.

What happens is that, naturally, the body becomes completely aware the offending foods. Their bodies seem to "get a rest" and, in time may — not always — be put able to tolerate very, very small amounts of the substance without touching off the allergy.

In such cases, a gradually increasing tolerance is developed, but it can do so only if the amounts are kept sufficiently small so that a new attack of the allergy is not touched off.

This method of giving small amounts, and increasing them with the passage of time is called desensitizing other forms of allergies, too. Take hay fever, for example. Many victims of it are having such terrestments right now, with their doctors giving them shots, but gradually increasing, traces or extracts of the pollen which cause hay fever. By hay fever season, the patients should be receiving a small dose thereof.

It is important not to give too big a dose in this process, for then the body's rejection of the offending material suddenly goes into action. Then you have to start over.

Yes, within limits, you sometimes are lucky enough to "outgrow" an allergy. But it is gradual and you mustn't expect too much. If, for example, you are allergic to strawberries, you can gradually be able to nibble a berry or two, or have a bit of strawberry in a salad or sauce, but don't go overboard. Don't go on an orgy-and-on with a big helping of strawberries. That would just be tempting fate and risking a return of the original sensitivity. After all, there's a reason for allergy. It's nature's way of telling you to avoid something that your system can't take.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BE A CONTRIBUTOR

We earn our happiness by paying back in some substance the benefits we have received. Let us be in the first place. Others are our benefactors. They are the ones to thank for the happiness in life that we enjoy. A friend presents a small book to me many years ago, and I give one inspiring line to you. I feel the path to greatness is along with others." How much it means to earn our way with our friends. I once had a striking note from Herb Stricker. He wrote: "To George Matthew Adams I give the Success that I was saving for myself!" Such a thought is characteristic of Herb. He was a great humorist. Such unselfishness lives over the years. How easy it can be to say a kind and gracious.

We always feel better after contributing to a worthy cause. We divide our success and happiness. Thereafter, life dividends begin! We rarely hear the results of these dividends, but we will live the investment. Think of all that a mother contributes to her children. Her life is overwhelmingly a sealed generation. copyright: Canada Wide

By GREGORY CLARK

Watching the baseball games on TV, it is interesting to see the players, as they come to the plate, swinging the bat around to limber up their muscles, often taking the bat in both hands to bend their heads so as to stretch their shoulder muscles, and indulging in a number of contortions that indicate just what powerful bodies these high-level athletes possess. In the game of walk, poise, stand, crouch, swing, run and leap, the ball creates in us spectators the impression that these men are not only wonderfully muscled, but that they take pleasure in their muscles. It is, of course, a pleasure in the reflection that there are countless little cousins of ours, probably millions of us, who go through our days in these same muscles over being aware of our muscles, enjoying the feel and authority of them, using them as a matter of course.

The multitudes of us who work in factories, offices, shops, stores, operate machines, elevators, electrical devices, muncies are of little concern to us most of the time we are conscious of them is away in fear.

HOLY ROSARY BANQUET

The banquet was held in the K. of C. Hall in a large spacious room particularly suitable for affairs of this kind. It has a pleasant setting atmosphere and even though it was away from home, the ladies had made it more inviting. Maroon and yellow tulips, flowers and colored candles, emphasizing the gaiety that were on all tables. Correct settings on gleaming white linen cloths all added to beautify the scene and the dinner, prepared and served by the ladies was exceptional. The ovation which followed Scout Steve Smith's "thank you" was sincere and well deserved.

Flag-break was performed by Scout Gary Thompson promptly at 8.30 by the Rev. Michael Simson said Grace, followed by the toast to the Queen, then the piping hot turkey dinner "filling the hungry with good things".

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The maternal instinct of a 3,500-pound hippopotamus was blamed Thursday for the death of his 50-pound infant. Gerald Knight of England Conducts Massed Anglican Choirs in Festal Evensong

By EUGENE LANG

Almost every pew at Christ Church was filled Thursday night as the congregation and massed choirs joined to celebrate the Festal Evensong of Ascension Day.

Choirs were present from all the Anglican Churches in the western part of the Ontario Diocese, included were St. Thomas' Church, St. Margaret-on-the-Hill and Christ Church of Belleville, in addition to visiting district choral groups from Ameliasburg, Carrying Place, Bancroft, Frankford, Glen Miller, Madoc, Marmora, Maynooth, Napanee, Picton, Roslin, Stirling and Trenton.

On hand to conduct the massed choirs was Gerald Knight, director general of the Royal School of Church Music of England from 1936, during the tenure of George Maybee as organist and choirmaster of Christ Church.

The effect of the massed choirs under the guidance of Mr. Knight was thrilling to behold and all voices attuned themselves with spiritual exaltation during the various portions of the Choral Evensong.

Mr. Knight spoke briefly about the history and aims of the Royal School of Church Music. He urged the singers not just to devote time to the singing of the hymns during church services, but to instil into their projection and hymns the full spiritual meaning of the words employed. The choir singer could sing with spirit and religious fervor, intoning the words with fervent feelings, the true meaning of hymn singing would be greatly enhanced. Mr. Knight's hints for better understanding of the meaning of hymns and their successful interpretations by church choirs (and congregations) were aimed at improving continually the vocal qualities of the participants of a truly felt and reverent approached hymn production during the course of a church service.

The Evensong was conducted by Archdeacon J. B. Creegan of Christ Church, with Rev. D. G. Fleming of Marmora as cantor, while Rural Deans Rev. W. Simmons of Napanee and Rev. K. F. Richford of Trenton read the lessons and Rural Dean L. A. Page of Belleville officiated in the prayers.

Following the service, the visiting choirs and friends were entertained in the Parish Hall with refreshments being served by the Choir Mothers of Christ Church and the members of the Girls' Auxiliary.

Arts, Crafts Club Elects 1960-1 Officers

An active year for the Belleville Arts and Crafts Club was reviewed last week. The meeting, preceded by a pot-luck supper, was held in the club room at the Recreation Centre, Pinnacle Street, with 30 members present.

Also the formation of an Eastern Central Art and Craft Association sponsored by the Recreation Division of the Department of Education.

Written reports from the conveners of the various committees received, indicating the completion of a most successful year. During the evening members were able to inspect a collection of prizes from Hastings county, as well as other parts of the world, both in their native state and as finished gems. These illustrated a talk by the Rev. Canon Cecil Swanson, on the art or craft known as the Lapidary or the cutting and polishing of precious and semi-precious stones.

Mrs. Grant Strathy took the models of a steam locomotive and radio control boats, built by Mr. F. C. Gelthorpe.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Mrs. Lloyd Jones took the chair during the election of officers for 1960-61, the following slate was approved:

Past president, Mr. Earl Yatman; president, Mrs. John Grant; 1st. vice-president, not filled; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Bruce Diamond; secretary, Mrs. D. Wright; treasurer, Mr. Charles McKenzie; publicity, Mrs. H. H. Murray; program, Mrs. G. L. Ayre and bulletin, Miss Marion Gelsthorpe; social conveners, Mrs. F. (Bert) Clarke and Mrs. D. R. Woodcox; leather convener, Mr. Jack Layton; art convener, Mrs. Jack Andrews; weaving convener, Mrs. R. Goodfellow; Scouts, Tie Guild, Mrs. A. Hurst.

Mr. Grant thanked the directorate and the groups for their support during the past year and outlined a plan to endeavor to obtain more special speakers for the club during the winter season in addition to movies and exhibitions to enhance the interest and the attendance of the members. She was interested in the activities of other clubs and to obtain opinions of the participants and to discuss the development of their crafts. During the meeting it was decided with regret not to attend the Arts and Crafts exhibit at the Bellville Fair this year.

Mrs. Lewis Andrews told of a conference in Fort Hope in April of this year at which the beginning of what promises to be an exciting collection of decorative field was commenced. Both Arts and Crafts stand to benefit from the formation of what is to be known as the Eastern Central Arts and Crafts Association. The east west line continues the Arts and Crafts exhibit at the Bellville Fair this year.

A temporary executive was chosen, with Mrs. Andrews as chairman, which formed an Art and Crafts committee. Mrs. Andrews, James Kramer, of Oshawa, expects to have a news letter in the hands of interested people early in June, and a sketching trip to include both arts and crafts is scheduled for July 9th.

Have Already Tried to Get Police College

E. E. Dicknoether, Industrial Commissioner, says an article has already been made to have the proposed Ontario police school located here.

"With regards to your editorial, Wednesday, 25 May," writes Mr. Dicknoether, "about the establishment of a police school Mayor A. McLean Haig and the Industrial Commission both wrote to the Hon. Kelso Roberts, Q.C., on February 23 and 29 respectively of this year suggesting Belleville as a most suitable location for this proposed school. Similar letters were directed through Mr. W. E. Sandercock, M.P.P. (Hastings West). The reply received informed us that, although a location had not as yet been decided upon, it was felt most desirable to locate in a community where there is a University in order to enable the school to utilize University teaching staff." Mr. Sanderock and the Industrial Commission are still pressing for a Belleville location."

Sunday School Lesson

Specializing in Seconds

By ROY L. SMITH

He was a very interesting individual, with a philosophy of life that had saved him from much embarrassment and, at the same time, had provided him with a rather good living.

He made it his business to go around to the factories of the town buying up the discards, the seconds and the faulty. He had a small crew of women, and a few handicapped men, who put these deficient articles into condition, when he sold them to certain selected customers at a good discount.

Everybody made a little money out of the business. The factories received a little of their loss, the needy workers were given employment, the manager made a living, and the eventual buyers got their money's worth.

"I am a specialist in seconds", he was accustomed to say to his friends, in explaining how he worked. And he was justifiably proud of his modest success.

LIFE'S VALUES VARY

One of the most important lessons any youth ever learns is the discovery of the truth that the values of life vary in their value. The satisfaction that comes with a full stomach, for example, is very real to a person who has been hungry can testify. But there are times when the pain of hunger is less than the shame that comes with dishonest gain.

A night's hilarity which is followed by days of shame and remorse is a poor return for the price one has to pay for it, as many a convertioner has discovered.

The girl who gets the reputation for being a "good sport" often finds it difficult to trade her "popularity" for the satisfactions that endure.

Whatever one's opinion may be concerning Mr. Truman's political views, there is one life' deserves the praise of all men. In his earlier years he was bankrupt, having failed in the haberdashery business. He took the vantage of the bankruptcy laws, it is reported, but he also kept an exact record of every debt he owned his various creditors. Then, through the years, he continued to make payments on those debts.

According to one reporter's story, it was not until he became vice-president of the United States that he succeeded in saying enough out of his salaries to get off the last of his old indebtedness. It is highly significant that, although every charge may have been levelled against him in he heat of frenzied political campaign, no one ever arose to say, "He owed me money and he never paid me".

Red Cross Homemakers Hold Meeting

Last evening the Red Cross Homemakers' monthly meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Pearl Drury, 80 Geddes St.

The hostess entertained the members at a delightful supper party, the menu of which was included in the course held for Homemakers at MacDonald Hall, Guelph, recently attended by Mrs. Drury.

Her report was interesting and most informative. It was noted that the CAB is relying more and more on Homemakers who are often instrumental in keeping a home together, which otherwise might be broken.

It was also observed that Belleville is one of the few Red Cross centres that holds regular Homemakers' meetings. These meetings are felt to be most important, and appreciation was extended to the supervisor, Mrs. J. A. Buchanan, who has made these regular meetings possible.

St. Michael's Guides, Brownies Hold Mother-Daughter Banquet

St. Michael's Academy auditorium was gaily decorated with flags and crests bearing the colors of the Girl Guide Jubilee of the Canadian Girl Guides Association when St. Michael's Brownies and Guides held their annual "Mother and Daughter" banquet Thursday of the evening was Mrs. K. J. Bowers.

Head table guests included Mrs. A. McLean Haig, Belleville's First Lady and Commissioner; Rev. Fr. P. Murphy; Rev. Sister Mary Andrew; Rev. Sister Mary Joan of Arc; Mrs. D. G. Diamanidies; Division Commissioner; Mrs. B. Brown; Capt. C. Young; Lt. G. Bruce; Brown Owl Agnes Cleary; Brown Owl Edith Walsh; Tawny Owl Joan Henry, and Tawny Owl, Alice Hamilton.

The Reverend Peter Murphy said grace, invocation, and greetings and congratulations were extended by Rev. Sister Mary Andrew, principal of St. Michael's Academy, and Mrs. H. H. Wilson, Belleville Advisory Council of the Catholic Women's League, the sponsoring body for the Guide groups.

MOTHERS THANKED

Following a delicious dinner, Guide Patricia Murphy thanked all mothers of Brownies and Guides for their love, understanding, and help during the past year and hoped God would bless them all. Guide Patricia Murphy thanked Mrs. Emma Cleary for her constant supervision and patience through the year. Captain C. Young presented and assured the guides that it had been a pleasure serving.

Thanks to Brownie Leaders was expressed by Senior Sixer Margaret Ann Cleary, and responded to by Brown Owl Walsh.

Brownie Kathy Goyer expressed appreciation to the Catholic Women's League for its keen interest and help and the response was given by Mrs. Herbert Brown.

Mrs. Helen Gaffney delighted the group with three well known selections, "Ave Maria," "Mother" and "Village of St. Bernadette." She was accompanied by Miss Mary MacDougall. A hearty singsong was led by Miss Nancy Pigden.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. D. G. Diamanidies, Division Commissioner, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. A. McLean Haig, Belleville's First Lady, and commented that Mrs. Haig had created a lifetime interest in Guiding. Mrs. Haig reviewed "Fifty Years of Guiding in Canada" and traced its beginning to England and its founder, Lord Baden-Powell.

"It was he who started the game of Scouting for boys. In 1909 a group of boys gathered for the first Scout rally at the Crystal Palace in London. To the disgust of the boys, and at first, of their chief, a handful of girls appeared at the rally, in costumes vaguely like those of the boys, and announced they were Girl Scouts. In spite of efforts to discourage them, the girls insisted on a share of the fun. So the chief called them after a famous regiment in the Indian Army "The Corps of Guides." The members of this corps were distinguished for their courage and hardiness, for resourcefulness in difficulties, and for their ability to turn their hands to anything.

FIRST GUIDES PIONEERS

These first Guides proved the pioneers of a movement which quickly spread throughout the world. Then the under 11-year-olds wanted to join, and some misguided grown-ups called them Rosebuds—which they disliked, so they in turn went to the chief to find a name. They were delighted with his idea to call them Brownies, after the friendly elves of the home. Then the first Guides were grown up, and their companies and older girls who had not been Guides wished to join, so once again they went to the chief, who suggested the name "Rangers".

Guiding soon spread to Canada and the first company was formed in St. Catharines. Within a few months companies were started in Toronto, thence to Moose Jaw, Sask., and Winnipeg, Man. By 1912 there were companies in Victoria and Vancouver.

FORMATIVE YEARS

The formative years in Canadian Guiding were from 1912 to 1920 when guiders and guides learned the game from the first small handbook, "How Girls Can Help To Build the Empire." In Canada, guiding is divided into provinces, areas, divisions and districts, each with a commissioner appointed by the Chief Commissioner of Canada. Locally, Guiding was started in Picton in 1915. Under the direction of Mrs. M. E. Branscombe, Queen Street, guiding started in Belleville in 1922. Mrs. W. H. Pinkie, Bridge St., East, was the first Guide Captain in the city.

Mrs. Haig continued, "The birthdays of our chiefs fall on February 22nd, and to guides all over the world this is "Thinking Day" at which we think of other guides. We also have a Thinking Day Fund and the children put in their pennies and the guides collected and into a World Friendship Fund. This is used to assist guiding all over the world to attend international camps and training.

FROM ATLANTIC TO PACIFIC

"From the Atlantic Ocean to the Pacific, and from the northern boundary of the United States to the Arctic Circle, the Girl Guide movement has taken deep root. Canada boasts of the most northerly company in the world, in the North West Territories within the Arctic Circle. Starting out with that one company in St Catharines in 1910 we now number 200,000 Guides, Brownies, Guiders and Commissioners. In Ontario alone we have grown from 22,000 in 1945 to 86,000 at the present time.

"The golden Jubilee marking our golden anniversary are: Sponsorship of Jubilee Lodge. This river of golden lullys is expressing our thanks to the country which has been so good to us in the last fifty years.

"In Belleville we have established them at the Cenotaph, the Hospital, the County Home, and around our meeting places.

Mrs. Haig spoke proudly of the new Jubilee hall at Picton, and invited the girls and their parents to see it. She also requested their help in planting trees.

She concluded with, "The path ahead is as yet unknown, but we have a direction and we have an objective . . . To help us follow the direction pointed by our compass needle we have four compass points, 'Intelligence, Handicraft, Health and Service'. They are landmarks by which we set our compass are the Girl Guide promise and the Girl Guide Law as given to us by the founder, Lord Baden-Powell whose final message to the children he loved was "Your business in life is to be happy and happiness into the world by making others happy."

On behalf of the guides, brownies, and all present Brown Owl Agnes Cleary thanked Mrs. Haig for her interesting address.

As told to Mary Moore

QUESTION:

. . . Will you please send me a copy of your recipe for Angel Icebox Dessert? . . . Mrs. A. H.

ANSWER:

On July 30th '59 I gave the recipe for Angel Icebox Dessert here. Since then we have had so many copies of it that I decided to repeat it. It is an excellent party dessert.

ANGEL ICEBOX DESSERT:

(Serves 15-20). Beat 6 egg whites stiff. Add 2 tsp. cream of tartar, 1 teaspoon vinegar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, pinch of salt. Add 1 1-2 cups sugar gradually. Bake this meringue in 2 pans: I used 1 long 9 1-2" x 13 1-2" and 1 pan 7" x 9" greased with shortening or butter. Bake 1 1-4 hours at 275 deg. Fahr. When cool and dry, cover with 1-3 pint cream whipped. Over this pour cooled Cream Filling: In top of double boiler combine 3-4 cup sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup flour, 6 egg yolks beaten. Add slowly 3 cups scalded milk, stirring over boiling water until thick. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Cool. Cover with another 1-2 pint cream whipped. Sprinkle top with 1-2 cup each chopped nuts and cherries. Chill 24 hours. These amounts may be cut in half to serve 10. Delicious.

LETTER

Your article on Cream Puffs interested me. My recipe varies a little from yours and I wondered if you'd be interested. In my opinion they're the simplest thing I ever make, and I do all my own baking for a family of six.

CREAM PUFFS:

(Courtesy C. Dale) One-half cup shortening, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup sifted flour, 3 eggs, unbeaten. Add shortening and salt to boiling water, and stir over medium heat until mixture boils. Lower heat, add flour all at once and stir vigorously until mixture leaves the sides of the pan. Remove from heat and add 1 egg at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Shape on an ungreased cookie sheet, using 1 teaspoon or extra tablespoon, of paste for one puff (depending on size desired). Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes, then reduce temperature to 350 deg. and bake about 20 minutes longer. Remove from oven and place on rack to cool. Makes 12 large or 48 small puffs.

I use lard in just about all my baking. I find it cheaper, and I get just as good results. In pies I use it cold from the refrigerator, but in all other things, I take it from the "dry" shelves hours before baking and have it soft and easy to cream. During the war I found it hard to get shortening and butter was out of the question. I started experimenting with lard, and had no trouble. Perhaps other cooks have had the same experience, but most of my friends and neighbors use the raised cake brow technique when I mention it. They don't know how I get such good results with such an inferior product. Maybe ignorance is bliss — "tis folly to be wise. Since lard is of a firmer consistency than either butter or shortening, I usually lessen the amount by about 1-3 of that called for. . . C. Dale.

ANSWER:

Thanks so much for down-to-earth advice I'm sure other economizing readers will appreciate it.

How to Stay Married

Much of what is written about marriage "is just so much malarkey," So says this spouse of thirty years' experience in June Reader's Digest. "Marriage is for adults", she says . . . and here sets forth with refreshing frankness some facts about "the only career essential for my sex." THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Bruce C. — Ethel coddles our boy.

Ethel C. — I know what's best for him.

Bruce C. — My wife and I have a long-standing conflict about a problem that affects our youngest son, Tim, aged 10.

Tim was seriously ill in his early childhood and still suffers from a slight physical handicap. The doctors say he may or may not grow out of it. But whatever the outcome, I feel he must learn to be a man in a man's world.

Ethel coddles him too much. She makes a baby of him. She gets his way in everything. He starts up with the other kids and then runs to her for protection. He won't always be able to do that. He must learn to fight his own battles.

Ethel C. — I feel that nobody knows better what is best for her child than a mother does. Everybody says I spoil Tim, but if it weren't for me he might not be alive and healthy today. The doctor has said that many times.

Tim is definitely still very delicate. He can't fight. It is also important that he shouldn't be emotionally upset. It's true he gets his way too often, but I can't run the risk of letting him get over-excited.

As Tim becomes better able to reason, I'll be able to help him cope with things. He is an unhappy boy because he can't be just like the others.

The Council: The problems of dealing with an invalid or handicapped child may be more delicate and involved than the usual ones, but, essentially, the child himself is not very different.

All children, the handicapped boy or girl wants to be independent. All children want to grow up into strong, capable adults and all children are at times uncertain whether they'll ever be able to make the grade.

Parents give children a sense of security through their love, but this very love can undermine the child's sense of security if it isn't bestowed judiciously. The overprotective kind of love frightens the child because it leads him to believe his parents have no confidence in his ability to fend for himself.

A frightened child can be very aggressive when he feels he can get away with it. He may pick on those who are smaller and weaker, or even attack bigger children if he is assured of adult protection.

What is upsetting about Tim's case is not his inability to fight back, but his aggressiveness. We don't think Bruce's contention that he is unhappy and easily upset.

We don't think Ethel ought to worry about what "everybody says" of her treatment of Tim, but she should try to understand her boy and her relationship with him even more deeply than she has in the past. Naturally she has a great deal of anxiety about a delicate boy, but she must use anxiety in a constructive way in helping him build his confidence.

The answer for Tim is to help him find abilities through which he can exercise his powers. He should learn to play a musical instrument like a flute, for instance, or he might be good at drawing, wood-carving or photography. When he accomplishes something on his own, he will gain belief in his ability to become "a man in a man's world." Fighting physical battles won't be necessary.

Re-boring a hole for a larger size is simplified by first plugging old hole with scrap wood. Centre the larger bit in this scrap wood, then re-bore for the desired dimensions.

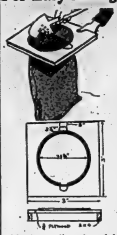
Paint Is More Than Mere House Protection

Just as painting the exterior of your home is important to keep it in good condition, choosing the right colors is important to show it off to its best advantage. The right colors work like magic to minimize any poor features and accentuate all the good ones.

Brightly colored shutters add a note of cheer and warmth to a house. However, if your windows are of various sizes and scattered all over, bright-colored shutters will only emphasize this jumbled appearance. It is much better to paint the shutters the same color as the house. This conceals the lack of uniformity. If you prefer to have contrasting colors, it's a good idea to remove the shutters from the smaller and more irregular windows and paint the window trim the same color as the rest of the house. Then you can use bright colors on the remaining larger window shutters which will attract the eye to them and camouflage the others.



A chimney that is too tall and weak-looking for its base will look larger and stronger when painted the same color as the rest of the house. This same color technique will also correct an overlarge chimney.

If your house seems too tall for its width, you can lower its appearance by painting the roof a darker shade. Painting the upper floor shutters this same deep color will also help make the house seem lower and wider.

Another clever color trick is to paint the front door a bright color that will compliment or harmonize with the remainder of the exterior decor. A bright colored door looks most inviting and welcoming to your neighbors and visitors.

There's also the question of climate to be considered when choosing your exterior colors. White and pastels — especially the blue family — are cool looking and best suited to warmer climates. For cooler, wintry areas barn reds and sunny yellows are good color choices.

Plywood Holder Keeps Sacks Open For Easy Filling

It's the small, awkward jobs around the yard that waste so much time.

This simple fir plywood sack holder, for instance, performs a simple function, but saves a great deal of time and frustration.

To make the holder, cut a circular hole in a piece of three-quarter-inch fir plywood, three feet square. An opening of 24 to 24 inches will accommodate most standard size sacks you use most.

The sack to be filled is held in the holder by a five-eighths-inch round iron ring measuring 23 1-4 inches inside diameter.

Small holes can be put in the inside of the holder so that the filled sack can be easily removed. Or the holder can simply be slipped off the top of the rack.

For light loads, the holder can be hand-held. For heavier duties, sturdy legs can be fashioned from pieces of fir plywood in the shape of an "L".

Discontinuance of U.S. Spy Flights Could Deprive Air Command of Best Weapon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some American analysts of Soviet affairs believe that discontinuance of U.S. spy flights over Russia could deprive the Strategic Air Command of its most reliable intelligence source.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev indicated his intention, more than four months ago, of dispersing Russia's missile bases. In a speech to the Supreme Soviet Jan. 14 he said:

"The territory of our country is immense. We have the possibility of dispersing our rocket facilities, and camouflaging them well . . ."

H. S. Dinerstein, rated an authority of Soviet affairs, describes this speech in a research paper as representing "a culminating point in Soviet strategic thinking."

Dinerstein's paper has just become available. His analysis, written three months before the U-2 spy plane incident, around added interest in the light of events at the Paris summit meeting.

Dinerstein's thesis that Khrushchev's speech first elevated the ballistic missile with the nuclear warhead to the status of the supreme weapon coincides with the belief of some other Soviet experts.

These analysts said some time ago that the reason for Khrushchev's campaign against aerial espionage was that Russia plans to install the bulk of their intercontinental and intermediate ballistic missile bases during the next six to nine months.

More flights could be the best way of locating such bases, they suggest.

The U-2 had served as one of the "eyes" of SAC for four years and it was of vital importance for Russia to knock out this eye, permanently or temporarily, if it were to go ahead with construction of new bases, they say.

Should the United States observe the pledge President Eisenhower made and call off the U-2 flights, there could be a dangerous gap in U.S. intelligence, these analysts warn. The Samos spy satellite will not be ready to replace the U-2 for about three years.

Khrushchev in his speech explained that he could not understand why it might would counterbalance the cuts in its armed forces. The Soviet Union, he said, could "literally tip over the country or countries which attack us off the face of the earth."

This, Dinerstein says, is nuclear blackmail. But the possibility that the Soviet Union will use nuclear blackmail in a local conflict ends in the coming years is obviously of paramount importance," he declares.

Reds Double Energy Output In Eight Years

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The Communist countries report that in eight years they doubled their output of energy and almost caught up with the United States on that basic ingredient of modern industry.

This was brought out Thursday night in the United Nations' 1959 statistical yearbook, which for the first time tabulated energy production and consumption by regions as well as countries.

Tables, based on figures from governments, reported:

1. The Soviet Union, eastern Europe and Communist China raised their total energy production in the equivalent of 1,117,000,000 metric tons of coal in 1959 from the equivalent of 538,000,000 metric tons in 1951.

2. North America raised its energy production to 1,237,000,000 tons from 1,279,000,000. The United States' part of this in 1958 was 1,775,000,000 tons.

3. While the 1951-58 increase was more than 100 per cent in the Communist region, it was 4.5 per cent in North America, nine per cent in Western Europe and 35 per cent in the world as a whole.

4. North American production still led all regions. United States' 1958 per capita consumption of energy was the highest for any country in the world, the equivalent of 7.6 tons of coal, compared with 2.3 for Canada, 4.7 each for Britain and Czechoslovakia, and 2.9 for the Soviet Union.

Pollution in Great Lakes Getting Worse Day by Day Says Resources Minister

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Pollution in the Great Lakes is getting worse day by day, Energy Resources Minister Marshall told the Natural Gas and Petroleum Association today.

Speaking of oil and natural gas drilling, he said the pollution would continue to get worse even if there was not a drilling rig within 30 miles of the lakes.

"But mind you, I'm not saying that the oil industry does not also contribute to the problem."

Among the serious pollution sources, he said, are refuse and sewage from shipping, industrial waste and oil wells from boats.

TO CRACK DOWN

"For those whom we cannot reach directly, and I refer specifically to shipping both foreign and local, we shall have to see to it that federal laws are either more strictly enforced or are strengthened to make it an international—a federal matter."

The government will continue its order suspending all off-shore drilling in the lakes, except Lake Erie, Mr. Macaulay said. And no one will be allowed to drill in Lake Erie at distances closer than 2,000 feet from shore, except in areas where the depth is too great, he added.

Mr. Macaulay said he was certain the oil and natural gas industry understestimates the amount of public feeling opposed to the Great Lakes.

He said a three-member committee, now investigating great lakes pollution, would soon report to the government. "Clear the air once and for all."

Mr. Macaulay also reiterated the view that the government should approve and regulate natural gas rates.

CONTINUE RATE

He said the rate base will continue to be based on a historical-cost - less - depreciation formula, with three added factors in mind: a fair rate of return to the company; a rate of return sufficient to attract new capital, and a fair rate to the consumer.

He said he envisage its responsibilities concerning rates, Mr. Macaulay said, the Ontario Energy Board will require at least a minimum of financial data concerning a company's operations.

"Should a company not be willing to provide even the financial information required, then the board must have power to obtain the information it requires to fulfill its statutory obligations."

Mr. Macaulay also warned the gas and petroleum industry about creating "bad public relations" by signing leases and right-of-way with land owners.

"There may be times when it is possible for you, in disputes over leases or arbitration awards, to go just a bit farther than the law says you must." Mr. Macaulay said.

Husband Put Wounded Fox in Wash Machine

CHESTERFIELD, England (AP)—Mrs. Enid Hicks opened up her washing machine Wednesday and found a sloppy, fox inside.

A call to the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to animals brought Inspector Jock Lloyd. He reached into the washing machine for the fox, which bit him.

After half an hour of manoeuvring with a loop of rope on a long pole, Lloyd dislodged the fox. He put it in a cage and took it out in the country, where he freed it.

Eventually Mrs. Hicks' husband, Peter, arrived home and explained. He had hit the fox with his car the previous evening. Being an animal lover, he brought it back to the house to recuperate.

It came to in the kitchen and took refuge in the washing machine. He decided to leave it there until it regained its strength.

Mrs. Hicks then pulled herself together and did the washing.

Gordon Fraser, PC Member For Peterborough, Dies

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons meets today lacking one of its quiet-spoken veterans who combined gentleness of manner with a sharp tongue of criticism for anything he considered detrimental to his Ontario constituency.

Gordon K. Fraser, 58, Conservative member for Peterborough for the last 20 years, collapsed in an uptown Ottawa book store Thursday and died of coronary thrombosis before reaching hospital. The Commons adjourned for the day after Prime Minister Diefenbaker interrupted a question period debate to announce the death of an old colleague.

Mr. Fraser had been in Arizona in March for his health but appeared in good health recently. He presided Thursday morning as chairman of the Commons leaders' only full collection with the pc Jacques Cartier bridge in Montreal.

A sales clerk said he apparently went into the store to buy a tie. He fell for a ballpoint pen. He was clutched in his hand when he collapsed.

He is survived by his wife, Phyllis, whom he married in 1914, two daughters and a son.

HAMILTON NATIVE

Gordon Kenan Fraser was born and educated at Hamilton, later establishing residence at Burleigh Falls. He entered Parliament in 1940 and was returned in five subsequent general elections. He was a retired building supply dealer.

When matters adversely affecting Peterborough arose in the Commons, the slight, wiry man of courtesy and impeccable dress demonstrated he had a sharp tongue.

He was a dogged critic of the former federal government while he was in opposition. He campaigned for a new government office building for Peterborough, and then complained when the government didn't keep the clock running in the tower of the old building. It was a landmark in Peterborough and stopping it had political significance, he thought.

He charged the government with spying on its employees when it installed closed-circuit television to watch operations in the Peterborough post office. He rose in wrath in the Commons when the post office department removed the doors from washroom cubicles in the new Peterborough building.

CBC CRITIC

When the Conservatives came to power in 1957, Mr. Fraser became the unpaid chairman of the Commons committee on railways, canals and telegraph lines.

He presided over this session's bridge hearings with efficiency and strict adherence to the rules.

He presided over this committee's Progressive Conservatives 206; liberals 48; CCF 8; vacancies 3; total 265.

The other two vacancies were caused by the death outside the capital several weeks ago of William A. Hosie, Liberal MP for Niagara Falls, and the appointment to the Senate of former provincial secretary Henri Coulombe.

MANY TRIBUTES

The Commons had sat for only 2¼ hours of its scheduled 5½ hours when the death notice bringing brief tributes to Mr. Fraser by Mr. Diefenbaker, Opposition Leader Pearson, H. W. Herridge (CCF — Kootenay West), Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) and Frank Lennard (PC—Westworth), who was Mr. Fraser's seat-mate in the House.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. Fraser was "a man of integrity, of high devotion and ability.

He recalled that a few hours earlier he had discussed with Mr. Fraser the Peterborough MP's projected trip to England next week. He had told Mr. Fraser he hoped to attend the 100th birthday celebrations of the Peterborough school which both he and Mr. Fraser had attended.

Mr. Fraser had remarked that he wouldn't be able to attend and Mr. Pearson said he replied that he would say a good word for him.

Mr. Herridge said Mr. Fraser had a sincere devotion to duty and was respected sincerely by all who knew him.

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—Mrs. Catherine G. Lotus, 80, died Thursday of a heart attack while planting flowers on her husband's grave. Her husband died in 1954.

Snowman May Be Species of Mammoth Bear

MONTREAL (CP)—The legendary Abominable Snowman may be a species of bear, Maharadra of Nepal said Thursday.

At a press conference, the Maharadra said the great ape - like creature, whose footprints in the Himalaya snows have been reported by scientist-explorer, may be a species of mammoth bear.

He said Nepalese folklore describes a huge creature inhabiting the snow - capped mountain pastures. Rellying on Hindu, he said, believe it may be an immortal snow god while others think it's just a myth.

CAN'T BE HUNTED

The king said Nepal has declared a closed season as far as hunting the Abominable Snowman is concerned, for religious reasons.

"People from other countries are very much fascinated by the Abominable Snowman hunt than we are," he commented.

Since Nepalese royal protocol demands that the king not speak in public, the 39-year-old monarch answered questions through his deputy premier, P. V. J. Rana.

He said today his country followed a policy of non-alignment in the foreign field. Asked questions about America's spy-plane flights over Russia.

The king was to have been accompanied to Canada by Queen Ratna Rajya Lakshmi Devi Shah, but she was detained in New Delhi with a minor ailment. She will join him shortly.

The king visits Ottawa today.

CONVICTED OF PERJURY

TORONTO (CP) — Sandor Csender, 21, was sentenced Thursday to six months for perjury committed during an earlier trial in which he was convicted and sentenced to two years for wounding. The Crown brought the charge to determine whether a man who lied at his own trial could be convicted of perjury. Magistrate C. A. Thoburn commented that perjury is committed regularly in Toronto courts, but could not be convicted.

Changing to Metric System May Be Price of Survival

WINNIPEG (CP)—If adopting the metric system in Canada is a choice between survival and non-survival, then cost is no consideration, the president of council of the Engineering Institute of Canada told Thursday.

The problem of the metric system of metres and litres versus the imperial system of feet and inches, gallons and pints, was revived today by a five-man panel of engineers.

"This is not an emotional problem," said J. R. Nowlen of the National Research Council's division of mechanical engineering in Ottawa. "It should be dealt with on a practical basis."

"It may be the metric system against the imperial system, or it may be against the integral system."

Industrialist J. M. Thomson of Toronto, chairman of the board of Ferranti-Packard Electric, and Dr. G. G. Gauvin, president of Powerlight Devices, opposed conversion to the metric system because of the tremendous cost.

Mr. Thomson said the cost in Canada alone was estimate at between $500,000,000 and $1,000,000,000 and would involve changing machinery, tools, measuring equipment, records, land titles, insurance data and commercial containers.

Dr. Gauvin, G. G. d'Ombrain of McGill University, said countries using the metric system, nearly all countries outside the English-speaking world—will object to purchasing equipment calibrated in imperial measurements.

Quality service, delivery and price are the prime considerations in trade, Mr. Thomson said, and if these conditions are competitive the system of measurement is not a consideration.

Dr. Gauvin said Canadian production costs now are too high for effective world competition, and that anything that increased these costs would constitute a greater handicap.

12 Children, Director Hurt

MADAWASKA, Maine (AP)—An automobile hurtled through a high school band group that was massed for a parade Thursday, injuring 12 children and their band director.

Three youngsters are on the danger list at a hospital in adjacent Edmundston, N.B. Police said they were dragged beneath the car as it careened through a parking lot and plunged down an embankment.

The car driver, George Pelletier, 62 - year - old unemployed construction worker of Madawaska, was booked on a drunken driving charge and released on $3,000 bail.

Welter Champ 5-7 Underdog In Title Fight With Paret

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Don Jordan risks his world welterweight boxing title tonight and the betting experts say he will lose it to 30-year-old Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba.

The match, which has a weird background even for boxing in these days, is scheduled for 15 rounds in Las Vegas' showy Convention Centre. It starts at 10 p.m. and will be televised by NBC. It will be carried on the CBC TV network.

Jordan, a highly unpredictable 25-year-old from Los Angeles, figures to be about a 5-to-7 underdog in his title defence of the championship he won from Virgil Akins Dec. 5, 1958.

The champion has been any thing but impressive in his last two fights, both non - title. In December he was knocked out for the first time in some 60 fights by Federico Thompson in Buenos Aires. Two weeks ago he was outpointed in 10 rounds by unranked Ken McFarland of Baltimore.

NEVER DROPPED

Paret supporters feel confident the swarthy son of a Cuban sugar cane cutter is in perfect shape. The fact that he has never been knocked off his feet in 47 fights indicates he can take a good punch.

Jordan is recognized as an excellent ring workman with a solid punch, but there is some doubt about his training habits in the last year.

"We are pointing to win in 15 rounds," said Manuel Alfaro, Paret's manager. "We don't anticipate knocking Jordan out."

Jordan is guaranteed $85,000, actually the TV revenue, but he said he will use most of it to buy his contract from managers Don Nesseth and Jackie McCoy. Jordan said he has three men in mind to become his manager.

GANGSTER LINK HINTED

Jordan's contract were the key to a bizarre series of episodes in Los Angeles which led to a police investigation and charges that gangsters were trying to muscle in on his earnings.

Jordan's admitted friend, former gambling kingpin Mickey Cohen, is here to watch the fight. Whether Cohen is merely a fan or has a closer connection has drawn speculation.

Jordan and Paret have agreed to a rematch if Jordan loses.

Big Four Brass Discusses Proposed Expansion of AFL

HAMILTON (CP) — General managers of Big Four football teams met behind closed doors here Thursday and discussed the proposed expansion of the new American Football League into Toronto and Montreal.

League executives said they do not feel AFL expansion plans pose an immediate or serious threat to the Canadian Football League.

They do feel that the potential invasion of a monopolized market is a cause for some concern, they said.

Toronto's A. J. Bennett will formally present a Toronto franchise bid to the AFL's July meeting at which Montreal interests will also be heard.

MONTREAL CONCERNED

Most worried by the proposed AFL move is Montreal owner Ted Workman who last week accused CFL executives of apathy towards this problem. The AFL poses the greatest threat to his club, he said Thursday night, because the Alouettes are still selling football as a new entertainment to many French-speaking Montrealers.

Last week he suggested he might have to take his team into the AFL or the National Football League.

Toronto Argonauts' Lew Hayman said the Big Four meeting backed up his position that the emotional nature of football would militate in favor of a Canadian league.

NOT ALARMED YET

Hamilton Tiger - Cats' coach Jim Trimble said the proposed AFL expansion was cause for concern but not alarm while Ottawa's George Terlep said it is best to await further developments, especially since the AFL has yet to play a game in the United States.

On the question of an interlocking East-West schedule, Hayman said nothing could be definite until the leagues get together again after November's Grey Cup game in Vancouver.

The general managers saw a pilot film for a proposed series of filmed highlights of Big Four games. They liked what they saw. Nothing definite was decided though the league has a sponsor available for mid-winter scheduling.

It Took 26 Years for Doug To Lead Pat to the Altar

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When Patricia Mowbray was 7, Douglar Dumbrille remarked, as food family friends do: "When you grow up, I'm going to marry you."

Says Dumbrille today: "I'm probably the only man alive who carried out that remark."

A week ago the veteran character actor married the daughter of his old friend, Alan Mowbray. The Las Vegas ceremony surprised the friends of both, and drew more than usual attention from newspapers, since he is 70, she is 26.

"Age doesn't mean a blasted thing," he comments; "the important thing is whether two people can be happy together. Pat and I agreed that I had some happy years left and we could best share them together. Happiness means everything in life."

Dumbrille, father of two and grandfather of four, is the smooth - looking gent who has played senators, lawyers, judges and tycoons in more movies than he can remember. Like the types he enacts, he is conservative, and he talked about his marriage with reluctance.

HAPPY MARRIAGE

He said he had known her father since before Mowbray married her mother, and knew Pat as a child but seldom saw her in later years. Dumbrille himself had one of Hollywood's happiest marriages to his late wife who died three years ago.

"It just grew till into a stupid, sentimental rut," he admitted.

"I just didn't care any more. Pat changed all that. She gave me a reason for living."

It was no sudden romance, he said. They became reacquainted two years ago and in the last six months saw each other almost constantly. They had been secretly engaged for three months.

The courtship set was the Cannonball thriller in which Dumbrille hurtled through the air from a large "cannon" while driving a small car. Another car ripped crosswise underneath. Canup as his car was airborne to land safely on a large ramp.

During the intermission "Jerry" a clown, gave a fine balancing act performance.

"Hell Drivers" Thrill Crowd With Stunts

"Boy, are they hot tonight!"

The public address system crackled with that expression intermittently — and the announcer was not far wrong.

And an estimated 2,400-2,500 sat through a thrill-packed two hour last night at the Fair Grounds and watched the Hell Drivers put their mechanical mounts through their exciting paces.

A half-dozen nerveless automobile jockeys staged a thrilling Kiwanis-sponsored show that was tempered with some hilarious comedy by a couple of Habitant clowns.

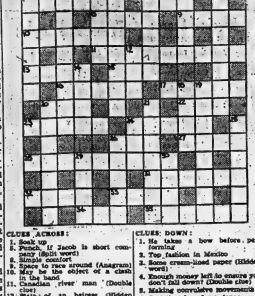
The drivers were introduced as Marcelle Champagne a motor-bike expert, Yvonne Lacoste, a comely lass, Dean Lang, Tex Saxon and ace driver Bobo Canup.

There was the usual barrier-crashing and flaming wall break-throughs by Champagne cleverly relieved by "Tolo" a clown on a none-too-fast scooter.

Marcell Roy gave the big crowd a special thrill when he was dragged through a carpet of fire by a speeding car. He is hauled on his back through the flaming part of the track.

Canup and Saxon "The Mad Texan" staged some thrilling precision driving over ramps that were raised on two occasions. The timing was perfect as the cars hardened and criss-crossed with inches to spare between bumpers. A three-car precision stunt had the crowd on its feet.

There was "Roman Riding" with two men standing balanced precariously atop speeding cars that crossed and criss-crossed after riding the ramps.



One of the big-thrills of the performance was the "flip-over" of an ancient stock car driven by Roy.

The first attempt saw the stubborn "crock refuse to flip, but careen into a low fence and clean it off the ground. The second time the car rolled over, righted itself and went its way. The third and fourth attempts saw double turnovers and the wreck draw its dying breath.

The "remnant" was given the coup-de-grace later in the thrilling "T-Bone Crash."

The car was placed at right angles to a sharply - inclined ramp and Roy, in another more or less ancient but operating vehicle drove his car at top speed at the target. It hit the "wreck" amidships, turned over lengthwise high in the air and crashed itself. Roy was unhurt, but the remains were definitely readied for interment.

Indians up in Arms Over Portrayal of Race on TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The Indian is on the warpath, and his goal is television's scalp. For that matter, he'll be after radio, too, if I write sentences like that.

It illustrates the misleading, trite approach that Indians dislike. The public education committee of the Association of American Indian Affairs has started a drive to "force a change in false portrayals of Indians" on TV and in the movies. They protest the portrayal of Indians as "bloodthirsty, savage killers."

The Indians really are up in arms about what they consider a libel on their ancestors. Delegates of 11 tribes which met recently in Oklahoma plan a petition to President Eisenhower.

The Association of American Indian Affairs is planning to monitor TV westerns—soliloquistic as well as accurate portrayals of the red man.

INDIANS EXEMPT THESE

The association has exempted two TV shows from their blanket condemnation of the western. They are The Lone Ranger and Lawman.

At the risk of getting in bad with the association, TV like to comment on its assertion that The Lone Ranger and Lawman are "outstanding examples of authentic portrayals of frontier life." Come on, fellows, you know that nobody ever roamed the old west in a black mask with a fabulous horse who could only say, "Quien sabe." As for Lawman, the hero is definitely described as "Marshal Dan Troop, a Texan man with a curious dislike for sentimentality." Troop suffers from an almost psychotic fear of bandits because his sweetheart was killed by one. Page Dr. Tex Freud.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

One of the links with Belleville's great baseball past was snapped yesterday.

One of the greatest amateur players, rated the best catcher in Ontario senior baseball for two decades, William "Frenie" Mills, was called "out" by the Great Umpire.

"FRENIE" MILLS

"Frenie" was the Yogi Berra of the great Belleville Grand Trunks and Nationals of the 1919-30's. On the field he was a fierce competitor, whose spirit and desire to win inspired team-mates in many a diamond battle.

He was one of the most-feared hitters in the Central Ontario Baseball League. His bat was a one-way ticket to many a home run. His throwing accuracy and speed was such he could wing a mosquito on second-base.

As a fielding catcher he backed his infield with the ability of a professional. His dexterity and speed in catching behind the plate fed ball after ball to rise to an expression heard in Belleville baseball parks many years afterwards, "Frenie wouldn get it."

Fans of those days when "Frenie" and the Grand Trunks and Nationals won Ontario senior baseball championships will recall with nostalgic pride the accomplishments of those great clubs.

They will tell you the greatest battery in existence at that time in Ontario was the combination of "Frenie" and Stan Indrick." The Indian was the great southpaw hurler, Jack Williams.

Williams was hailed as the greatest lefthander of his time. Behind the plate "Frenie" was a master-mind. He was one of the best baseball generals the COBL ever produced. That was admitted ungrudgingly by such fine competitor teams as Oshawa, Peterborough and Kingston.

"Frenie" had a fine personality. Quiet, and sometimes moved to gruffness he had a good sense of humor, and his popularity with fans and team-mates alike, grew out of his friendly attitude as well as his ability as a player.

Under the management of Tommy Fegy, "Frenie" helped lead the 1919 Grand Trunks to Belleville's first Ontario senior baseball crown, defeating the crack Hamilton Hurricanes in a hitherto-fought series.

Some of the players of that great team have moved to others like "Frenie" have answered the last call.

On that first championship team were: Harry Whalen, Wicky Ross, Walt Gorow, Cap Smith, Freddie Geyer, Jack Casey, Doug Simmonds, Joe LaPorte, Harry Pringle, Al Meagher, Verne Weir, Sammy Symons. The mascots were Alex Weir and L. Murray.

The Grand Trunks won the Central Ontario Baseball League championship on several occasions and in the ensuing provincial playoffs many hard-fought battles were waged.

Among the brilliant Ontario teams that "Frenie" and his club met were the Toronto Hillcrests, the Toronto Celtics, the Galt Terriers, the Bell Telephone, and the great Waterville clubs.

The Nationals as they were called then, won the second senior provincial baseball title for Belleville in 1922. There were the great Goyen, Freddie and "Scup," the famous "Hoot" Gibson, Vinny Urwald, Leslie Harry Mills, "Frenie's" brother, who was one of the best first basemen extant; Dr. Harry Blakely, Bob Scott, Stan Hagerman, Sonny Green, Alex Weir, Jack "Freckle" Williams, Al Meagher.

And one of the mainstays, on many an occasion the chief one, was the lean heralded, less sung catcher, "Frenie" Mills.

And there are those who were the "enemy" uniform of Oshawa, Peterborough, Kingston and other member clubs of the former Central Ontario Baseball League, who, if still living, will mourn the passing of a great player. "Doeman" and friend. Each man as Joe Dailey, Tammie Vanhouse of Kingston; Al Heckman and Max Swanson of Peterborough; Ty Tyson and Joe Dainty of Oshawa; "Cannonball" Scott of Lindsay and many others.

This department joins with sportsmen present and past in saluting the memory of a great athlete, an outstanding baseball player, a fine citizen; who was a credit to himself, sport, and his community.

Ford Guns Birds Off Perch; Braves Come To Life

Yankee Ace Flips 3-Hitter While Chisox Check Kansas; Frisco Flattens Phils 9-0

By ED WILES
Associated Press Staff Writer

Joe Adcock is at it again and Milwaukee's ace Braves have come alive, winners four of their last five.

The big first baseman, bothered by platooning and a bad back, has driven in seven of Milwaukee's 17 runs in that spurt while raising his batting average to .332. He was 2-for-4 and rapped across a run as the Braves scored a clinching three in the second inning Thursday night for a 4-1 victory at St. Louis.

GIANTS DRUB PHILS

San Francisco paddled its first place lead to 1½ games over idle Pittsburgh, flattening the Phillies again with a 9-0 victory on Jack Sanford's four-hit pitching and a trio of home runs. Only seven games were scheduled in the league.

Adcock's game winning single off Bob Buhl (3-2) each singled home a run in the second for the three-piece Braves who trail by just two games. The other run was unearned in the frame, when Eddie Mathews with a double by Hank Aaron. The Braves counted 11 of their 15 hits off loser Turner Buhl (1-3) and Aaron was 3-for-3.

The Cards moved in the fifth on Bob Nieman's first National League homer, a three-run blast. three hits. Buhl, the first to pay sway three complete games on the Braves' staff, gave up ten hits, walked three and struck out nine.

GIANT POWER HITTERS

Orlando Cepeda, who drove in four runs, Ed Bressoud and Willie Mays homered as the Giants banged a dozen hits for a sweep of the three-game set at Philadelphia and a 6-0 record against the Phils. It was Sanford's fifth victory in six decisions and his second shutout over his ex-mates. The Giants-Phils hits have been the victims in half of the Giants' eight shutouts and have managed just two scoring innings—good enough for three runs—in 18 frames against the Phillies.

Gene Conley (2-2) dropped his second loss to the Giants, giving up their first three runs on Cepeda's eighth home run and Bressoud's fourth. Reliever Ruben Gomez, one of the guys the Phils got in return for Sanford two years ago was tagged for five runs in the ninth. Mays' No. 4 homer, with two on, capped it.

They can be the league-leading Baltimore Orioles or a bunch of second-division Birds. Either way they're dead ducks against Whitey Ford.

The stubby southpaw, bothered by elbow trouble and home run balls, looked as good as ever Thursday night, pitching a three-hitter as the New York Yankees beat Baltimore 2-0 and eased the Orioles out of the American League lead.

The loss ended the Birds' winning streak at four and dropped them to second place, .013 percentage points behind idle Cleveland. It's the first time the Jolting Jays, on their record to Baltimore's 30-24, are a game alone in first place this season.

Chicago's White Sox, a place White Sox moved within a half-a-game of Baltimore by defeating Kansas City, Washington defeated Detroit.

Ford, now 12-7 lifetime against the Orioles, got away his first shutout in a year. This was his second victory — both over the Birds — since he pulled his comeback.

He gave up a second - inning double by Brooks Robinson and Gene Woodling's single to left fielder Sidney Brown, then didn't allow another hit until rookie Jim Gentile opened the ninth with two out.

The Yankees, just two games off the pace, are bounding a fourth - place tie with Detroit, beat Brown in the first inning on Mickey Mantle's leadoff single, a walk and Bob Cerv's two - out triple. Cerv got another run in the seventh.

Duke Snider's two-run homer and an RBI triple by Norm Sieburn gave the White Sox their 3-0 win against Jerry Casale (2-3), who has lost three straight.

Leafs Outlast Royals 1-0 In 10 Innings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There'll be trouble - funzin', and fightin' tonight in Buffalo as the Bisons and Toronto Maple Leafs open a four-game series for first place in the International League at stake.

The Leafs increased their lead over the Bisons to .062, points Thursday night with a 1-0, 10-inning victory over Montreal Royals. It was the only game played as Richmond Virginians and Columbus Jets were rained out.

The Leafs have an 18-7 mark and Buffalo is 22-10. The Bisons have to win three of the four games in Buffalo to make things interesting. A victory tonight would still leave them four points shy of the lead.

Righthander Steve Ridzik (3-0) goes for Toronto and the Bisons are expected to use Art Mahaffey (4-4).

RUNS SCARCE

Toronto has found last-place Montreal a tough nut to crack. Thursday night's game was a replay of a 10-inning 0-0 standoff a week ago when both teams were limited by a curfew arranged so that travel commitments could be met.

Don Dillard's single after Sparky Anderson doubled drove in the only run and gave relief hurler Russ Heman his first decision. Heman pitched one inning after the Royals with only five hits for nine innings.

Tonight's other games and probable pitchers: Montreal (2-2-0) at Toronto, Ted Ridzik (3-0); Miami (Hooft 1-4) at Columbus (Olms 3-2); Havana (Pena 2-3) at Richmond (Ceccarelli 0-0).

Rookie Bowler Still Winning

TORONTO (CP)—The winning streak of Montreal rookie bowler Real Deblois in the masters championship five - pin bowling tournament here continued to the quarter - finals Thursday night when he and Winnipeg's Ken Boddis 3,777 to 2,379.

The eight-by-four winners enter the semi-finals tonight.

Quarter-final scores included: Bert Griffin, Vancouver, 3,655, defeated Ken Drury, Sarnia, 2,-

Gilles Vaillancourt, Montreal, 3,626, defeated Merle Reeson, Oshawa, 2,001.

City Commercial Softball Results

Jones Motors scored a 6-2 victory over Ellis Printers while Steeles in a City Commercial softball league tilt played at Prince Edwards School last night.

The winners collected their six runs on seven hits and five Ellis errors. The juvenile club had only three hits and the aid of five Jones' miscues.

Genereaux pitched the victory, with Baker catching, while Hockway handled the Ellis mound chore with Weston behind the plate.

Trenton Blanks RCAF Flyers By 7-0 Score

By GARRY ALEXANDER

A seven-run, eighth-inning explosion and Gord Mazoney's five-hit hurling combined to ston Halloren's VW's to a 7-0 triumph over RCAF Flyers in B. and D. softball league action last night.

Mazoney, who pitched no-hit ball until the eighth, got strong opposition from Ken Kibble- while of the Flyers until the RCAF crew fell apart, in the bottom of the eighth to break up the scoreless duel.

The winners' seven runs came on four Flyer miscues and base hits by Don Cole, Roger Drake, Doug Alexander and Billy Mills. Four runs crossed the plate on Mills' hit when his single to right field went through the fielder.

The only safeties off Mazoney were singles in the eighth and ninth innings, both by ex-teammate Ron Smith. He struck out 13 and issued five free passes, also hitting two batters.

Kibblewhite gave up five hits and four runs to take the loss, as whiffing 10 and passing two. Bob Butterfield came on during the eighth, was tagged for three solid hits, fanning two and walking none.

Roger Drake with a double and single paced the winners while Billy Mitts and Donnie Cole had two singles apiece. Mazoney and Doug Alexander also hit safely.

Lineups:

RCAF — Corsadden ss, Roberts 2b, Labey 3b, Desimones rf, Matheson lf, Hughes cf, Crowell 1b, Smith c, Kibblewhite p, Duff rf, Beck 2b, Butterfield p, Borden (p.h. 9th).

Want Russian Trip

Chatham Maroons Reject World Hockey Tournament; New Icing Rule Is Approved

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—Canada's future in world and Olympic hockey will be at major league day at the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's annual meeting.

The final session will also consider a request from Chatham Maroons for permission to pass up a berth in the 1961 world championships and tour Russia instead. Chatham won the Allan Cup this year and the cup winner usually represents Canada in international competition.

It is certain that Canada will continue to compete internationally, but how the team will be picked and who will pay the bills are major issues to be settled.

PROCEDURE AFFECTED

The CAHA Thursday approved a change in the rule about icing and four runs to take the loss, as whiffing 10 and passing two. Bob Butterfield came on during the eighth, was tagged for three solid hits, fanning two and walking none.

Roger Drake with a double and single paced the winners while Billy Mitts and Donnie Cole had two singles apiece. Mazoney and Doug Alexander also hit safely.

Lineups:

Trenton — Austin ss, Drake 1b, Alexander s, Mitts cf, W. Kennedy c, Burns 2b, D. Cole lf, Defosse rf, Mazoney p. Second 2b, M. Kennedy rf.

Umpires—S. McCaughey (p) and A. Steenburg. Time—1.55.

RCAF	000 000 000	0 2 7
Trenton	000 000 07x	7 8 2

The proposal was later withdrawn.

MAKES FAVORED

The CAHA decided minor league goaltenders will eventually be compelled to wear masks. The regulation stating goaltenders "may" wear a mask was altered to read that goaltenders "should" wear a mask for protection. The change is intended to pave the way for compulsory use of masks in minor hockey, and possibly senior and junior play.

Jack Roxburgh of Simcoe, first vice-president, had asked that the CAHA make masks compulsory immediately.

Figures tabled Thursday showed the CAHA lost more than $3,000 in Allan Cup playoffs in 1960.

Only three of seven senior series showed an operating profit. biggest Allan Cup moneymaking series was the Canadian final between Chatham Maroons and Trail Smoke Eaters, which had $4,619.25 profit.

Other series that showed profits were Amherst-Montreal and Saskatoon-Port Arthur.

Only two Memorial Cup playoff series lost money.

The junior final between Edmonton and St. Catharines showed nearly $15,000 profit while the western junior final between Edmonton and Brandon had a $22,859 profit.

Cus D'Amato Sits and Waits Payoff From Title Battle

NEW YORK (AP) — What happened to Cus D'Amato?

Nothing much lately. No longer the manager of record of ex-heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, he lives quietly in his 52nd Street apartment and waits for the day when Floyd will win back the title.

The phone rings regularly. His man, George, makes appointments for visitors. A large white dog with a black eye lounges around the apartment.

Patterson is training for his June 20 rematch with Ingemar Johansson at an abandoned night club in Newtown, Conn., some 65 or 70 miles away from Broadway.

"I have been there only once since Floyd really started training," said D'Amato. "I don't tend to make more frequent visits. I have the right as a friend to visit him. We are more intimate than ever. It seems like more trouble to be there when we are drawn together."

The New York State Athletic Commission revoked D'Amato's license months ago for violating commission ruling governing promotion of last year's Patterson-Johansson fight.

D'Amato said he had to sign a consent decree prohibiting him from taking part in the Patterson-Johansson rematch directly or indirectly before the fight could be held. This became effective at the time of the official signing.

"Before the signing I anticipated all this," he said. "I sat down and talked with Floyd about all that had to be discussed. Floyd is one of the most intelligent gentlemen I ever have met. He needs no diagrams. All that has to be done is to make sure that he doesn't overtrain and to make sure that he keeps his competitive edge."

Presumably, Patterson will pay D'Amato the 33 1-3 per cent share as manager although the fighter signed no new contract for the rematch.

D'Amato also said: "When Floyd was knocked out, my first reaction was that I was seeing something that couldn't have happened. Then the thought came to me that he has to be the finest man ever to win back the heavyweight title."

RUSSIA CHARGES

said Soviet forces had "simple and clear — cut instructions to strike a blow at the aggressor and his acolytes who shall dare to encroach on the sovereignty of our country. . . ."

Khrushchev, some of those representatives here in the council today may at some time be looking at the Kremlin and expecting assistance in protesting themselves against aggression.

Joining the U.S. in the vote against Russia were British, France, Nationalist China, Italy, Argentina and Ecuador. Poland and Ceylon abstained while Communist Poland went to the Russian side.

Gromyko spoke twice. His bitterest remarks came in the second speech when he proposed amendments to a resolution presented by Argentina, Ecuador, Tunisia and Ceylon urging a resumption of Big Four negotiations on measures against surprise attack and other cold war issues.

TAKES AIM AT U.S.

Demanding a declaration of a cease denounced incursions by foreign military aircraft, Gromyko said Eisenhower had broadcast that the U.S. would continue espionage, possibly by increasingly aerial methods. The council speaker should be aimed specifically at the U.S., he said.

Security Council Urges Big Four To Resume Talks

U.S. May Be More Eager To Seek Allies' Views

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The United Nations Security Council has a post-summit problem on her new Big Four negotiations on its books, but there was no sign today that any would be starting soon.

Russia's foreign minister Andrei A. Gromyko had a chance to give his view of the last-minute compromise proposal voiced in a press conference he set up for today.

His last remarks before the council acted Friday indicated that the Soviet Union did not share the expressed willingness of the western Big Three for an early revival of last week's disrupted Paris summit conference.

The resolution acted on to urge that the world's hopes for the meeting had not been fulfilled, and urged the governments of Britain, France, the Soviet Union and the United States "to resume discussions as soon as possible" on unspecified issues.

The 11-member council adopted it by a vote of 9 to 0. Poland and the Soviet Union abstained.

The sponsors of the resolution — Argentina, Ceylon, Ecuador and Tunisia — had called for more than an hour before to avoid a deadlock vote.

As to another summit conference, Gromyko told the council that Russia is not ready to persuade the Soviet government of the authority of any "summit meeting." But the best proof of this he said, is the Paris Premier Khrushchev's proposal that there be another "in six to eight months' time."

On the other hand, Henry Cabot Lodge of the United States never declared in the council's five-day debate that the U.S. is "willing to negotiate at any time, in any place and in any manner which offers hope for agreement."

Sir Claude Corea of Ceylon, president of the council for May, told reporters he believed that through adoption of the resolution, the council powers will be strengthened in their own desire to resume negotiations."

But he added: "It's not something that can be done immediately in the coming weeks."

He did not regard the Russians' absence from the council as discouraging since, he said, after the defeat of their own resolution, "they could not do more" than abstain.

The resolution urged the big powers in their discussions to avoid tendencies of the nature since that the security council and other UN organs might be able to give. This recalled an offer of diplomacy that Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold held out after the summit breakup.

Driver Killed In Collision

KITCHENER (CP) — James Cameron, 18, of St. Agatha was killed Friday night in a two-car, head-on collision at this city west of here.

Driver of the other car, A. R. Reid of Rodney, is in critical condition in hospital here. Both men were alone in their automobiles when they crashed at the top of a hill.

Killed by Truck

WOODSTOCK (CP) — A two-year-old girl who celebrated her birthday Thursday died under the wheels of her parents' pickup truck Friday.

Shirley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Thornton of nearby Ingersoll, was run over by the truck driven by her mother and was crushed under the rear wheel of the vehicle 15 miles west of here.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Another slow-moving weather system began edging into western parts of the provinces today and will reach Ontario with unsettled weather throughout the weekend as it wanders slowly eastward. Afternoon temperatures will continue in the 70- to 80-degree range with slowly improving conditions expected by Monday.

WASHINGTON (CP) — The West lost a great deal in the smash-up of the summit, but for the allies of the United States there may be something to gain from the U-2 spy plane fiasco. The U.S. now may be more eager to seek the allies' views before embarking on any new perilous program.

State Secretary Herter seemed to imply as much when he told the Senate foreign relations committee Friday: "We came back from Paris with a keener sense of what it meant to have allies, and I am sure that our alliances will take new life from this experience."

There may be opportune that Prime Minister Diefenbaker will discuss the results of the Paris N.A.T.O. meeting in a day of talks with President Eisenhower. From Herter's testimony, it seems the U.S. will be as sure-footed diplomatically as it might have believed before the volcanic eruption at the summit.

LACK OF COHESION

Critics of the Eisenhower administration who sat in at the Senate investigation of the U-2 incident said the blast planned by Herter and his group said the U.S. position was weakened by lack of cohesion inside the government that the evidence disclosed.

"There seems to have been an almost complete lack of coordination not only among government departments but among officials working in the same agency," said Senator Albert Gore, Tennessee Democrat, in an interview.

NO CO-ORDINATION

Senator J. W. Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat and committee chairman, said he also is unsatisfied with the evidence lack of effective coordination.

A lot of the testimony was made public, but some of it was kept confidential. It was unclear whether he heard anything which would indicate why it had been so crucially important to send the U-2 over Russia two weeks before the summit meeting in Paris.

Gore said he had asked that question but received only a partial answer which he could not make public. He said he would be "wasn't satisfied." He said he had asked the question again when Allen W. Dulles, chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, goes before the committee Tuesday.

Herter's public statement on the question of timing was similar to that given by President Eisenhower last Wednesday when the U-2 mission was important and could not be postponed until a later date.

HERTER FUMBLES?

"We believe it unwise to lower our vigilance because of these political negotiations," Herter added, referring to the summit conference.

From his words, the U.S. may have underestimated the effect on the summit meeting in the eyes of the Russians and perhaps even the small neutral powers such as Nehru, which described the U-2 mission as "unfortunate" and "ill-timed."

And while the U-2 may have provided the U.S. with a lot of intelligence, Herter admitted it to be fumbling in the dark in attempting to discern what went on in the Kremlin that forced Premier Khrushchev to switch on the cold war.

Queer, Unmoving Undersea Object Puzzles U.S. Anti-Sub Contingent

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—The United States Navy today pressed efforts to identify a mysterious, motionless object underwater that gave rise to speculation that foreign submarines are prowling off Florida's coast.

In Louisiana, a report of a periscope sighting in the shallow, winding Mississippi 20 miles downstream from Baton Rouge also was being investigated.

The navy was skeptical that a submarine would be found at either spot.

If the object in the Atlantic off Key West were a Russian or other allied submarine, it could not be molested in waters outside the three-mile limit. But a navy spokesman here said "we're sure it's not a sub."

Navy craft have been striving since Tuesday to learn the nature of the object, picked up on sonar equipment.

The navy at Washington confirmed that a six-ship anti-submarine warfare fleet has been formed in the investigation for several days.

COMMONS PLAYS POST OFFICE WITHOUT KISSES

Hamilton Infatuated With Automation

OTTAWA (CP)—William McLean Hamilton posted an exuberant report Friday as Canada's No. 1 mailman, but the opposition refused to seal it with a kiss.

Especially Arellus Denis, who gets in the best Commons licks at the postmaster - general as postal critic for the Liberal party.

Mr. Hamilton introduced his 1960-61 estimates, totalling $172,047,009, saying "that never since Confederation has it been possible for a postmaster-general to record in one annual report ... such a wide range of new developments and progress both internally and in service to the public."

Said Mr. Denis, member for Montreal St. Denis: "He (Mr. Hamilton) made dozens of promises while in opposition and we defy him to mention one he has kept."

The greatest area of disagreement between the two men is the question of automation in handling Canada's mail flow.

MINISTER FOR IT

Mr. Hamilton is an enthusiastic automation man and in the light of Arellus Denis' speech last night to that given by President Eisenhower last Wednesday about the U-2 mission was important and could not be postponed until a later date.

HERTER FUMBLES?

"We believe it unwise to lower our vigilance because of these political negotiations." Herter added, referring to the summit conference.

From his words, the U.S. may have underestimated the effect on the summit meeting in the eyes of the Russians and perhaps even the small neutral powers such as Nehru, which described the U-2 mission as "unfortunate" and "ill-timed."

And while the U-2 may have provided the U.S. with a lot of intelligence, Herter admitted it to be fumbling in the dark in attempting to discern what went on in the Kremlin that forced Premier Khrushchev to switch on the cold war.

Food and Water Shortage Threaten Earthquake Victims

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Shortages of food and water today touched off fears of epidemics in earthquake-shattered Southern Chile.

Police fired warning shots over the heads of hungry disaster victims trying to raid emergency supplies of food set up for relief in Valdivia.

Cmdr. Robert E. Merchant of the United States Navy, who flew supplies to the stricken city, said: "Even U.S. military men there helping bring in the supplies haven't been eating anything and can't drink the water."

The known death toll in the earthquake area stood at close to 3,000, but officials said the obsolete count may not be possible for weeks.

At Valdivia, a city of 100,000 persons, about 60 per cent of the business and industrial areas are in ruins. Puerto Montt, with a population of about 45,000, also is suffering acute hardships.

The U.S. Air Force set up a giant airlift of 34 Globemasters with bad weather has prevented them from reaching some of the worst disaster areas. However, smaller planes were more successful.

Two more earthquakes shook the troubled land Friday, the fifth day of tremors.

Reports from Ancud, hit by tidal waves as well as earthquakes, said hundreds of persons, many of them fishermen, were still missing.

Curfews were set up in most communities and police guarded food depots.

Just north of Rupanco, tons of searing lava poured into Lake Ranco, sweeping over people and homes.

New volcanoes and new mountains have sprung up over the lands h ve appeared off the Chilean coast and new lakes have been formed in the eighteen days week which remade much of the topographical map of Chile.

More Community Projects in Line for Legion

WINDSOR (CP) — The Canadian Legion will open its 18th biennial convention here Saturday and it is likely pressure from the 1,200 expected delegates will be aimed at pleading the 35-year-old Legion to move community projects.

Committees of the executive council have been at work four days culling almost 500 resolutions — with heavy emphasis on community service — in preparation for plenary sessions during the six-day anniversary meeting.

Following a five-year program of community service, mostly on a Dominion level, Legion spokesmen say the relatively new field is being pushed to the Legion's 240,000 members in 2,000 communities across Canada.

Projects on the Dominion level include the physical fitness program, $63,000 annual for Progressive Conservative MPs, although five were reconstituted by Liberals.

Mr. Hamilton replied that the squad was organized by the Lib-

Uniform Policy On Baptism Is Proposed

KINGSTON (CP) — Establishment of a uniform policy of infant baptism in the United Church of Canada was proposed Friday by the Cobourg presbytery at the church's Bay of Quinte conference.

The Peterborough presbytery suggested the church council also consider a statement about the publication of marriage banns, particularly about the number of times of their publication.

Both proposals expressed the feeling that church policy should be uniform throughout Canada, not left to the individual churches. They were approved Friday for theological studies and closer examination of the qualifications of a minister entering the United Church from another denomination.

Rev. D. M. Smith of Campbellford was named president, replacing Rev. M. C. Fisher of Newcastle.

M. Flagg Dies in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP — James Montgomery Flagg, 82, artist who won fame with a poster of Uncle Sam in the First World War, died Friday.

Flagg had been in poor health and was nearly blind.

His drawing of Uncle Sam with a pointing finger and the caption "I want you," was credited with spurring recruiting as some 4,000,000 copies of the poster were distributed throughout the U.S.

Flagg had gained more fame for his beautiful young women in illustrations and advertisements later.

EDUCATIONISTS TO DRAFT TURKISH CONSTITUTION

Military Junta Aims At Democratic State

ISTANBUL (AP) — Turkey's ruling military junta set up a board of educationists and jurists today to write a new democratic constitution and threatened to try ousted dictator-premier Adnan Menderes.

Acting swiftly in the wake of Friday's bloodless military coup, Gen. Cemal Gursel and his revolutionary Turkish National Union committee:

1. Ordered Dean Sikkik Sami Onar of the Istanbul University flown to Ankara, the capital, presumably to form a new provisional government.

2. Pledged that free elections would be held "to set up a true democratic state, but did not set an exact date.

3. Promised that Turkey's eastern military alliance would remain unaltered.

4. Told newspapers silenced by Menderes' rule that they could resume publishing at once and ordered the release of editors jailed for opposing the strong-arm policies of the ex-premier.

5. Ordered the military to disarm police throughout the country.

6. Guaranteed the safety of all foreigners.

The sudden end of Menderes's autocratic rule touched off an outburst of joy and relief throughout Turkey. Citizens embraced partisans of the new regime, celebrating in the streets and loudly cheered the Menderes downfall.

A spokesman for the ruling military junta told reporters Menderes would be put on trial "under existing laws if there is a well-founded complaint against him."

Menderes is under arrest along with President Celal Bayer, ceremonial head of state. Also under detention are Foreign Minister Fatin Rustu Zorlu, other cabinet members and parliamentary deputies of the Democratic party and Gen. Rustu Erdelhun, chief of staff.

3 of Group Standing at Scene Of Crash Killed by Second Car

PORT DOVER (CP) — Three men were killed early today and three persons injured in a spectacular crash on Highway 24 about a mile west of this Lake Erie town.

Police said a car slammed into a group standing at the scene of an earlier accident, tossing bodies high into the air. Then it plunged on to hit a truck and two cars parked along the roadway.

First reports identified the dead as William Hunter, about 50, of Simcoe, and Gerald Barnhart, all of Port Dover. Hunter is a well known district livestock dealer.

Investigating officers identified the driver of the car which struck the others as Dorlene Hill, 21, of Simcoe, Ont. She was not injured.

Police reconstructed the accident events this way:

A westbound panel truck skidded off the highway shortly before 1 a.m., snapping off a hydro pole. Live wires fell around it but the two occupants, Mr. and Mrs. William Hunter, managed to get out unhurt.

Three men from a nearby house joined the truck occupants and two southbound cars stopped nearby. The group stood at the edge of the road inspecting the truck accident.

Another car arrived and swerved to avoid them, hitting the parked cars whichwere struck by the first westbound car. Bodies were lodged against the broken pole, burning hide, flames.

Douglas Osborne of Simcoe, owner of the burned car, told police there was $1,000 in the glove compartment. He said he had borrowed the car from a friend.

Two ambulances from nearby Simcoe and a St. John Ambulance Brigade unit from Port Dover took the injured persons to hospital. They were tentatively identified as William Marsh, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Marsh, Mr. William Hunter and Mrs. Jacob, all of Port Dover.

Mr. Marsh boy had two fractured legs.

Mr. K. Believes U.S. President Wants Peace

'Provocative Speeches' Caused Meeting to Fail

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev said today he believes President Eisenhower wants peace, but "the road to hell is paved with good intentions and he will really get there." The Soviet leader said United States military circles are opposed to peace.

"Everybody knows that "the president is limited in many of his functions: the first is to play golf and the second is to be president, the latter being the subsidiary one," Khrushchev said in Moscow.

He declared the Americans need to be "taken down a peg or two."

The Soviet chief reported to the people by radio and TV, in a speech delivered before a meeting of Communist bloc brigade leaders in the Kremlin on a failure of the Paris summit conference and related world affairs.

In a three-hour talk Khrushchev gave a rundown of these main points:

The U-2 spy flight: "Treachery committed by the U.S. government." The U-2 incident: Principles and establishment of identities of pilots.

After the king's departure, the CCF filibuster team of Frank Hamilton, Stanley Knowles, Arnold Peters, Timiskaming, let one disposition petition squeak through before approval after hearing criticism that held off consideration of any other divorce bills.

King of Nepal Hears Divorce Bill Contested

OTTAWA (CP)—The king of Nepal heard in the Commons Friday the recital of boudoir evidence in a divorce action.

Arrival of Nepalese leaders and his party coincided with the latest round of a CCF filibuster against Parliament having to deal with divorce petitions.

The monarch was escorted to the Speaker's gallery of the Commons by House Speaker Roland Michener and Senate Speaker Mark Drouin.

The visitors, who stayed only five minutes, were all but unaware of the Parti commit.

Testimony being read from evidence heard by the Senate divorce committee concerned investigations of private detectives, the state of undress of the persons involved when the investigators' "snoops" made inquiries and establishment of identities of parties.

After the king's departure, the CCF filibuster team of Frank Hamilton, Stanley Knowles, Arnold Peters, Timiskaming, let one disposition petition squeak through before approval after hearing criticism that held off consideration of any other divorce bills.

peaceful coexistence and competition with the Soviet Union "because they were afraid of Soviet progress" even though Eisenhower himself wanted peace.

SPEAKS OF SOVIET GAINS

The Soviet leader declared it seems a struggle has developed between the future directions American policy and was mentioning itself in many spheres.

He charged State Secretary Christian Herter, Under Secretary Richard Nixon and State Undersecretary Douglas Dillon with making "positive peace preaching" just before the summit conference.

"If they were made to bring promises to bear on this preparation, was of course foredoomed to failure because the Soviet government and the Soviet people do not give in to pressure.

"I have understood and, we may say, saddened us most was that the president of the United States permitted these provocative speeches at his press conferences. He spoke and they were in line with the foreign policy of the State Department."

Khrushchev claimed that "backstage activities of the West were directed to the end of trying to wreck the summit conference at any price, if possible."

"REAL INTENTIONS"

The "real intentions" of the U.S. in the summit talks after a couple of "gross military provocations" ecapsed, Khrushchev said, was to "prepare the May spy-flight over Russia.

We gave serious thought to the fact that Eisenhower decided not to undertake anything that would prevent, at the last moment, the United States from getting out of the absurd situation in which it had placed itself," Khrushchev said.

But Eisenhower "did not avail himself of the opportunity to agree via the spy flight as had been approved by him and made his sanction."

"The question imposed: Whom did we wish to deceive in this way? What sort of a state is this where the head of state, unlike other states, refuses to abide by the universally accepted rules of international intercourse. Only an aggressive state can openly disregard all standards of decency with regard to other countries and unwilling to develop normal relations with them.

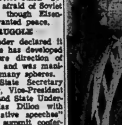
"It was then that we realized that the purpose of these aggressive actions of the United States was to torpedo the approximating meetings of the heads of government."

DANGER BEHIND ICE

Khrushchev declared he had told President Eisenhower during their Camp David talks last year that there were forces behind the "cold war" who were opposed to an easing of international tension. There were "influential and many Americans who wanted peace and good relations with all countries."

Eisenhower "has two functions to carry out in his country and to carry out his presidential functions. The latter being the subsidiary one."

Khrushchev led into this sally with a special dig at Eisenhower's the U-2 plane, at which point he said "we decided to let you get out this once." He declared that "we have the protection know nothing about the matter and that this was instead of the U-2 plane. The floor polishing machine was floor possibility of Soviet-American conflict."



Casualty insurance rewards, in the form of that available to public school pupils, will be offered to all school students. Administration of the scheme will be by the Home and School Association.

The resignation of Mrs. Margaret Kerr, assistant secretary in the principal's office at Quinte Secondary, was accepted by the board. The resignation will take effect at the end of June. And John Hagerman, assistant secretary at BCI since 1944, has also tendered his resignation.

The board has concurred in a resolution from the Oshawa school board stating that children considered eligible as residents of more than tax purposes, also be classed as dependents of Ontario Hospital Commission Insurance.

Federation of University Women Hold Region Meet

"Among our conspicuous faults is a particularly dangerous one: we are allowing everything under the sun, the trivial, the banal, the third-rate, to clutter up our own lives and also to interpose between many of our promising people and the employment and enjoyment of mind and learning which should be theirs. All this we begin at an early age, so that ultimately boredom and distaste replace what should have been the lively curiosity of interest and a feeling of the actual joy of work," Dr. J. A. B. McLeish, Registrar and Research Professor of education at Carleton University told the Federation of University Women who are holding a two-day regional conference for Eastern Ontario in this city.

The conference which was convened by Mrs. A. S. Lewis, opened with a reception in the King Edward room of the Hotel Quinte followed by a dinner, where Mrs. J. E. Merrifield, president of the Belleville and District Club, was chairman, and the head table with the president and the guest speaker were: Mrs. Merrifield, Mrs. W. W. Scott, Miss Margaret McLeish, Dr. D. B. MacKinnon, Mrs. W. H. Gilleland, Alderman Leslie Reid, Mrs. A. S. Lewis, Miss Jean Hutchinson, Mrs. J. F. Flaherty.

Mrs. Ruth Morton, Mrs. Robertson Collins, Mrs. J. L. Acton and Miss W. K. Langhis were in charge of the arrangements. Registrations committee was a composed of Mrs. C. D. Spence and Mrs. R. L. Graham; hospitality was arranged by Mrs. Douglas Burr, and finance was in charge of Mrs. D. M. Curzon and Miss A. Wilson.

The meeting was officially opened by Mrs. W. E. Gilleland, vice-president of Central Canada, and grave and gay were the Miss Jean Royce, registrar of Queen's University. Alderman Leslie Reid brought greetings and a welcome from the city, remarking that we have a definite people here who are interested in the intellectual development of the young, our most important possession. The University women's quest for leadership and stimulated learning with scholarships. He hoped the visitors would remember Belleville as the "friendly city."

The head table was attractively arranged with white tapers and golden-hued tulips, flanked by twin tri-branched candelabra.

PROPOSES TOAST

Mrs. A. McColgan of Ottawa proposed the toast to the Canadian Federation of University women reviewing its progress since its inception in 1919. The Federation had made contributions to scholarships of over $3,000 in Canada, had fostered togetherness where the members were able to think, work and act together; and had promoted conferences where problems could be discussed. A total membership of 10,000 individual women represented a great force.

In response, Miss Margaret MacLellan, Chairman Status of Women, spoke of the friendships formed and the good conversations in study groups at the regional, annual and triannual meetings. The Federation Fellowship was often the key that unlocked the door to many distinguished women, who were making valuable contributions to the community. Citing some of them, the speaker mentioned Dr. Alice Wilson who had been honored by Carleton University for her life work as a geologist and a local woman. Mrs. Marlene Brant who had won a scholarship. Mrs. John Dietenbaker and Senator Cairine Wilson had been honored with degrees.

Basing his address on the question, "Is a University Education a Right or a Privilege," Dr. McLeish considered the significance of the University as a cultural institution providing professional people with their training and the "less popular" ideas of a cultural oasis or place where the nation's talented young people have a chance for uninterrupted study of the things of the mind and spirit.

"The most striking fact about Canadian Universities is their growth," said the speaker. "Growth in students, in faculty, in costs and in the number of Universities. Enrollment has increased from 38,000 to 102,000 in twenty years. Fees have climbed sharply too. At McGill freshman could enroll for $230 then, but now it must be $422.

"It is an expensive business to maintain a son or daughter at college. An average figure would be $1,300 for fees, residence and board for eight months. Of this it is estimated that 40 per cent is paid by the student, 23 per cent by the parents and 37 per cent by some form of student aid. The cost to the University itself is a serious matter since the fees go less than a third of the way towards educating the student.

NO RESTRICTIONS

"No law inhibits a young Canadian from going to university; no class restrictions direct him from birth away from the university gates. However, he may not have the kind of mental intelligence to undertake university studies, and even if he has, his economic or social circumstances may make him drop out. It is clear from the Atkinson foundation report that it is an advantage to be born into a professional family, in a large city, with parents in a city rather than a town, in a town, rather than the country, to be born in Ontario rather than elsewhere, and to be in a favored category of intelligence. Fewer than half the out of every hundred young Canadians attend a degree-granting institution, so we must recognize how circumscribed is the right to go.

"In Ontario student aid is based on four categories of entering students; the highly able, to be assisted by scholarships; the reasonably able, to be assisted by bursaries; the probably good to be aided by entrance loans, and the borderline people who assume their own responsibility. The precise order of claims for financial recognition depends on the kind and claims of state responsibility and individual responsibility.

"One of the first obligations in education is to recognize the highly able and to see that as little as possible of this river of ability is wasted. It should also be possible in the last two years of high school to create a teaching and guidance situation that would make the transition to university easier.

Dr. McLeish stressed the need for the free and competent inquiry in a democratic society with qualities of personal industry, courage, imagination, skill, integrity and high dedication to the truth, the just, and the beautiful. These persons must not be lost to university training or key positions in civil and universal life. The universities are going to have to take care for the services of aberrant intelligence. In fact, the Canadian Owners and Pilots Association is quite concerned about it.

We know of several pilots who have made the rounds of the larger centres seeking estimates on inspections prior to renewing certificates of airworthiness for their machines. Estimates ranging from $150 to $250 as high as $100.

Owners are sometimes taken for a ride when dealing with some repair and overhaul companies. One fellow ran up a bill of $15 merely to have eight spark plugs cleaned. Another owner banged up the undercarriage of his light plane on a heavier-than-usual landing. He got estimates from several local experienced engineers who said the plane was repairable at moderate cost. He carted the machine to his dealer who refused to say that it was fixed, instead told him he had to buy a new plane. Guess what the owner told the dealer?

Engineers' rates vary widely across Canada. The average engineer seems to charge $3.50 an hour. But a few charge as little as $1. However, they are the ones who can operate with little or no overhead.

It is very economical to have inspections and minor repairs done at home by a qualified part-time engineer. Some jobs, though, require the elaborate facilities of a really workshop a distant centre. That is where the greatest variance in rates occurs and that is one reason why owning an airplane is an expensive proposition.

by Miss Lamoine West of Madoc.

A discussion followed with some lively debate on the subject raised by Dr. McLeish, with varying and sometimes contrary opinions expressed. The conference continues on Saturday, when the meetings take place at Tabernacle church.

No American Airline Holds Route Franchise

By DON HARVEY

Several people in the Belleville district have been under the impression that Trans-World Airways of the United States holds a franchise to provide passenger feeder service between Toronto and Montreal. They believe TWA received the franchise years ago in return for giving Trans-Canada Airlines certain privileges south of the border.

It sounded a bit far-fetched but, in view of the number of people who mentioned it to us, we checked with the Air Transport Board at Ottawa.

This was the ATB's reply:

". . . There is no American airline holding a franchise for service between Toronto and Montreal. . . ."

Enos David, president of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, returned recently from the annual meeting of Canadian Chamber of Commerce at Hamilton. He was tickled pink by a presentation he made concerning pretty big companies had approached him and inquired about civilian airport facilities in the Belleville-Trenton area.

He replied that although no airport facilities were readily available, his district would set up an airport committee to study the problem.

One of the representatives, a highly placed executive of a well-known and commonly associated with manufacturing such things as wicked ravages of the stratosphere, said his company's aircraft used it time constantly was done about setting standard hourly rates for the services of aircraft engineers. In fact, the Canadian Owners and Pilots Association is quite concerned about it.

Town Assessor Outlines Jobs To Kiwanians

TRENTON — Allan Smith, town assessor, was the guest speaker at Thursday night's meeting of the Kiwanis Club. He gave a brief rundown on the duties and functions of his department.

He said town council was responsible to the provincial government in matters of assessments, as was the assessor himself. Council cannot interfere with evaluations and assessments set out by the assessor, but it may delegate extra duties to him.

"For instance", he said, "the mayor could tell me to shovel the sidewalk in my spare time. I probably refuse, but I sure would kick."

His total property in Trenton was assessed on a one-third value basis. This percentage method of assessment was fixed to confusion in the public's mind.

He said the town's entry on economic conditions in the town was based on the land used in with the fact that 43 percent of residential property was assessed under $2,000, and so five children are sent to school from every dollar collected. Industry, and the rest of the ratepayers pay for him and hospitalization about civilian airport facilities in the Belleville-Trenton area.

The Compleat Man

A recent physical fitness test conducted in Vancouver indicates that only 15 per cent of a cross-section of 204 youths, aged 11 to 17 years, can pass a reasonably stiff test following a month of training. Even more startling, perhaps, is the finding that half could not pass the easiest fitness test based on the standards which doctors and physical education people have determined to be a minimum national average for good health.

The results of these tests merely conform with the results of similar tests across Canada and substantiate the theory that the physical fitness of the nation is declining. More extensive recent research has actually determined that children in so-called "impoverished" European countries are in a much superior state of physical fitness than the youth of North America, the land of plenty.

It is not too hard to arrive at a reasonable hypothesis as to why this condition should exist, especially when it is further known that within our own society those children coming from lower income families are usually in better physical condition than those from well-to-do families. It would appear that the physical comforts which our society provides also are our undoing as far as our physical fitness is concerned.

Whatever benefits might be able to claim for those living in our country in the way of adequate food, shelter and clothing might appear to be offset by a surplus of, or emphasis on, labor-saving devices and spectator forms of amusement and recreation. When the youth of our society start to become physically inept despite good feeding and care, we feel that something is wrong.

We might reflect for an instant on previous civilizations' histories. Greece was at her zenith when her society offered its citizens not only all the material benefits of the ancient world and all of the knowledge available to mankind of that era but also an adequate state-sponsored program of physical fitness and training. The ancient Greeks fully realized the fact a sound mind required a sound body in order to maintain a sound society. Their empire, or the city state of Athens at least, declined when physical fitness gave way to the idle pleasures of a wealthy state. As the Athenians become more physically lax, so too did their moral or mental standards decline.

The same observation might be made of the Roman state. When the interest of the youth was turned from the responsibilities of their citizenship to the soporific pleasantries of wining and dining and watching the shows in the Coliseum, the Roman empire declined.

It would seem to be a most important and vital business of our nation and our society to see that the value of a sound body and a sound mind to the individual is not lost to our present and future generations. There has been some criticism of trying to augment the necessary program to cure our current physical inadequacies at the high school level. We would agree that the high school program is a full one but then we would also state that we do not feel our schools should be turning out brilliant weaklings.

There is a balance which has to be achieved, in preparing a child or youth for the life ahead of him, between his mental and his physical assets. Neither should be advanced at the expense of the other. It is found that the current school year and curriculum do not allow such a balance to be struck then it would appear that either a longer school year is necessary or there should be more organized sports provided by a community to supplement the school educational program.

If Canada's youth is starting to disintegrate physically it is time to establish an active extra-curricular sports program for boys and girls of school age. We might point to Australia as leading light in this sort of a public-spirited program. It is not by accident that so many world records have fallen to Aussie youths during the past few years. It may be expected this trend will continue for the Australian lad or lass has every opportunity and encouragement to enter some form of sport or other, no matter how proficient he may be at it.

Might we suggest that it is high time Canada took action on a similar venture before we become so physically lax that no one is able to lift a finger?

We might at this point take a look at our local scene. From what we have observed it would appear that our high schools have a good physical education program and we may expect that it will grow, improve and keep pace with the needs of the students. The only, weakness which might exist in the local scene is that not all teenagers and youngsters have a chance to compete in some sport or other during their free time the year-round.

In addition to the baseball, hockey and soccer leagues, which are doing a creditable job within the city, there might be a few more sports added. Perhaps touch football, basketball, swimming and track and field events are sports which might be easily introduced to the local scene at not too great an operating expense through the excellent facilities of the Belleville Recreation Committee and the co-operation of those within the city who have the grounds or facilities available for such sports.

Spring Visit to England
A Rewarding Experience

By G. A. MORTON

Article 9

London is made for the leisurely visitor. No city which we have visited offers so many attractions to the person, who, tiring of looking at the regular tourist fare, can spend pleasant hours wandering up one street and down another looking at the attractive windows and occasionally entering the store to buy some item. Few business districts are more busy than Regent, Oxford, Bond, Piccadilly and Jermyn St., which specialized in cheese. It was not a large shop, but it was doing a rushing business. It had the typical aroma of its merchandise and how we would liked to have taken a knife and been able to sample some of the delicious looking cheese, if it can be said that a cheese looks interesting.

Such sampling would have been quite a chore for the proprietor said he carried one hundred and thirty different types of cheese. One large stone stood on from the rest being almost pure black in appearance. The color came from the coating of ashes, charcoal, ground rape seeds which helped to give the smooth French cheese a distinctive flavor. The Stilton cheese as the same cheese among others is the one we noted since our return.

Silverware is a big feature in many of the city's small elegant stores dealing in this attractive merchandise. It is the wonder of this business that they handle expensive articles so long and it might be expected, tourists are their main customers. Sheffield plate of Europe in the early days is in greatest demand and that of the Georgian period. Beauty of design and execution is evident even to the person who knows little of silver. Candlesticks, candelabra, tea service sets and tea caddies appeal to the buyer and to collectors at prices far beyond those paid for silver of modern design in Canada. Despite the effect to heavy taxation, have been forced to dispose of the largest of their treasured possessions of furniture, silver and, of course, are the source of the stocks carried by the specialty shops. The largest dealer in silver in the world. The present headquarters was bombed during the war but the new premises was completed in 1956. Besides smoker's requirements, this store sells women's cigarettes in packages ($100 to $300); pen sets, notebooks and some very handsome samples of brief cases and overnight bags. It is really a beautiful store for gifts of every thing, handsome showcases and attractive decor.

Clients from all over the world order their own special blends of pipe tobacco. We watched a military man of some importance selecting a blend to satisfy his tastes and it occurred to us that we could hardly have been more careful were he choosing some expensive gems. Rosebowl was at three pounds and shell briar four pounds sterling. Imported are the more popular types. Stocks of Dunhill's special blends of pipe tobacco are sold in bulk or in sealed tins. Altogether we came away with the feeling that the Dunhill store represented a phase of English life at its best.

The neighboring store of Fortnum and Mason is operated by the Canadian financier, Garfield Weston. Another one of those fabulous stores which can exist only in a great city. It was founded in 1702 on the same site and originally was a candle shop. The business is now given over to choicest and exotic foods from Canada and otherwise. Other floors carry men's and women's wear and one of children's. Both the high class and desirable we were told, were very much out of time to look the whole store.

We noted shelf space was noticed plovers' and gulls' eggs from Denmark at its equivalent of fifty cents a piece, boned chicken and ducks encased in delectable-looking jelly at $10.00 (about $11.00) apiece, quail not much larger than a robin also in jelly at ten shillings ($1.40).

We saw diners in restaurants eating the hard cooked plovers' eggs which were brought to the table in a bowl and the dishes paid for only those he ate. On the other hand, large stocks are carried of meats and fruit canned in glass jars to display their delectable goodness plus the usual canned stocks as we know them. P. & M. also have a wine department where the customer can sample the type and year he desires. Of course, we suppose this would not be for the casual shopper. Such service, we were told, was available mainly to wine producers who wanted to introduce their products to a wider section of the public. We are sure this novel practice would appeal to Eddie Lee of Barnes Wine.

New Cars Fit Old Garages

Toronto Financial Post

There will be more compact cars built next year and standard models will be slimmer and shorter.

That's the good news from Detroit — and it's been a long time coming.

The popularity of small European cars, and more recently of the Rambler and Canadian compacts, wasn't all a matter of buying price and driving economy.

The horrible truth is this: No car of standard size built since 1935 will fit into a standard garage. And not everyone can afford to trade in an old garage every time the family trades in an old car.

For some time now, most car owners, especially if they live in older houses in older sections of the city, have resented the limit in creating extra space.

Many have already added as much as they can to the length of their garages by pushing out the back wall. They have had to remove lawn mowers, garden hoses and a host of essential items most easily stored in a garage. Not a few have lost a couple of dented fenders getting in and out of narrow doorways.

Is it any wonder that the sales of small imported cars, and now compact cars, have been booming?

Regrets Decision To Keep Walk Plows

Editor,

Ontario Intelligencer.

It was with a great deal of regret that I read in Wednesday's paper the Aldermen Harrisons' recommendation to discontinue sidewalk snow plowing for the city, which was passed by city council.

It seems to me, the rest of the council must never have occasion to walk on the snow covered streets in winter, or they would surely feel a great deal different. Most of the streets are in a precarious job, and the streets have been neglected for years to a disgrace, since they started using the snow plows.

The men in the family usually have to help their wives when they want to go anywhere in the winter, and old people have to take their lives in their hands if they wish to step outside the door.

Alderman Temple says it will be a hardship for the elderly people to have to shovel their walks but I think it is much easier to pay someone to do your shoveling than to do your walking. Besides, I have yet to have your own bit of property cleared, but you are now risking life and limb on everybody's property else. It is much bigger hardship to be confined to the house all winter than to walk a little further to venture out.

I have been a resident of Belleville all my life and the streets were never like this when the people cleared their own walks.

Maybe if the people who agree with me would call the members of the council and let them know how they feel about the matter, we could have it brought up again, before next winter's first snow.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 31st, 1940

Members of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce will journey to Stirling tonight on a Cavalcade of Good-Will and Trade Acquaintance Tour. They will be the guests of the Stirling Community Club and a band will be in attendance. Addresses will be made by representatives of both communities.

The Blair, one of the most popular ornamental shrubs cultivated in North America, is found in all districts, the flowers of this shrub, the Mountain Laurel, with conical panicles so well known in this country, have a delicate odor while the wood of the shrub is very fine grained and is used for inlaying, turning and the making of small articles.

Mr. Arthur Crull, formerly of Belleville, and for the past few years a resident of Toronto, is the composing room chief of the Toronto Star and Times of Brockville, Ont., on Saturday last, in connection with that firm to accept a position in Kingston, Ont. He was presented with an address and a Gladstone travelling bag by Leonard Hill, superintendent of the plant, on behalf of the members of the staff.

Miss Catherine Eden of Toronto is the guest of her sister, Mrs. R. B. Grose, Cedar Street.

Mr. Robert Burton of Perron, Que., spent the long weekend with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Dafoe, 24 Catherine Street.

Sir John C. Puddister of St. John's, Newfoundland, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Semple on Monday.

30 YEARS AGO

May 31st, 1930

The Rev. A. N. Wilson of Napanee was elected president of the Bay of Quinte Conference Epworth League today.

The Redeerville Road is being paved and the work will be commenced shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Owen have removed to their home in Rochester, N.Y., after visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. King in this city.

Dr. D. Young of Walkerville, Ont., was a visitor with Mr. and Mrs. T. Orr.

Miss Dorothy Smith Bramhall and Dorothy Craig spent the weekend in Kingston.

Mr. Fred Curry of Madoc was a visitor in town today.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Gervin, Church Street, have returned home after attending the Knights of Colubcus State convention in Kingston.

40 YEARS AGO

May 31st, 1920

The family home of Taylor was here in the beginning of Belleville. John Taylor, one of the United Empire Loyalists, came here soon after the first settler John Singleton and from the latter purchased Lot 8 lying east of where John Street now is. His son was the late Sheriff Taylor. The members of this family for several generations took a deep interest in the affairs of the community, but most of them have sildled down of recewd away. The East Hill was called Taylor's Hill after the family.

Mr. W. D. Robb, vice-president of the G.T.R., and formerly of Belleville, has been appointed by the Dominion Government as a member of the committee of management of the Canadian National Railways of the G.T.R. and the C.N.R. in one government system.

50 YEARS AGO

May 28th, 1910

The Board of Education has decided to ask the City Council for the sum of $50,000 to be used in the erection of a collegiate institute in this city. The board was not unanimous in the matter as nine voted for the motion and four against it. The motion was introduced by F. E. O'Flynn and was seconded by C. W. Rickell.

At a meeting of Belleville Lodge I.O.O.F., the following was appointed delegates to attend the Grand Lodge in Toronto this coming August: L. C. Pearce, R. Hannam and S. A. Barclay.

Mr. J. Fraser, who was train master here with the G.T.R. for some time, but of late stationed at Toronto, has been appointed Western Superintendent of the Grand Trunk, with headquarters at Winnipeg.

Riot Victims Shot in Backs

Windsor Star

Medical evidence can be misleading sometimes. That has been proved in many a court of law.

It is apt to be so in the court of world opinion also in reference to the shooting down of Negroes at Sharpeville in South Africa on March 21. Hilgard Muller, district surgeon of Johannesburg has testified that autopsies on 23 of the dead revealed 70 per cent of the bullets hit victims in the back.

The official version of the shooting is that the Negroes were in an angry mood (as possibly they were) and were advancing on the police. Perhaps they were but, if so, they soon took to their heels. The medical evidence shows most were shot from behind while in flight.

This suggests the police kept shooting even after the alleged danger had passed.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

AN UPSIDE DOWN WORLD

The accusation made against the Christians of the first century was that they had come the world upside down. This accusation was correct. That was exactly what they had done, and they continued to do so for two more centuries.

But of all the accusations made against the Church today, one is the most ridiculous that Christians are turning the world upside down. Usually it is hard to distinguish a church member from a non-church member. We have passed through two world wars, and the Christian Church has not only been unable to prevent them; it has, as a matter of fact, not even tried. We live in a world that is fast being turned upside down, but the Church is not doing the turning.

Two generations ago the New York City clergyman, Dr. Parkhurst, began his fight on Tammany Hog prison and dealt political corruption a severe blow. Another was a Christian nursing the world upside down. When John Wesley was born, England was in the midst of a vast moral decline; when he died, he and his associates had raised the moral tone of the whole English-speaking world. Dwight L. Moody, a layman, led 100,000 people into active Christian experience.

These all turned the world upside down. But what about you and me? How much are we doing today to keep the good work

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

SOME PEOPLE SEEM TO BE NATURAL WORRIERS

"Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has high blood pressure, and sometimes he has doctored it for two years and it goes down when he takes tranquilizers. A complete physical examination last week disclosed no reason for the trouble and the doctor says it comes from tension. Is there anything he can be helped through diet? — Mrs. L.N."

I doubt it unless, of course, he is overweight, in which case dieting is likely to be of some real help, although it probably won't be the entire answer.

Tension — which gives every indication of being a very important factor in blood pressure for some patients — seems to have little if any relation to diet.

It is, rather, based on the individual's emotions, his attitude toward life. Some people seem to be naturally worriers. Let them again, maybe some people worry and feel tense because they have got into the habit of worrying. And never have taken the time to ask themselves: "What is worry? Is the fretting I do really helping anything? Is worrying over nothing?"

Since the advent of the tranquilizers, we at last have a drug (or a variety of drugs) which will help many people to do just that, they are artificial. They don't change the individual's basic attitudes. This be done for himself.

Habit, I think, is probably one of the most important of all human characteristics. Indeed, it may well be that (for better or worse) habit become victims of habit. Isn't it possible that some of the so-called "warlike nations" are the ones that are warlike only because, as nations, they have gotten into the long-term habit of thinking in a certain way?

Habit — that of eating too much, of worrying, of being lazy, of being bossy or of being kind and gentle, of being friendly or remote — is something we can change if we want to change and if we recognize that we have a habit. But usually we don't even recognize things as habits.

No, don't expect a change in habit to change a way of thinking. Rather, change the things that belong to Caesar. Do that in the mind of things that spring from the mind.

Ask your husband to read this carefully and see if, in his good sense, he can't begin to observe that tension is something that springs from his thinking, from his attitudes, and can be changed only by going to the source of his thinking.

Yes, I know it's not easy. But see if he's interested in pursuing the matter in this way. Let me know, oh, say a year from now, whether he can see some results.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What about vitamin pills for a diabetic? I drink a little beer, wine, etc., in moderate amounts. My question is taking insulin. —W.R."

Vitamins have nothing to do with glandular disorders needs vitamins, he should take them.

As to the wine or all will contain sugar — especially the beer. If you want to know what I think you mean. Therefore, anyone with diabetes is much better off to avoid drinking alcoholic drinks.

* * *

Note to W.R.: I know, at least one case in which a child had nephritis and his identical twin did not. You certainly have no reason to think that because a child fell victim to the disease, that other children are going to have it, or even likely to. You have my sympathy for yourself by needless worry.

TODAY'S TALK

KEEP A NOTEBOOK

Many of our best thoughts wither away before give birth. They need only a little more tenderness in the matter as nine noted for the modern art of book and jot down your thoughts therein for future development. Many great ideas are lost through neglect.

Often I take up that stimulating "Samuel Butler's Notebook." Others, too, have found this book one to stimulate any mind. We are of a family and ought to help one another improve all we can. Perhaps this will be the bill for each one of us. It helps to breed ideas. Try it.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

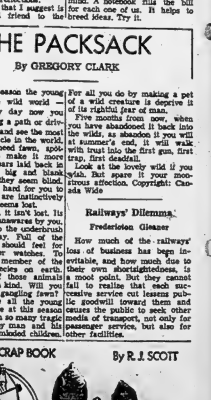
It is at this season the young are born in the wild world of land, beast, bird and fish and might be walking a path or driving a back road and see the most charming spectacle in the world — a little, knock-kneed fawn, apparently too tough to make it more than a mouthful for the wolf, if as much, and yet so fragile that a single well-placed kick from a lawful terror it should feel for the rest of its natural life. Or her, you are a member of the most dread species on earth, you do not chase animals and that kills its own kind. Will you spare a little pudding fawn?

Spare it. Spare all the young creatures at this time of season of the year, when so many tragic pets are made by man and his not yet half-civilized children.

For all you do by making a pet of a wild creature is deprive it of its lawful place in life.

Five months from now, when you have your fawn, it will run to the wilds, as abandon it you will if summer's end, it will walk with its head down, a little thin, a little dejected, a little less fit for the struggle.

Then it will surely wild if you wish. But spare it your moonlight protection. Copyright: Canada Wide



Railways' Dilemma

Fredericton Gleaner

How much of the railways' loss of business has been inevitable, and how much due to their own shortsightedness, is a moot point. But they cannot fail to realize that such successive service cut-leaving public goodwill toward them and causes the public to seek other media of transport, not only for passenger service, but also for other facilities.

A Lift for Living

Thinking About Our Freedom

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

In this year 1960 we in the U.S. are focussing our eyes on outstanding events, the Summit Conference and the election of our national leaders. In preparing for both there has developed much bitterness. We deplore certain recent incidents in both the international and domestic scenes. Nevertheless, the right of a great nation choosing its officials by free and secret ballot is a heartening spectacle in a world as tense as ours. The Kremlin has also been dropping and appointing leaders, but not by vote of the people.

The criticisms hurled at America by the Soviet Union and her satellites have at least one irrefutable answer. We allow our people to pick their leaders. The Kremlin clique tries to deceive the Orient by picturing Russia as the liberator and America as the oppressor, but we are demonstrating that our rulers are not irresponsible dictators like Politburo but leaders answerable to the sovereign people.

When the citizens of our nation express their will through a majority vote, such a vote is the sovereign voice of the people. Yet the sovereign people when it inaugurates a new president or governor, requires him to take an oath or affirmation with hand on the Bible, symbolizing thereby that he holds his power under the dominion of a divine authority. And when our Congress convenes to represent our people in the making of laws, its sessions are opened with prayer invoking the wisdom of a Divine Lawmaker. Moreover, our Constitution explicitly sets aside certain areas of freedom, such as that of conscience, in which the citizen is responsible directly to God alone. Thus our so-called sovereign people recognize the supreme sovereignty of God.

THINK ABOUT THIS

I wonder if we Americans quite realize what it would be like to live in a land where a dictator had the last word, where there was no appeal to the general public conscience, where there was no looking up to a Divine Source of right and justice. We should think about this until it sinks into our hearts.

When we salute our "flag we now say, "One nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all." In this act of allegiance we pledge ourselves to preserve the unity of our nation. It must not be divided by sectional interests, sectarian bigotry or racial barriers.

When we enter our polling booths to cast secret ballots, we are free from intimidation by others. But we must rise by to keep our minds free from narrowing self-interest and blinding prejudice. As citizens of a "nation under God" we must vote for the greatest good of the greatest number. No government can see into the polling booth, but God can.

The framers of our Constitution believed in the separation of church and state. We must safeguard this basic principle. We want no religious pressure groups tampering secretly or openly with our governmental machinery. But every person who believes in God should be guided by that belief in all his political activities.

How our confidence in the summit conferences of our international leaders would be heightened if all the heads around the table were openly moved to bow before the God of the Ten Commandments and the Beatitudes.

A NEW OCCUPANT

At the beginning of next year the White House will have a new occupant. But, the American Constitution will continue and the basic principles of liberty and justice will abide. But what if Mr. Khrushchev were demoted? Such is the tragic uncertainty of dictatorships.

When Lincoln lay dying a tense crowd had gathered waiting for word as to the outcome. Finally when the fatal news was flashed, James A. Garfield went out on the balcony and shouted to the throng, "God reigns and the government at Washington still lives." Such is the stability of a free "nation under God."

Today, the lines are drawn around the earth between two vast power blocs. One is led by the Soviet Union, which officially declares itself a godless nation. The other bloc is led by nations like the United States, Great Britain, Canada and France which call themselves Christian nations. The world is now watching to see what difference there is between the conduct of nations which call themselves godless, and that of those which recognize God. For the first time in history, on a world scale and advance on a scale never before approached.

JANZEN — BONNY

Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, Belleville, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday, May 14, at 4.00 p.m. when the Reverend Gordon Woodcock united in marriage Isabel Margaret Bonny of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bonny, to Dr. Elmer Arthur Janzen, of Laird, Saskatchewan. Chrysanthemums and pastel-tinted snapdragons adorned the altar, and lighted tapers and white satin ribbons marked the guest pews.

The bride's organist, Mr. William Connor, rendered the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Ivan Rollins, as she sang, before the ceremony, "The Wedding Prayer" and "O Perfect Love". During the signing of the register, Mr.

The bride, charmingly lovely in her bridal gown of white silk organza, fashioned on fitted princess, with scoop neckline outlined with Alencon lace, and sheath-like sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists, with ballerina-length skirt, was led in marriage by her father. She wore a lace-and-pearl headdress of real pearls and bridesmaid sequins, carried a cascade of white carnations and stephanotis mingled with trailing ivy.

The bridesmaid, Miss Ann Alexander, of Guelph, was gowned in orchid taffeta with organza in street-length, featuring a pleated insert in bodice front, and full skirt trimmed with Swiss embroidery of same material. She wore a headdress of orchid chrysanthemums, and carried a small cascade of similar white pompoms.

Mr. Erwin Janzen, of Laird, Saskatchewan, attended as the groom's brother.

The bridegroom, wife Dr. John Alexander, of Guelph and Dr. Leonard Anderson of Norval, Saskatchewan, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Club Room, at Hotel Quinte, where the mother of the bride, wearing a sheath of beige Chantilly lace over aqua organza, with beige accessories and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses, received. Assisting in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, who also wore a dress-length of pale green silk over weave mesh, with white accessories, and corsage of white carnations.

The bride's table was appointed in the traditional manner with white damask, centired with an all-white three-tier, pillared wedding cake, flanked by silver candelabra with tall white candles; the bridal bouquets adding a further lovely nuptial accent.

For travelling through the Adirondack Mountains, the bride chose a beige-toned Irish-linen suit, with matching hat in turquoise hat and gloves, light beige accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

Out-of-town guests were present from Laird and Craik, Saskatchewan; Elkhart, Indiana, Sarnia, Hamilton, Toronto, Norwood, Ottawa and Wilson, New York.

The bridegroom's parents, prior to her marriage, by a shower given by the Commercial Department Girls of the Bell Telephone Company.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Ontario Veterinary College, Guelph.

Dr. and Mrs. Janzen will reside at Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan.

Two worms sat chatting under the trees in a lovely garden. One noticed ants rushing to and from their hill. She began telling them about the intriguing habits of the ants. One of the worms in the nearer listener enquired about the source of her well-founded knowledge. She told him that she and the narrator said that her mother had introduced her children early in their lives to the wonders of the animal kingdom.

She told of the long walks she and her sister had in the woods and enjoyed with their mother. She said that they were a bright summer morning the family would pack a lunch and wend their way to a favorite spot near their home. They would trudge cool paths cushioned with pine needles, explore the undergrowth, gather unusual wild flowers and watch the birds.

She spoke of the constant absence of her dad, his father from the home; of his addiction to alcohol; of the poverty her family endured.

She said:

"We were ashamed of our poor clothing. Our lack of the bare necessities of life barred us from the parties and gatherings enjoyed by other children in the locality where we lived. Had we not had a brave, sensible mother we would have been sorry, neglected, wayward children and bitter, blundering young adults.

Our mother realized that Mother Nature had provided an exciting panorama for adventurous young hearts. Delving into the inexhaustible storehouse of natural beauty in our vicinity helped quench our thirst for adventure and helped curb our restlessness.

As Anonymous said some-where near the year 1350, "Summer is brumen in." And in the year 1960 we add—"We hope." With it has been the hottest Mayflies in great numbers due, probably, to the wet weather. This is all, black fluff that gets into the city as they did a few years ago. They do no harm but they will take a piece of flesh right out.

We understand that there are a few areas in the world that are not bothered by mosquitoes, but flies seem to be everywhere. It was stated in a New Zealand publication recently that there were 234 known species of fly in that country and we are sure only as a point of national pride, that we can claim as many. What a danger the fly is, though, transmitting as it does up to 30 serious diseases. Flies collected in a slum area have been found to carry an average of 3,683,000 bacteria on the outside of their bodies and these are simple to transfer to food.

But the vision of an insect-infested summer at home, at the holiday house or in camping is not as bad as it used to be and with extra care, can be almost eliminated. Everything on ointment or specially prepared paper to kill flies, mosquitoes away and by pressing the valve on one of the many aerosols on the market you can cleanse your house of flies, mosquitoes in one of its rest. There are many brands of aerosol, some with two types—the knock-down and eventually kill and the residual action type which does not have the same effect. A solen-tape which is put on the door or ones as not as good as the first. They have tens amounts of the killing agents.

Over a period of years flies become resistant to certain various types of insecticides. For this reason, new and stronger solutions are required. Beware too of insecticides which contain DDT as recent investigations health authorities say are not recommended for use indoors as proved and which should not be permitted in public places, during holiday and camping pests, keep refuse in containers with proper-fitting lids. Clean up rubbish around. Make sure that sanitary arrangements are kept spic and span.

minds and hearts were always filled and satisfied with rich food. Her children grew strong and more deeply into God's miraculous and astounding outdoor world, rounded in colour and thirst for good music and provided a sanitary background as for the arts and sciences.

We haunted the library in the small town adjacent to our home. Books filled with the lore of birds and animals and of life and of another wondrous world, the world of profound and excellent literature.

Our deeply - planted love of God's beauty and wonder never lakes beckoned, us gradually to love very well the author of such wonder and loving worship. Our wise mother knew that God's language could make new friends more for enlightened eyes in this great and glowing universe, would stabilize and rejuvenate the green, wind-blown plant of youth.

Brushing shoulders with Nature seemed like placing our hands in the hand of God. It was an experience more sacrosanct to him to touching the garment of the blessed Man of Nazareth. (Mark 5:27).

Do you want him to be a woodland saint?

Courageous and stalwart and gentle and mild?

Let him walk in the forest with fern for a bed

And a broad leaf canopy over his head?

Do you want him to be a lad reaching for

True diamonds of happiness that like a star

Has he treasured a flower and loved a bright bird?

Have the beauties of Nature his boyish heart stirred?

Then, girls, God's mountains, lakes and blue skies,

He'll be staunch and valiant and loving and wise;

He'll be a good son, kindly, noble and true;

He'll be honest, God-fearing, a man thru and thru.

Mrs. L. Blaker announced that annual report of Ladies' Auxiliaries be made out and sent to the secretary, Mrs. A. Abbey, 86 Dufferin St., Belleville. Before past presidents pins may be ordered, they must be signed for by the president of the executive board. The executive board stands to help Auxiliaries in any way possible. Mrs. Blaker also suggested to the mothers to train their boys to be self-reliant for meetings such as having clean underwear and also train them to have good manners such as respect for their leaders. It was suggested that Mrs. McDonald who is publicity chairman for executive board has consented to be Uniform Chairman. Badges are available for the West Hill district, and the Auxiliaries were asked to give full support.

Mr. L. Leonetti extended a hearty welcome to the ladies on behalf of the Scouts.

A lively sing-along was led by Cornelia Hogeboom, Mrs. Leard's trio, Mr. Allcorn, Mr. Leggat, Mrs. Dunning and Mrs. Leonetti "You, Ladies".

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. F. Delahorpe introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Mrs. Ben Burley, whose topic was "Agents at Wholesalers' Mercy". Mrs. Burley spoke on the subject of buying co-operation of hotels and carriers now would be at the mercy themselves out by chunks then tool individually with johnny-one-notes do business with the coaches..

All this sounds as if there are a lot of parties of the second, third, and et cetera parts in your life, and there are. Normally, however, this shouldn't add to your bill, for you will be attending on a group or package tour and so the wholesaler has some service charges hidden in the prices of the tour. You are billed up your room and sightseeing no your own. You can pay on your own. The bundle should come to you at a fixed price.

It's with the independent travellers that tables are turned. The lady in the letter wants, that wholesalers seem to have evolved to meet the needs of travellers, particularly this whopping group in Europe. In fact, one probable reason she hasn't had any satisfaction yet is that the wholesalers to whom the agents likely referred her query are busy booking tours for that ultimate ducks determined to go to Europe this year regardless of cost.

A couple we know mapped out a European trip with an independent agent, added up the costs and arrived at a figure as indicated in various guides, estimated service charges, padded the total a little for the inevitable gouging in some areas, and figured it would come to "X" dollars. The agent turned over the plan to two wholesalers for implementing.

Each came back with elaborately detailed itineraries at gaudy-sounding and ringer-ridden as a television pitchman's spiel (drive "through" famous Piccadilly Circus and "by historic Westminster Abbey"). Their prices were, respectively, 35 and 50 per cent more than our friends' wildest nightmares, with no breakdown of individual items. They wouldn't dare disclose it was more serving more than anything else.

Many agents we know have been chagrined lately by this wheeling and dealing on the parts of some wholesalers. Anyone planning to create the impression should get from an agent an "X" dollar trip. They don't add up, the agent should be able to get you another deal, or perhaps carrier and hotel space alone if you've planned far enough in advance, and you can save a bundle shopping when you get there.

Any respectable agent will side with you in your resistance to overpaying. Only when the public is given more choice can such advantage-taking be stamped out.

Dr. Edna Moore Visits City

Dr. Edna Moore, formerly director of Public Health Nursing for the Province of Ontario and now consultant to the Red Feather agency committee in connection with the study survey of Community Nursing Registries, paid her first official visit to Belleville this past week.

Dr. Moore is employed by the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario, who is conducting these exploratory visits throughout the province.

While here, she interviewed health and welfare organizations in the city including: Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson, Red Cross Homemaker Service; Mr. G. Whitehead, Red Feather Welfare; Dr. McColl Metcalfe, Dept. of Health; Mrs. Hilda Wilson, president of the Hastings and Prince Edward Medical Association; Mrs. Ruth Bowerman, nursing, and Mr. W. Daschuk, supervisor, Provincial General Hospital, as well as the director associations of Belleville and Belleville Community Nursing Registry.

The provincial committee on Nursing Registries is now considering the following:

1. The type of service rendered by professional nursing registries to the community.

2. The organization of registries—this involves a study of the most economical means of securing personnel, maintaining of records, registry personnel, budgeting of registries, and methods of suggestions for sources of revenue.

3. Recommendations as to the future...Registered Nurses' Associations policies with regard to registries.

Dr. Moore was pleased to learn that Belleville Community Nursing Registry supplied a Senior Nursing Service nurse to the Victorian Order of Nurses, the Canadian Red Cross Outpost Society, the Canadian Cancer Society and the Red Cross Homemaker service given to patients in the home and hospital. There is also a nurse employed by the registry in the home helping them to locate a practical nurse. Emergency staff calls are filled by this nursing registry as well as Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. Ketcheson and Miss Campbell, director of the Belleville Registry for the efficient manner in which it operates and expressed the hope that it would continue to serve as an exemplifying health organization to this community.

GAME OF BUSINESS

"The play's the thing"—Shakespeare.

Though her busy schedule leaves little free time, TV and radio personality Faye Emerson's favorite pastime is working crossword puzzles. Secondly she enjoys "playing Scrabble Erotic ones," she says. "Professionally, they keep me on my toes and personally, I find them fascinating and fun to do."

"But, what do you find time?" she was asked.

"Oh," she answers, "in many odd moments, while riding buses, trains or planes or taxis, part of it at bed time, just before going to sleep."

Faye Emerson's interest is by way of pointing out the part games play in the modern science. Due to the elements of fun and exercise, people now actually consider games along with daily routine; be they dominos scrabble, puzzles, monopoly, cards, chess, checkers, darts and so on. One player pays a rubber of bridge each evening right after dinner, an ex-ever-ready bridge player up in the living room. Medical and educational writers have long agreed upon the value games have in maintaining physical and mental fitness. Many of us, no doubt, remember with a smile the colored sticks used in kindergarten to computed difficult sums like arithmetic. For ever grateful are we that so grim a task could be made attractive as well as educational.

Probably it may be assumed that some such recollection induced Dr. Calvin C. Potter, associate professor of mathematics at McMaster University, to educationally combine business with pleasure in his classes in commerce and finance — by means of a game.

But why? Entertainment or amusement is the last consideration which any student has time for while being instructed in accounting, statistics, finance, marketing and statistics. Where does a game qualify in it?

Claims Dr. Potter: "Unlike previous students, the present undergraduates do not have many ways in which to practice what they have learned. They still lack that important skill — sound business judgment which is acquired only through experience in solving practical situations. The business game may be part of the answer."

Developed in 1956 by a Boston business consultant, Mr. G. R. Andlinger, McMaster is one of the first Canadian universities to use this game (somewhat similar to "Monopoly") which serves as a sort of counterpart to vault in the bar abstract economics. It consists of two forms: the "Business Management Game" in which probability tables are used to obtain the results of play and the "Computer Game" which makes use of the university's digital computer.

5 - 8 are played in teams or "companies" comprised of four or five students in each. The companies are given an equal start in terms of support cash on hand, inventory, production, accounts receivable and number of salesmen. New decisions must be made in production, pricing, marketing research, plant expansion within periods of certain time limits. The game may take two years and a half operating experience is compressed into two and a half hours. The results are compared in the competition. Records of players thus fairly appraised.

This novel instrument of learning has been widely accepted in American universities and recently teams from Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Maryland, Toronto, Western, Tulane and Virginia competed in New York City. A captain in a New York daily read: "Empire topples in a day as students learn how to run companies." One observer remarked, "When it's over, they're sorry it's over."

So far Canadian students have great enthusiasm for this new teaching method and whole heartedly approve it. Said one: "This is an ideal way to put theory into practice, but it's hard to think what it would be like if we were using real money."

The test the efficacy of different accounting methods under varying market conditions, business men could use the game as a research device," declares Dr. Potter. Not only are plans being made to give Hamilton business men an opportunity to play at business," but notice has already been posted that a management seminar is to be held during which versions of the business game will be used. And the fee? $28.00.

A reception indeed, that experience, whatever it form never comes cheaply.

Believigentre: "Would it not be an excellent idea to have excursions through a university for high school students prior to Grade 12?" asks a Belleville mother. "I know of one boy who was taken through an Ontario college, by kindness of a service club. It has changed his whole attitude toward education entirely; given him incentive, ambition and a will to get through Grade 13. 'I wouldn't want to miss that for the world,' he declares now of university life and study, of which he has had a glimpse. Just think he might not have had that glimpse."

North Hastings F.W.I. Holds 52nd Annual at Madoc

The 52nd district annual of the North Hastings Women's Institute was held in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, Madoc, on May 24th. The president, Mrs. George McWhinnon, called the meeting to order.

The Rev. J. Sinclair, pastor of St. Peter's, in his address of welcome, showed a sympathetic interest in the comfort of all present and a keen insight into the aims and ideals of the FWIO. He warmly welcomed all visitors and especially to beautiful St. Peter's Church.

Mrs. J. McLean of Detlor, replied on behalf of the members of the Women's Institute.

Following the reading of the minutes of the last district annual and the auditor's report, Mrs. McCrimmon reviewed the year as president. She had visited all 14 branches and noted some special features from each branch. She commended all and stressed the importance of mixing music and laughter with the more serious business of every meeting. Mrs. McCrimmon also advised the members to make good and frequent use of bank books and loan libraries.

LETTERS READ

Two letters were read by the secretary, one was from the East Hastings F.W.I. and the other, North Hastings would be interested in joining them in entering or independently catering at the ploughing match in 1962. This was left for thought and later discussion. Another letter was from Wellman's W.A. asking that, as the United Church Women's Conference was always held the third week in May, could the W.I. have its district annual meeting another week. It was decided that the W.I. hold the annual in the first week in June, and the motion carried, pending ratification by the home economist.

Mrs. Sherman Foster, representative of the Federated Women's Board, brought greetings from the Provincial Board and gave some highlights of the Board meeting.

At the fall Board a motion was passed "that the F.W.I.O. celebrate the 100th anniversary of the nation in 1967 by undertaking a project to start now and work towards its culmination in showing an increase of 50 per-cent in educational, health, social and trained teacher, for retarded children."

STILL USE RAW MILK

In a nutrition survey of rural homes recently, it was found that a high percentage are still using raw milk. This is deeply deplored, especially since unusually priced pasteurizing equipment is now available. An Eat to Live program is being promoted in an effort to improve nutrition practices in the home.

The W.I. is no longer a farm women's club and all branches are urged to obtain new members. The Board Director, Mrs. R. H. Trotter, is interested in Juniors and was their programs to be encouraged in every way. All branches are asked to make a special study of British West Indies, the present A.C.W.W. member.

As a result of last fall's Tely Milk Fund drive, which was also a W.I. project, one million pounds of dry milk was sent to underprivileged countries.

A sing-song, conducted by Mrs. Ken Nicol, was followed by reports of standing committees. The morning session was closed by short, but lovely memorial service by Mrs. A. J. Broadworth.

As Mrs. Allan Franks sang the closing hymn, a basket of flowers in memory of the six deceased members was placed on the altar by Mrs. L. Trotter.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The afternoon began with a sing-song and then a "hat parade" by Cooper - Remington ladies.

Miss Hamilton, from the Home Economics Branch for Extension Services, was then a speaker and gave a most informative address. She explained that the purpose of extension work is to help women and girls, as home makers to help themselves to create self direction; to teach skills and problem solving; to develop independence and satisfaction.

Each year some new feature is added to the old program so that homemakers may have up-to-date and still retain the best of the old ways.

She explained the purpose of training schools available in each district and the short courses for leaders. She urged the W.I.s to invite all women whether members or not to attend so far as they can be accommodated. She also explained the many duties of the staff members who, as a part of their work, arrange and compile pamphlets, bulletins tape recordings and loan libraries. These are available, free to all branches or members and frequent use of these services is recommended.

The roll call of branches was responded to by each president giving a one minute speech on the theme, "Take Time to Live and Enjoy the Little Things." McArthurs Mill's branch had the highest percentage of membership present and received the attendance prize.

As this is Madoc branch's 50th anniversary, an interesting history of its organization and growth was read by Mrs. C. G. Hinds.

A solo by Miss Lynn Armstrong and humorous readings by Mrs. Ken Nicol, Mrs. Art Sylaton and a member from McArthur Mills were interspersed through the program, joining the serious with music and laughter, as the president had suggested.

Miss Beverley Ketcheson of Queensborough Girls' Club gave a splendid demonstration of the club project "Meat, its selecting, cooking and serving".

Miss Jayne Gay, of Ivanhoe, reported the Guelph Conference, which was held early in May, dealt chiefly with duties of the Public Relations Officer. As this is still a new office it was especially interesting to hear it so comprehensively explained. Publicity and relations proves that the key to success is the ability to communicate.

It is important to have ideas and to be able to express them.

The W.I. re-elected its officers and should encourage better home making practices and help to develop a sense of responsibility for rural women.

The slate of new officers was presented by Mrs. Rex Rollins and Mrs. Sherman Foster. The new executive is as follows:

EXECUTIVE

Mrs. McCrimmon referred back to the letter regarding at the ploughing match and because of the distance between branches in the district, it was decided not to apply to cater.

The resolutions were read and sustained: that since margarine is not a dairy product, it should not be displayed on grocery shelves with dairy products; that letters not signed be placed in waste paper or the same as is done on Hansard.

Mrs. Gordinier of Springbrook, read the courtesy report and the convention closed.

Explorers Hold M-D Banquet

WELLINGTON — The 'Explorers' of the United Church held their annual Mother and Daughter banquet in the Sunday School rooms on Friday evening. About 70 explorers and their mothers and members of the staff sat down to a lovely dinner about 7 p.m.

After the dinner, Mrs. Dart, guest speaker, gave a most fine talk on "The Explorers' Prayer".

The affiliation service with the W.M.S. took place. Miss Sharon McNeill favored with a delightful piano solo and Cathy Hawkins and Judy Phillips followed by the 'Star' ceremonies.

The councillors of the Explorers wish to thank all those who helped prepare the banquet and also Mr. Hartwick who supplied the ice cream.

BEDEEMER CHURCH L.A.

DESERONTO — The regular monthly meeting of the church of the Redeemer Ladies' Aid was held on the evening of May 12th at the home of the president, Mrs. Max Lash, Green St.

The ladies of the congregation from Camden East were guests for this meeting and 21 ladies were present.

The meeting opened with the reading of the secretary-treasurer's report by Mrs. R. Stevenson. There was a short business discussion and it was decided to hold the June meeting at Woodbine Quinte Park and the date for a picnic table would be decided later.

The devotional period opened with the singing of a hymn followed by Scripture reading 1 John;3-11 by Mrs. B. Moore. Mrs. Lush read two poems entitled "Who Are Excused", and "The Kingdom that Endures", following with prayer which included special prayer, at this time, for one of the members, Mrs. Walker.

Mrs. Sloce contributed some informative remarks regarding the Mission work of the church in Africa, India and Formosa, and stressed the need for more trained workers.

A card was read from Miss Myrtle Johnston, who is presently in Jamaica.

Mrs. Lush introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. MacKay, who opened her talk with prayer and entitled her remarks', The Healthy Christian". She stressed the need of a deeper understanding of Christian living, bringing out that we today waste much material gifts and that complacency has taken the place and there is so much need for prayer in daily lives for the sound faith which is the basis for christian living.

Mrs. Geddes moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. MacKay for her most inspiring address.

Mr. Robinson of Camden East was present at the meeting to introduce the ladies for their enjoyable evening.

Following the benediction, the hostess served refreshments and a pleasant hour was enjoyed.

Wife Buying on Payment Plan Booms in New Guinea

By ALAN RAMSEY

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (Reuters) — Buying wives on a form of time payment plan is booming among the 2,500 natives of the village of Hanuabada, on the outskirts of Port Moresby.

First — also the last — cost as much as the equivalent of $1,120 while the average daughter brings in about $670.

An all - time record of $2,240 was/demanded by a father for the father of one comely native last summer.

The cost of a wife is borne not only by the husband but by the whole of his clan. Every member contributes a share. And, says Charles Julius, an anthropologist with the Australian administration, "for the rest of his life, the husband is indebted to the members of his clan who helped pay for his bride."

"He does not actually have to repay the money. But he is expected to contribute to the cost of other marriages within his clan. Usually each member of the clan pays about $28, depending on how much he asked and how big the clan is."

REFUND ALLOWED

The purchase of brides for cash in Hanuababa, Papua-New Guinea's biggest native village, parallels the other main method of the exchange of gifts in which the husband pays the price of the bride in pigs, shells, stone axes, feathers or other native items.

In return, he gets his wife and a similar range of goods from his in-laws.

If the marriage is unsuccessful and the couple parts, each party returns the gifts.

"This custom is still widespread throughout the territory," said Julius, "it is only in Port Moresby and other centers where the European influence is strong that cash buying takes place. Here, the native has come to realize the value of European customs."

PARENTS DECIDE

Thirty years ago, a Hanuabada native could get a wife for about $224 for a wife. But values have soared since the Second World War.

The cost of a bride is decided by the parents of the two parties. The initial approach never is made by the son himself.

How much has to be paid depends on the bride," he says. "As a result, there is a vicious chain of debt in which everyone is indebted to everyone else."

TAKE PRECAUTIONS

Prompt medical attention to prevent disease in childhood will guard against possible deafness in later years.

River Valley Women's Institute Observes Fiftieth Anniversary

By MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

RIVER VALLEY — On Monday afternoon 106 ladies gathered at River Valley school house on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of River Valley Women's Institute.

The school was suitably decorated with Institute colors and fruits, and spring flowers supplied by Mrs. Percy Craighead. A large bowl of fruit cake made by the oldest member, Mrs. Ira Tree, and her daughter Mrs. Ed Heasman, was displayed on a table along the west side of the west wall, and was flanked by silver candelabra containing white tapers. It was surrounded by a novel arrangement of 50 blue and-gold squat candles.

A purchased greeting card of carnations from the "Pink Institute" at Abbot' Leigh, Bristol, England, which opened to show several carnations, and a matching card of roses with a special message of gratitude-also from a past district president, Mrs. Louis Rodgers of Port Credit, were given prominent places on this table, along with a picture of the birthplace of the founder of Women's Institutes in Ontario, Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless.

MANY DISPLAYS

The River Valley Tweedsmuir History Book was displayed in the south of the room and at the north and were the 4-H Club girls' record books and other items of interest. There was also a small display of "Township link" items.

The leather-bound guest book sent as a gift by Abbots' Leigh W.I. in 1954, was used for registering the names of the guests.

The kitchen was decorated with baskets of lilacs and a centering plant lent by the secretary, and the long tables where places of refreshments were displayed, were centred with silver vases of yellow tulips and lilacs. A lovely kitchen mirror adorned the south wall of the kitchen. This was placed in loving memory of Mrs. Carman Frost of Frankford, by her husband, son, daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Phillips of Sidney township.

Mrs. Frost was a regular attendant at the River Valley activities and she will be greatly missed at R. W. I. gatherings.

Guests were received in the school lobby by Mrs. Roy Tucker, president of River Valley Women's Institute, and Mrs. Roy Bush, a past president of West Hastings district.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, public relations officer, was in charge of registration, which showed 32 members of River Valley W.I. and over 30 visiting guests from Chatterton, Wellman's, Stirling, and Pine Grove Institutes. Several former members were in attendance and included Mrs. Norman Rosebush, Havelock; Mrs. Harry Sheridan, Campbellford; Mrs. Charles Carter, Burnbrae; Mrs. Hugh Jones, Springbrook, and Mrs. W. Shortt, R.R. 3, Belleville.

The guests were seated by Mrs. Rose Holland and Mrs. Roy Irven.

PRESENT CORSAGES

Mrs. Ralph Utman and Mrs. Allan McDonell made artificial corsages of yellow and white with a streamer attached giving name and office, and they had the honor of pinning the corsages on the ladies as they arrived. The 18 so honored were: the president, Mrs. Tucker; secretary, Mrs. George Heasman; vice-presidents, Mrs. Vernon Herry and Mrs. Ernest Carr; district president, Mrs. Everett Phillips, Belleville; district secretary, Mrs. Harry Coulter, Pine Grove; past district secretary, Mrs. Harold Phillips, Foxboro; a past district president, Mrs. Roy Bush; district public relations officer, Mrs. Percy MacMullen; five life members, Mrs. Percy Utman, Mrs. John L. Donohoe, Miss Flossie Rosebush, and Mrs. John Kane, the oldest member, Mrs. Ira Pree; the flower convener, Mrs. Percy Craighead and Mrs. Ralph Utman, district director, and Mrs. Allan McDonell who were in charge of the decorating. Mrs. Jennie Donohoe was unable to attend due to illness.

The president, Mrs. Roy Tucker, was the capable chairman for the afternoon's proceedings, and welcomed the visiting Institutes and district officers.

Mrs. Ralph Utman officiated at the tea and all sang the "Institute Ode." Mrs. George Heasman led the assembly singing. Special mention was made of the five Life Members and others including Mrs. Mary Vanderwoort, a past district secretary, and a charter member, Mrs. Ina Free.

An "in memoriam" service followed when Mrs. Ernest Carr carried in a silver basket of white tulips and Mrs. Vernon Harry read an appropriate poem in memory of all the Institute members who have died during the past fifty years. The flowers were placed on a special table on the platform. Mrs. Jane Vance, Stirling, donated the tulips for the memorial.

The president read a special "Ode to River Valley Institute," and said the history would be presented in groups of 10 years, giving a brief glimpse of what had taken place over the past 50 years.

Mrs. Percy Utman was in charge of the first period — 1910 to 1930. She, Miss Flossie Rosebush, Mrs. John Kane, Mrs. Alex Bush with a visitor, Miss Maddy Fry of Toronto, as pianist, sang "Off to the Institute Meeting," and portrayed this period.

ORGANIZED IN 1910

The River Valley WI was organized in 1910 with 30 members and by 1920 they had a membership of 41. The first year showed total receipts of $9.85 with members fees at $6.75, and the expenses were 48 cents. They studied "Betterment of Their Homes," and during World War I, three members knit over 100 pairs of socks each. The "Maple Leaf" opened the meeting until 1911 when the "Institute Ode" was adopted. An autograph quilt at 10 cents a name, added to the funds. An old photograph album was displayed with pictures of several members and officers at that time. This skit closed with another song, "I'm Working in the Kitchen."

The officers for this period were: ist president, Mrs. Thomas J. Smith, for three years; followed by Mrs. H. McFaul, Mrs. W. H. Hanna, Mrs. Mary Vanderwoort, and Mrs. Edgar Morrow.

The secretaries were Mrs. W. H. Hanna, Miss Janet Smith (later Mrs. J. Sager), Miss Edith Bush, Miss Flossie Rosebush, Miss Fannie Heasman, and Mrs. Alex Bush.

Four ladies of Wellman's W.I. dressed as couples of long ago — Mrs. James Pollock, Mrs. Kenneth Tompkins, Mrs. George Watson, and Mrs. Fred Hockett — sang a medley of old familiar songs with Mrs. Craig Watson as pianist.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave a reading entitled "The Shaving of Jacob," which she had given at an Institute meeting in 1936.

DISPLAY FIRST RADIO

Mrs. Roy Bush was in charge of the second history period, from 1920 to 1930. Mrs. Bush displayed the first radio in River Valley in 1924 which was owned by Mr. Ernest Rosebush, a bridal dress of that period, and a variety of embroidered articles which had been part of a 1925 trousseau.

Mrs. E. C. Ray Hills gave a general outline of "Life in Canada in the 'Twenties." Mrs. Hunter Free read the list of officers as follows: presidents, Mrs. Bert Redford, Mrs. Clifford Barrager, Mrs. Frank Carr, Mrs. Norman Rosebush, and Mrs. W. H. Hanna. The secretaries were: Mrs. Alex Bush, Mrs. Percy Utman, Mrs. Earl Heagle, Miss Nellie Sharies, Mrs. Roy Bush, Mrs. Earl Morrow, Miss Gladys Rosebush, and Mrs. Clifford Lansing.

Mrs. Roy Bush described the institute's projects for school children such as providing hot lunches, first aid kits, swings on the playground, curtains for the stage, and cheesecloth dresses for drills. School fairs were at their peak and the mothers assisted with the preparations.

When Canada was sixty years old a special patriotic program was staged at the schools. In 1924 the ladies started to consider the idea of an addition to the school, and many years later it became a reality. In 1928 the first area convention was held in Belleville, and one of the members attended and gave a report. When the Stirling Community Hall was built, River Valley W.I. furnished a library table for the reception room, which is still in use.

Mrs. K. Tuinman and daughter, Miss Greta Tuinman of Chatterton W.I. sang "Memories" for Miss Marilyn Conley, River Valley, rendered a pianoforte solo.

The programme was entitled on the theme, "How to Economize in Your Home."

The names of the boys overseas who received parcels were read and mention was made of a River Valley boy, Richard Cloud, who was honored by royalty at Buckingham Palace.

MACK PARCELS

The president took the part of a school girl and helped to offer the parcels, along with Mrs. Blenn Bush. A large selection of socks and sweets wearing apparel was displayed.

The presidents of this period were: Mrs. Ryan Dunn, Mrs. Ross Bush, Mrs. Fred McDonell, Mrs. George Heasman, Mrs. Hugh Jones, Mrs. Edward Kent, and Mrs. Harold Morgan. The secretaries were: Mrs. Norman Rosebush, Mrs. W. H. Hanna, Mrs. J. L. Donohoe, Mrs. Fred Hanna and Mrs. Harold Morgan.

In February, 1950, the formal anniversary of River Valley W.I. was celebrated in Stirling Community Hall with a banquet for all the members of the Valley community, followed by a program and dance.

A valued member, the late Mrs. Clarence Chard, composed a song for this occasion and all those in attendance received a souvenir copy. The group closed their history period with this song.

Mrs. O. L. Clapper sang "There'll Always Be an Englan" with Mrs. R. E. Williams as accompanist. They represented Stirling W.I. group.

The last history period, from 1950 to 1960 was given by Mrs. Allan McDonell. Mrs. Mary Mullen gave a summary of the "Fabulous Fifties." West Hastings District annual was entertained twice in 1952 and 1959. Food parcels were sent to the "friendship" Institute" in England until 1955. Since that time Christmas gifts have been exchanged.

Five life members were given certificates from 1954 to 1959. In 1950 River Valley W.I. gave its share of approximately $150 in the district's project of equipping a room in Trenton General Hospital; also a share in the district memorial tile bath for Mr. Alfred Watt (founder of A.C.W.W.) at the Pesce Garden.

Drapes and cupboards were purchased for the school, also institute badges for all members. When a special "Coronation Day" tea was held there was a nylon flag was donated and souvenir gifts were presented to the pupils and teacher.

OUTLIVES ACTIVITIES

During the past 10 years the group has attended two 50th anniversaries, at Wallbridge and Wellman's Institutes. In 1952 River Valley W.I. entertained the three branches of the community hall and in 1957 they attended a surprise commemoration of the 50th anniversary of the birth of Institutes in Ontario. A C.W.W. film, "The Homes People Live In," was featured. In April, 1960, several members attended "Canada Day" at Ontario Agricultural College in Toronto and in June 1956 a group journeyed to Ottawa in honor of Miss Alice Berry, A.C.W.W. president.

Mrs. Ed. Heasman gave an outline of the "old calendar" when a new kitchen was built by the Institute, the men of the section installed a new heating plant. The kitchen has been bricked on the outside during the past year, and all debts are paid to-date. She thanked all who had given donations and said there were still several more jobs to complete in future.

Garden Notes

Plant Marigolds for Color, Bloom

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

For a long, long season of bloom nothing beats the Marigolds. Their height can range from four feet tall down to four inches in the tiny tagetes. The blooms may be like fat pincushions, with five inch blooms, look like carnations, buttonlike with crested centre and a double row of frilled petal or singles.

You can combine them with many other annuals for striking effect for borders or use them for a bright splash of color to keep the perennial border interesting.

An annual border should be lavish with big splashes of solid color and sharp contrast. Use the tall plants for background, the middle-size for the centre section and the dwarf types for the front border. Marigolds can fit in well in any of these areas.

For the background you might choose cracker jack with its five inch blooms and big compact plants or 36 inches tall. Most in the zenon is a lovely tall pale yellow, nearly white. It looks like large carnations. I planted this last year and will again. It has a long stem for cutting and bouquets and has no offensive odor. Other tall Marigolds are Orange Lemon and Primrose. Primrose does not let orange to light yellow. These are all hybrids of the African marigolds.

FRENCH MARIGOLDS

The French marigolds are dwarf and splendid for the centre section. They have a fine array of colors, mahogany, yellow and red to mahogany. Some have a yellow petal edged with a crimson of ruffled petals, still others have single blooms Fascination is a rayed type in deep red color. Tangerine is another same in color but lighter shade. Lemon Drop Pygmy is yellow, Scarlet Glow, compact plants suitable for edging.

The dwarf singles are bright and unusual, make good bedding material. Naughty Marietta is yellow with eight maroon spots ruffled red is eight inches tall with solid mass of bloom. Harmony is mahogany shade, yellow edge.

Dwarf Tagetes Ursula is six inches tall, single, bright yellow. A is eight inches tall, semi-double bright attractive foliage. Little Lulu is similar. Golden Gem, recommended for edging, very compact and free flowering.

Scabiosa, sometimes called Scotch marigolds have greatly improved under the hand of the hybridist now. Some are 36 to 40 inches tall, have bright orange or yellow contrasting colors. With long stems suitable for cutting. These have the same color of bloom and give an extra burst of bloom late in the summer when the garden is tired.

COMPANION ANNUALS

Now that we have some idea of the marigolds let us look at companion annuals in harmonizing or contrasting colors. Purple, blue, red, orange, yellow and white will harmonize well.

If you use tall yellow marigolds for the back row you might use blue ageratum, Salvia, Victoria blue in the middle row in purple, violet, coral and white. Ageratum, Alyssum, white or mixed colors would also look well for the centre section. Tall ageratum, in blue, Alyssum, larkspur in shades of purple and white or Phlox Drummondi, Salvia are other suitable plants.

For the front edge you might select one of the very dwarf marigolds of dwarf white, or Ageratum, bright blue, Lobelia, gem-se-not, Sweet Alyssum, in mixed or white. Dwarf Phlox in white edge is also good. Lobelia with its blue delights. Select the dark wire set mais almost a favorite.

Dusty Miller comes in dwarf and tall types. Select the dwarf for edging and use the taller type in the centre or accent groups in the mid-section. The combinations are endless but for a lively bright effect use the marigolds. They add vigor, long life and fine color.

TOBACCO LABOR SHORT

BRANTFORD (CP) — Tobacco planting in this district is being delayed by a labor shortage, farmers claim. The shortage is due to a heavy planting schedule. A National Employment Service official said help is available but the workers need transportation to the farms.

A. Tagoona First Eskimo To Be Ordained

TORONTO (CP)—A slim, gentle-mannered 36-year-old man is to day became the first Eskimo ordained into the Anglican priesthood.

Armand Tagoona was ordained by Rt. Rev. Donald H. Marsh, Anglican bishop of the Arctic, at a special ceremony at St. James Cathedral.

Installed as a deacon last year, Mr. Tagoona has been serving at Rankin Inlet on the west coast of Hudson Bay 1,000 miles north of Winnipeg.

About 50 Eskimos work at Rankin's nickel mine and Mr. Tagoona has serious thoughts of the effects of settlement and civilization on the lives of his people.

BACK TO HUNTING

Many Eskimos who have moved into settlements to work in the mine would like to be able to go back to hunting, trapping and fishing, he said, but lack of equipment prevents it.

Mr. Tagoona has no ready solution to the problem, likes of his people are unsure whether they prefer the old or the new, he said in an interview Thursday.

Eskimos enjoyed better health when they lived on west diet rather than on store food. Poorly constructed houses were another problem in settlements. Things were complicated because Eskimos are often seen too shy and too proud to keep on asking handouts of white man.

"They may ask once, and even twice, but to go back again and again . . . that is very hard for the Eskimo, who is a very shy person."

He said separation of tuberculosis patients from their families causes great unhappiness. Eskimos would like to see a hospital built in the Arctic.

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian conservation organizations and projects received $119,468 during 1959 from the profits of the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show and the Canadian Boat Show, President Frank F. Kortright said Thursday.

Looking North on Long Reach

This sketch was made looking northward towards the present town of Deseronto where the Mohawks landed May 24, 1784, under the leadership of their chiefs, John Deserontyou and Capt. Joseph Brant (Thayendanega) and originally known as "Indian Landing."

On the left is the High Shore of the Sixth of Sophiasburgh township. Along this the original Robilin's Mills were built by Philip Roblin. In addition to grinding grain, lumber, shingle and ship building enterprises were carried on for many years.

It was along here that the ancestors of Sir Rodmond Roblin first settled. Sir Rodmond was born in Sophiasburgh in 1853 and not only became Premier of Manitoba but is the grandfather of its present premier, the Hon. Duff Roblin.

In the distance to the left is Grassy Point, of Sophiasburgh, and near it in the centre is a low island of about 14 acres known as Capt. John's Island which was changed to Forrester's Island by the L.O.O.F. John Cuthbertson, a grandson of Capt. John Deserontyou, purchased it from John Sunday and other Mississauga chiefs for a cow and a yoke of steers.

To the right in Mohawk Bay are three small islands, the largest of which is called Hunger Island and contains about seven acres.

The steam boat in the foreground is probably either the Prince Edward or the Prince of Wales, both of which were built in 1821 and intended for the Bay of Quinte.

Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender announced Thursday that a provincial-municipal audit would take place in Eastview. The audit was requested in a petition of 58 Eastview ratepayers and residents.

The second was the Sept. 15, 1959, $1,000 sale of another vacant lot to Mrs. Y. Labelle, identified by municipal affairs department officials as the wife of the town clerk.

Ground CL-44s After Engine Fault Found

LONDON (CP)—The new Vickers Vanguard and Canadair CL-4 plane have been grounded following the discovery of a fault in the Rolls-Royce Tyne turboprop engines that power the aircraft, the seriousness of which the problem is not yet known, it is learned the Vanguard's entry into service may be delayed.

Trans-Canada Air Lines and British European Airways have ordered a total of 43 Vanguards. BEA was to be the first of the 130-passenger airliners into service July 1 on the London-Paris run.

The Canadair freighter has been ordered by the RCAF and some United States cargo lines. The CL-44 is a development of the Bristol Britannia.

A spokesman for Canadair in Montreal said Friday it has temporarily grounded its CL-44 on the recommendation of the United Kingdom Air Registration Board.

CRACKED DISC

The recommendation followed the finding of a cracked compressor disc on a Tyne engine being tested in England. The Tyne is the engine that powers the CL-44.

The engine is assembled in England and shipped to Canada for installation in the CL-44.

None of the planes are yet in use, though two have been completed and flown by the CL-44. Rolls-Royce says that the eight Vanguards already built will be suspended from flying.

A Vickers spokesman in London said: "We trust it is purely a temporary suspension."

The first TCA Vanguard made its maiden flight six days ago, and is scheduled for delivery in August.

Actress Got Out of Town With Silver Fox

NEW YORK (AP) — Exotic dancer Candy Kane has returned to Baltimore, Md., after a headline — making five-day visit with former Governor Earl Long of Louisiana.

Miss Kane, whose real name is Marcia Katz, told reporters Friday as she left town: "If I'd known it was to be like this, I'd never have come. I thought we'd see some plays, that's all".

She said Long saw her dance last week at a club in Baltimore and invited her to come here with him and his bodyguard, Dick Davis.

The visit resulted in these developments:

Miss Kane reported someone stole $240 from her hotel room last Tuesday. When six policemen arrived to investigate they discovered Davis carried a gun. Davis was permitted to retain the weapon after he insisted he was a special officer of the Louisiana state police.

Long complained to New York police commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy about Davis undisclosed charges regarding the investigating policemen.

A grand jury launched a probe ,but no results have been announced.

The 25-year-old Miss Kane said Long had given her 'a milk stole and a silver fox, but that after she appeared Thursday before the grand jury "he took my mink back".

So "I figured I'd better get out of town while I still have the fox".

Deposed Ruler of Turkey Once Stated He Would Never Be Known as Former Premier

ROME (AP) — Adnan Menderes, deposed 61-year-old premier of Turkey, once was widely quoted as saying: "I will never be a former premier".

Menderes had been in office for 10 years, and during the last five gave every evidence of intending to stay there—until Friday's coup by the leaders of the Turkish army.

The army took over after a series of student demonstrations against Menderes, his ruling Democrat party and their increasingly restrictive measures against the opposition Republican and the press.

In recent years the Menderes government also had curbed the independence of the Turkish courts and ordered their reappointment and retirement of many judges and prosecutors.

FIRST ELECTION

Menderes and his party came to power in 1950 in Turkey's first free, two - party election. They defeated the People's Republican party formed by the great Kemal Ataturk and then by Ismet Inonu, Ataturk successor as president, Ismet Inonu.

It was Inonu, now 76, who made the decision to permit the Democrat party was founded on Inonu's instruction to oppose his own party and bring two-party democracy to Turkey.

Menderes was one of the founders of the Democrats — along with Celal Bayar, present president of the republic, and Refik Koraltan, president of Turkey's one-house parliament, the grand national assembly.

Ironically, Menderes, Bayar and their party came to power on a platform opposing the same kind of restrictive measures that they themselves began to take five years later.

Menderes campaigned in 1950 against a strict press law that had put a number of Turkish journalists in jail. Three pro-Inonu paper men were elected to parliament on the Democrat ticket while in jail.

After election Menderes freed them and other journalists and abolished the press law.

But in 1953 Menderes' Turkey began to drift into serious economic difficulty, and the Turkish press turned from fairly general support for Menderes' policies to criticism.

This - skinned to criticism of any kind, the premier reacted harshly. His big majority in parliament pushed through a press law even more severe than the one he had abolished. Among other things, it provided prison terms for journalists who "undermined the prestige or position of the government or its leaders."

Scores of newspaper men have been arrested under the law. Many of them have been indicted and sent to prison.

Since 1955 economic conditions have improved in Turkey, partially due to U.S. and other foreign loans. But criticism of economic conditions in Turkey turned to criticism—in the press and in the Republican party—of the government's restrictive policies, often harshly enforced.

Menderes fought back a month ago by banning all normal political activity and establishing a parliamentary committee to investigate "unpatriotic activity" of the opposition Republicans.

This brought on the student demonstrations.

Northwestern Ont. Seeks Transportation Assistance In Briefs Before Commission

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—North-western Ontario today pleaded before the royal commission on transportation for help — lower freight rates, government freight subsidies or both—to ease heavy transport burdens in the massive, resources-rich region.

A series of briefs — all with somewhat the same theme—was presented to the commission's one-day session here, part of a nationwide investigation of Canada's prickly transportation problems.

Tents of the brief were released to the press in advance of delivery.

Spokesmen including two members of Parliament predicted a glowing future for Northwestern Ontario. The main sour note, illegal, is the high transportation cost throttling the great promises of the region of 312,000 square miles with 220,000 people.

There is a serious imbalance in the existing Canadian freight rate structure that is detrimental to the economy of Northwestern Ontario and a grave deterrent to the full realization of its immense potential," said the Northwestern Ontario Development Association representing 39 communities.

REVIEW RICHES

It portrayed the Lakehead area as a double-barrelled gate swinging open to the west and eastward to the ports and markets of the world, with its back door looking out on an empire of forests, minerals, soil and water.

"A serious handicap to increasing and diversifying secondary industry is the factor of distance separating our region from the populous market areas east and west," the brief said.

Opposing any further horizontal percentage increases in freight rates—on top of the 137 per cent granted in the last 12 years—it recommended that either special development rates be instituted or a government subsidy be granted to assist freight shipments to and from northern regions.

"Our mineral resources, especially in terms of iron ore, represent the messianic or siren song I wish to sing to you today," said Douglas Fisher, CCF member of Parliament for Port Arthur. He urged the commission to recommend "that either subventions, a b s i d i e s, developmental rates, ore tonnage bonuses— call them what you will — be guaranteed as a fillip to mining groups which are in or go into production."

DEMAND DISCRIMINATION

Robert Badanai, Liberal member of Parliament for Fort William, told the commission the Lakehead area suffers "patent discrimination" because many merchants and others pay more for their goods from factories in the area than do others as far away as Winnipeg.

"The present freight rate disadvantage was chiefly responsible for the removal of the bus manufacturing operation from the local plant of the Canada Car to Montreal," he said.

The present structure, he added, is responsible as well for the higher cost of living in the Lakehead than in other areas.

The joint transportation committee of the Fort William-Port Arthur Chambers of Commerce pleaded for development rates—or a subsidy—to open up the resources of the North, including Northwestern Ontario. It also condemned percentage boosts in freight rates.

MINISTER APPEALS

George C. Wardrope provincial minister of reform institutions who represents Port Arthur, told the commission schedule results when the railways increase rates in areas where competition is not keen enough to hold them down.

"Prolongation of this tendency can . . . be a grave impediment to growth, and so when the nature of the production and geographic location make reliance on rail transport essential."

The commission resumes hearings Monday in Ottawa.

STIRLING — They're versatile, clean-cut, good-looking, defeated but unbeaten and appreciative.

That's a capsule description of this village's bantam "C" puckchasers, collective guests of honor at a banquet here last night.

They can play hockey; have their own eight-piece orchestra; sport the latest thing in hair-do's (eight varieties!); make their own speeches, break records in food dispensing, and are truly grateful for what has been done for them.

In brief well-worded addresses they thanked their parents, their coach and their manager. They beamed their appreciation when they were presented with blue-trimmed white sweater coats complete with crests, the gifts of the management.

And they took it in fine spirit when a solid-gated guest speaker twitted them about their hair-do's. They carried the chairborne comedy they exhibited on the ice to the banquet table. They were well-mannered, well-behaved, and gave ample reason why their parents, team official and the village in general are proud of them.

Doug Patterson, CNMHA executive member of this village, chaired the banquet presentation affair. Geo. H. Carver, sports editor of the Ontario Intelligencer was the guest speaker.

Manager Paul Richards, who thought the glove "worked fine" in its first game trial, suggested the giant size Stirling with four wild pitches and his catchers with 11 passed balls in 18⅔ previous innings this season.

Two of the Baltimore catchers, Gus Triandos and Joe Gibbon, went into the record books by allowing three passed balls in one inning May 4 and May 5 while trying to handle Wilhelm.

Richards' team won the championship without a passed ball and Wilhelm, without a wild pitch. Richards, however, thought the glove made the difference.

The glove is half size larger than the ordinary catcher's mitt and weighs a little more than two pounds compared to the ordinary mitt. 10 ounces for the ordinary glove.

It is legal under baseball rules, which say a catcher can wear a glove of "any size, shape or weight."

Big Glove Easy to Use Says Catcher

NEW YORK (AP) — "You're easy to handle," Clint Courtney said Friday after using Baltimore's new balloon glove to catch knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm in the Orioles' 7-2 victory over New York at Yankee Stadium.

"I don't know how many pitches would have jumped past me with a regular glove," Courtney added. "This was the first time I ever caught him. Boy, is he rough to catch. I don't see how anybody ever hits him."

Wild play and a flock of penalties featured Friday night's Ontario Lacrosse Association games.

Peterborough Mercury drew 7-7 with the Athletics in overtime at St. Catharines and Niagara Falls Intermediates took a home-rink 19-8 victory over Dundas.

Peterborough led 2-1 in the first period and 5-3 in the second but St. Catharines scored three goals in the third for a 6-5 margin. Playing - coach Ike Hildebrand tied the game in the last second of regulation time and both teams scored in overtime.

Jay Coombs tallied four for the Mercurys, Hildebrand two and Larry Ferguson one. Doug Smith and Ted Howe scored two each for St. Catharines and Brian Woods, Les Howard and Rich Daniels got singles.

Referee Bill Hall's game featured 90 minutes in penalties, including five majors for fighting.

Brawling also began in the closing minutes of the second period of the Niagara Falls-Dundas game when Bud Smith of the Falls tangled with Dick Pipe of Dundas. The fighting spread all over the floor area.

Bud Lindsay bagged five goals for the Falls and brother Bob added three.

Fuchs, who beat Al Proctor of Brantford in his last fight, won all but five of his 35 bouts. Matthews has lost four decisions in 35 fights.

Pats Ittrangerai of Toronto Athletic Club meets Al Geraldine of Niagara Falls in a five-round semi-final. A third Niagara Falls entry, Johnny Sicka, will meet welterweight Johnny McGregor in a preliminary.

Barber Holds Golf Lead

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — First-round leader Jerry Barber fired a two-under-par 69 Friday and held his lead by a stroke in the $50,000 Invitational 500 Festival Golf Open.

Barber's 138 total for 36 holes was one better than Doug Sanders, who shot a 68 for the day's best round. Sanders, former Canadian Open champion, had the chance to be the last man on the 18th hole he pushed his second shot into a sand trap and took a par five.

Doug Ford, Johnny Pott and Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Jack Burke all had 139 totes, tied for third place.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Al Balding of Toronto were both under the cutoff line of 146. Balding shot another 70 Friday for a 140 total, while Leonard posted up to 72 from Thursday's 70, giving him 146.

On the Track

TORONTO (CP) — Flaxen of Canada's best three years old, Victoria Park Stakes at Old Woodbine today, it will be the final chance for these horses before the Queen's Plate trials at New Woodbine.

Probable favorites in the Marine Stakes are Hidden Treasure, owned by W. R. Beasley of Toronto, and All Canadian, owned by Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Taylor.

The race will have a great bearing on the 1961st running of the Queen's Plate on June 11, however the Taylors' three-year-old colt by Windsor Field and Toronto Boy. Unless one of those horses distinguishes itself Saturday, it is likely that Victoria Park will return to Canadian Stables and the Taylors in the Queen's Plate.

Also confederacy's program at Old Woodbine will be the 1,000 Inferno Stakes. The favorite in this race will be Winning Shot.

55-55 CHANCE

Taylor said there is a "50-50 chance" that Victoria Park will return for the Plate. He said the colt has been withdrawn from Monday's $100,000 Jersey Derby, QAT Garden State Park, Camden, N.J.

Taylor told a press conference that he has been receiving "a great deal of fan mail and friendly and gratuitous advice" since Victoria Park finished second to Frankincense makes earlier third in the Kentucky Derby. He said that "the prospect of advice of feeling expressed by these people has affected me. I should bring Victoria Park to Canada."

Trur of the Victoria Park situation lies in the fact that the Queen's Plate and the $100,000 Belmont Stakes are to be run on the same day and Victoria Park has been nominated for both.

Fights At Toronto Pier

TORONTO (CP) — Dave Mathews of Niagara Falls, Ont., former Canadian middleweight champion, will meet Swede Hans Fuchs of Toronto in the feature bout at Toronto's Palais Pier Monday night.

Eight other bouts are scheduled.

At The Park

Marie Mosdley, "Suddenly Last Summer".

A superb, star-laden cast topped by Elizabeth Taylor, Katharine Hepburn and Montgomery Clift has been assembled by Sam Spiegel for his powerful motion picture version of Tennessee Williams' play "Suddenly, Last Summer". Opening Monday at the air conditioned Park Theatre, the new drama is a Columbia Pictures release, one of the year's 10 best according to the National Board of Review.

Seldom has such star power been gathered of the calibre of Miss Taylor, who has twice been nominated for Academy laurels, for her work in "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" and "Raintree County", Clift and Miss Hepburn.

Spiegel himself is a painstaking producer who strives for the highest quality. He made "The African Queen" and won Academy Awards for both the Walter Mitty and "Bridge on the River Kwai", Joseph L. Mankiewicz, who directed "Cleopatra" for writing and directing "A Letter to Three Wives" and "All About Eve", directed "Suddenly, Last Summer". Gore Vidal, top-flight novelist and playwright, collaborated with Tennessee Williams on the screenplay of "Suddenly Last Summer", which is said to hit a new emotional peak in motion picture making.

The film centres around the efforts of Clift, a brilliant neurosurgeon, to penetrate the miasma of terror and shock that has paralyzed the beautiful Miss Taylor and driven her to the precincts of insanity. So frightening event, that all but unhinges Miss Taylor's memory is the gruesome and violent death of her young male cousin, Katharine Hepburn's son. Miss Hepburn, in her turn, presses Clift to penetrate from a delicate brain operation on Miss Taylor. Clift delays, uncertain that Miss Taylor is, in fact, insane.

Oliver Messel was production designer for "Suddenly Last Summer".

Please see it from the beginning feature at 7:30 and 9:30.

Will Oppose Bill to Alter Draft Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Senator John Butler said Friday he will unhesitatingly oppose to a bill that would change baseball's player draft laws.

"It is detrimental to major league baseball, to the players, to the minor league clubs and to the fans," Butler said in a statement.

Butler, whose Maryland constituency includes the home grounds of baseball's Baltimore Orioles, added:

"Furthermore, it appears to me that the bill is designed, in an amazingly transparent degree, to aid a certain group of the organizers of the proposed Continental League. Whether this is true or not, the legislation is certainly not beneficial to the players, or more specifically, the prospective players."

The bill is Democratic. Main provision as it stands now would throw open to unlimited draft by baseball any but 40 players in each major league team and farm system.

Sunset Strip Show Wed. Will Be Without Dialogue

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—TV without talk? It sounds heavenly.

And it's coming, too, at least an hour of it on the 77 Sunset Strip and June 15 at that. Responsible for this boon is one of the best stars of the show, Roger Smith imagine an actor writing a script and giving himself no lines.

The segment is called The Silent Corps, and it's just that.

"The only performer with any lines is a police dog, the biggest star since Rin Tin Tin," said Roger. "He's the great-grandson of the original Rin Tin Tin of the show. barks like crazy."

The story concerns the manufacture of a strip-teaser by a villain whom Roger pursues until they have a fight to the death atop a water tower. It arose through a brainstorm of the show's producer, director, Howie Horwitz.

Explained Roger: "Howie once told me he wanted to do some kinds of shows before the series was over. I, a musical revival like a Broadway show, probably the last one we do; 2. A science fiction story, which would be hard to do in a modern setting; 3. A show in which only Efrem (Zimbalist) would appear, like the play that Art Carney did; 4. A show with me and no dialogue. 3

PAYNE PRODUCTION

"Last fall I wrote such a script and Howie and (Warners TV boss) Bill Orr liked it. They bought it, even though it would have cost several times what our usual show ran; it required 60 sets. It was shelved and I thought they were just being nice to me by buying it.

"When the writers' strike came and they brought the script out again. They cut it down to 44 sets and we made it."

This show could start a trend. Imagine Lee Pace speechless, Kathryn Murray limited to the dance, Gunsmoke to gunplay, It's too much to think.

Marengo Rage Of Derby 'Long-Shots'
LONDON (CP) — "Mystery horse" Marengo became the shock of the long - shot - hungry nation surrounding next Wednesday's Epsom Derby began to boil.
"Make mine Marengo," said the racing correspondents of one London newspaper, beating his forecast on the boy colt's sparkling final tune-up gallop.

Sport Snapshots

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—It's almost a truism that for a particular sport to succeed in Montreal, it must have the support of the city's French - speaking population.

The presidents of the city's two leading professional soccer clubs are evidently aware of this because both are talking on the fundamental similarity between hockey and soccer as a basis of interest to French-speaking Canadians who account for more than two-thirds of Montreal's 2,000,000 people.

The theory is expected to be put to the test when six of the world's finest soccer teams—five from Europe and one from South America—play Montreal Carsons and Concordia in a six-game international schedule beginning June 1. It will be the first time overseas sides have engaged in a form of league competition with Canadian teams.

SEE BIG CROWDS

Joe Szymovicz, wealthy real estate dealer and president of Concordia, and Dr. Ernest Stathy, president of Carsons, nod owner of a company manufacturing small cars, predict crowds of 15,000 to 20,000 in Delormier and McGill stadiums for the games. Seat prices are $1.50 and $2.50.

Two weeks the end of last season both clubs—members of the 15-team Quebec-Ontario pro league —drew capacity crowds of 7,000 to the small Fallon Stadium.

Mr. Szymovicz points to the fact there now are 600 to 700 teams playing in the Montreal area compared with only a few 10 years ago. He says soccer will develop into a major sport in Canada and that the French-speaking fans will be among the first attracted to it because it is similar in some ways to their first love, hockey.

Dr. Stathy goes even further, suggesting soccer will become the "second national sport in Canada—hockey in winter and soccer in summer."

THREE CHAMPIONS

The eight - team competition will be known as the International League. Europe will send three national champions—Burnley of the English League, Nice of France and Red Star of Belgrade, Yugoslavia — plus Sampdoria, a leading Italian first division team, and Kilmarnock, second in the Scottish league. Hapoel, Israel's first division club, will represent South America.

In effect, Concordia, runner-up to champion Castalia in the Quebec-Ontario league last season, is almost another South American representative. Seventeen of the 19 players—all but Scots Tommy Barrett and George Savage—are South Americans, several of them outstanding.

Both Castalia and Concordia have reason to expect they will make a respectable showing against the visitors. Concordia held Heart of Midlothian, Scottish League champions, to a hard-fought 2-0 victory in a recent exhibition game.

Hearts manager Tommy Walker admitted afterwards that he had been given a scare. "That's a good soccer team, and if they'd had more pre - game training together, they could have beaten us," he said.

Castalia dropped a 5-0 decision to Hearts in Ottawa earlier and although they didn't put up as much fight as Concordia, it's a fact that many Castalia players hadn't been in action since last October — several players and members had played through the winter in New York and South America.

'Planned Forgetting' Works Wonders for Ann McLerie

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — A little planned forgetting is working Broadway wonders for Canadian-born Allyn Ann McLerie.

The dancing star, usually cast as a demure damsel, is stirring cheers now as a sensuous spitfire.

"The idea startled me at first," she says of her role in West Side Story, hit musical just back on the While Way after cross-country tryouts.

"Then I discovered we were alike in some ways, the real me and this Anita," continues Allyn concerning the fiery Puerto Rican lass she becomes onstage.

MAKEUP'S THE THING

"So then I found those things to me that are not at all like her—and I just erase them from my memory for the evening."

If this sounds slightly incredible, you don't know Miss McLerie, who was born at Grand'mere, Que., and moved to Brooklyn, N.Y., as a child.

"Something funny happens instantly when you put on a certain costume and makeup," she says of her skill at transforming from appearance and subtle intonations into Latin looks and broken English.

"The nearest I ever came to Spanish before was a Spanish cook I once had—who couldn't understand me," she says.

Miss McLerie moved directly to West Side Story from extended duty as Gwen Verdon's standby in Redhead. She played that Cockney - tinged part 40 times.

HIDDEN SWITCH

"I never got mixed up the slightest between the two parts," she reports of the period during which she was rehearsing for the changeover. "You just turn off a switch inside."

The long-limbed dancer rocketed to stardom a few seasons ago in Where's Charley? and she feels that began the Victorian girl casting in which she was immured until West Side Story.

"It's been very gratifying in this to convince others of my versatility," she comments.

Getting into the frenetic, jazz rhythms of the show was no problem.

"I've studied with them all," Allyn says of her training in ballet, modern dance and exotic expression.

NAME TROUBLES

"Compared to Redhead this is one-sixth as tough—but it's still plenty strenuous. I earn half my pay in front of the makeup mirror."

The star celebrated the start of her present assignment by change of billing.

"I dropped the Ann out of my name in Where's Charley?," says the lady formerly known simply as Allyn McLerie. "I thought it would take less room on a billboard.

"Now I've put it back in to take more room—and because I got tired of getting calls from people who thought I was a man because of that first name."

Strangers, obviously, who had never seen her perform.

Bowlers Meet In 5-Pin Finals

TORONTO (CP) — Two Montreal bowlers meet today in the finals of the Masters world five-pin bowling championship.

Today's winner receives the trophy, $1,000 and a sports car.

Dick Law of North Surrey, B.C., won the consolation roliott with 7,745, collecting $275.

Jack Wilson of London, Ont., took second prize of $150 with 7,586, followed by Dick Thomson of Fort William with 7,536. Thomson won $125.

Pirates Get Mizell, Gray From Cards

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Left-hander Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell is coming to Pittsburgh Pirates from St. Louis Cardinals along with utility infielder Dick Gray for Julian Javier, minor league second baseman, and a pitcher to be named later.

In announcing the straight-cash deal Friday night, Pirates general manager Joe L. Brown said:

"I'm giving up one of the most brilliant prospects in the minor leagues, but I'm shooting everything for this year."

Brown said Mizell would report to the Pirates as soon as possible and Gray will go to the farm team at Columbus, which now owns his contract.

Mizell, who has a 1-3 record, lost 4-1 Thursday to Milwaukee. His earned run average is 4.56.

Mizell, 29, had the best of his 12 seasons last year as he compiled a 13-10 record along with a 3.21 ERA. He was 6-3 prior to the first all-star game but suffered a back injury. His over-all record since coming to St. Louis in 1952 is 69-70. He missed 1954-55 because of military service.

Javier, in his sixth season of organized baseball, was with the Pirates in spring training this year. He was hitting .238 at Columbus.

Gray was used by the Cards mainly as a pinch-runner. He appeared in nine games and had no hits in five times at bat.

Following the trade the Cards moved second baseman Waldy Shannon to Rochester of the International League and recalled outfielder Ellis Burton from the same club.

Manager Solly Hemus plans to start Javier at second as soon as he arrives and move Daryl Spencer from second back to shortstop.

TIPS
by JOHN WETTLAUFER

Television serials are very much misunderstood by many people, yet without this "hard-ware" the TV set is useless.

For example there is one type of antenna which is designed to bring in only one channel, but you would require 6 or 7 of these on your roof to bring in all the stations which can be received in this area.

To overcome this problem the "all channel" antenna was developed to bring in all stations from 2 to 13. The only disadvantage with this type is that it must be pointed directly towards the station you wish to receive.

This is no problem when you install an electric antenna rotor by which you can turn your aerial to the east, south or west right from your living room. It's inexpensive to install and adds immensely to television enjoyment. CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 364 Coleman St. can quickly install one for you — just phone WO 8-8791.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A peachy, balding Joe Louis has returned to the heavyweight wars—but not with the leather glove on.

This time the erstwhile Brown Bomber—who never gave out with more than a grunt in reporters in his heyday—has picked up the ten-ton paddles and is beating out publicity for challenger and comeback-hopper Floyd Patterson.

Joe was a great guy—as honest as the day is long. Perhaps financially he was his own worst enemy, a fact that led him into trouble with Uncle Sam's painless extraction agency, the income tax department.

He was a great fighter and a great champion—one of the best that ever pulled on a glove. He never backed away from a fight nor a foeman. He took them all on, as they came and his record down the heavyweight trail is a brilliant one.

Some say there is no sentiment in sport. Be that as it may. But a great number of the hard-bolled ring experts whose blood pumps from a dogs-frozen, admitted that it pulled to the heart when the once great champion lay on the canvas, a pathetic beaten fighter in that memorable bout with one Rocky Marciano.

Joe in his tyro efforts as a tub-thumper for Patterson has started off on a new note in ballyhooing, one that has caused eyebrows to raise among the press elite of the boxing world. And also a great many of the junior squad.

In his opening barrage, Joe tossed a broadside at the well-known New York boxing referee, Ruby Goldstein. And in passing it is recalled the unsalty friendly Louis plainly showed irritation after he defeated Jersey Joe Walcott in 15 rounds in Madison Square Garden in 1947. It was a split decision. Goldstein was the referee—and voted for Walcott.

Could it be Joe has a long memory, and an unforgiving mental attitude?

Louis has stated that his friend Patterson would be a sucker if he accepts Goldstein to referee his upcoming fight with heavyweigh champion Ingemar Johansson.

He announced to the New York Boxing Writers' Association: "I have advised Patterson he should not permit Goldstein to referee because he did such a bad job the first time. Goldstein gets too excited over a fast knockdown. He isn't capable of handling it. He loses his head.

"In the third round fast June, Johansson hit Patterson with a rabbit punch. Goldstein neglected to send Johansson to a neutral corner after the first knockdown. The rules say he should have done it. Instead Johansson was standing right back of Patterson when Patterson got up. Johansson nailed him with a right at the ropes.

"Patterson never recovered from that. It was the one that decided the fight, not the first knockdown."

Okay Joe, now let's go back to the time you knocked out Max Schmelling in the first round in the second fight you had with him.

Remember, you clobbered the German when he had his kidneys in the low-punch area. Remember the kidneys. Arthur Donovan, who referee'd that fight was the only one who heard "Schmelling screaming like a stuck pig after the fight was handed."

A well-known New York boxing writer says: "Johannson's blow to the back of Patterson's neck was unavoidable and was no more foul than the punch Louis planted on Schmeling's spine when the German's back was half-turned. What was the second fight, Schmeling having knocked out Louis in their first appearance. It is so this that Louis seeks to rebuild Patterson's confidence."

Last week Louis picked Patterson to beat Johannson in their June 20 return bout "some time between seven and ten rounds." The other day the former champion visited the Johannson camp and watched Big Ingo in training sessions. The result: he didn't change his mind about the outcome but he made a change in his prediction.

"I'll have to change that after watching Johannson," said Louis. "I say now it will take Floyd eleven rounds to do the job."

Kid Paret New Welter King After 15 Colorless Rounds

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The confused welterweight boxing division has a new champion in Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba, who Friday night ended Don Jordan's lackluster reign as the world's 147-pound king. There is still plenty of confusion.

Paret's first defence will not be a Jordan rematch, but will be against Federico Thompson of Argentina.

Jordan's buddy, former moboter Mickey Cohen, was in the wings.

Then, there is the question of who gets Jordan's $85,000 purse for his third defence of the title.

A crowd of 3,682 watched the one-time Cuban sugar - cane cutter unanimously whip Jordan in 15 unspectacular b-i hard-fought rounds.

"Paret's first defence will be against Thompson and the winner of that meets Emile Griffith," said Anthony Macaroni, president of the National Boxing Association. "That has been the NBA's plan for some time."

Jordan, a former street fighter from Los Angeles, had a 90-day rematch agreement, but Paret's manager, Manuel Alvarez, said: "We will only fight for a promoter who guarantees us as much as Jordan got this time—$85,000.

Promoters landed over about $75,000, of Jordan's purse to his entrant, managers, Jackie McCoy and Dodi Nemeth. Jordan had agreed to pay them for his contract.

But Mrs. Stella Jordan, the boxer's wife, has filed suit for attachment of the purse.

One of Jordan's recent advisers was Cohen, who came to the fight with an entourage of group of business associates and group of bodyguards.

Jordan—and my shadows," said Mickey, indicating detectives who trailed him during his unwelcome stay in this gambler's mecca. They even accompanied Mickey on an afternoon frolic at the swimming pool of a posh Strip hotel.

Jordan, who suffered a slashed left eye, said glumly: "I want a rematch."

Paret said his ambition is "to defend my championship against everyone and prove that I am the best welter fighter."

Paret can't read or write. His only English: "Money." "I love you." "Kiss me, baby" (sleep)."

Bobbing up and down excitedly in a ringside table, Paret said through his manager: "I thought Jordan would hit me, but not so lightly. That Jordan had nothing after the first few rounds."

Paret, who weighed 144½ pounds, two fewer than his conqueror, received the bulk of a rib injury suffered in training.

Referee Charlie Randolph awarded Paret 72 points, Jordan 65. Judge Ralph Mora had it 72-67 and Ray Lessard 71-68, both for Paret.

Baltimore's Butterfly Balls Flutter Past Bomber Bats; Bailey Blast Beats Braves

By ED WILES
Associated Press Staff Writer

Since he started hitting major league home runs back in 1954, Hal Bailey has struggled once a year against Milwaukee. Just one a year, no more, no less. And he couldn't have picked a better time for his 1960 bolt.

This one was a grand-slammer with two out in the ninth that broke a tie and gave Cincinnati a 5-1 victory over Milwaukee Friday night. It moved the Reds within a half-game of the third-place Braves, who blew a 5-0 lead and a chance to close in on National League - leading San Francisco.

SLUMBERIN LEAD

The Giants lost 5-4 at St. Louis and now have only a one-game lead over runner-up Pittsburgh. The Los Angeles defeated Chicago's Cubs 5-3, giving the Dodgers a five-game streak for the first time this season.

Bailey, a left-handed hitting catcher, made it five RBI for the night with his slam off southpaw rookie Ken Mackenzie (0-1). It was Bailey's fourth home run of the season and followed Vada Pinson's second triple and two intentional walks.

Bailey, the Reds' top hitter at .328, had been batting only .167 against Milwaukee and was hitless in 12 at-bats. He was 2-for-4 and capped a four-run fifth against starter Lew Burdette with a sacrifice fly. Jim Brosnan (20) came in in relief, banking the Braves on one hit after starter Bob Purkey gave up Ed Bailey's second home run of the game, a two-run homer in the sixth.

BOYER LEADS BELTERS

The Cardinals cut-hit 12th best southpaw Johnny Antonelli (3-1) for the first time in nine decisions over the past two seasons on the basis of a two-run, two-out Ken Boyer's 11th home run, topping the night's game with a triple and capped the spurt. Ron Kline (2-3) was the winner with Lindy McDaniel the save in the seventh after Orlando Cepeda hit his two-run homer.

The Dodgers collected all their runs in the first four innings off loser Glen Hobbie (3-4). They got the clincher in a two-run third on a walk and singles by Norm Moon, Norm Larker and Duke Snider. Stan Williams (2-0) was in it with Larry Sherry's relief in the seventh.

Name Porsches Favorites in Sport Car Race

By HARRY CALNEK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

JARVIS (CP) — The rear-engined Porsches were favorites today in the Canadian Kilometre Classic as first auto race to receive international status.

The German cars turned in consistently fast lap times in practice Friday. Roger Penske of Villanova, Pa., in an RSK model, clocked the fastest time, 1:19.5 for the tricky 1.8 mile circuit.

Peter Ryan of Mont Tremblant, Que., was timed at 1:20.5 in his RS-60 Porsche and Grand Prix veteran Jimmy Gendebien of Belgium also in an RS-60 lapped at 1:22.6. Gendebien, 36, won the time winner of the Sebring 12-hour endurance race—once in a Porsche and once in a Ferrari.

A darkhorse gunning for the $6,000 purse was Peter Murdoch of London in a Formula I Cooper-Climax. The lanky Englishman showed promising bursts of speed on the straights in practice.

Partly cloudy weather with the chance of occasional shower was forecast for today but the Provincial Association was optimistic the attendance record of 13,000 will be broken.

The Formula Libre event allows Grand Prix machines and Formula 2 open-wheeled cars to compete with production sports cars. It was to be run in three heats of 100 kilometres each with cumulative times counting toward the money.

Hockey Club Is Bankrupt

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia Ramblers of the Eastern Hockey League have filed a petition in bankruptcy in U.S. district court.

The petition filed Friday listed $29,382 in liabilities and $6,049 in assets. President George L. Davis Jr., said $5 of the assets are in cash and most of the rest in equipment.

Owners of the arena said they are interested in taking over the club, Davis is co-owner of the arena.

Glove? Clint Courtney did, and how! His Baltimore Orioles are back in the American League lead.

Courtney surrounded Hoyt Wilhelm's knuckleball pitches—which flutter around the batter-flies—with a new, out-sized mitt Friday and the Orioles defeated the New York Yankees 3-2.

The victory, giving the Orioles their fourth straight, a 21-win year, pushed them a half-game ahead of Cleveland. The Indians, rained out at Detroit, match Baltimore's .600 percentage, but have played two fewer games and are a half-game back.

Third place Chicago, also a half-game behind, defeated Kansas City 7-4. And Boston beat Washington 11-2 in a game interrupted by a brawl.

YANKEES NOW FIFTH

Baltimore's Jerry Walker won 11 of their last 15, five by one run. The Orioles belted the Yankees in a fifth place with a three-run fifth inning rally. Walker was given his first in three starts, the two-out single by Gene Woodling which drove in Jim Gentile. Marv Breeding's two-run double, his fifth (3-2) gave the Birds two each by Roger Maris and Yogi Berra—and each drove in two.

Yankee Manager Casey Stengel replaced Whitey Ford after giving further thought to benching the ace lefty (4-0-for-18) and Bill Skowron (2-for-25).

Russ Kemmerer, (12), a right hander purchased from Seattle today, pitched 5 2-3 innings of four-hit relief to gain the White Sox after starter Billy Pierce lost a 3-2 lead. Luis Aparicio had two hits and scored four runs. He stole a base, was safe on an error, and Ray Herbert (3-3), scoring on Al Smith's single, got out after hitting the first pitch.

A walk and consecutive singles by Jim Piersall, Vic Power and Frank Malzone gave Boston two runs in the eighth that broke a 2-2 tie. It was only the second victory in 13 games for the Red Sox since they opened the season against Camilo Pascual (5-4), who had won his last five decisions. Brewer (3-4) won it with an eight-hitter, one a pinch home run by Jim Lemon in the sixth.

The brawl came in the fifth. It started when Pete Runnels, the AL's top hitter (.360), said something to Pascual after slashing high inside a pitch and then watching a third strike. Pascual was knocked down and suffered a mild knee injury in the melee that followed, but stayed on the mound and finished with 13 strikeouts. That gave him a major league lead by an 81-79 margin over Don Drysdale of Los Angeles.

American Meets 2-Time Winner For Golf Title

By JOHN FARROW

PORTRUSH, Northern Ireland (AP)—Bob Cochran, 47-year-old American with a real low-numbered golf look, went into the final of the British amateur championship today as the 5-to-2 betting favorite against Irish star Joe Carr.

Carr, a British Walker Cup player, is a former champion of the title, was 2-to-1 favorite even though he trails by one hole when Cochran then was a 30-to-1 longshot.

Now many think that Cochran could shake the odds—if he can keep the nerves under control.

"Get a new set of nerves, pal," said one of his friends before you indulge in earlier and you can worry Joe," was the advice of Britain Bobby Locke, who Cochran defeated in a 7½ hour match in the semi-finals on the Royal Portrush links Friday.

Cochran, a veteran golfer in the 36th after a match that had the American hanging on for his life from the 18th hole through the 36th.

"God was on my shoulder," said Cochran. "I hope he stays there.

Carr, winner of the title in 1933 and 1938, made the final with a 3-and-2 victory over Ireland's Jimmy Walker. He won the last two holes in a row.

Irishmen from Dublin were confident Carr would repeat his success and even in chartered special planes to watch the match. Extra cartoon men were put on the road to check on the border.

It was expected that a crowd of between 6,000 and 10,000 would arrive.

The Irish were saying "It's our cup no matter who wins it."

Cochran, a widower, is of Irish ancestry.

Staff Honors Arena Manager Walter Gerow

The usually alert manager of Memorial Arena was caught off guard last night.

Walt Gerow who is retiring from active duty this week later admitted the surprise was complete.

Late in the "wrestling" evening the chairman staff some fifteen all told invaded the managerial domain.

Mr. Gerow didn't know whether it was a strike or a general bodyguard sent to escort him home.

Then it happened.

The staff through Johnny Lloyd presented their retiring boss with a pair of handsome lawn lounge chairs as a mark of general esteem and years of faithful efficient service.

Recovering from the surprise Gerow thanked the staff for their generous gesture.

He leaves the active management position next week, but will be in an advisory capacity to his successor, Mr. Jack Dickens.

Leafs Defeat Buffalo 5-4; Royals Lose

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toronto's breaking Maple Leafs today paid tribute to Pat Scantlebury, a rare import, vintage.

Scantlebury, 34, veteran left winger, scored the winning goal in the fifth inning Friday night and pitched 4 1-3 innings of no-hit relief as the Leafs defeated Buffalo Bisons 5-4 and took a one-game lead in the International League standings.

It was their seventh consecutive victory and their second over one of a head-to-head series with Buffalo. Rochester Bisons for the league's top spot.

Coming on after starter Steve Ridzik had relieved Frank Funk had been unable to contain the Bisons' bats, Scantlebury shackled Buffalo the rest of the way, allowing only a single Summer to reach first—on an error.

Third - place Hawkes Sugar Kings, three games back of the leaders, kept pace by blasting Montreal 5-1. Dick Weichel out-a Richmond Virginians 1-0 when Rochester Red Wings defeated Syracuse 3-2. Ray Noble cued a game between Miami Marlins and Columbus Jets.

COME FROM BEHIND

Toronto won it in the last of the fourth, scoring two runs on Bill Hoeft's single. Then Jim Dillard which scored Jack Waters and Scantlebury Wally. Buffalo had taken a 4-3 lead in the top half when Lou Vasala tripled and Ken Hamlin singled.

Funk picked up the victory, his first since May 6. Galen Cisco, Don Erickson (6-4), Buffalo starter, lost. He was relieved by Bill Smith, who took the loss to check with one hit over the final 5 1-3 innings, but the damage had been done.

The Sugar Kings scored an unearned run in the fourth inning and made it stand up behind the 10-hit pitching of Ted Wieczorek (2-2), who stranded 13 runners as he struck out 10.

Dick Hughes walked with two out to get Havana started and Felix Torres singled to left to second. When third baseman Granny Hamner let Borrego Alvarez's grounder go through his legs, Pendleton raced home with the go-ahead run before the defense got on Bill Stafford (2-4).

Rochester's Dick Ricketts (1-5) scattered four hits in his first victory. Jim Frey, BillyHerrell and Gene Oliver each drove in two hits to pace an eight - hit attack against Montreal's Ron Perranoski and Dave Hoskins.

Speedway Epic Drivers Get Pre-Race Brief

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Jim Hurtubise, the hottest rookie in years to hit the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, will start with three other newcomers and 29 veterans Sunday to hear the facts of life in the 44th annual 500-mile International Day race.

Chief steward Harlan Fengler, former racer, has a speech for the annual pre-race meeting. It lasts about 20-30 minutes and not be won in the first lap—and please don't crash.

Cars are getting faster every year and drivers are getting bolder as the purse gets bigger.

Two years ago Ed Elisian and Dick Rathmann tangled in front of the pack, causing a 15-car crash that killed Pat Flaherty.

Elisian was killed in a race at Langhorne, Pennsylvania in the same Thursday special in which Hurtubise set a Speedway 10-mile qualifying record of 136.959 over an hour last Sunday.

The purse here this year, based on attendance, will not be announced until the victory dinner Tuesday night. Chief steward Fengler will be around $350,000, with about $100,000 going to the winner.

Deseronto Ties Trenton 5-5 in First Start

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Deseronto Athletics overcame a 5-1 deficit, scoring the tying run in the last inning to grab a 2-6 eight-inning deadlock with Trenton Halloran's VW's in B. and D. softball action at Deseronto last night.

It was the first start for the Athletics while the tie enabled Trenton to pull into a first-place tie with Belleville Bobcats.

Trenton built their 5-1 lead in the first 4½ innings. Mel Kennedy's double and an error set their first run. Another bobble and hits by Alexander, Mitts and Mt. Kennedy chased across another pair. In the fifth Billy Mitts slammed a long home run to right field, following a walk, to close Trenton's scoring.

Deseronto got one without a hit on a walk, error and sacrifice back in the third. Pat Mascade singled in another after a walk and Huffman's hit while Retter's double, three walks and Vern Green's hit made it 5-4.

The homesters pushed across the equalizer without a hit just before defenses balled the game. Two walks, a wild pitch and passed ball did the job.

Pat Mascade hurled nine-hit ball for Deseronto, whiffing ten and walking three. Howie Isle gave six hits on the Trenton mound, fanning five but walking eight.

Billy Mitts with a homer and single, Harry Wickson two doubles, Mel Kennedy and Isabel Alexander with a double and single paced Trenton hitters. Bob Burns had a single.

Don Detlor topped the Athletics with a double and single. Vern Green, Bob Huffman, Pat Mascade and Roy Stevens had singles.

Russ Strategy Works Again, This Time It's the Bravos

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The Kaimkott Brothers, Harold Bonnie Wellington "U-2" or Haly's latest threat have last night.

Ditso and Dandelin Bravo two batsdown Dallas stalwart, were the third in the three-link chain of wins here for the twin Yeomanders.

Ivan and Karol, who go by their own set of rules, outstraighted the Mighty Dallas and Frenchy Vignal as a curtain raiser. Last week they outmaneuvered Jumbo and huge Don Leo Jonathan.

Last night by ludicrous application of their hold specialties plus a few that have never been seen, they wrenched their third straight triumph from the good-looking Italians.

They operated their now famous "light-cause" strategy again with success. While they ruin temporarily the sight of an opponent, the Bravos gain a decided bait of the team attracts the attention of the referee while so the ring action remains unseen.

It's cute, rough, unorthodox, crowd-balling but generally successful.

The bortish brothers are no respecters of eyeballs, as Frenchy looks like another to them and responds in the same gentle treatment.

It's simple. You simply insert the point of an elbow against ce eyeball and draw the stra straight back. You catch the other going back and the pain headlights are dimmed but good

The eyes go into orbit inside the cranium and the victim generally finds himself heading for the pews, Kingston or Toronto depending on which way his wits facing before getting the foul-ball treatment.

The Mystery X took the first fall with his famous Nasiting Dive stort and applying the favored back-breaker hold.

The Dino-Dominic combo squared matters in the second tiff with Dominic spread-eagling Ivan or was it Karol? after two minutes of battling.

The "Beards" won the third fall and match by using a head after the feet had been knocked from beneath it.

The Italianos, it seemed were well on the way to the laurel wreath with Frenchy Vignal set to the occasion with a practical application of drop-kicking.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

CREATURES OF HABIT

Like ourselves, birds are very much creatures of habit. Once a well-filled feeding tray has been discovered, a bird continues to patronize, the free restaurant as long as the supply is kept up. There still be at least one frequent customer — possibly the remainder of the bird's life. The ruffed grouse has a favourite fallen log upon which he stands to do his drumming; the great horned owl spends most of the hours of daylight sitting in its big, but loved tree; and the repairman noisily hammers on the same telephone pole ever so many times a day. A parent bird travels the same path to its home every time the nestlings are fed, and always lands on the same spot. Even a songbird has a pet singing perch.

LOOK THERE AGAIN

A song sparrow seen singing on any particular fence post may be looked for there another day. If you find a handsome purple finch carolling from a tall tree top, the chances are that this is his favourite perch for singing where he may be found performing for his friends any morning or evening during the nesting.

The chosen singing perch of a meadowlark may be a log or a rock or a branch of the loss tree in his home field, or perhaps just a special spot on the fence. As the territory of a pair of red-winged blackbird is generally a swamp, the same bulrush is often set upon so frequently that it becomes bent by the bird's weight. A purple swallow likes a coolen-cus tree for singing purposes, while a bobolink supports the ordinary clothesline. Unfortunately the catbird has made a bad name for himself in his morning call; but in the breeding period he has a particularly fine song, generally given from a compact, shady, small branch high on some deciduous tree.

STRONG HABIT

A bird with this singing perch habit especially strong is the whip-poor-will. It has several favorites, each used for a short hour. Listeners are divided into two camps: people who are always hearing the call, and those who protested "whip-poor-will" song a day hour of night, and those who nearly go crazy because the caretaker has chosen for the A. M. singing perch a rock, sawhorse, or rain barrel just outside his bedroom window. Probably at dawn of day for six weeks or two months he will roar "whip-poor-will" given over and over again — 10, 20, or 30 times without pause; then after a gulp or two maybe 100 times more.

Inspect Madoc High School Cadet Corps

MADOC — Bright was the day, blue was the sky, calm were the winds, attentive were the onlookers when Cadet C.S.M. Bruce Bristol shouted the command, "Get on Parade," and form up parade they were — the Madoc High School Cadets who held their annual inspection on May 19.

T. N. Beatty, chairman of the Board of Trustees High School Board, the reviewing officer, arrived, accompanied by the marking officer, Lieut. F. L. Furness, Eastern Ontario Area Headquarters, Kingston, and guests Major P. Grey, representing Lt.-Col. A. B. Duffy, Officer Commanding Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment; Capt. D. Martin, representing Lt.-Col. T. Moore, Officer Commanding Royal Canadian School of Artillery (AA), Camp Picton; Lieut. H. D. Sears, Ken Kincaid and the cadet instructors.

Mr. Beatty, a veteran of the First World War, took his position on the reviewing stand, flanked by Major Grey and Major Martin. The ribbons, medals and badges they wore, told in colour the stories of the various theatres of war of the present generation. His address extolled the development and growth of the armed forces.

Cadet Corporal Leigh Brintnell order the salute. The corps presented arms and the ceremonial parade got under way.

Major Grey inspected the parade, accompanied by Cadet Bristol who was accompanied by the guests and supervisors. His address visited the platoon commanders and the band major on the line. Platoons marched past and regiments under their respective commanders.

No. 385 Madoc High School Cadet Corps marched past in column of route and in column of route. The marching, the turning were all executed. Orders were correct and pleasing. The onlookers gave a good hand, which they deserved.

The parade formed for the march past in review order and the boys marched and halted with precision and obedience. Cameras clicked, parents glowed with pride as the corps marched off the parade. The perfect ceremonial was the verdict of old timers. A good parade, well done and all.

The band played for 15 minutes. Their movements, music and uniforms were praised by one and all.

GOOD SHOW

The drill squad under Cadet-Capt. Don Blue next occupied the square. Tom looked every inch a soldier in his uniform, complete with the swagger stick. Here was a dish for old timers who talked of the art of spit and polish, ten faces, old words of command. Bayonet drill, color parties, salutes were very much in the talk. The squad drilled to correct time, the marching, turns and halts. The turn out and bearing was good. The old timers were pleased. The boys were good; almost as good as the old timers once were!

Mapping and signalling followed drill. It was a display for the initiated, the compass, charts, map references; the dots and dashes over the hooters were new to a few of those who left their comfortable seats to watch the cadets measure co-ordinates, transmit and receive messages through morse code and phone. It explained to the audience in understandable words the work of communications at various levels during operational conditions. The marksmanship party asked a number of questions, but the boys knew their stuff. The operators were also qualified at an army signal examinations, carried and spent the hour, so had to be content with the well deserved compliments. The signal system must that anything else showed the changing of times; from flag to morse and on to walkie-talkies. What next?

"Something has gone amiss in the yonder field" was heard over the loudspeakers. The boys were seen moving, as if searching for a lost article. Bang! Bang! flash and noise, and cries of "First Aid! First Aid! Call the First Aid!". The First Aid parties came to the scene of the accident, and rendered first aid to the injured calmly and efficiently. Was it real or "fake? Many were not sure and had to be told that it was a display.

Mr. Boyle leaves nothing to chance. He organized a realistic display so that every cadet took part in one of the displays. The drill display consisted of aiming, care and preservation. Does a bullet travel in a straight line from the barrel to the target? The two tripods answered this question. The teaching aids. Strange, but the bullet does not travel in a straight line. Why must rifles be cleaned? How often should they be cleaned? The answers to these questions had changed with times, many a veteran admitted.

The corps formed for the presentation of awards. Mr. Blake presented to the reviewing officer, cadets who had earned signal badges, now being sent to camp. The Dominion of Canada Rifle Association badges were presented to 10 out of 12 had qualified for badges. Strathcona Crests for the best shot of the year were presented to Cadet-C.S.M. Bruce Bristol for 1958-1959; and to Cadet-Major Leigh Brintnell for 1960-1961.

Mr. Boyle gave a short resume of cadet activities during 1959-1960, and his plans for 1960-1961. Everything passed in review, and he stated that in future students of grade 12 and volunteers from grade 10 will be in the cadets corps. The girls, no doubt, would have liked to be here at Madoc, but Mr. Boyle said nothing. He, no doubt, will consider this matter at the right time.

Mr. Beatty, Major Grey, Capt. Martin and Lieut. Furness, in their remarks, commended the smart turnout and high standard of the parade and the various displays.

The cadets marched uptown and back to the school. The citizens of Madoc crowded on the route to see their boys march, and the boys marched well. On return, refreshments were provided for all cadets and other students of the school. Mr. Boyle was there to entertain his students.

The special guests were entertained at a reception arranged in the home economics room. The veterans of two Word Wars exchanged stories over cups of tea and coffee. What is in common between the war stories and the fishing stories, someone asked. There was silence, they laughed and then chatted on!

(A highly - placed government source told The Canadian Press the government does not intend to break the CCF filibuster, nor propose an alternative method of handling divorce bills during the present session. But leaders of both Roman Catholic and Protestant denominations in the House were understood, however, there are no provincial divorce courts, are said to be against any change which might make the granting of divorces easier.)

over the past 50 years has been both positive and rapid. We experienced it.

Just as dentistry became specifically licensed for dentists, so optometry has become recognized and specifically licensed for Visual care.

You cannot fail to be impressed by the difference between the optometrical, the complete Visual Analysis, and an abbreviated service known as "refraction".

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, May 29

General tendencies: This is a fine day to look around and see just how you can use the convictions of fine and earnest affairs to whom you listen or read this morning. They can be helpful to you from the advice they extend. Then the rest of day and night are excellent for thinking out ways to have more accord in everyday living and with usual contacts.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — It is important you concentrate mainly upon home affairs and those ties so that you achieve greater harmony and order in that realm of your affairs. And if you must travel about, very likely you will learn of a fine new system to adopt.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — A very fine opportunity now to hear that inspired speaker, whether of a religious or educational status so that you have food for the soul and the mind, which you have neglected of late. Raise your level of consciousness and thinking.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Endeavor to contact those who can add to your fund of knowledge, based on rearing and personal experience, so that you can become more successful in the future and infinitely more happy. P.M. plan days ahead wisely.

Moon Ch...ldren (June 22 to July 21) — Read your paper, get into other media that will bring to your attention interesting and far more lucrative details for the future. Later in the day, be sure to go out with good friends and have lots of fun. Expend.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — By quietly thinking how to make your life more happy and interesting through more practical and wise activity, you can do just that. Then study that data that is also edifying and necessary. P. M. be happy with loved ones.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Make the most of this memorable weekend by visiting or speaking on the telephone with as many persons as you can. You can have much happiness as well as be of inspiration to others, reach loftier personal heights yourself.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Contacting higher-ups and performing all civic duties to the best of your ability is excellent today. Devotion to family will also be an inspiration for others. Live the Golden Rule now.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Attending services of own choice or hearing the inspired words of a religious leader, philosopher on radio or TV will help you greatly today. Then be sure this evening to meet new and worthwhile people.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — You must follow your intuition now, since it will be to your benefit. However, be sure to mediate while first you do that you know best how to proceed. P. M. make plans for the coming week. Be kind to loved one.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — You can come to a greater understanding with others now, since you are thinking very clearly and they are expressing themselves in practical, lucid terms. P. M. go to some nice place with associate. Have fun.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Your love for humanity can be expressed today in service. Do not turn anyone away who comes to you for assistance. Be sure you get activities for new week nicely planned. Then take it easy and retire early.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — If properly attuned astrologically you are very happy and kind today. Hence, be sure you contact all those to whom you can be of help. Uplift their spirits, too. Then you can have a very enjoyable evening.

If your child is born today — There will be a definite tendency to be most busy, yet subconsciously there is every desire to become successful in life. Once the true calling is found, then the nature becomes purposeful, the thinking positive and there can be a steady and quite rapid climb up the ladder of success. Teach early not to pay much attention to the opinions, or supposed feelings of others where he, or she, is concerned. This is only vanity.

Monday, May 30

General tendencies: Until noon very confusing conditions exist and you would be wise to make no promises, to be careful what you eat and drink to dodge any one else. Then the afternoon and through the night is a fine time for whatever has to do with using the assistance from higher-ups and officials wisely, as well as putting aff the energy released for fine purposes and uses.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — A day to have a very good time at the activities and with compatibles whom you enjoy most. However, see that financial affairs are handled properly and quickly in a.m. And be sure you straighten out any misunderstandings with others.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Your finest benefits will come today from own close ties and home. Do not be confused about any rather difficult activities in outside world. P. M. take it easy at home and enjoy quiet, simple pleasures there.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Take time to get all bods in order, get clothing right, etc., before you dash out for a good time, whether it is going for a drive, to meetings and the like. A most ideal day to pay that visit to kinfolk. Drive carefully, though.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Take the treatments in A. M. that will improve your appearance and state of health. Evening is ideal for concentrating upon new methods to adopt so that you can realize a far greater income in the future. Study for best results.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Try not to lose your temper this morning. This is no day to disturb loved ones. You are inclined to be a little too authoritative. Do go out this evening for all the social pleasures you enjoy. Be charming, suave.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Better make sure before you carry through with your plans that you can truly afford it. The day can still be very nice if you spend it in the company of loved one at some charming, inexpensive spot. Be sensible.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — You are endeavoring to follow out one who is altogether too practical and conservative instead of taking the advice of a tried and true friend. Give it up, P. M. have fun socially.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — If you are not careful, you might act thoughtlessly this morning and lose face or prestige. Strictly mind your own affairs. Evening is then ideal for going out socially or enjoying favorite sport. Be happy, gay.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Try not to indulge in self-pity this morning. Think positively. Later in the day things break your way and you can be very cheerful, have fine social contacts and be able to learn much that will be of value.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — It is better to follow the advice of a dynamic comrade instead of professional adviser who is not sufficiently familiar with your personal life. The remainder of the day is fine if you follow your intuition, your hunches.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Although you are almost never the one to do things the orthodox way, being an individualist, be careful this a.m. you are not misunderstood. Be practical. P.M. ideal for going out with intelligent associate.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Forget labors this a.m. and concentrate upon having a more leisurely and graceful existence. Later, serve others with a will and with love in your heart. Increase prestige appreciably. Make this truly a memorable day.

If your child is born today ... he, or she, will be one of those fascinating little persons who soon will seem to be bogged down with problems, simply because the mind is too active and often wanting to delve in more adult affairs. Help your young; later and be breadinded so that adult life will be so much the richer for all the jolts and bumps encountered on the way during childhood and adolescence. Very fine citizen in the making here.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

A Wife May Know Better Than He When Her Husband Should Retire

By THOMAS COLLINS

"My husband," the lady said, "can retire next year at age 60. If he did so, we would have $175 from his premature pension and an average of $40 from investments.

"We own our home, which is worth probably $18,000, but still owe roughly $4,000 on the mortgage.

"I want my husband to quit at age 60. He is getting too old too fast. I can make him do it if I cry. I need the answers to two questions before I cry.

"The first question is: Is there enough money for us to do it? The second question is: Could I possibly be doing my husband an injustice by forcing him to retire at this age?

"If you answer yes to the first and no to the second, I will start crying tomorrow."

It is my sober opinion that this lady — who is in pretty much the same position many other wives are in — ought to start crying.

A GOOD LIVING

The $250-odd income would support this couple comfortably in many of the retirement areas of the South. If they sold their house and got out from under their mortgage, they could invest their $14,000 net at 4 per cent and get about $45 a month more in income. Better yet they could sell their house, buy a $10,000 cottage in the South, use $4,000 for foolishness, and live in plenty.

The more significant question in the mind of this woman is the second one. Should a wife encourage a husband to retire from his job before he has to? The impulsive answer is that she is not his business, not hers. The retiring decision is nonetheless the stability of the marriage and the home is his business, not hers. He's the guy who pumps and keep his fingers out of his affairs.

But impulsiveness is not really the answer.

A man who has worked himself into a good job by age 60, as this man apparently has, is actually a prisoner of the job. Usually he is blind to anything except to try harder and harder to work more and more and never to give up. If his health is waning, if his compatibility with his wife and the outside world is fading away, if this is about his last chance to reach up and grasp a piece of free life — he would never know it. His wife would.

It would seem to me that the lady, in her great sense and compassion, should tell him to quit if she finds reason to and should let him make it so.

MANY LUSCIOUS GRAPES

There are many luscious grapes to glean in the vineyard that lies outside the business office . . . with variety enough to tempt the palate of almost any man. It seems to me that a successful businessman could reap a beautiful harvest by passing on his knowledge to the students of business in quiet university. He can lean or as a professor, and by design or as anybody pretends, but as a simple man with something to give.

It seems also that a successful businessman — who has lived his days by the pattern which the business world sets — could break the pattern and find some rare happiness. He could work behind the counter of a crossroads country store selling crackers and cheese, go to church on Sunday and do his bit, set acquainted with people who aren't knocking themselves out, and discover a world he doesn't even know exists.

As a general rule, businessmen who are retired at age 65, with or without money, are not living life very sweet. So I see no reason to risk a heart attack and loss of five years of freedom to attain it if a man doesn't have to.

Church Homes For Wayward Boys Proposed

KINGSTON (CP) — A United Church report in which a recommended construction of church homes in large cities to cater to young boys recently released from jails.

Rev. Dr. J. I. McKay, speaking Thursday to Bay of Quinte Conference, said "too little is being done by the church for youngsters who run afoul of the law and end up in courts and jails."

Dr. McKay said many youths have no place to go when they leave jail.

A highlight of the final day of the conference today will be the installation of Rev. D. M. Smith of Campbellford as conference president.

Your Car

Now Driver Can Adjust Own Shock Absorbers

By EUGENE B. MELSON

Adjustable-as-your-ride shock absorbers are now available to fit most late models. This feature, offered as standard equipment on a well-known luxury car, permits the driver to adjust the car ride to suit him as the road surface he is travelling. This is accomplished via electrical controls — one for the front and one for the rear "shocks." Seated behind the steering wheel, the driver can select a hard, sensitive ride in order to promote road agility and gas mileage — or a soft, cushioning ride for comfort — or the normal "halfway" adjustment.

Heart of the system, the electrical control panel of the system. Average cost will run to approximately $100-125, and installation is best left to a mechanic.

S. L. asks: "Is it possible that arcing, caused by dirty or corroded battery cable connections, is responsible for a permanent stain on the top edge of my fender?"

(A) A more probable cause is an overcharging battery which is throwing off a abnormal amount of fumes.

From J. W.: "Can you help me find out why my car is usually hard to start, stalls frequently and won't idle even after I've checked out everything — the ignition system and wiring, the choke and carburetor, the pump and keep line."

(A) Try the manifold mountings and gasket. An air leak in these will bring on these troubles.

H. J. writes: "The manual for my new 1960 model recommends changing oil every 6,000 miles, I've never gone that far between changes with any car. Is this advisable?"

(A) It sounds good — but more frequent changes are usually needed. As a matter of fact, 4,000 mile intervals are advisable if the car is ordinarily subjected to hard driving or constant stop-and-go.

C. McL. asks: "After spending money on engine and transmission repairs, I thought my troubles were ended, but yesterday I found that my battery was dead when I tried to start. The day before there wasn't a thing wrong with it."

(A) Some of the corroded cable connections are common troublemakers here. You might als investigate if a faulty stoplight switch has been draining the battery.

Sunday Sport Discussed by Anglican Primate

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — The Anglican Primate of Canada suggested Thursday that Sunday sport is worthwhile provided it does not prevent a man from worshipping God.

Most Rev. Howard H. Clark, who also is Archbishop of Rupertsland, said in an interview the Anglican Church does not wish to stop people from engaging in worthwhile recreation on Sunday.

However, he said, Anglicans "also believe Canada will be wise to keep to the quiet Sunday — a day when the community's pulse slows down a little."

"I feel every man has a right to engage in recreation or sport on Sunday if he has first worshipped his God and if it does not force some other man to work and miss his church," the archbishop said.

However, he said those who advocate Sunday sports should take a look at the European Sunday. "I and six thousand others really want that."

The European Sunday, as far as the C.E. is concerned, "is just like any other day," the archbishop said.

Cross Canada Survey

Canadian Drivers Wheeling Into Summer Travel Season With Fair Safety Record

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian drivers are wheeling into the summer travel season with their safety fair on the records.

But behind them is a longer trail of broken victims and a higher toll for damages.

Compared with the early part of last year, there have been fewer persons killed on the roads so far, but the total number of accidents has risen sharply.

More persons were injured—nearly 2,000 more—and property damage jumped by $2,000,000.

SAFETY CAMPAIGNS

Little new is planned in the way of campaigns to promote highway safety. Most provinces are pinning their hopes on programs in effect for years.

Prince Edward Island will follow the lead of four other provinces—New Brunswick, Manitoba and Ontario—in introducing a demerit system designed to rule dangerous drivers from the road unless they reform.

Several other provinces have amended their laws to curb reckless driving in other ways. Nearly all have conducted publicity and propaganda programs.

In some places, regular checks of safety equipment have cut to an almost negligible factor the number of accidents traceable to mechanical failure.

The importance of driver education is underlined by the ever-climbing rise in the number of persons killed—1,950 so far—as motor vehicles on the roads. The figure is likely to go up by a quarter of a million in 1960.

GREATER DAMAGE

The property damage bill for the first three months of this year was about $70,000,000, covering only accidents in which damage exceeded $100.

The number of fatalities was 456, down two per cent from the 465 in the first three months of 1959.

Four provinces and the northern territories had fewer deaths in the three-month period. Fatalities dropped in Ontario to 181 from 204; Quebec, 84 from 117; Manitoba, 21 from 27; Alberta, 41 from 51; and the north (Northwest Territories and Yukon), 5 from 12.

Deaths increased in Newfoundland, to 8 from 7; Nova Scotia, 29 from 18; New Brunswick, 32 from 22; Saskatchewan, 21 from 7; Alberta 30 from 30; British Columbia, 53 from 36.

In a cross-Canada survey, The Canadian Press found varied programs planned and passed on the deal with the situation:

Newfoundland: Set aside a week in May as "have your car checked" a fit week. All vehicles more than three years old must be thoroughly inspected before they are used. A road improvement is studying a proposal for a demerit system.

Nova Scotia: Plans to propose (A) driver system of three-grade classifying chauffeur licences. The province operates on the points system—it demerits a driver his licence.

Prince Edward Island: Is introducing a points system in June. Also planned is alteration to stiffen treatment of drivers charged with offences involving liquor.

New Brunswick: Added a careless driving section to the provincial traffic act. A program of reducing highway hazards by dangerous curves is planned and continuing.

Quebec: Is conducting a month-long "check your driving, check your car, check accidents" publicity campaign. Legislation passed at the last session brought in a new penalty system for rules and adjusted speed limits. New children will be educated about road safety.

Manitoba: Adopted a "rules of the road" section at the last session of the legislature. It calls for suspension of universal traffic rules and standard traffic lights and signs. A 10-point program of driver control is continuing.

Saskatchewan: Has a highway traffic board with 20 units on the road publicizing safety in schools, clubs and adult groups. During the summer, the board operates a "safety" unit which points out its may drive to have vehicles safety-checked.

Alberta: Reports no special safety plans beyond current publicity and law enforcement. For the first time this year Alberta will issue learner permits for the under-16 drivers. Motorists are required to report to the highways minister's office any physical change which could affect driving abilities.

British Columbia: Has had a "driver improvement program" for years. Records of all infractions are kept and repeated offences bring a warning letter.

Israeli Agents Now Hunting Martin Bormann

LONDON (AP)—Two London newspapers, The Daily Mail and Daily Herald said Friday that Israeli agents who captured Adolf Eichmann now are hunting for South America for Martin Bormann.

Bormann was Hitler's deputy and was said to have died in the ruins of Berlin 15 years ago.

The Herald said that Eichmann, a former Nazi officer accused of the murder of 6,000,000 Jews, had talked and disclosed that Bormann was in hiding abroad.

The Amsterdam Telegraaf also published a story quoting Eichmann as having said Bormann is alive.

The Telegraaf quoted Tuvia Friedmann, chief of the documentation centre on Nazi crimes in Haifa, Israel:

"I have got a complete file on Bormann and I am completely convinced that he is alive and is in contact with the Nazi underground."

At Tel Aviv, a government statement said Thursday that Eichmann is prepared to tell his captors all about his role in the Second World War.

The statement quoted him as saying:

"I have known all the time that something like this must happen in the end.

"I have been living under terrible tension. Now I am reconciled to my fate."

At Buenos Aires, a newspaper said Eichmann came to Argentina after the war and speculated that he was taken from Argentina by Israeli submarine.

The newspaper La Razon said he came from Spain after escaping from an American prison camp in Germany.

It pointed out that the Argentine fleet was placed on the alert last January after reports that unidentified submarines had entered the Golfo Nuevo, 600 miles south of Buenos Aires.

The paper pointed out that Israel has two submarines.

Load Chile Relief Planes at Trenton

TRENTON — Two North Star transport planes left RCAF Station Trenton Tuesday with 19 tons of medical supplies and clothing for earthquake victims of Chile.

The RCAF said the aircraft — one from the RCAF's 426 Squadron at Trenton, the other from 412 Squadron at Ottawa — reached Lima, Peru, by mid-morning today. Traffic congestion and bad weather at the airport delayed the flight eight hours enroute.

One of the Stars is seen being loaded Saturday with 97,000 persons visited the air station after Air Force Day. The supplies, some of which are seen in the second picture, were valued at more than $36,000 by the Canadian Red Cross and contained sufficient items to outfit a 30-bed field hospital. Also sent were three crates of clothing and 600 quilts.

Flt. Lt. Jim Morrison of Montreal commanded the crew from Trenton, while Wing Cmdr. Jack Maitland of Winnipeg captained the Ottawa aircraft.

After reaching Santiago, Chile, Peru's capital, tomorrow, only in daylight, the planes have been asked to run one shuttle flight each to Puerto Montt, 480 miles south, in the heart of the disaster area.

Aboard the aircraft were two Red Cross officials, Reuben Baetz, assistant national commissioner, and Richard H. Glass, national director of public relations. (Photos by LaRocque.)

Soviet Spy Ships Reported To Have Jammed Radar Gear

LONDON (CP) — Two British newspapers today carried frontpage reports of Russian trawlers spying near a British missile range in the Hebrides.

One of the papers, The Daily Express, says the ships "are also operating off the North American coasts," and "United States and Canadian rocket-range intelligence have been aware of them for some months."

The Daily Mail says the trawlers contained elaborate radar equipment and said last Tuesday monitored the flight of a U.-2 spy plane.

British teams on the range off northwestern Scotland "found their radar tracking instruments jammed."

The Express says the spy ships "were ordered to jam Western radar and other electronic defence devices." They were also interested in missiles such as the Polaris being fired from submarines they were obsolete by Russian standards.

The Express also says Russian trawlers and submarines "have also been using satellite devices to mark transatlantic cables so that these could later be located and cut in an emergency."

There was no official confirmation of the reports carried in the two newspapers, but reliable informants indicated they were substantially true.

A war office spokesman said: "We have decided not to deny these reports or to make any move to prevent their publication."

The reports said:

The Soviet ships arrived off the island of St. Kilda, 60 miles from the Hebrides, on May 1 and left before the test firing of missiles and then jammed.

The Express says the spy ships started last Monday after a winter layoff. Royal Air Force planes watched the Russian ships' progress. St. Kilda is an area where there is no fishing ground. The following day considerable radar activity caused interference and jamming at the British radar establishment on St. Kilda—homing station for the South Uist rocket range.

Said one British artillery officer:

"There are usually several ships of all nations in the area so we give warning weeks ahead when there is to be firing.

"But the waters are now restricted and if Russians want to get there nothing can be done. While they remain outside British territorial waters there is no way of stopping them."

"The rocket firing was the first of a series scheduled on the range off the west coast of Scotland to train British troops in the use of the Corporal missile, now a relatively old weapon.

The Daily Mail reported that the jam signals sent from the rocket base in the Russian ships were using techniques on which British and United States scientists were working to enable them to destroy Soviet rockets as they left their launching sites.

The Daily Mail said the Russians do it like this:

"Using powerful transmitters, they do a frequency sweep to catch all the wave-lengths used by the rocket command posts. Thus they can be found to jam on those with signals—including those to rockets.

"It is relatively easy for the ultra-shortwave equipment used in the rockets to be identified and then jammed."

Arkansas Democrat Critical Of Ike's Handling of Spy Case

WASHINGTON (CP)—Even a false tale that the Russians had taken the U.-2 pilot prisoner may have been wiser than what the United States finally said, Senator J. William Fulbright says.

The Arkansas Democrat, critical of President Eisenhower's role in the incident, spoke on a television program (NBC—Meet the Press) Sunday in a discussion of the recess of the investigation by his Senate foreign relations committee.

The Senator said Eisenhower should not have taken responsibility for the flight as he finally did.

The committee, investigating the U-2 incident and the failure of the Paris summit conference, reconvenes behind closed doors Monday to hear the testimony of Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Fulbright said he understands that both Russia and the U.S. want the Paris battle of the air to vecitve that may increase to intensify cold war tensions and that the Eisenhower government had intensified its words after Khrushchev withdrew the American visit last September. Fulbright said he expects that until the May 16 summit conference fell apart.

Then after the summit, when Khrushchev showed Eisenhower's refusal to be a conference leader remained calm and rather cool, the Soviet premier-foreign cabinet spokesmen have decided to re-engage Khrushchev on his own terms, Fulbright said, Paul, Bruce and Dobin. They are believed to be between two and four years old.

"Evil Genius" Behind Menderes Commits Suicide

Namik Gedik Directed Army Against Students

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Namik Gedik, generally known as the "evil genius" behind ousted premier Adnan Menderes, committed suicide early today.

A brief communique from Ankara's martial law command said the 49-year-old ex-interior minister "threw himself out of a window of the hospital where he is being followed a nervous breakdown."

As interior minister in the deposed Menderes government, Gedik directed the national police and their brutal campaign to repress student demonstrators in late April and early May against the premier's strong-arm rule.

GUARDED BY ARMY CADET

A source at the war college reported Gedik got up from his cot shortly after midnight, diverted the attention of an army cadet who was guarding him, and threw himself through a second-floor window to a paved courtyard four storeys below.

Word of Gedik's suicide came as diplomatic sources here said that Gedik, one of the chief murderers, detained in the first wave of arrests after the May 27 coup, committed suicide.

The country's new military rulers were reported starting an airlift today to move them to the island of Marmara, island of Yassi Ada, site of a naval base, where they are housed in the husband supporters of the deposed premier.

There were unconfirmed reports that refugees from neighboring Iran and Iraq, generally known to be supporters of the deposed premier, had been secretly arrived during the weekend in preparations for an attempt to liberate the ex-premier.

Tom-Toms Call Andean Indians To Appease Gods

SANTIAGO, Chile (Reuters)—Summoned by tom-toms echoing through earthquake-shattered valleys, Andean Indians clad in white ponchos marched grimly Sunday.

They were seeking to propitiate the gods of a remote mountain region from more of the chain of deadly natural disasters which have hit Chile.

The Indians' story is one of the strangest reported from the disaster emerging now as Chile digs out of Friday's quake.

The 137,000 members of the Colquencho tribes were called by the r e m o t e l y known Hueno Chao, the god of justice and retribution, to pay rites of ancient tom-tom signals.

The ceremonial took place at the foot of Villarrica volcano, one of the two wrecked up in the Andes by the earthquakes.

Sky-Diving Husband Watches Wife Fall to Death in First Free Jump

ELSINORE, Calif. (AP) — "She's dead, Van's dead," a bewildered husband mumbled. He had just watched his wife and children and watched his wife plummet 3,500 feet in a parachute death dive.

Mrs. Vanda Pfeiffer, 33, was killed Sunday in her first free jump as a "sky-diver," a hobby she had shared with her engineer husband, William, for about a year.

Sky - diving is a relatively new sport that has a big following at this small southern California airstrip. Divers soar like birds, sometimes for thousands of feet, before opening their parachutes.

Mrs. Pfeiffer apparently was frozen by fear when she leaped from a light plane circling the practice area at 4,000 feet.

Arms folded tight across her chest, she dropped like a wounded dove as her husband, the children and about 100 spectators on the ground watched in horror and fascination.

"I watched her all the way down," said Dan Barrett, 33, who jumped from the plane a moment after Mrs. Pfeiffer.

She made no effort to pull the ripcord."

Pfeiffer stood transfixed, then started toward his wife's crumpled body. He was intercepted by friends and bundled with the children into a car. He had made his first free jump just an hour earlier.

Mountains Rise, Lakes Vanish and Appear As Earthquakes Shuffle Map of Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (Reuters) — The map of southern Chile has been altered by the week of quakes. tidal waves and eruptions which killed an estimated 6,000 persons.

An area of some 40,000 square miles has sunk, altering the geography of the region between Chillan, 186 miles from here, and the unbelievable, glacier-covered Taitao Peninsula, 1,000 miles to the south.

The region is known as "the Switzerland of South America" because of its lakes and mountains. Now some mountains have disappeared and others have emerged in their place.

Rivers have changed courses. Some lakes have been drained, others have sunk. Whole towns and villages have been erased.

Along the coast the sea rushed out and then slammed back at a fantastic speed. Waves more than 20 feet high rolled inland, at places for more than a mile, levelling hamlets and fishing villages.

Ships captains sailing between Puerto Montt and Ancud, in Chiloe Island, say that persons were engulfed in the first tidal wave, and maritime charts will have to be redrawn.

Eyewitnesses from the Chilean Andes range a "fearful sight." At least nine volcanoes, two of them new, became active—and shot smoke columns as high as 27,000 feet.

Molten lava streamed down their slopes and volcanic ash covered the area and drifted into neighboring Argentina.

Survivors of the quakes were threatened anew by fire as the volcanoes erupted almost simultaneously. The survivors covered

Nobody Will Voice a 'Haw' or 'Gee' About Teamsters' Expulsion Decree

OTTAWA (CP)—Top Canadian Labor Congress officials kept mum today about expulsion of the Teamster union—set for last Saturday—amid reports of behind-the-scenes moves to have the 65,000-member union within the Congress fold.

But key officers of the 1,150,000-member CLC—which voted at its biennial convention last month in Montreal to oust the Teamsters—met Tuesday, followed by a three-day executive council, inner cabinet of the CLC.

There were reports that both labor groups—including the powerful United States wing of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters headed by James Hoffa — CLC trying to mend the breach, which would take a large group of workers outside the Congress.

One labor observer said some CLC officers would "dearly love" to keep the Teamsters in the Congress.

However, any move that hinted at a backdown on the CLC's part would likely bring protests from Frank Hall of Montreal, a CLC vice-president and head of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks which brought the raiding charges against the Teamsters in the first place.

Other integrationist candidates scored victories in a number of areas.

Neither the Europeans nor the Moslems showed enthusiasm for the election. The rebel leadership called for abstentions. European integrationists also continued to boycott of the polls except where Mme. Legallarde was running.

First Evening Polio Clinic On Tuesday

In a recent issue of the press bulletin the headline "Polio Expected To Exceed Normal," federal officials say past experience indicates there may be more polio cases than normal in Canada this year, but that a repetition of last year's epidemic is unlikely.

The forecast comes in the wake of a sharp increase in the number of polio cases to date, according to a recent broadcast during the first 19 weeks of 1960 there were three times as many cases of polio in the country as during the same period a year ago. Up to the middle of May 1960 there have been 94 polio cases reported in Canada compared with 32 at the same date last year and 14 for that period in 1958. It is felt that most of these cases appear to be the fall end of last year's epidemic, the country's second worst in number of cases.

The article further states that while the number of polio cases reported this year is higher than last year, there is one death fewer.

Dr. Dymond, Minister of Health for the province of Ontario, appeals to adults to take advantage of the high level of immunity now in the Province. It should be remembered that polio can strike anyone of age. In 1959 there were 196 cases of paralytic polio in Ontario and 21 deaths; of these, 66 were persons over 20 years of age and none had received the complete series of polio vaccine injections.

Polio seems to hit countries with a high standard of living such as Canada.

The Belleville Health Department will be in session every Thursday afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock in its offices at which infants and adults can receive polio vaccine. If you or your children have not received the series of polio vaccine, you should consult your family physician or the Belleville Health Department without delay.

There is to be a second polio clinic at the health department offices on Tuesday, May 31 from 7 to 9 o'clock.

On June 8, there is to be an immunization clinic at Holloway United Church for children and adults.

On Tuesday, May 31, and June 8, clinics will be held in Bancroft United Church from 1.30 to 3.30 p.m.

IN MEMORIAM

COXON. — In fondest memory of a dear granddaughter, Joanne, who died May 29th, 1956.

We are with you in memory,
We see you in our hearts today;
Your memory is our treasure,
Our love you never take away.
We think of her in silence,
We miss her more each day,
Her silent tears are shed,
When absent from our thoughts
—Always remembered by Grandma and Grandpa Coxon.

COXON. — In loving memory of a dear granddaughter, Joanne, who passed away May 29th, 1956.

In the sweetness of our dear daughter.
Three years death cannot sever,
Our love for her lives on forever,
Can harm her, or ever memories dim.
She that we loved, beautiful and kind
From life's danger now secure is Lovely she is and lovely shall be.
—Ever remembered by mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Coxon.

McFARLANE. — In loving memory of a dear uncle, Jack McFarlane, who died suddenly May 30th, 1954.

If I had the world to give,
I'd give it to you and never,
To hear his voice and see his smile,
And greet him at my door,
But all we can do, dear uncle,
Is to remember you.
And keep those memories of love,
To the best uncle God ever made.
Sad to think when I'm feeling sad,
Wherever heaven may be:
Lovely she is and lovely shall be.
Up there to welcome me.
—Remembered always by A. Jackson.

POPE. — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Norman Wesley Pope, who died May 30th, 1944.

Those we love most are all we have to give.
Of him we loved and will never live.
His loving smile and happy face,
His memory we cherish in our place.
Sad was the parting, no one can tell
A heart to break when it bids farewell.
Memories are treasures no one can sever,
Time will not dim them nothing can heal.
Only those who have lost are able to tell.
The pain in our hearts of not saying
"Good-bye."
—The family loved to see he favorite flowers on his grave, brothers Eddie, Morgan and Henry.

SANFORD. — In loving memory of Margaret Sanford, who died suddenly May 30th, 1959.

Five years have passed and gone,
Since you left us with no word to say,
You were taken from our home on earth,
To live in heaven to dwell.
The flowers we place upon her grave
Are tokens of our love,
But the love for her who sleeps
Is known to God above.
—Sadly missed by husband Roy and family.

New Tremors Send Residents Into Streets

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—New tremors battered Concepcion, already one of the major victims of the earthquakes that have struck southern Chile.

They added to the 10th day of horror for the battered South American country.

Residents fled in panic when more earth shocks hit Concepcion and its provinces through Saturday night. There was no report of new avalanches, but the toll already was mounting more than 100 persons killed last week.

Reports put the toll of 100,000, completely rebuilt after a devastating earthquake in 1939, once again in ruins.

Ernesto Rodriquez, editor of the Concepcion newspaper La Patria, said the weekend tremors "cut the buildings in the downtown area swaying back and forth, and many of the homes that withstood the earlier shocks just crumbled."

Later reports helped in fanning buildings sent most residents rushing into the streets and parks, where they huddled in terror.

Bowling Notes

Better late than never is an old saying and this applies to the members who are anxiously waiting the opening of the lawn bowling season. The president, William VanTassel announced today that the greens will be officially opened this evening with a monster jitney. The recent heavy rains have prevented the bowlers from getting in their early licks but from now on they will be able to practise and play to their heart's content. The green have never looked better in their history than at the present time. All of the grass that was winter-killed has grown in and the ends have been repaired with new sod. Top dressing has arrived and when this is applied a little later they should be in excellent shape for a tough summer. The members are requested to be out early so that the games can be started and finished at a reasonable hour. New members are especially welcome and new bowlers will receive expert instruction.

The first tournament of the season was held at the Trenton Bowling Club on Saturday afternoon but there were only eight entries, two of which were from the Belleville Club. Rinks of Tom Hall, Jack Hall, Jr., Hall with Gordon Watkin, skip, and Carm Dobbs, Gordon Vowles and Walter Elliott, were on hand but neither brought home any of the prize money. Vowles and Watkin and his rink won the first two games and then a starter in the third game in Al Boyce, Clinton Mitts and Bill Fuller of Trenton rolled them off and in the last end, Mr. Fuller and his rink won the game. Boyce's rink skipped by Ken Peacock being second, Morley Goit from Quemont and Tom Hall as lead but he was not in the money.

On Wednesday afternoon the Campbellford Bowling Club will hold its first invitational meet of the year, a mixed doubles competition. From the results of the mixed doubles tournaments on the schedule, they appear to be the popular form of the competition. There is no doubt this tournament will fill.

Mrs. Kinnear's Daughter Safe, Well in Chile

Mrs. J. W. Kinnear, 279 Charles Street, said today her daughter and son-in-law, living in Concepcion, Chile, are "all right" and, although they felt the earthquake, they escaped injury in the violent earthquakes which have shaken parts of the country.

Her daughter, Elizabeth, is the wife of Dr. Eric Schramm, United Nations adviser to the Chilean government, on mining matters.

"I had a letter from them this morning and they said things were quiet but they everyone is busy getting things under control."

Gedik was widely considered one of Menderes' most trusted advisers. He was believed to have been one of the strongest voices in persuading the president to hold for an unyielding policy toward the opposition People's Republican party and toward the student demonstrators who sparked the government.

Turkey's new government is meanwhile drafting a reform program urgently needed to meet a growing economic crisis.

A brilliant economist who broke with Menderes in the mid-50s has been named finance minister to deal with the most immediate problem—pulling the country out of a paying basis.

He is 44 - year - old Ekrem Alican, who studied economics in London. Alican was once a member of the Democratic party led by Menderes, but recoiled to help found the small Opposition Freedom party.

NEEDS MORE MONEY

Turkey now is expected to turn once again to her allies in the Organization for European Economic Co-operation and the International Monetary Fund for more money. Last year, despite a $50,000,000 loan from West Germany only four months ago.

Runaway inflation was one of the charges leveled against the ex-Menderes' downfall. His attempt to stifle critics by suppressing the press heightened the discontent.

Prices — of - living index has risen more than 13% per cent since 1958, $500,000,000 in rush aid from the United States and its allies saved Turkey from a financial crash in 1958.

The new government is expected to launch a drastic financial expansion program that broadcast Menderes' plans for helping too ambitious. While he tripled the country's productive capacity, he also deeply ran into debt for machinery—and mismanagement.

DISCLAIMS AMBITION

Provisional President-Premier Cemal Gursel, 61-year-old professional soldier who insists he has no ambitions to become a dictator, has set up a committee to revise the constitution. And other provisions of the new regime is preparing for the free elections in prominent.

Turkey's foreign policy, firmly pointed by Menderes toward the West, was placed during the weekend under Selim Sarper, the 61-year-old veteran of the Lausanne Kisilcaya, 35, took Sarper's post of interior minister. An estimated 25 per cent of Turkey's population live in Istanbul, along with the governors of Izmir and Adana, have been jailed.

Negro Pastor Acquitted by All-White Jury

King was accused of filing a false state income tax return in 1956.

But the Negro integration leader interpreted the verdict as "a real ray of hope for our cause" and reveals that it is possible for one to get a just decision in the south."

And it also proves, he said, that "the members of those bands of white people in the south who believe in decency and honesty."

King could have been sentenced to prison for from 18 months to five years if convicted. The indictment charged he failed to report $7,000 of his income in 1956.

Air Force Day Saturday Had National Flavor

BY DON HARVEY

Air Force Day at RCAF Station Trenton Saturday had a national flavor. The participating units represented every province in Canada. And there were Tutor jets, Fortage Transport and Gimli Man., CF-100s from North Bay, Sabres from Chatham, N.B., Neptune and Argus from Greenwood, N.S., Tracker from Summerside, P.E.I., Chipmunks from Centralia, Ont., and various airborne units from Trenton itself.

Some 27,000 persons watched the flying and visited the many static displays in the hangars. Sure, see one Air Force Day and you've seen them all but they serve a very useful purpose. They show some of the men, planes and equipment the taxpayers' dollars buy. In addition, it gives the taxpayers a chance to view their stuff and verify their existence to the critics right on the street.

Most folks went away saying the Golden Hawks stole the show. There's certainly no doubt of the calling, but we thought some of the other flying and ground displays were just as striking in their own way.

AIRBORNE SIGHTS

There was something thrilling in watching the jet-assisted takeoff of the Caribou twin engine amphibian, tricky acrobatics by two Chipmunks, the low slip, fore and aft of the Neptune, tight flawless formation of T-33s peeling off from "ROCAF" to the new by. Even the Lank from 408 Squadron at Uplands, Ottawa, put in a very looked and sounded mighty nice.

Without a doubt the big thrill was behind Golden Hawks are the best advertising in the history of the RCAF display. Even the critics said the crowd would have been cheated if the Hawks had been unavailable.

Static displays were fewer than in the past but the variety was also placed on fast, hard-hitting aerial displays. Trenton, as the station has realized that one afternoon isn't long enough for the public to see all the units without becoming confused and disinterested. The Air Force should consider opening their gates to the public for a whole weekend.

GROUND SIGHTS

Did you notice anything peculiar about the Hawk who parachuted to the 380-foot mark within the perimeter of the airfield? Did you notice that he was the only one he went into the turn? Many saw this and wondered at the oddity. Most people thought the plane had come dangerously close to the crowd.

Buffeting is characteristic of a jet-assisted takeoff and can be caused by a number of other things. Without knowing all the facts, it would be unwise to suggest the pilot was in any danger. We understand the Hawk had been flying by the seat of his pants in a lesser aircraft, by which we mean in trouble. But in a complex plane like the F-86 you don't fly by the seat of your pants. Those who have tried are not with us anymore. From the information available it is impossible to say what caused the buffeting. Only the pilot knows, and he wasn't available.

Prime Minister Says Damage Can Be Repaired

NEW YORK (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker believes the damage done by Khrushchev's decision at the summit conference can be repaired without serious consequences.

He attaches the provision that the summit will have an honest desire to East-West relations at the conference table.

Diefenbaker makes his comments in an article in the New York Herald Tribune that appears in the new issue of Time magazine.

The article is concerned with Canada's role in negotiations being printed by The Tribune prior to the Prime Minister's visit to President Hoover in Washington Friday and Ottawa Saturday.

Diefenbaker says that he is looking for more than peace and daily comfort Americans, Canadians have a right to expect. "Conditions of conditions in a stable peace throughout the world be secured."

The prime minister says he is interested in hearing Hoover's impressions of Russia and its policies.

"Although Canada is foothills and not the mountains that it is also expected that we, as neighbors, will be provided with disaster plans that gather as quickly as possible.

It is encouraging to Diefenbaker's decision to up the summit conference had the effect of strengthening the solidarity of the western alliance."

...n Legion ...elegates Get ...own to Business

WINDSOR (CP) — About 1,300 delegates got down to business here today in the 18th biennial convention of Dominion Command, Canadian Legion.

The convention, celebrating its 35th anniversary, was officially opened Sunday by Governor-General Georges Vanier.

More than 100 resolutions dealing with government legislation will be submitted to delegates in the next five days.

Most of today's sessions was expected to be taken up with the report of the constitution and laws committee, which had a long list of resolutions.

Dominion Command President David L. Burgess of Ottawa was to deliver his presidential address this afternoon. Mr. Burgess, an aerial photographer during the First World War, was elected to his first two-year term in 1956. He has not indicated whether he will run for the post again.

Veterans Affairs Minister Brooks was the speaker at this morning's session.

In the executive resolutions list is one asking delegates to express displeasure at the government's failure to amend the Pension Act.

The resolution quotes Mr. Brooks as saying in March, 1959, that the government would go into all phases of the act at the current session of Parliament. Recently, it says, Mr. Brooks informed the standing committee no action would be taken on the act at this sitting.

The convention will be asked to approve a resolution calling for youth training in militia units. This will be backed by another resolution asking the government to restore financial grants to militia units.

Delegates will be asked also to approve a resolution urging the federal government to amend the Criminal Code permitting sweepstakes and games of chance by any chartered organization in community and welfare services.

Legion activities may get face-lifting as a result of the convention. The emphasis has been placed on more legion participation in community projects.

While members feel there is still much to be done in basic mental, physical and financial wounds of both world wars, they think more can be spent on community projects.

The 240,000 members in 2,000 communities have an annual dues potential of $1,500,000 to work with.

General Vanier applauded the legion's growing interest in community affairs and urged them to expand their work.

"You are the backbone of this country," he said.

He was made an honorary life member of the legion.

Memorial Day Toll 4 an Hour

CHICAGO (AP)—The United States Memorial Day weekend moved into its most dangerous hours today—the time when millions of motorists will take to the roads for the 'treasure trip home.

The death rate this holiday was moving at a faster rate than during the same three-day holiday in 1959, when 371 persons died in traffic accidents and a record was set.

Statistics showed more than four persons were dying every hour this holiday. At 8 a.m. EDT today the traffic death toll had reached 348.

Sonar Contact Just Old Wreck

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The United States submarine Tiranto was cruising along peacefully a week ago when the sonar operator picked up a mysterious contact.

Six anti-submarine warfare ships were sent to the scene. Divers descended, and last Friday, information about the operation began to spread.

Rumors: Could it be a Russian subsarine?

Sonar—apparatus which bounces sound impulses off solid targets—could only indicate the object's location. Divers were needed to make positive identification.

Sunday the investigation ended. Rear-Admiral Lloyd Mustin, commander of the Key West naval base, said pictures taken by an underwater camera showed definitely that all the bubbob was caused by nothing more than a coral-encrusted wreck — which probably has been standing on the ocean's floor for years.

Syngman Rhee, Wife Arrive In Honolulu

HONOLULU (AP) — Tight-lipped Syngman Rhee ended his seclusion today while South Korean officials castigated the deposed leader for having fled homeland.

The former president and his wife moved into the beach home of Wilbur Choy, a close friend and prominent Honolulu architect. They declined all requests for interviews.

The Rhees arrived from Seoul Sunday after a sudden and secret departure.

In the South Korean capital, the National Assembly summoned Acting President Huh Chung to explain why Rhee was allowed to leave.

A former national assemblyman declared Rhee escaped to avoid criticism "for his misrule of the past 12 years."

The Hapdong news agency said 3,500 university students demonstrated in Taegu, South Korea's third largest city, to back their demands that Rhee be summoned home immediately and the Huh government resign.

RETURN, EVENTUALLY

Rhee in a brief airport interview said he would go back, but not for some days.

Rhee left Korea as the vice-premier and finance, Kim Young Kap, told the assembly $20,000,000 in foreign exchange had been improperly channeled by Rhee while he was president.

Both Rhee and his Austrian born wife called the accusation fantastic.

There is speculation that Rhee wants to be out of his country during the June 15 elections when South Korea's constitution will be revised.

River Bargeman Finds Jewel Case Of Sophia Loren

LONDON (CP)—A jewel case was fished out of the Thames today and police said it may belong to Sophia Loren, who reported being robbed of more than $300,000 worth of gems.

A river bargeman found a black leather case with brass-bound handles. Inside was a diamond brooch with jewels forming the name "Sophia."

It was a black leather case that a thief—or a band of thieves—stole from the Italian actress' bedroom Saturday night while she was away from home.

Some reporters cynically observed that jewel thefts are regarded as a hoary weapon in publicists' arsenals, but Miss Loren went out of her way to work this morning while Scotland Yard combed the underworld for clues in Britain's biggest reported jewel theft in years.

"I know that some of it is insured," she told reporters, "but I'm afraid it comes to nothing like its true worth."

Wringing her hands and crying, Miss Loren moaned:

"That jewelry meant so much more to me than money, because when I was a little girl in the slums of Naples we were so poor we terribly poor.

"In the 10 years I've been working, my jewels were always such a comfort to me. I bought them slowly and carefully. They were proof to me that I would never be poor again."

She said her only remaining piece of jewelry is her wedding ring.

The value of the loot was disclosed by Pierre Rouve, director of a movie he is making here with the 25 - year - old Italian actress.

Rouve said the jewelry comprised mostly emeralds, diamonds and rubies. They were in a leather attache case in a chest of drawers, which was forced.

The burglarly apparently occurred while Miss Loren was at London airport meeting her husband, film producer Carlo Ponti.

Miss Loren is starring with British actor Peter Sellers in a film version of the George Bernard Shaw play, The Millionairess.

The robbery came a day after American actor Gregory Peck reported the theft of $14,000 in jewelry and furs from his Beverly Hills home. Veronique Ps sani, Peck is also in Britain to make a film.

TORONTO (CP) — A burglar escaped with a mink wrap and a radio early Saturday from a northend mansion where actress Gina Lollobrigida will make her home when she arrives to take up Toronto residence next month.

The theft took place in another apartment occupied by the manager from the one Miss Lollobrigida plans to rent.

National Council Of Women Meets In Niagara Falls

By ELIZABETH MOTHERWELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Resolutions with subjects ranging from peace to pets will be dealt with by the National Council of Women at its annual meeting here today.

The 125 women delegates from across Canada will consider 14 resolutions submitted by provincial councils. They will also formulate recommendations to be sent to the International Council of Women meeting in Istanbul in August.

The British Columbia council is urging Canadian legislation to provide safety regulations in the sale of poisonous carbon tetrachloride.

When purchased in drug-stores and products labelled poison, but it can be bought in bulk in unlabelled glass containers elsewhere. Several deaths are said to have been caused through the lack of precautionary measures in handling the cleaning fluid.

An investigation by affiliated councils of the hounds of sale of this poison in other countries is recommended.

Education for creative peace is suggested as a second Canadian proposal at the international meeting.

The resolution states such education must begin at home. It asks the International council to urge its members to make a concerted effort to bring up a generation of children free from prejudice and aware that the human family is one, with common needs and aspirations.

Eaton Says U.S. Must Revise Foreign Policy

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Multi-millionaire Cyrus S. Eaton said Sunday no propaganda or military force can change the structure of Communist countries, so the United States must radically revise its foreign policy.

The touring 76-year old champion of East-West collaboration told a press conference here that if the Democrats win the next U.S. presidential election, new policies of friendship toward the Communist world will be evolved.

"These policies will stress that there is no point in annihilating each other as, in my opinion, socialist countries will remain socialist and America will remain capitalist," he went on.

Eaton, born in Pugwash, N.S., is making a tour of eastern European Communist states.

"The people are firmly believers that Nikita Khrushchev wants peace," he declared. "It is tragic that he now has a lack of confidence in President Eisenhower as a result of the spy plane incident."

Eaton said it was his job and the job of American businessmen to persuade the "fanatics and lunatics" not to destroy us in a world war."

"One thing you can say about capitalists is that they want to make a profit. There is not much to gain if the United States spends $50,000,000,000 a year on armaments which are destroyed if only blows us all up."

Asked for his reaction to a suggestion by a U.S. senator, after Eaton talked with Khrushchev in Paris May 16, that his passport be withdrawn and he be prosecuted under an 1848 century law, Eaton replied:

"There is a line in our national anthem which mentions being a sweet land of liberty. If the sweet land of liberty were unable to tell me how to think, then the whole constitution would have to be revised."

IODE Membership Climbs To 31,000 Report Shows

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — A membership of nearly 31,000 in 994 IODE chapters across Canada was reported today by the order's organizing secretary, Mrs. G. D. Leggett of Toronto.

One thousand delegates are here for the five - day annual meeting of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire national chapter of Canada.

Public relations secretary Mrs. John I. Mills of Toronto said public notice of work done in Canada and overseas and work during the Second World War has shortened the name to IODE. She said the public relations department has adopted the initials and urged members to make them well-known.

SERVE COMMUNITY

"The service rendered by chapters in their own communities is one of the best forms of publicity for the order," Mrs. Mills said.

National treasurer Mrs. J. Neil Gordon of Toronto said there is some misunderstanding at the local level regarding outside appeals.

"There is no reason why chapters should not support worthwhile community projects as well as overseas, but they are able to do either by work, gifts such as furnishings or money," she said.

At the opening ceremonies Saturday night, 128 standard bearers from all provinces took part.

Toronto author Frances Bellerby Wees recounted a recent trip to Red China. Because of improvements, the Red Chinese believe they have been liberated, she said.

PANEL DISCUSSION

A panel discussion group composed of Mrs. Holt, Peterson, Miss Rowe, Belleville, Miss Stuart, Belleville, Mrs. Hall, Belleville, Hamilton, with Mr. L. F. Reid, principal of Quinte Secondary School as moderator, presented the question of higher education. Out of the discussion which took the audience participated, many ideas emerged, all of which were constructive. University education alone was considered, not vocational training, or technical. Of 100 who enter Grade 1 only four of these pass into the second year. The problem is that the student is not lost to the nation. One-half of the students who enter Grade 9 or 10 or better never completes secondary school. At the university level, the record is worse. Other factors than the student's lack of ability were discussed. Motivation was important. Parents' attitude was one of the first things to be considered and this was pointed out in the discussion in fine things.

Sometimes there are financial barriers. Bursaries are not keeping up with rising costs. Scholarships help, but that builds up debts for years that must be repaid. The Hall-Dennis education report said that ten percent of students lack motivation and is the reason for not continuing. However, the panel felt that figures was not as high as that. Earlier that it was 20 years ago. It is the parents' duty to go to university with no money, using available scholarships. The atmosphere of the community often had a significant influence on students. Values were set in the home also. There would be great loss if university education was confined to the male of all who were university material.

SECRETARY'S REPORT

The panel considered ways of trying to stimulate interest in higher education. It was felt that parental influence could not be depended on entirely, but students should be made aware of tests, should be made aware of scholarships available, should be members of the community often had a significant influence on students. Values were set in the home also. There would be great loss if university education was confined to the male of all who were university material.

Miss Marlene Robinson, of Plainfield, attended her sister as maid of honor, while the Misses Mary and Doris Robinson, of Thomasburg, also sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. All the attendants were gowned alike in aquamarine organza with matching headpieces and mitts. The maid of honor carried a crescent of yellow daisies, with yellow roses, and the two bridesmaids, nosegays of yellow taffeta 'mums and daisies.

flavor is delicious and the method is simple:

SPANISH RICE:

Buy a box of minute Spanish rice. It contains quick-cooking rice, dried onions and green peppers and seasonings. Flip it out into a large saucepan with milk and add one 20-oz. can of tomatoes and 1-2 cup water. Give it a good stir and bring it to boiling point. Cover and reduce the heat until the rice has taken up and the mixture is somewhat thickened. Remove from heat and let it stand for another 5 or 10 minutes to develop the rice and the lovely tangy flavor. As I said I served this with steak for speed's sake, but it will be excellent to serve with dishes such as breaded veal (described last week) or fried chicken or baked or fried fish — the other week-end meat or fowl or fish dish that does not include a sauce in the making of it.

CONCERNING GRADUATIONS

Many young people will be receiving a "Dear" well done" when they receive that diploma at graduation exercises during the coming weeks. Let's try to cover a few of the customs obsigned on this great occasion among them, gifts and invitations.

It is rather difficult to discuss the invitation angle, since different traditions are observed in different schools. Many of them still send out formal invitations for graduation. Many have dropped the custom, considering it an unnecessary expense. In the latter case, the graduate writes a personal note of invitation, enclosing tickets, if they have been provided.

More formal invitations, whether printed or engraved, are usually handled through the school, which is able to obtain a somewhat price. But if, for the family finances do not permit their cost, the boy or girl graduate should not be upset about it. If you can't afford expensive invitations, and are not sending a great many, you can always purchase a box of good-grade plain white note paper and write the invitations yourself. It's just as well to learn to letter in the formal handwritten notes — or you may have them typed on the phone, if you wish to. You won't be criticized in either case.

The kind of gift to be sented to the graduate is often a puzzler. One thing to remember is that an elaborate gift is neither necessary nor in good taste. Now the young lady books, record album, candy, perfume, a scarf, a compact, a locket are all suggestions. For the young man: smoking accessories, a book record album, books, a wallet, etc. The immediate family usually presents a watch, jewelry, a trip, some longed-for gown, if home hasn't been wasted to the graduate at his, or her, home, and a grand occasion a reception or dinner may be given in honor. Remember a gift is not obligatory, but I think it is a very gracious gesture to commemorate a particularly important occasion, if one does not send a gift, however, a letter or telegram would seem to be a must.

By the way a word to you graduates. Don't forget to thank-you note. It should be written as soon as possible, expressing your appreciation to all who have remembered you, whether it was by gift, letter, or wire.

Question: When chops are served with paper frills, are you supposed to pick up the chop bone? How should you hold a chop in your fingers?

Answer: While we are all agreed that gnawing on a chop bone, chicken wing, or drumstick is a tasty pastime, it is not particularly enjoyable to watch. My advice, paper frills or no paper frills, is never to pick up chop bone, etc. when dining formally with or otic. When dining at home, then it's up to you.

Speaking to the Golden Hand Brownies, Mrs. Settle told them they would find Guides quite different but they would easily adjust and like guiding as much as they had Brownieing. If they wished to keep mements of their Brownie days, she suggested they get some cardboard and take their badges and stripes, if any, and place them in some design on this cardboard and frame it. "Remember Brownies", she continued, "to wear Big Brownie smiles and keep the Brownie motto in mind, to lend a hand, especially at home. Try to be pleasant and polite to all in your own family. It seems so much easier for others to be polite and nice to outsiders, but it is more difficult in our homes."

Mrs. Settle enlightened the mothers about the work of the local association and how it is much needed and could use more members," and also told about the newly purchased camp at Wauposa, inviting those who wish to go to go to visit the camp and to visualize it as it will be.

In closing, Mrs. Settle thanked the Brownies and their leaders for a happy summer holiday.

CHEQUE PRESENTED

Brown Owl, Mrs. Sisler, presented a cheque of $13.10 to Mrs. Settle, for the Girl Guide camp to be used for the camp fund.

Special thanks were due to the Women's Institute members for their help with the banquet, especially Mrs. G. Priest and Mrs. H. Hodgson.

Thys brought a successful evening and season to a close.

Mother's Helper

BUYING a ready-made kit of materials for making a belt, wallet, hair-case, etc. is no great economy. But for youngsters who aren't particularly handy at making things, such a kit may help build self-confidence and result in a satisfying sense of accomplishment.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Howard F. — I'm a one-woman man.

Don F. — She's playing him for a sucker.

Howard F. — I am a bachelor of 37. I've been going out with the same girl for nearly seven years. I've dated others, but I've been really in love with Sharon ever since I met her.

The problem is that she is interested in a singing career and feels she can't settle down to marriage until she has won some success. Well, I say seven years is an awfully long time to wait after one thing and not be able to prove yourself at it. If she had what it takes she would have achieved something by now.

I am sure Sharon is sincere in her to face up to herself and then she'll be glad to have me to turn to. My friends think I'm a fool and keep trying to get me to break with her, but I guess I'm a one-woman man.

Don F. — This whole thing has become awfully silly. Howard has surely got to open up to expects to get married very soon. In the meantime most of the boys in our group have married and are raising families and he's the only fellow not involved in some of the silent girls.

We all feel Howard is playing Howard for a sucker. She dates him when she hasn't anything better to do. She has told him in so many words that he's too dull and stodgy for her to be interested in leading a glamorous, exciting life.

If Sharon ever gets anywhere with her career, she'll drop Howard like a hot potato. Why should a good-looking, intelligent guy spend his time on a courting a girl who would only take him as a last resort?

The Council: Howard sees something about Sharon that seven-year apparently hopeless pursuit of one goal, but fails to notice that he is doing the same thing. It just shows how unobjective people can be about themselves!

Just as Howard has fixed on Sharon as his one possibility of real happiness, she has fixed on a glamorous, theatrical career as her one real chance.

The trouble with these rigid goals that fail to materialize is that they are usually founded on a false basis. Those who want to marry, marry. Those who want to sing, sing. Those who want glamour learn to create it or partake of it in the terms possible to them. Those who want to knock their heads against a stone wall year after year do only that.

Of course, we can't achieve our biggest dreams. Individuals do have a lot of frustration or who aren't runaway from something unmanage to incorporate someth of their dream in real life. S on may not be able to make Metropolitan opera or be a recording vocalist, but if she a voice and has worked h she can find many opportun Brownie motto in mind, to lend a hand, especially at home. Try to be pleasant and polite to all in your own family. It seems so much easier for others to be polite and nice to outsiders, but it is more difficult in our homes."

Mrs. Settle enlightened the mothers about the work of the local association and how it is much needed and could use more members," and also told about the newly purchased camp at Wauposa, inviting those who wish to go to to visit the camp and to visualize it as it will be.

Dutch Tulips Make A Canadian Spring

by Mary Moore

I bought three dozen cut yellow tulips in the departure lounge at Schiphol to share with my friends and relatives at home. For some fifteen passengers had six or seven dozen in their arms. When we were in flight the stewardesses obligingly put them all in water overnight. They were so fresh they lasted a whole week.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

MONDAY

Fricasseed Shoulder - Pork Chops; Creamed Potatoes; Buttered Peas with Tiny Onions; Celery; Blanc Mange with Sliced Fresh Strawberries; Tea.

When I sprung out of the car at home, to my tremendous satisfaction, the tulip bulbs I had planted last Fall were in full bloom. I had bought some pink and white double tulips for the front and the colorful show is the talk of the neighborhood. In the back garden I have clusters of tall cream and dark purple beauties.

I have decided that for long lasting beauty and sheer viewing pleasure tulips capture all of the awards. That just may be because we are so flower-starved by the time a Canadian Spring arrives.

I have discovered a new vegetable dish. I was merely pressed for time than usual and my family were gathering at our cottage for dinner. I made a quick trip to the stores and bought big strawberries to serve as a first course, European style, with sour cream, powdered sugar; steak and new asparagus to go with the Spanish Rice dish I wanted to make (see below). For dessert I bought a glass jar of preserved figs and chilled them, to serve with creamed cheese and ginger-snaps.

When they are troubled by backaches, that tired out feeling or disturbed rest, many women turn to Doan's Kidney Pills! These conditions can be caused by excess acids and wastes in the system and Doan's Kidney Pills stimulate the kidneys and aid their normal action of removing these excess acids and wastes. Then life seems brighter, hours work lighter! Why don't you, too, try Doan's?

DISTRICT WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

HOLLOWAY WMS AND WA

HALLOWAY — The combined regular meeting of the Halloway WMS and WA was held at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Denyes on Wednesday evening with 16 members in attendance.

Mrs. Alvin Donaldson led the group in a devotional service, using the theme "The Spirit of man is the candle of the Lord," and a meditation on "Freedom in the Spirit." Hymns, "Make Me a Captive Lord" and "Breathe on Me Breath of God" were sung.

The Scripture, chosen from Galatians 5: 13-18 and 25, was read by Mrs. E. Emerson, followed with prayer by Mrs. Donaldson.

In the business the purchase of a double size bedsheet was to be made to complete the supply needs. Donations to the flower fund were to be handed in at the June meeting.

In the WA business, presided over by the president, Mrs. F. Wellman, plans were made for the coming strawberry and ice cream supper to be held in the Church parlors on June 22nd. The annual WA meeting to be held in the United Church in Tweed on May 26th, was mentioned.

The roll call was responded to by six cards being sent and nine visits to shut-ins.

Mrs. Harry Morgan introduced an interesting book, "The Scarlet Lily," written by Nan Shipley. This was a true story of a girl who in the beginning, because of the illness of her father, a gold miner, went west to see him. It tells of her hardships going so far and the people she met. Later she married an Indian missionary.

Mrs. Pat Dixon gave the literature report which concerned the problem of refugee populations in other countries.

Following this, and the closing of the meeting lunch was served by Mrs. Denyes and her assistants, Mrs. K. Mullen and Mrs. John Robson.

EGGLETON MISSION BAND

MADOC JUNCTION — The May meeting of the Eggleton Mission Band was held last Friday afternoon at the school with a good attendance.

At the front the worship centre was most attractive, with an African scene in the background and a lovely vase of white lilies and purple lilacs, arranged by Wayne McMullen and Lloyd Clancy.

For the Scripture lesson, Dianne, Prest read the 61st Psalm.

The offering was gathered by Billie Clarke.

All enjoyed the duet sung by Vickie Browning and Lois Danford.

Glenn Stapley read an interesting story.

The leader, Mrs. Clancy, presented the story from the study book, telling about Boloji's first day at the town school and how the minister introduced him to the pupils.

The "World Friends" papers were distributed by Carol White, Michael Browning and Lloyd Clancy.

Several African songs were sung.

The next meeting is to be held June 17th and it was decided to invite the mothers to attend on that date.

A couple of games, led by Mrs. Clancy and Isabelle Prest, were enjoyed.

After the meeting was dismissed, the lunch conveners, Lyn Stapley and Kenny Danford, served cookies and candy.

ENDEAVORS CLASS

WEST HUNTINGDON — Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wright entertained the members of the Endeavors Class for the regular monthly meeting, on Thursday evening. There was a good attendance.

Arthur Wilson was in charge of the program and was assisted in the worship service by Arnold Wannamaker offering prayer and Clayton Wright reading the Scripture lesson and giving an explanation of game.

Mr. Alex McCurdy acted as secretary. Roll call was answered by each member giving a favorite verse of Scripture.

Mrs. Gordon Donnan and Mrs. Russell Sills each contributed helpful readings. Arnold Wannamaker gave the special address on the subject "Love." This was an outstanding message and the members of the class are most grateful to Mr. Wannamaker for his assistance on the program.

A quartet, composed of the Loi sisters and Donna and Sharon Hammond, gave two songs. These also were much appreciated.

Mrs. Frank Hammond was responsible for this fine program and voiced the appreciation of the class to those who assisted and to Mr. and Mrs. Wright for opening their home.

The singing of a hymn and prayer closed the meeting. Mrs. Wright served lunch.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

This week a well-known Belleville and district former baseball great walks slowly to the figurative bench.

WALTER GEROW

This week Walter Gerow hangs up baseball shoes life gear. His name, synonymous with senior baseball for two decades will later be placed on the honorable retirement list.

Manager of the Memorial Arena since 1945, he will remain for a year in an advisory capacity to his successor, Jack Dickens.

Baseball fans who survived the First War years and galloped through the Roaring Twenties will never forget the name "Gerow."

It was esteemed and respected in all baseball centres —and feared in not a few. None, especially those fine chaps who played with and under him, will forget the long, lean figure, elbow on knee, chin in hand, standing on a August step mentally arranging strategy.

For baseball was Walter Gerow's first and only sports love, one that endured the years, and still burns a responsive flame in the heart and mind of the man.

He knew baseball, so to speak, from cover to cover. He was a keen student of the game, a judge of players and a master of strategy.

Who else could have led Belleville teams to two provincial senior championships and one intermediate Ontario Baseball League titles? Who else could have led the Woburn Mine Beavers to the tough Nickel Belt Baseball League championship in 1941?

And in a lesser light, who else could have led the brilliant Napanee teams to league championships in the Bay of Quinte circuit days, and when they were not winning the title were scaring the daylights out of their arch enemies from Picton?

And who else could have played first base as brilliantly in the days of the famous Belleville Grand Trunks before an accident at the plate smashed a shoulder and ended his playing career?

Those days are deeply etched on the Gerow memory. The other day he, with many others, mourned the passing of the brilliant catcher of those stirring times, "Peenie" Wills.

His eyes brighten and a nostalgic smile will spread over his face if you mention the Mills brothers, the "Indian" Jack Williams, Joe Kelleher, one of the outfield stalwarts, "Hoot" Gibson, Wicky Rose, the Weir boys, Sammy Symons, the Coryes, and many others who carried the Belleville colors to baseball glory.

And in the later thirties when he managed the Napanee arena, the Gifford Baseball Park, and the Napanee baseball squad, he again rose to baseball heights. He remembers the Lefty Pointers, the George Blazetichs, the Lefty Bishops, the Ran Cards, the Hughie Brennans, the "Whitey" Wilsons and the Picton foemen Ross Chauncy, "Scrappy" Phillips, Roly Rorke, Morley Durnford, Pete Cole, "Peewee" McQuaid, Raymie Hudgins, Earl Mighton and others.

Foxboro-born Walter Gerow, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gerow, was a cigar-maker by trade. He worked here and in Toronto, and at one time he was a delivery boy for the Green Meat Market.

Baseball didn't grow on him. It was part of him. It came to him naturally, both in and out of school. "Josh Canning," he says, "started me off right." In Belleville he played for the Rolling Mills and the Park Nine. A strong arm, quick mind and unerring throw made him a natural first baseman. In Toronto he played with St. Mary's.

He played that position under Manager George Fegg, when the Grand Trunks won the 1919 Ontario title. In 1920 he and Jack Dunn ended his playing days.

But if the Grand Trunks lost a fine player, baseball here inherited an outstanding manager and coach.

His duels of wits in provincial playoffs and titular battles with such great Ontario teams as the Toronto Hillcrests and Oslers, the Galt Terriers, the Walkerville Chicks were masterpieces of baseball strategy.

No lesser were his triumphs and near-triumphs in league and playoff classics against those great Central Ontario League clubs from Peterborough, Oshawa, Kingston and other district teams.

Walter Gerow was never a "loudmouth" strategist, manager or player. He spoke, worked and operated his clubs quietly and efficiently. He knew a baseball player when he saw one. He always played to win, yet never "groused" in defeat. He always fought for his players and club, on and off the field. He was loved and revered by all with whom he came in baseball contact.

Walter had a wonderful helpmeet, Mrs. Gerow, the former Maud Keet of Rosamore, was and is one of his greatest fans. She smiled with him in victory—and sobbed him in defeat.

They raised a fine family. Walter, Jr., was one of the best athletes turned out in this district, starring in hockey and baseball. A daughter Marg married the late Hugh Brennan, former catching star of Napanee. Other daughters are Jean (Mrs. Lorne Smart); Fern (Mrs. Claire Williamson); Leila (Mrs. Dick Bears) and Joan (Mrs. Willie Menard.)

Lacrosse

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Port Credit Sailors won their second straight Ontario Lacrosse Association senior game Saturday night, beating Peterborough Mercuries 11-4.

The Sailors led 4-0 at the end of the first period, which took an hour to play. They increased the margin to 10-3 in the second. Each team scored one goal in the final period, played in a tight time.

The first period was held up by some pushing and several fist melees, although the member of miles.

penalties wasn't especially high. Twenty-four were handed out in the game, 13 to the winners.

Scoring two each for Port Credit were Bob Cherry, Jack Rawson and Brian Harne. Getting one went to Lou Nickel, Jim Allan, George Kapsky, Merrill Kells and Florie Tomchishen.

For Peterborough, Larry Ferguson had two, Bob Curtis and Roy Wood one each.

Birds Hatch Double-Yolker; Pirates Share Lead

Indians Split, Sox Nipped; As Tribe Split, Sox Nipped; Blues Bop Phils, Giants Lose

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

The first quarter of the National League season is over and the surprising Pittsburgh Pirates are running a strong race, thanks with the San Francisco Giants for the league lead. Cincinnati, getting better pitching than had been expected, is third and Milwaukee is struggling along a disappointing fourth.

Los Angeles has begun to move after a seven-game of the blind staggers and St. Louis is proving itself a tough customer at home. Chicago and Philadelphia are trailing.

Pittsburgh jammed its way into a tie with San Francisco Sunday by belting the Phillies 8-3 while the Cardinals were knocking off the Giants 4-3 in a game cut to five innings by rain.

HOMERS HELP

For the second straight game, Cincinnati won with a ninth-inning home run. This time it came from Jerry Lynch with one man on base to down Milwaukee 4-3. Duke Snider, a left hitter going into the game, drove in all four Los Angeles runs with two homers in a 4-0 victory over the Cubs.

Willie Mays' two homers and Billy O'Dell's pitching gave San Francisco an 8-3 decision over St. Louis Saturday while the Pirates nosed out Philadelphia 4-2 in 11 innings.

Chicago Cubs and Los Angeles Dodgers played to a 5-5 tie in the first game of a twi-night doubleheader Sunday at Chicago. The second game was called at Cincinnati was rained out.

Vern Law won his seventh for the Pirates Saturday with the help of some neat relief pitching and Lonnie Run hitting — by Fred Green.

American Wins Sports Car Race At Jarvis

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

JARVIS, Ont. (CP) — Roger Penske of Villanova, Pa., raced his RSK Porsche 360 blistering kilometres to win the Carling Trophy Race Saturday, then drove all night to appear in a race at Bridgehampton, N.Y. Sunday.

The win was worth $1,900 to the 25-year-old race engineer.

Penske doubled all the way with Peter Ryan of Mont Tremblant, Que., who placed second in an RS-60 Porsche.

Belgian Ace Olivier Gendebien was third in an RS-60, taking third in each of the three heats.

Penske covered 80 laps of the 1.9-mile track in two hours, two minutes and 19.4 seconds. That's time for the distance was 2:2:29 Gendebien's was 2:4:6.

UPSET WIN

The Penske-Ryan showing was an upset. Gendebien, one of the top 12 professional racing drivers in the world and a former member of the Ferrari factory team, had been expected to sweep the event.

However, his RS 60 developed engine trouble. Mechanics worked for 1½ hours to get Gendebien blew up that one too. Having no 1,500 engine available, Gendebien's car was forced to install one of 1,500 cc.

On the other hand, Penske's Porsche, a new car, was powered with the 2-litre engine.

The ground of 15,000 was also in Penske's favor. Gendebien, facing Harewood Acres track, may have to race heavy rainfall just before race time.

Total entry number was 31.0'6. Gendebien, Ryan and Penske's Grand Prix de Monaco to drive for Ferrari.

"I did the best I could. For this type of wide-open circuit, I'm not the driver to meet them again on a road course."

Third for production sports cars was Bob Wright of Orillia in an Austin-Healey.

Interviewed later at Simcoe, Gendebien said the Grand Montreal Carls rally, as now constituted, suits his driving style better.

Gendebien said that while it was an important "prestige" race, he disagreed with the system of simultaneous starts from all parts of the field.

"It's largely a matter of luck, guessing the route which will be taken by the first car," he said.

The system favors "big factory cars which can afford to ship the racers to the likelihood-looking starting point.

Race Drivers May Face A Suspension

JARVIS (CP)—Several United States drivers who competed in the 300 kilometre race at nearby Harewood Saturday entered the races under threat of suspension from the Sports Car Club of America Incorporated, it was reported Sunday night.

Before the event the Americans, including the eventual winner, Roger Penske of Villanova, Pa., received notices from the SCCA reminding them that SCCA policy prevents licensed members from driving sports cars in Formula 1Libre races such as the 300-kilometre was called.

SCCA competition director John M. Bishop said the 300 was not really a Formula 1Libre race but a "catch-all race."

SCCA members may compete in Formula 1Libre races as long as they don't use a sports car. The US drivers removed quite longer seats and other equipment in an attempt to meet this qualification but the SCCA may not recognize these modifications.

Williams Says Managing Team 'Lousy Job'

BALTIMORE, Md. (CP)—Ted Williams reiterated Sunday that he thinks managing a baseball team is "a real lousy job" and has no plans to join the fabulous Boston Red Sox.

The 41-year-old slugger, confined to his hotel room with a virus, missed Sunday's doubleheader.

Boston has lost 13 of its last 15 games and there has been speculation manager Billy Jurges will lose his way out. Earlier this season, there was a report of discussion on the club with some of the players opposed to Jurges' handling of the team.

At the time Williams came to the defense of Jurges.

Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey and general manager Bucky Harris met in Boston Sunday. Harris had "no comment" on any report of a change. Yawkey was not available for comment.

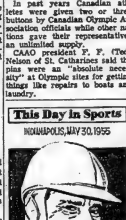
Oarsmen Get National Pins

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Canadian rowers at this summer's Olympic Games will have an unlimited supply of national pins—described as an "absolute necessity" for trading and winning favors abroad.



The Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsman announced it will mail 10c worth special metal button bearing the CAAO crest and backed by a maple leaf.

In past years Canadian athletes were given two or three buttons by Canadian Olympic Association officials while other nations gave their representatives an unlimited supply.

CAAO president F. F. (Ted) Nelson of St. Catharines said the pins were an "absolute necessity" at Olympic sites for getting things like repairs to boats and laundry.

AT THE McCARTHY — "The Tingler," a deadly organism at the base of the spine in every human being, is isolated by Vincent Price, playing a doctor in the Columbia release, and his assistant Darryl Hickman. "The Tingler" opens today at the Odeon McCarthy and Belleville Drive-In Theatres. 2nd new hit is "I Bury the Living", featuring Richard Boone and Theodore Bikel.

AT THE BELLE — Two great favorites — Grace Kelly and William Holden, in a scene from Paramount's Korean War thriller, "The Bridges at Toko-Ri", in Technicolor, beginning today at the Belle Theatre. The 2nd outstanding film on the same program is, "The Country Girl", co-starring William Holden, Grace Kelly and Bing Crosby.

Outsider Takes Rich Race At Aqueduct

NEW YORK (CP)—John William, a 20 to 1 outsider, scored a head victory over Count Amber Saturday in the $117,000 Wilbers Mile at Aqueduct and withstood a foul claim before the official result was posted.

In a major upset, the favored Francis S. finished third, half a length behind Count Amber, whose jockey, Larry Adams, claimed that John William interfered with him in the stretch.

But after viewing the movies the stewards said they could see no interference by jockey Hedley Woodhouse, aboard the winner. John William paid $42.20, $16.30 and $5.40. Count Amber returned $15.40 and $5.60 while Francis S. paid $2.60.

At Inglewood, Calif., Fleet Nasrullah, a fast horse at a sprint distance, won the $111,300 Californian with a blazing show of speed in the stretch. The distance was 1 1-16 miles.

Eddie Schmidt was second and Bagdad was third.

Fleet Nasrullah paid $2.80, $2.80 and $2.20. Eddie Schmidt paid $8.80 and $4.20 and Bagdad $3.

ENTRY IS 1-2

In Chicago, the Tallo Grissom entry of Lunilah and Eight Ahead finished 1-2 in the $28,625 Sheridan Handicap for three-year-olds at Washington Park.

In third place, a length behind Eight Ahead, came Calumet Farm's fast-closing Hillsborough. Pied d'Or, the other half of the favored Calumet entry, was a poor sixth.

The winning entry paid $15.80, $10.80 and $4.20.

Jockey Bill Harlack guided Royal Native between horses at the top of the stretch to come from last place and win the $27,700 Colonial Handicap at Garden State Park Saturday.

Flin Flon Fine Reduced to $650

SASKATOON (CP) — A $2,000 fine levied against Flin Flon Bombers of the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League was reduced to $650 during the league's weekend annual meeting.

League commissioner Frank Boucher said in a statement:

"Because of extenuating circumstances that have since come to light, I decided that in the best interests of hockey and the league to reconsider my previous edict regarding the use of player Clint Pennington by Flin Flon.

"After carefully weighing all the facts, I decided to levy a fine of $650 against the Flin Flon club. Although Flin Flon did play Pennington after being advised that he was not eligible, the management did see fit not to use the player concerned in any further playoff games under our jurisdiction."

Prior to the announcement, league franchise holders had voiced unanimous approval of the commissioner's original action.

Pennington was the league's top scorer during the 1958-59 season, joined Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series under strengthening regulations this year.

After seeing action in the Olympic Games, he finished the regular season with Kitchener before rejoining Flin Flon. He was ruled ineligible for play in the SJHL but later played with Flin Flon in interprovincial playoffs.

On the Track

TORONTO (CP) — Wonder Where won the $7,500 Inferno Stakes at Hialeah Treasure won the $7,500 Marine Stakes at Old Woodbine Park Saturday afternoon. Both stakes winners were ridden by Jockey Alfonso Coy.

After winning the Marine for owner W. R. Beasley, Coy came back to defeat his arch rival Avalino Gomez by a nose in the Inferno. Gomez rode Winning Shot in the Inferno, after finishing second on Mr. and Mrs. J. Taylor's colt, All Canadian in the Marine.

Wonder Where, owned by Larkin Maloney and Conn Smythe, ran one of the greatest races of her career, defeating the favorite Winning Shot very narrowly. Our Sirdar finished a good third.

The winner was second choice to Winning Shot and paid $6.60 to win.

In the Marine, Men at Play was third, Hidden Treasure paid $4.20 to win.

The running of the Marine Stakes had an important bearing on the race it ranked of the Queen's Plate. It is assumed now that the Taylors' will bring Victoria Park from New York to represent them in the Canadian classic.

Rating of 433 Households Finds TV Harmless for Kids

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Parents with children under 11 are overwhelmingly convinced that their youngsters have not been affected adversely by watching television, according to a survey recently made by one of the research firms which specializes in program ratings.

The company, in what it calls a "special qualitative sampling" of 433 households, reported 80.3 per cent found TV harmless for kids. The 19.7 per cent who reported that young children were upset by it blamed old horror movies like Frankenstein and Dracula but also levelled a finger at certain westerns, cartoons, mystery shows and the Three Stooges.

It probably takes more than 433 families to make a national case of it. But the study found that the specific programs which parents regard their little ones to tune in on were Shirley Temple, Story Book, Father Knows Best, Leonard Bernstein's musical programs, Twentieth Century, the American Heritage series, Telephone Hour, Men into Space, Wagon Train, John Cunbert's High Road, Dick Clark's American Bandstand, and the Danny Thomas Show.

The researchers made a companion study about family guidance of children's reading. They found parents forbidding, in overwhelming numbers, the reading of comic books and, in lesser number, horror stories. But they approved children's classics, fairy stories, animal tales and certain children's magazines.

The conclusion is that parents are more informed about television than children's books, and thus could give more specific guidance in the former.

Super-Eye, Named Astracon, Involves New Principle Perfected to Amplify Light

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A super-eye from science is ready to be peering into corners of the universe.

Attached to telescopes, it promises to extend man's vision billions of miles into space, photographing great islands of stars too distant and dim to be examined by present means.

This super-eye is an electronic tube which magnifies light to a fantastic degree. A faint image invisible to the human eye can be magnified nearly 30,000-fold or more in brightness.

It literally lets you see in the dark. Soldiers carrying this compact foot-long tube can see an enemy clearly in the midnight blackness of a moonless, overcast night.

Astronomers want to see more and farther to win more knowledge of the universe, perhaps its origin and its destiny.

THE PRINCIPLE

This is a main reason for development of the super-eye, named the Astracon. It is being perfected at the Westinghouse Research Laboratories after five years of research involving a new principle of amplifying light.

"We think the Astracon reaches just about the ultimate in man's ability to amplify ordinary light," says A. E. Anderson, manager of the physics product department of the laboratories. "It promises to make big telescopes out of little ones."

A 30-inch telescope riding in space aboard an artificial satellite might in effect become as powerful in seeing ability as the 200-inch telescope at Mount Palomar, the world's largest telescope.

The 200-inch telescope can see almost 2,000,000,000 light years into space—that is, photograph galaxies so far away it took their light that long to reach the earth.

But more great collections of data lie beyond.

MILITARY DEMONSTRATION

Demonstrating the Astracon's seeing power, scientists turned out all lights in a laboratory room. The tube was pointed toward a toy model of a military base 10 yards away. With the lights out, your eye saw nothing.

But the electronic tube picked up the faint, stray light falling on the toy, magnifying it so you could see the tank and its gun barrel clearly.

The Astracon works by multiplying the basic units of light—photons—electronically.

Navy's Cutest Secret Weapon Is Three-Year-Old Porpoise

By RALPH DERRYON

PALOS VERDES, Calif. (AP) — Puppy-playful Notty, age 3, is the United States Navy's cutest secret weapon.

Notty is a porpoise.

He belongs to the naval ordnance test station at China Lake, Calif., which, although headquartered on an empty desert for safety's sake, specializes in such grim aquatic devices as torpedoes.

Notty would make a fine torpedo.

Still a baby, the six-foot, 180-pound Notty can streak through the water at well over 20 knots on command.

By the time she's grown she may be able to hit 30 knots, or even 40—which is one of the reasons the navy has gone into the porpoise-sitting business.

OTHERS

Porpoises have a built-in sonar—audible sonic and supersonic—like foreheads that enable them to give us blindfolded through mazes of wires and ropes, spot lobsh yards away through murky water.

Porpoises can be trained to tow things through the water, even wear hearnesses.

Porpoises are extremely intelligent, perhaps rivalling man in their ability to adapt to a new environment. They are eager to learn.

All they ask in return is a signal of approval and an extra ration of fish.

Last January the U.S Navy commissioned Marineland Oceanarium here to catch and lease a young porpoise. Notty was soon installed in her own special tank.

Soon she will be flown to San Diego and placed in a windowed tank 34 feet long and 12 feet wide.

Cameras will record her every motion. Tiny instruments fastened to her rubbery skin will gather data on how best things found yet for the purpose are fishes—will radio her heartbeat, respiration and temperature as she goes through her tricks.

EFFORTLESS SPEED

Her skin temperature, for example, may provide a clue to the effortless speed of her kind.

Dr. Irving Redmon, University of Southern California anatomist, has found that porpoises have a rich mass of blood vessels just under that skin. One of the theories he wants to investigate with Notty is that a sudden flow of blood to the skin may warm—and thus thin out — the water around her, allowing Notty to cut through the water.

The same rush of blood may also flow backward along her body as she swims, creating microscopic ripples in her skin.

Navy hydrodynamicist Thomas Lang says these ripples, if they exist, may break up the tiny bubbles that form on the surface of objects moving through water and cause drag.

These principles, applied to torpedoes and submarines, could double their speed and save taxpayers millions of dollars in navy fuel bills.

TWO DIE AT SPEEDWAY — Fans slop a 30-foot aluminum tower scramble frantically as the structure collapsed yesterday just before the start of the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race. Two men were killed and about 50 others persons injured. Note the flattened section of fence on the ground trying to get out of the way. (AP Wirephoto).

Car Race Fans Munch Chicken, Drink Beer, Ignoring 2 Killed, 82 Hurt as Stand Falls

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) —An angry jury of officials today investigated a slow-motion crash of a home-made scaffold which killed two men and injured 82 persons at the start of Monday's 500-mile Indianapolis Speedway race.

Coroner Roy B. Storms blamed the tragey on the Indianapolis Speedway management.

He said the grand jury he ignored his protests against the make-shift towers which dot the track's infield.

Edwin K. Steers Indiana attorney-general said a check will be made to determine whether safety measures can be imposed on the privately owned track.

Fred R. Linder, 36, Indianapolis and William Craig, 37, Zionsville, Ind., died of broken necks when the 30-foot high aluminum tower, jammed with at least 75 and possibly as many as 130 persons, tipped as its spectators leaned forward to watch Monday's pre-race activities.

Linder operated the leased scaffold, William Shortridge, the victim's father-in-law said.

Note-taking jammed newsmen at the scene as they tried to get out of the way.

Linder said he had been warned after than the spectator area. The race, won by Jim Rath, of Miami, provided only one injury-producing crackup. Driver Eddie Russo was reported in critical condition but was expected to live.

The accident went unnoticed by most of the more than 200,000 persons watching the start of the race. Several witnesses complained bitterly of many fans sitting within feet of the tangled mass of pipes and timbers. Some of them continued to munch fried chicken and drink beer despite pleas to assist in rescue work.

The spectators had rented seats at $1.25 and $2.50 at the tumulous tower, jammed with at least 75 and possibly as many as 130 persons, tipped as its spectators leaned forward to watch Monday's pre-race activities.

Speaking by long distance telephone from Oshawa, Taylor announced the decision to officials of the Jockey Club in Toronto.

Victoria Park is rated as the best horse ever bred in Canada. He finished third behind Nantallah and Way and Bally Ache, in the Kentucky Derby and then finished second to Bally Ache in the $150,000 Preakness stakes.

SEVENTH BODY FOUND

TRIPOLI, Libya, (AP)—Search parties dug on today for the bodies of a seventh member of a nine-man American "ghost" bomber crew which bailed out over the North African desert in the Second World War, reports reaching here Sunday said. The B-24 Lady Be Good Liberator bomber landed on the desert unmanned and virtually intact after a bombing raid on Naples, Italy, April 4, 1943. The remains of five men were found near the bomber by British oil men. The skeleton of another was found 35 miles away a month later.

Govt. Adds Eight Hours To Already Busy Work Week

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons looked towards home horizons Monday with deatermenent over the distance to be travelled and a snarl of conflict over the best road to take.

Government supporters and the Liberal opposition agreed in principle, but with differing bentabties, on a Progressive Conservative proposal to lengthen Commons business hours for the remainder of the current session.

The CCF accused both of working as stamp out parliamentary rule in favor of government by cabinet in their haste to wind up the Commons session at an opened Jan. 14. The small socialist group said it is time for Parliament to accept the fact that governing the country is a full-time business and should be treated as such.

The government offered a motion aimed at speeding up business so that MPs can go home early in July. The spokesman received approval, the only agreedto change putting off the starting date from Wednesday until Monday.

Under the new schedule, the Commons will add eight hours to its present work week of 25½ hours with the institution of 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. sittings on all weekdays except for the one on Friday as now.

Last year's session opened Jan. 15 and prorogued July 18, and there was little time left over for the inevitable motion adding to the House hours.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker called on all members to adopt "a kind of voluntary restraint" on opportunity in not carrying on debates beyond that limit within which every possible argument has been advanced."

He suggested that the House could complete the session's business "by about the first week of July."

Opposition Leader Pearson said the Liberals will be glad to cooperate in facilitating business while reserving the right to discuss fully every measure submitted to the House. He said the Commons could perhaps" finish around mid-July in the next breath said even this "certainly looks unlikely" at present.

If the government desired, his party would be prepared to adjourn and come back next autumn.

A CCF motion that July 1 be fixed for extra sittings to begin was defeated on a recorded vote of 102 to 6. Harold Winch, (CCF—Vancouver East) said the foundations of parliamentary government were being crumbled.

There are now only seven members in the House of Commons who want to go home instead of staying here to do the job for which they were elected," he said.

The CCF provided for a summer adjournment as-a fixed rule and this is where it needs to be right now, Speakers, he added, there were only 43 Liberals and eight Progressive Conservatives among 208 government supporters, accepting the government's attempting to "legislate by exhaustion."

By extending the hours and holding back the most important and controversial legislation until near the end of the session, the government was trying to avoid the least amount of criticism during the time it was needed most.

Irish Republic Said One Seat of Nazi Movement

TEL AVIV, Israel (Reuters)—Wartime Jewish leader Joel Brand charged Monday that an undercover Nazi organization in Ireland was responsible for the wave of anti - Semitic daubings that started the Western world early this year.

Brand, Second World War Jewish leader in Budapest, Hungary, spoke out on the eve of publication of his memoirs in which he charges that the Irish Republic is now one of the main centres for the leader and branches in many European and North American countries.

In Dublin, Irish government information director Patrick O'Hara said Brand's book was a "absolute nonsense."

O'Hanrahan added: "Everyone is nobody in the Irish Republic or anything or typing that resembles Nazi movement. We do not believe it. It is just a silly story."

Anti-Semitism Asked

Brand also charged that the undercover Nazi group in Ireland was responsible for anti-Semitism mainly with certain Arab countries.

He named two former top Nazis said to be living in Ireland identified them as former S.S. hero and espionage chief under Reinhard Heydrich and Hitler's financial adviser Hans Degrelle.

There is no secret about Strontzy's connections with Ireland, last year it was publicly announced he had bought a County Kildare estate and would live there.

ASKED PERMISSION

Irish Justice Minister Oscar Traynor said in Dublin that Strontzy, who also has a home and business in Madrid, had asked for permission to live in Ireland permanently at some future time probably within several years hence.

The minister said there was no evidence to support suggestions that Strontzy intended to use Ireland as a base for Nazi activities.

Brand said Degrelle and Strontzy now live near Dublin most of the year but have businesses in Spain and spend some time there.

Police Unable To Discover Murder Weapon

COOKSVILLE, Ont. (CP)—An extensive police search has failed to find the weapon used in an axe murder here Thursday the weekend slaying of Mrs. Catherine Carberry in her home.

Police believe the slayer was known to Mrs. Carberry, for she lives and friends said he would not have visited strangers in the house. There was no sign of a struggle although marks on the dead woman's head indicated a blow ward off the blows.

Police said they were always wary when by Mr. Carberry with a loaded shotgun if they did not know who was in the house, especially at night.

Police said the fact that he was fully dressed and the oil lamps had not been lit indicated the killing took place before Mrs. Carberry's neighbor, Joseph McPaul, left the house at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. He found the body Sunday when he called to drive Mr. Carberry to church.

Mrs. Carberry is seriously ill in hospital.

Teamsters Will Be Given Another Hearing

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Labor Congress will give the Teamsters Union another hearing before deciding whether to expel the 40,000-member union out of the central body of organized labor for raiding a congress affiliate.

But the Teamsters will have to talk fast if they want to stay in the labor congress fold.

An expulsion order which was to have gone automatically into effect last Saturday has not been formally acted on by the CLC executive council. To keep it from going into effect, the Teamsters will have to:

1. Agree to withdraw an application for certification for workers in the CPR merchandising services at Vancouver—still before the Canada Labor Relations Board.

2. Agree to live up to the CLC constitution which forbids raids on the membership of other CLC affiliated unions.

Boris Pasternak Dies of Heart, Lung Ailments

Peace Prize Winner For Literature in '58

MOSCOW (AP)—Boris Pasternak, 70-year-old Nobel prize-winning author of Doctor Zhivago, died Monday night.

Friends said the noted poet, novelist and translator died in his sleep at his villa in Peredelkino, a writer's colony 30 miles outside Moscow.

Suffering from a heart ailment, lung cancer and stomach bleeding since May 1, he had been in a coma recently.

A storm of Soviet criticism broke over Pasternak after he was named winner of the Nobel prize for literature in 1958. The award is given for the entire body of an author's work, but the only work it appeared that he was being cited primarily for Doctor Zhivago, a quiet but powerful indictment of Communist methods and a strong assertion of individual dignity and Christian humanism.

Russia Bars Award

The book, written in 1948-53, was printed by an Italian publisher, and became a best-seller international best-seller. The soviet regime has never permitted its publication in Russia.

When he first heard he had won the prize, Pasternak told committee, Pasternak told reporters in his home in the writers' village of Peredelkino, "I am grateful to the committee for this great joy and also gives me great moral support."

Soviet officials looked on the prize as an affront to the Soviet government. A mass hate campaign drummed out of the Union of Soviet Writers and a betrayer of the socialist cause and there were demands that he be exiled.

The Soviet author who had shunned politics, was deeply disturbed by the controversy. In a personal appeal to Premier Khrushchev, he renounced the Nobel prize and said he was "bound to Russia by birth, life and work." And he added that his country would be "tantamount to death" to him.

After the furor, Pasternak retreated into almost complete seclusion at his home. He kept

Bank Robbers Given 15 Years In Penitentiary

TORONTO (CP) — Two bank robbers, one of whom made a "get rich" freedom pact in a court building Monday, were sentenced to 15 years in penitentiary by Judge Robert Forsyth.

Donald William Jones, 28, of Ottawa, and Philip Dymmaz, 22, of Toronto, were convicted of robbing the Bloor-Dufferin branch of the Imperial Bank of $18,000 last February.

The new sentences will be consecutive to three-year terms they are serving in Kingston.

Before appearing in court Monday, they broke away from a group of prisoners as they walked from the Kingston jail to the Don Jail. He ran down a city hall corridor, dived through a window, dropped to the ground and gave a short distance along downtown streets before four officers caught up with him.

Police said Jones slipped out of handcuffs he had hooked in the two other prisoners.

Jones and former escaped from Joyceville Penitentiary, 15 miles north of Kingston, on July. Symmer was recaptured in February in Toronto and returned to Kingston.

Detroit police arrested Jones at a hospital in a brief room early in March after Ontario police had notified his girl friend from Chatham.

Women, Children Evacuated; Fire Halted At Gagnon

Dying Winds, Sprinkle Of Rain Assist Workers

GAGNON, Que. (CP)—Dying winds and a sprinkle of rain sent fire back into the scrub spruce surrounding this northern Quebec mining community during the night.

Hundreds of men took the opportunity to build defences against further onslaught by the forest blaze that threatened Monday to wipe out this young mining town.

The threat was so great that about 500 persons — women and children and hospital cases — were flown from the community in a swift well-organized evacuation that took about eight hours to complete.

The possibility of showers was forecast for the area today. Favorable weather would bring to move the fire away from the townsite, enabling crews to blow lightly during the night.

But Paul-Emile Jean, of the Quebec department of forests department, warned that winds already have shifted three times and could whip the blaze towards Gagnon again.

Gagnon, born around a $200,000,000 Quebec Cartier Mining Corporation iron ore development is 150 miles northwest of Sept-Iles, Que., on the Quebec north shore shipping port for iron ore from the Ungava area.

It had 600 residents before news of Montreal.

The blaze started Sunday about a mile south of Gagnon. Early Monday winds pushed it toward the town.

When flames approached a timekeeping office, a bulldozer hastily-completed houses the decision to evacuate was made. The flames later jumped the barrier but were beaten out before reaching the buildings.

WELL ORGANIZED

RCAF and civilian pilots said there was no panic at Gagnon's crushed-gravel airstrip, where the women and children were gathered at short notice.

"People are more excited here than they are at home," said civilian pilot Stan Tucker after forming a group of evacuees to Montreal.

The dangerous wind shackled in early afternoon and the fire never did get inside the town limits. But a gentle west wind pushed the blaze to within 1½ miles.

Mr. Jean said 300 or 400 men are fighting the blaze. An eyewitness said about 1,000 fought the blaze when it threatened Monday night. Eight bulldozers were used during the night to build a fire break.

About 4,000 men are still in the area.

"Usually we have two or three feet of snow at this time of

Club-Swinging Korean Students Disperse Anti-Huh Demonstrators

SEOUL (AP) — A group of student demonstrators demanding the resignation of Acting President Huh Chung was a dispersed today by police and dispersed today by fellow collegians after a brief scuffle.

About 1,000 students marched to the National Assembly building shouting Huh's resignation for helping former President Syngman Rhee flee from the country.

Some 50 students charged into the demonstrators and dispersed them with clubs.

The 64-year-old Rhee and his wife arrived in Honolulu Sunday by plane after a hurried, secretive departure from Seoul. Unconfirmed reports said the ousted president suffered a heart attack.

They said they would return to Korea after a rest with friends in Hawaii. Rhee's flight has spread speculation in Korea that he may never come back alive.

The assembly summoned Huh Monday to explain Rhee's flight. Opposition Democratic Party Democratic Party accused the acting president of letting his predecessor—whose acting premier has had once been—escape criminal responsibility for wrongs done by his government.

Huh termed Rhee an "unfortunate old man" and said he let him go because his presence in the country could provide a rallying point for counter-revolutionaries.

Dulles to Tell Of Spy Plane To Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Allen Dulles, top man in the global espionage system of the United States, was called before a Senate investigating committee today with his inside story of the spy plane incident.

As director of the Central Intelligence Agency, Dulles is the key figure in the congressional investigation of what went wrong.

There was advance evidence that behind the committee rooms' closed and guarded doors Dulles might go further than he ever has done before in disclosing details about spying in general and the ill-fated U-2 in particular.

He demanded and received the right to decide for himself what will be censored transcripts, or anything at all, of what he said would ever be made public.

DEMERGENCY MEETS

None of the censored testimony was to be released during the session.

The Senate foreign relations committee headed by Senator William Fulbright (Dem.-Ark) is exploring the implications of the plane's crash-landing in a pilot deep inside Russia May 1.

Premier Khrushchev has pledged full co-operation with the inquiry. This and Dulles' refusal to agree to the censored transcripts of his testimony were viewed widely as indicating Dulles was planning some frank answers to the senators' questions.

There have been questions as whether Francis G. Powers, pilot of the U-2, was assigned to fly deliberately to a point where he would be trained in espionage work. Dulles also was certain to be asked why Soviet Premier Khrushchev was given a chance to witness Monday's conference.

Today elaborate precautions against possible eavesdropping the committee ordered the hearing room searched for electronic devices.

Early in the U.S. espionage chief. He holds the Legion of Merit for his own work as a major spy in Switzerland in the Second World War.

The son of a minister of the gospel, Dulles is a graduate of Princeton University. He looks more like a successful lawyer. He is vigorous despite his age, with a scholarly bearing and manner and a booming laugh.

Mr. Keith Cooney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Cooney, RR 6 Belleville, has successfully completed his religious education at Roberts Wesleyan College, Rochester, N.Y., receiving his Bachelor of Arts degree at convocation on Monday, May 30th.

Keith, who is a native son of the Belleville district, received his early education at Centre View school, and Belleville Collegiate Institute. Later, he attended Lorne Park College, at Port Credit, Ontario, where he spent three years.

After a year's vacation, he intended to take a Bible training course at the Nazarene College in Kansas, Missouri, USA.

Rather Startling Request States Justice Kerwin

"OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada was asked Monday to hear a $1,000,000 damage suit against the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission on the basis of a Quebec law originating in France nearly 300 years ago.

Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin told Andre Forget of Montreal, counsel for four citizens of Rivers logging companies, that his application constituted a "rather startling request."

Ontario Hydro is being sued on grounds that its public utility act preventing the four companies from enjoying a varied right in the current of the Ottawa River to assist in the movement of logs. The companies contend that the natural flow of water is obstructed by power dams and stations.

PREVIOUS HEARINGS

Both the Ontario Supreme and Appeal courts previously ruled against the damage claims of Canadian International Paper Company, Consolidated Paper Company Limited, E.B. Eddy Company and Gillies Brothers and Company Limited. In these two courts the case was argued on the basis of Ontario law.

Mr. Forget asked the court Monday to grant him the right to appeal against the lower court decisions on the basis of Quebec law. He said Quebec law should apply along with Ontario law because the logs were in both provinces during their movement down the river, where it constitutes the provincial boundary.

The two provinces, Mr. Forget said, both inherited an old French law dating back to 1669 guaranteeing the use of a river's current for movement of logs. However, he said this law as applied in Quebec is more precise than in Ontario.

AN AFTERTHOUGHT?

C. F. H. Carson, counsel for Ontario Hydro, said that the application of the logging companies appeared to be an afterthought. He said they should not be permitted to reframe their action "because the courts have interpreted the law of Ontario in a manner unfavorable to them."

Mr. Forget's application was heard by all nine members of the court. Decision was reserved and is expected to be announced in the next few weeks.

The Ontario courts ruled that the companies "never had any right in the natural flow of water. They had only a right of passage along the river for their logs and this had not been interfered with, the lower Ontario courts ruled.

Ald. Jack Ireland Outlines Plans For New 'Y'

The YMCA is "the greatest single force to build the moral, mental and physical character of the youth of a community" said Alderman Jack Ireland yesterday afternoon. The immediate past president of the Belleville "Y" was speaking to local Rotarians about the program of new construction which the local YMAC is now with in order to meet the needs of the community.

In Communist countries "they are not sparing the horses" Mr. Ireland said, when it comes to providing youth facilities. He said that local facilities, built to meet 1910 "conditions, were sadly overstressed when it came to coping with 1960 demands which are almost 300 per cent higher than 1910.

The speaker commented that he felt everyone in the community was involved in the local Y's activities through the association and the outside organization or other which makes up the "Y's" facilities. Perhaps the city council might allow a grant over a period of years which would be sufficient to pay for the gymnasium of the proposed building, Mr. Ireland suggested.

EXTENSIVELY USED

Expanding upon the fact that the "Y" is used by many outside groups for the benefit of everyone in the community the second-term alderman referred to the program of reaching all public school children from infants to swim before they start high school. This program is under the sponsorship of an outside organization but co-operates with the local "Y" he pointed out. Because of this perhaps the Board of Control should contribute towards the construction of the pool in the new building, Mr. Ireland remarked.

The speaker's talk followed a showing of the film "Operation For Brotherhood," which showed the work which the YMCA was doing in countries in Asia, Africa and Europe in order to build up a sense of good neighborliness amongst all people throughout the world.

Mr. Ireland was thanked by Rotarian Jack McGuire, who stated that he hoped the "Y's" appeal for money for new facilities would be "graciously received" by local citizens when they were asked.

Charter member Oswald Scott was chairman of the meeting in the absence of President Bill Hurst.

A rousing sing-song led by Tom Clements with Edge Boyce at the piano. Birthdays were announced by Mac-Boyce and Dr. A. E. MacKenzie.

Q. What causes convulsions in young children when they run a slight fever? Is there any connection between fever and convulsions?

A. Many people reading Medical Mirror very much and find it helpful. I am glad readers.

A. Some type of brain disorder is present in a number of children who have fever convulsions. It is almost half the cases there is a family history of similar convulsions, indicating a hereditary trend. Medical studies show that convulsions in a normal percentage in childhood and decrease certainly with the years. The physician may or may not prescribe drugs, depending upon the final diagnosis.

Better Revenue At the Gardens Meeting Told

TRENTON — Vagn Lange, chairman of the Trenton Community Gardens Commission, said at last night's meeting of the commission that the gardens are on a "little firmer ground this year." He said that the revenue is increasing in "little" and that such features as the rock 'n roll games and the midget cars are proving to be drawing cards.

Secretary Norm Banfield said that while the building will shows an operating deficit, the revenue for the months January-April has shown an increase of $1,000 over the same period last year.

Ron Thornton, garden's manager, suggested that the commission members work out a cost analysis of every operation in the gardens. Mr. Thornton said that only in this manner would they be able to judge if certain projects were paying off and if they were charging enough for the use of the facilities for the various year-round activities. He said that he had arranged for a roller skating marathon at the end of July and that Gordie Tapp and his County Hoedown would be a feature at the end of June. Mr. Thornton also said that the Lions Club monster games night were paying off from the gardens' viewpoint.

Mr. Lange said that he would like to see the gardens make enough of a profit in the summer months to wash all charges for the use of the ice by youngsters in the winter.

The commission members agree to sit down and have a long, hard look at the operating expenses and the actual and potential revenue in an effort to clear up the history of deficits, over-drafts and the constant necessity of borrowing money from the town, that has beset the commission since the opening of the gardens.

"I think we've wasted five or six thousand dollars on water over the past three years," said Mr. Lange. "Now that our well is repaired and we can get water from the bay, I think that we can save money that way." He added; "We'll have to decide what activities we warrant the opening of the gardens for the year from a money standpoint, and leave the building closed if we can't make enough."

Town Briefs

TRENTON — Tomorrow is Fiesta Day at the Trenton Legion hall. The Women's Auxiliary of Trenton Memorial Hospital have planned a gala all-day effort to raise funds for their part in the erection of the new hospital addition and to finance the supply program the members pledge to the hospital each year.

In the afternoon, tea will be served to the ladies and they will have the opportunity of patronizing several of the home baking tables set up on the Country Store run by the York Road Women's Institute.

In the evening, anyone with a secret hankering to go to Monte Carlo can achieve the same purpose by attending the games night in the hall. Free prizes and refreshments will be served, and this should be good news to those who do not succeed in "breaking the bank."

PLANT 6,000 TREES

On Saturday, Guides, Cubs and Scouts from Trenton planted over 6,000 trees, mostly pine, at the hydro lands, near the Telephone Road. In the past five years, this has been an annual project, tying in with the province-wide program of reforestation. Work started at 9.30 a.m. and with brief pauses for lunch and rest periods, continued until 5 p.m.

GROUP ENTERTAINED

Saturday night, Mrs. J. P. Downs, president of the Trenton Drama Group, entertained several members of the group in her home. Discussion centred around plans to produce a three-act play in the fall, directed by Jim Alexander, and the group's ambition to enter a three-act play in the Eastern Ontario Drama Festival which will be held at Cobourg in the spring of 1961.

Workshop activities will commence in the fall. The club has need of new, enthusiastic members for acting and behind the scenes activities.

WILL GET AWARD

The town of Trenton will receive a safety award from the Canadian Highway Safety Council for its achievement in completing 1950 without a traffic fatality. Mayor James MacDonald will attend a special luncheon in Toronto at the Royal York Hotel on June 15 where he will receive, on behalf of the town, a citation from Hon. John Yaremko, Q.C., Minister of Transport.

STILL GREAT NEED

The Quinte Branch of the United Empire Loyalist Association announces that the museum will soon be opened at Adolphustown. There is still a need for small pieces of furniture, deeds, documents, diaries and other articles with Loyalist associations.

Anyone wishing to donate or loan such articles to the museum may contact Miss Hazel Parlee at Canadiana in Trenton, Dr. Ethel Dempsey at

'Prevent Fires' Is Motto of 6 Repair Depot

TRENTON — "Prevent Fires" is the motto at No. 6 Repair Depot at Trenton, from the Fire Chief, F-S W. Nakay, to the last member of the firefighting crew. It is this attitude that helped bring the force one of the two honorable mentions awarded to large units in the 1959 fire prevention contest among RCAF establishments.

Two fire station crews of trained fire fighters work 24-hour shifts, bolstered by a volunteer force. Personnel on these fire fighters receive daily training to assure peak efficiency in fire fighting and prevention procedures. The men receive lectures, demonstrations and take part in practice sessions.

Fire fighting equipment is checked periodically and liaison is maintained between the station and the town water engineer to assess the volume of water available during the various consumption periods.

The fire department also carries out a program of lectures, drills and demonstrations for the station personnel. Fire prevention is stressed.

On April 1, 1960, the fire department of Station Trenton and the No. 6 Repair Depot department were amalgamated, with each has its own duties they do standby duty for each other.

The station department covers the south side. Instatement covers the south side installations, the airfield and renders assistance to the Trenton fire department when required.

The department at the repair depot covers the depot and Midden Park.

busy writing poetry and translating classics. One of the hits of the Moscow stage at present is his translation of Schiller's play Stuart.

Pasternak apparently never drew on the huge royalties his controversial novel amassed abroad, but lived comfortably on royalties from his widely performed translations of Shakespeare and other classics into Russian.

Top medical specialists attended him during his illness and although he had been expelled from the Writer's Union, the mutual fund supplied necessary medicines and equipment.

It is believed Pasternak's foreign royalties have been held in trust by his Italian publisher, Giancarlo Feltrinelli. The Soviet Union does not recognize the international copyright convention and pays royalties to only a few foreign writers.

GERMAN EDUCATION

Pasternak was born of Leonid Pasternak, famed painter and illustrator, and Rosa Kaufman, a concert pianist. He was sent to Marburg University in Germany, where he absorbed the humanist traditions of the German universities of the era.

After his return he became one of the avant garde of the flourishing Moscow Intellectual set. He wrote much poetry in the 1920's and began his translating foreign classics in the 1930's.

Surviving him are his wife, Zinaida Nikolayeva, whom he married in 1930, and two sons, Evgeny, 33, by a former marriage, and leonoid, 21.

Canadian Legion Behind Schedule On Resolutions

WINDSOR (CP) — The Canadian Legion moved into the third day of its six-day convention today, far behind schedule on its massive list of reports and resolutions.

Opening business sessions were slowed Monday by several contentious items. The Dominion Command faced what amounted to a vote of confidence, and won in a close voice vote.

Several items which brought protests were sent back for rewording or further preparation.

The convention refused to approve a resolution authorizing expenditure of $60,000 on a film to publicize legion work. Some members expressed fear the legion was becoming "just another service club."

CONTENTIOUS QUESTION

Interest centered Monday around legion demands for amendments to the Pensions Act in line with speech to the convention, Veterans Affairs Minister Brooks promised the matter would be the first next veterans legislation to be dealt with at Ottawa.

Despite Legion president David L. Burgess' expression of displeasure at the government's failure to amend the act, delegates moved what amounted to a non-confidence motion in the Dominion council.

They were critical of the council for not presenting a brief to the government committee on veterans affairs in 1959 and deferring the lack of publicity on pension demands.

The motion was defeated in the voice vote, and also from the floor for a standing vote were ignored.

President Burgess said the council felt a brief was unnecessary in a repetition of one presented after the 1958 convention.

WIDER ELIGIBILITY

A resolution to allow dishonorably discharged persons to join the legion after 10 years was approved in principle, but sent back for rewording before being voted on.

First World War Nursing Sister Peggy Fish of Calgary said she felt a man could make a mistake and correct himself.

"Let he who has not sinned throw the first stone," she said.

London's Press Members Guests War Correspondents

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Prince Philip told a group of Canadian war correspondents Monday night about one notable incident in his wartime experience that was "uncomfortable" wartime experiences.

"At Scapa Flow my ship was berthed alongside a Canadian depth charger.

He beamed broadly.

"I am afraid this situation did not last very long, but I think it may have been a good thing for the health of all concerned, as we very soon lost track of where one hangover ended and the other began."

Then he turned his attention to the RCAF.

"I have even had some flying lessons from them—but for the sake of official peace of mind, I think the less said about that the better."

RETURN HOSPITALITY

The prince spoke at a banquet in the Cafe Royal given by the Canadian War Correspondents Association to London's Press Club in appreciation of hospitality during the Second World War.

His speech was mainly about Britain and Canada.

Edinburgh study conference for relations between industry and community.

The prince goes to Canada in June to discuss arrangements for the next conference there in 1962.

The idea behind the conference is quite simple. Every country, he said, must look at the problems of industrialization in one form or another and its impact on industry.

"I believe the whole crux of the problem of human happiness lies in the organization of the human community. For generations communities have simply grown and developed naturally or remained stable, but during the advent of industry as the main wealth-producing element in human existence man has had create communities and to their development.

"The purpose of this conference is simply to help men the people who might one have this responsibility for ing and encouraging it to ensure it to the general benefit of humanity."

LONDON MEETING

Those at the head table included Gillis Purcell, general manager of The Canadian Press; Wallace Reyburn, managing editor Reuters news agency; Max Freedman, publisher and correspondent Wednesday's Epsom Derby winner Lustrous Hope; Roy Thomson, whose newspaper empire spread throughout Britain and North America; David Astor, The Times; Lord Burnham, The Daily Telegraph; W. Saskatchewan — A Sign?

Attempting to judge the trend in Federal politics the results of a provincial election is always a estionable procedure. Nowhere is this truer than the prairies. If proof of that assertion were required, one would only have to remember that the fact that in the federal election of March 31, 58, 'the Progressive Conservatives wiped out the creds, not only in "Wacky" Bennett's demesne of ish Columbia but also in the stronghold of Alberta, ich has been dedicated to the Funny Money creed the days of "Bible Bill" Aberhart. Yet a little e a year later, on June 19, 1959, the Socreds won of 65 Alberta seats and the Conservatives just e. This just served to confirm conclusions which uld have been drawn from the Manitoba election a ple of months earlier, on May 14, 1959, when the nservatives won only 35 of 57 seats in a province ere they held all the federal seats. We think it uld have been a rash man who, on the basis of these rovincial returns, would have suggested that another eral election at that time would have resulted in any t alteration in the representation of these provinces the House of Commons.

It follows that Saskatchewan's provincial election June 8 can hardly be described as a reliable guide the political tide in the federal arena in that province. ll, there are certain factors in Saskatchewan which ll result in the provincial vote being closely analyzed those whose chief interest is in federal politics. r one thing, the Diefenbaker Government has had other year in office, is now almost halfway through its ty-four, even if this is another year in the limit of five years, d has had time to make the results of its policies felt the life of the nation. For another, the CCF vernment of Premier T. C. Douglas has been in power long that one might reasonably expect the backlog discontentment which inevitably must result from ng-lived regimes would have built up to a point where would be reflected in results at the polls if the nservatives' federal record has pleased the people. inally, if Saskatchewan voters are entertaining the as of a change, it will be interesting to see what ands back of it. Has there been any rejuvenation since e breakdown of the machine built up so carefully painstakingly over so many years by Jimmy Gardner, the federal minister of agriculture in the King d St. Laurent administrations?

We are no reason to suppose that the Socreds are ely to fare any better in Saskatchewan in this proincial election than in those past. But coming events the Federal field ought surely to throw some shadow fore them, with respect to the fortunes of the CCF, nservatives and Liberals.

Has Hazen Argue's one-man prairie opposition formance pleased or displeased the dwellers on the ins? Has John Diefenbaker's immense popularity d the fact that he represents a Saskatchewan riding hanced the Conservatives' appeal in the provincial ld as in the Federal field? Has the Liberal party once a logical alternative to the CCF, passed their nadir d started to climb back to a position of potency? these questions will be asked.

It may be, of course, that the election will be ided on purely provincial issues, perhaps on the estion of the extension of social security to cover dical and surgical, as well as hospitalization, proction. Certainly if Douglas wins by an impressive jority, those who favor such an extension of health erage will argue that the province which pioneered th insurance has given him a mandate to test its tension into a new area.

It should be an interesting election.

Irish Lakes

Not being Irish—and never having set foot in land except on an airport pavement in the dead of ht—we are no competent judge of the appeal of the ld Sod.

However, looking at "Ulster Commentary" and companion publication by the Free State, much of appeal seems to lie in its lakes, pictures of which used in almost every page of it.

Any one of these pictures could have been taken e Hastings or Prince Edward Counties.

We suspect that the difference lies in the fact that e these scenes of beauty are commonplace, while ons the pond they are rare.

ave you ever thought of the extended humanity which Christ looked upon with compassion because they were as a sheep ght of it as He has sent de- having a shepherd. There are illions to rescue us — especial- erally millions of people in the ly to proclaim for our day the world of woe and sin. Jesus was bearing upon His heart the misery of the world when He urged His hearers to remember "the maimed, the lame, the blind: and thou shalt be blessed; for they cannot recompense thee: but thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the just."

Spring Visit to England A Rewarding Experience

By G. A. MORGISON
Article 10

There is no lack of entertainment for the visitor in London after darkness falls. Streets which, even on Sunday nights, are deserted and silent after six-thirty or seven o'clock, Monday evenings are going to the theatre, the usual time for dinner is from eight to nine-thirty in most of the West End hotels and restaurants. Of course, this meal is served from all parts of the world, but there is one thing that is unique to London and that is the "Savoy Grill" and "Savoy Restaurant". Other cities have to have their meal after the theatre and it is not that time you are most likely to see the more fashionable crowds dining in other cities such as the Cafe de Paris in Paris and the latter boasts of a wine list dating back to 1878 and the oldest type would likely be brandy.

London has forty-three theatres which are open at present. A few of these above are new York in origin such as "My Fair Lady" and "Stop the World". both of which we saw and both excellent as many Americans were there, much entertained by the second which is a sophisticated comedy with the leading roles being played by a husband and wife team, John Clements and Kay Hammond—who, we might add, were married in private Monday evening, we concluded by a bowls of champagne, we became well acquainted with this charming couple and during the interval at the theatre a mention was made.

Before parting, we received a cordial invitation to visit their residence, the latter is situated in London and since our return received a thank you letter reminding us of our promise.

Their names are Brigadier Edward Caffin and Mrs. Caffyn of Horam, East Sussex and Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Caffyn of Heathfield, Sussex. Brig. Caffyn was also with the War Office in London for a while during the war and while in Germany was in charge of the prisoners under his command. He is now a writer of books and has learned afterwards and is a magistrate, which he said takes a lot of his time, but he gets no salary as it is an honorary position. Mrs. Caffyn is also on the board of Brigadier Jack Genet, of Belleville who was in charge of prisoners of war camps scattered in England during the war, but we have lost sight of him.

As a follow up of this incident we were guests at a dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Turner, director and manager of the engineering equipment for Brown Brothers, in early June, one of the best in the United Kingdom. On being told of our meeting with the two couples at the theatre and hearing their names, said, "Why, I know them personally, they live here." It is a good friend of mine and I am certainly going to write and tell him of our meeting you."

This experience we had quite early in our visit, one of several heart-warming acts of hospitality shown to us during our visit in England, and I shall endeavor to shall always remember with pleasure.

Historic Hastings

The History of Kingsford

(PART 2)
By AUDREY BRENNAN

Article 121 in the series sponsored by the Hastings County Historical Society)

The Salmon River served as useful purpose for many especially during the summer. Wednesday was considered the "big" day of the week. Early in the morning, the women and children would drive to the creek to do their weekly washing. The children would play and wade in the water while the women worked.

Another important occasion at Kingsford was when the sheep were brought to the river to be washed before the annual shearing. Many of the men found themselves wetter than the sheep when they left.

Of course, there were picnics, dances, moonlight parties, coon hooking bees, and shooting matches, which all the community thoroughly enjoyed.

The winters were enlivened by the sleighing parties, the long sleigh hills on sleighs, cutters, or anything that was handy. Skating could be done on the river or the "Tulley Place".

One event which attracted many onlookers was the weekly horse race on the frozen river in winter.

In the spring, after the logs were driven down the river, a group of Queen's students would follow them, and would be entertained to have their dinner in Lonsdale, about two and one half miles down the Salmon River from Kingsford. This trip was sponsored by the Y.M.C.A. of Kingston.

Summer sports included swimming at the "Cedars", picnicking at the "Point" (turn in the river) and of course fishing at the favorite spot "Simles". This fishing hole was named after Simle Secombe, who used to reside in a log cabin on the bank of the river. He was noted for his tall tales.

FIRST SCHOOL

The first school was a log building which stood on the Bridle Road. This school was destroyed by fire. Brushing aside our protestations that we would be happy to walk to the theatre they were agreed and after a short walk arrived at the Regent, opposite Lester Square.

It is one of London's highly rated restaurants with a Continental cuisine, and it was evident that our host was well known to the maitre d' and the manager. Before dinner was served, which was concluded by a bowls of champagne, we became well acquainted with this charming couple and during the interval at the theatre a mention was made.

Before parting, we received a cordial invitation to visit their residence, the latter is situated in London and since our return received a thank you letter reminding us of our promise.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 31, 1940

Becoming so engrossed in his angling efforts that he failing to notice the uncertain footing along the east bank of the Moira River near the country bridge yesterday, a local fisherman fell down an eight-foot embankment into the swirling waters of the river. Three companions came speed to haul the unfortunate angler to safety with only a shocking resulting. When approached by a local newspaper reporter who was passing, the man refused to divulge his name. "You're not putting my name in the paper," remarked the water-soaked angler. "Here's fishing!" The man was asked. "Just as good as the swimming," replied the wet angler cheerfully.

Danger hazards to fall and spoil grain crops were considerably increased Tuesday night when another torrential downpour of rain swept over the district, Sweeping out of the west from shortly after seven o'clock, the storm broke in its fury, sheets of rain reduced visibility to a marked extent. At eleven o'clock the rain intensities ceased, precipitation grist great difficulty. Moira River levels observed a further increase of six inches today a total of two feet since last week. Many lower areas overflowed its banks along the Bell River highway with water being dangerously near to road levels in spots.

Mr. Robert Hamilton of Tweed, Ont., who spent the weekend in this city while motoring to his home in Rosetown, Sask., was accompanied by Wednesday by his niece, Miss Mary Milton DeLong, and her granddaughter, Miss Isabel DeLong, who will visit relatives for the next four weeks.

Except for its timeless beauty much of Kingsford is gone. The only remaining physical feature remaining is the cheese factory. Of the twenty-four that once existed, only four are now occupied.

In the hearts of the older folk of the district, however, linger nostalgic memories of the "old days" when Kingsford was a bustling logging centre.

Editor's note: This essay on the village of Kingsford, situated eight miles north of Desoronto, was written by Audrey Brennan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Brennan of Kingsford. To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

ASPIRIN SHOULD BE TAKEN WITH A FULL GLASS OF WATER.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My mother-in-law takes two aspirin with the first thing every morning. She says a friend told her it would help guard against any mild discomfort, such as catching a cold, headache, etc.

"My question is: Could that be done if you have heartburn, excess acidity and so on? Doctors find her sound as a dollar.

"It doesn't matter if she has only toast and coffee for breakfast. To others it causes little or no trouble.

Aspirin, despite commercials you may have seen on TV, radio, etc., is classic medicine. True, a tablet may disintegrate quickly in water, but it doesn't dissolve very rapidly.

If some of the undissolved crystals happen to lodge in the stomach wall, they can be rather irritating to some people.

That's why my advice is that people should take an aspirin with a full glass of water. Or, better yet, take the aspirin after a meal, at which time chances that her heartburn will be less disposed to be troublesome.

(In case you see her reading today's column, don't say a word about it. Pretend you haven't noticed it. Assuming that she thinks this is a put-up job, she'll probably refuse to pay any attention. I'm the same way. Well, we all are. If we think somebody is trying to tell us something, then we do the opposite.)

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please, a note on trimming toenails — should they be cut straight across or rounded to fit the shape? — R.M."

Straight across, or nearly so. You can get toenail clippers with blades that are slightly curved. About even with the tip of the toe is the right length.

Mother of Four: No, there's nothing dangerous or insidious about a tin can. There is no more danger in eating food that has been in an open can than there is in eating food that has been in any other dish. Food, of course, should not be left standing in any container, uncovered, instead, long enough to let dangerous bacteria multiply.

Living 'Saint' Really Makes Us Squirm

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS
Author with Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I like to drive at a steady clip, but there's one thing that irks me: I get a speed demon.

Whether it's a case of "starting block," your son is "a little on the slow side," his son is "backward."

When I feel overdressed, I insist that I "just made some of man," but when I feel underdressed I insist with equal ardor that "you can't tell a book by its cover."

My innovation I favor is a "progressive step," but an innovation I abhor is a "dangerous experiment."

When I am in the majority, I rest on the "wisdom of the people"; when I am in the minority I base my stand upon "the ignorance of the masses."

When we say that a play or novel is "true to life, we mean it has the same particular distortion of life that is visible to us. Otherwise, it seems to be arbitrarily a criticism that makes us uncomfortable.

Alcohol is pretty figure: you are a gay old dog; he is an sodden sot.

I think there's a proper time and a place to say anything: you are a bit strait-laced; he is a spoil-sport.

In my wedding I gave my daughter was "open-handed"; others said she was "ostentatious."

I have a "hasty temper"; you are "a little irascible"; he "flies into violent rages over nothing."

"Saint" is a word which has been dead long enough for us to read it without blushing. It would have been to live with someone who was not spiritually accessible to us. (That is why the world is happy only with dead saints; they are safe from us.)

I let my dog take so many liberties with me that I am almost human," but you let yours indulge in outrageous conduct because it "expresses his true nature."

To the callow and envious, all egotistical men are "self-satisfied cads."

The same man who says "Too cast leach an old dog new tricks" when he's resisting a change, will say, "It's never too late to learn" when he's encouraging a change.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE RACE IS TO THE SURE

Nothing is ever accomplished without great effort and great sacrifice. If it is meant to last and form part in the scheme of permanence.

How many racers can win a race, only one. That is true the race before the contest is ended. And that is why a long, faithful preparation plays in the final results.

The race is not to the swift — but to the faithful, the steady, the loyal, the careful, the faithful, the honest — the one who has real soul-value.

One of the greatest reasons why the world is in such a mess today is that it has wanted to reap too much too quickly.

1,000 Miles While Eating

Jet air transportation has reduced flight time between Chicago and Los Angeles to four hours, an air line survey shows.

On the 3,175-mile New York to Paris flight one-third of the passengers' journey will be spent piloting while he's eating.

His glass of champagne takes up 150 miles, caviar another 110 miles, soup 50 miles, steins and steins of beer 450 miles, filet mignon, coffee 100 miles, liqueur 170 miles and a cigaret 10 miles.

We always like more than a glass of champagne, a single bore d'oeuvre, one cup of coffee and a free liqueur. So our time is mostly taken up with refreshments. And we don't count miles, unfortunately — only calories and the pounds they put on.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK.

A biologist friend of mine is much concerned that the average race is in process of regression—that is, going back over the path of evolution.

"As a species," he says, "man has reached the intellectual point of development and, like a great many of the lower animals such as the dinosaur, the saber toothed tiger and so forth, is now in process of decline. As you can see from TV, for instance, more and more people are sitting more and more like monkeys, bunching around like apes, losing his bobbed tail, like a herd of cattle or sheep, the mass of mankind is rapidly losing all their fair and have surrendered themselves unconditionally to a more bandaid of leaders who, crazed and bewildered by their own intelligence, are leading the race in a direction. While we see for intellect, of course, is but the result of the fevered endeavors of a handful of the most natural to decay. One natty physician has made a study of the leaders of the mad lemming migration. I predict they will be found to have the biggest and most fevered brains." Copyright: Canada Wide

Charge of Car Theft Dismissed By Magistrate

Robert Vincent Orr, 381 Sidney Street, today pleaded not guilty to stealing a car from Mrs. Marie Allen's former home at 8 Ponton Street last April 17. Some two hours after the trial started, Magistrate T. Y. Willis dismissed the charge for lack of evidence.

However, Orr pleaded guilty to driving a car bearing the wrong licence plates and was fined $25. A charge of stealing the licence plates was dismissed. Orr also pleaded guilty to having liquor in the car and was fined $15.

A charge or car theft against Floyd Wood, said in connection with the same incident, was dismissed.

Mrs. Allen said she had reported the car stolen after her son told her it wasn't behind her home where it had been since February with 1959 licence plates.

City police constable Donald Yearwood said he stopped Orr on Front Street early April 17. Orr, who was driving the car, told Yearwood he had borrowed it from Mrs. Allen and, because the ignition switch was broken, he had crossed the ignition terminals with a screw wire.

Const. Yearwood later searched the car and found six bullets of wire and "one big pickerel."

POOLED MONEY

James Francis Nathan, 8 Ponton St., who was called by defence counsel R. D. Arnott, said he had been a boarder at Mrs. Allen's home.

Both he and Mrs. Allen said they had pooled their money and bought the car in 1957. It was registered in Nathan's name until he transferred, the registration to Mrs. Allen when his insurance company notified him that it was cancelling the policy. However, he did not believe he surrendered his share of ownership when he transferred the registration. He and Mrs. Allen did not draft a written joint ownership agreement.

Nathan said that on the night of April 16, Orr and Wood were "out drinking." Shortly after midnight they took a taxi to Nathan's home where Orr asked who owned the car. Nathan said he did "because most everyone thought I did. I just wanted to play the big shot, I guess."

Nathan said Orr asked him if he could borrow the car.

"I said sure, anytime," said Nathan. "I didn't think they'd take it. I thought it was booze talk."

Nathan said he never told Orr about Mrs. Allen's interest in the car "because I guess I wanted to give the impression that I owned it."

Church May Urge Ban on Marriage For All Under 21

TORONTO (CP) — The Telegram says a radical report on sex and marriage, pointing towards banning a marriage ban for those under 21, will be presented to the United Church's general council meeting in Edmonton in September.

Rev. Frank Fidler, secretary of the committee on Christian marriage and divorce that is to present the report, said the report is radical—"at least it will be for some people."

He added: "I wouldn't dare to predict how it will be accepted."

Details of the report, being printed now, will remain secret until it is presented, the newspaper says.

Dr. Richard Hosking, former general secretary of the national council of YMCAs and committee chairman, said there is increasing concern over the number of teen-age marriages. Many young persons were not ready for marriage and did not know what they were getting into or else were fleeing from Canadian home situation.

Dr. Hosking said the 108-page report also deals with homosexuality, abortions and mixed mar-

ANTI-COMBINES

Mr. Pearson; these are the two most contentious provisions:

1. While it still will be illegal for industries to combine to fix prices or divide markets and so on, the amendments would make it possible for them to co-operate on the exchange of various kinds of trade information, restriction of advertising and pooling of research facilities.

2. Although it still will be illegal for manufacturers to arrange a distributor or retail prices, they now would be able to refuse to sell their products to a retailer who persistently uses them as loss leaders—goods sold below cost to lure customers into a store.

Essentially, both changes were embodied in a similar group of amendments introduced to the Commons last year but later withdrawn.

COMMITTEE STUDY

In reintroduction, the amendments reveal some changes, detetions and additions. Mr. Fulton, in a 90-minute speech opening debate on second reading, said the legislation will go to the House banking committee after second reading.

Mr. Fulton contended that when the previous Liberal government steered through parliament the existing resale price maintenance provisions in 1951, they were based on a principle that commanded general support —that a manufacturer should not impose his own prices on retailers.

He argued that the provisions were hasty and left small businesses "completely defenceless" against more powerful competitors and "particularly against that practice known as loss leader selling as well as a variety of other types of unfair competition."

SOLUTION OFFERED

The solution: If a manufacturer refuses to supply a merchant for any one of several reasons listed in the amendments, the most noteworthy being loss leading, and there is no attempt to force a certain price level on the public, then no offence has been committed.

Mr. Fulton said this does not mean the restoration of resale price maintenance. But it would prevent "callous elimination" of small merchants by the powerful competitors. It would "bar by price competition or the genuine "clearance sale."

Commented Mr. Pearson:

"The practice of resale price maintenance will continue to be prohibited in theory. However, if the bill is approved, it will be reintroduced through the back door—by a technique which will amount to a system of private law, a kind of commercial feudalism.

INFORMER SYSTEM

"A manufacturer or supplier will be in a position to enforce, at his discretion, a series of vague and arbitrary regulations affecting the retailer. He will be entitled to refuse to sell his products to a dealer on the basis of reports made by informers who will often in the normal course of things be competitors of that dealer."

Mr. Pearson contended that such a system "is the thing manufacturer will be "exposed to the constant pressures of retailers wishing to eliminate competitors and prevent price cutting." The amendments would be caught between the courts and the retailers.

Main victim of this system would be the consumer "because the choice will be restricted and the prices he will have to pay will be higher."

Mr. Pearson contended that such a system, the Army, Navy, Air Force LA. Meets Here

The Provincial Command of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada, Ladies' Auxiliary, held its quarterly meeting in Belleville on May 28th with a good representation, in the men's clubrooms on Front Street. At the times of the several years varied the welfare committee, president E. Bobish, Marion Dracup, Ann Percy, Elizabeth Buckley and Elizabeth Lundberg, had a two-hour reception in the Queen's Hotel on the evening of May 27. They then attended the social evening as guests of the men's club, Unit 20. Saturday morning at 10 a.m. the provincial executive and presidents opened the session. Luncheon was served from 1 p.m. until 2 p.m.

Dominion and provincial executives discussed the convention (dominion) to be held in Quebec City August 22-28 inclusive.

The general meeting was called to order by President Bobish of Belleville, who opened the meeting and handed the gavel over to the provincial president, May Riley, of Toronto.

It was a most successful meeting.

The provincial convention is to be held in Simcoe in September. At the conclusion of the session, the ladies visited the shopping section and the hospital to call on Mabel Galbraith, who is a patient there, and a former member of the provincial executive board.

Entertainment chairman Marion Dracup and her capable assistants are to be commended for the excellent meals served during the day.

At 9 p.m. the Ladies' Auxiliary held a dance, open to all members, their wives and guests.

During intermission, entertainment was provided by members from Otawa, Lakeview and Belleville.

The door prize was donated by a local firm and the spot dance prizes by a local jeweller, a meat market and the Lucky Strike. Souvenirs were from a local dairy and the department of travel and publicity.

At the close of the evening, a hearty vote of thanks was extended to the Belleville Army, Navy and Air Force Ladies' Auxiliary and the men's club for an enjoyable weekend, and especially to the working committees which had been responsible.

On their departure Sunday, they left with the hopes of an early invitation to come back to Belleville.

Mrs. Rose Addresses Hastings, Pr. Ed. Belleville W.A. Annual

Mrs. K. Rose of Toronto, immediate past president of Dominion Council W.A., spoke to the ladies of the Hastings and Prince Edward Women's Association of the Belleville Presbytery at the 26th annual meeting held in the St. John's United Church, Tweed, on Thursday.

Speaking on the proposed new women's organization, which it is hoped may come into existence Jan. 1, 1962, she said: "This is as big a revolution in the history of the church as church union was some years ago. Should General Council, which meets in Edmonton in September, accept the report of the commission containing the draft of the new constitution, it would make necessary a revision of the Manual of the Church. A new Board of Women would be formed, and women would be appointed to most of the boards of the church. For the first time in the history of the United Church, men and women would be working together at dominion, conference, presbytery and local levels to make more effective the total mission of the church."

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

After explaining the above statement in detail, Mrs. Rose answered many questions from the ladies concerning details which they were interested. Mrs. Rose was introduced by Mrs. W. R. Hill of Trenton and was thanked by Mrs. F. Davidson of Belleville, president of Hastings Presbytery.

Mrs. D. Palmateer graciously welcomed the ladies to St. John's Church, which was filled to capacity for the 10:30 a.m. morning and afternoon sessions. Mrs. Krier of St. Paul's United Church, Tweed, responded to the welcome.

The morning meeting was opened with devotions conducted by Mrs. G. Chisholm and Mrs. W. Chisholm of Roslin, with Mrs. G. Bailey at the piano. Hymn choice of topic "Working Together With God," was sung and one for starting off the day. Mrs. C. W. Smith gave the treasurer's report and Mrs. R. Weaver presented both the recording and corresponding secretaries' reports.

Under new business, it was announced that the Bay of Quinte Conference W.A. was undertaking a project of providing a bursary for a theological man or woman who is entering training for full time work in the Church. It was hoped that each local W.A. would send $1 to the treasurer, Mrs. C. W. Smith, R. R. No. 3, Belleville, to be designated for this fund. Also, two tape recordings, one on the "work of Women in the Church" and the other on "Stewardship", are available for use by the locals. An invitation was extended to hold the 1961 meeting in St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora.

GREETINGS BROUGHT

Greetings were brought by Mrs. C. Holmes, Belleville, president of the Women's Missionary Society of the Belleville Presbyterial, and by Mrs. W. Weatherhead of Sharbot Lake, first vice-president of Bay of Quinte Conference W.A. the Rev. D. Poole, pastor of St. John's Church, extended a welcome from the session of the Church, and also brought greetings from the Belleville Presbytery in the absence of its chairman, the Rev. F. Whitely.

The president, Mrs. F. Davidson, reported a busy but rewarding seven months since she had assumed office upon the resignation of the former president, Mrs. R. C. Jackson, due to ill health. Mrs. Davidson gave an excellent account of the annual meeting of Dominion Council W.A. held in Toronto this month, which had as its theme "Changeless Values in a Changing World". She thanked the ladies for affording Mrs. R. H. Smith-rim of Trenton and herself the privilege of attending the sessions.

A violin solo by Mrs. Y. Glover of Marmora, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. McLeod was much appreciated.

COMMITTEES' REPORTS

Reports of the standing committees showed increased interest in the work of each department. It was noted that the local W.A.'s are filling in their annual report forms much better but there is still room for improvement, particularly in the departments of Christian citizenship and Christian stewardship.

Mrs. Davidson reported 94 locals have affiliated with Presbytery W.A. this year, and that two new Federations—Centennary and Scott's—have been formed.

Mrs. C. W. Sine presented a fine report on literature, stating that several W.A.'s have started new libraries in their churches. She reviewed a number of books, some old, some new, now available in the libraries, to display table, and invited the ladies to look at them during the luncheon recess.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The afternoon session opened with devotions taken by Mrs. Chisholm and Mrs. Gregory of Northport. The reports give en by the presidents of each of the seven districts showing that the fall rallies are proving of great benefit to the good fellowship and exchange of ideas, particularly among the smaller groups. Special mention is in these reports that the activities and interest in all phases of church work is evidenced.

The offering was taken by ladies from Queensboro W.A. and dedicated by Mrs. Conley of Rose Hall.

Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Langdon of Trenton sang a lovely duet, "Sweet Hour of Prayer," accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Gould.

Following Mrs. Rose's speech Mrs. J. E. Marsh took the chair and conducted the election and installation of officers for 1960. These are as follows:

French Cookery Lesson: Gnocchis - - Potato Dumplings

by Mary Moore

Last week I promised to give you the recipe for Gnocchi (pronounced nyo-kee) ala Florentine as I saw it made in Tante Marie School of Cookery by Wedog, Surrey, by a Cordon Bleu teacher.

This is good for a dinner party as it may be prepared in advance. It is a complicated dish, large half choux paste (cream puff batter — recipe given last Friday, May 27th) and Duchess potato mixture, and is forced through a piping tube. Actually it is tiny potato dumplings but finished and baked in a casserole.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

Omelette with Shrimp Sauce; Fresh Frozen Limas; Cauliflower with Parsley Butter; Tossed Green Salad with Roquefort Dressing; Fresh Rhubarb Pie; Cheddar Cheese; Coffee.

GNOCCHI A LA FLORENTINE

Duchess Potatoes: Two lbs. potatoes (about 7 or 8 medium-size), 2 egg yolks, 2 tablespoons butter, salt and pepper to season well. (Do not use milk. This mixture should be dry.) Peel and boil potatoes until tender in salted water. Drain and shake over low heat to dry. Press through sieve into warm bowl. Add yolks and quickly beat them in, then add butter and salt and pepper to season highly.

(Note: For plain Duchess Potatoes pipe attractively or force through piping tube onto baking sheet, brush with egg and bake until lightly brown.)

Choux Gnocchi: Florentine mix equal amounts (about 2 cups each) Duchess potato mixture and choux paste (cream puff batter) and ¼ cup finely chopped ham and 1 tablespoon each finely chopped parsley and chives. Using a forcing tube or cookie press with ¾" nozzle pipe this mixture in short lengths about ¾" long — cutting the mixture off with a sharp knife dipped in water, into simmering salted water. Allow to poach gently, do not boil, for 5 or 10 minutes. At the end of this time skim out gnocchis and drain them and put into a lightly oiled shallow casserole for cooking. When all the mixture has been cooked in this way, pour over the gnocchis and put them in a well-buttered baking dish, and sprinkle with ½ cup grated Gruyere cheese. *Put them in a hot oven to brown the cheese and heat the gnocchis through. Serve at once. *Note: Refrigerate until baking time if these are made in advance.

Next week I will give you the recipe for Crepes Beau Rivage which the Cordon Bleu teacher made for dessert for the meal I watched her prepare. It is a caramel custard elaborately covered with cream-filled wafer cornucopias.

GIFT-GIVER HAS A PROBLEM

The following letter from a reader describes a problem which most of us have been faced with at one time or another:

"Over a month ago I went to a great deal of trouble and expense to purchase a gift for a friend of mine who had announced her engagement. Last week she announced another coup but, when I received the announcement, I thought I would like to send a present for old time's sake. I did so and to this day haven't heard a word from her. This has upset me very much, and I think it is a very ungracious thing for my friend to do. Is it permissible to write the person to whom the gift was sent and ask her point-blank whether or not she received it?"

In the rush of modern life, we are apt to become lax in the observance of the gracio-s courtesies that custom demands. Failure to make immediate acknowledgment of a kindness done us or another is unforgivable. Whether the thought be in the form of a letter of conversation, a gift, or some small kindness, appreciation should be expressed at once by the recipient. There is no excuse for delay.

I suggest that this young woman write to the person in whom she sent the gift. There is no need to be abrupt or to intimate that she is annoyed at her seeming thoughtlessness. Give her the benefit of the doubt: "the gift might have gone astray. Perhaps it was never received.

For example, when writing the engaged girl, make the style as gracious as possible. In the opening paragraphs comment on the pleasure received upon hearing of her engagement, followed by best wishes for her future happiness. When closing the letter, mention the gift she was sent and express the hope that it has arrived useful. If the recipient of the gift has been so unpardonably rude as to neglect to acknowledge it, she should be big enough to write and admit it if the gift was never received, now is the time for her to say so and thereby remove all misunderstanding.

Placing yourself in the position of being forced to say, "I'm so sorry. I've been meaning to write and thank you for weeks!" is, in all intents and purposes, admitting that you didn't deserve the kindness in the first place. Remember next time, before you put off writing a "thank-you note!"

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual Family Council discussion. Names and some details have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Pearl S. — We lost our friends because I told the truth.

John S. — She should apologize.

Pearl S. — I am terribly upset about a problem involving some of my closest friends.

My husband and I have been friends with the D's for nearly 12 years. They have a young teen-aged daughter who is studying ballet dancing. It happens that I studied ballet for several years and even danced professionally a bit, but before my marriage.

My friends asked my opinion of their daughter's dancing and whether they should encourage her to go ahead with her plans to study dancing full time instead of going to college. I advised against it. I pointed out that the girl hasn't the right build for a dancer and her teachers have been taking them all for a ride by encouraging her. Since then they've hardly spoken to us. My husband says I was in the wrong.

John S. — Pearl sets great store by her honesty and says she'll never be afraid to come out with the truth, but I always tell her people don't want to hear the truth. They would much rather hear something pleasant and flattering.

The D's are nice people and we really miss their companionship. Pearl knows they set so much store by their daughter's talents. Also the girl herself was very hurt by Pearl's remarks — which she overheard.

I feel that Pearl ought to apologize to the D's, but she says there is nothing to apologize for. They asked for an honest opinion and she gave it to them. She meant no harm. Friends have told us the D's say Pearl is frustrated in her own ambitions and that's why she wouldn't encourage another young girl. Now Pearl thinks they ought to apologize.

The Council: It's true that most people prefer approval and flattery to truth from their friends. That doesn't mean we must all become liars. We should be aware of the difference between what is the truth. Opinions often vary, even among experts, and it is obvious that none of us can lay claim to absolute knowledge.

Knowing that both your young girl and her parents had made a large investment and had high hopes for a dancing career, Pearl was unwise to take upon herself the responsibility of such a definite statement about the girl's future.

She could have been both honest and wise if she had been a bit evasive and said they ought to get advice from other people working in the field — aside from the girl's teachers.

The fact is that some dancers manage to achieve a measure of success despite some physical handicap. Also, a teenage girl is still in the development-stage. Her body may change greatly within the next few years.

Are apologies in order? It might be even better if Pearl would say she has given more serious thought to the matter and recommends that the D's get a few more opinions from individuals active in the field.

We don't think Pearl ought to seek an apology from the D's for what they said because they were obviously talking out of a sense of deep hurt. Their statement was no more untrue than Pearl's — and could be just as true. No doubt they believed they were also stating the simple truth.

Mr., Mrs. Robt. Tinney Mark Golden Wedding Anniversary

CAMPBELLFORD — About 70 friends and relatives gathered at the Orange Hall, Frankford's Corners, on Wednesday evening to honor Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Tinney on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Tinney, the former Bertha Emery, was born in Brewerburgh, Ontario, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot Emery. Mr. Tinney was born in England, moving to Canada with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tinney, now deceased, when he was eight years old.

On May 25th, 1910, the couple were married at the bride's home in Melrose, Ontario, with the Rev. Frederick Woodge officiating. Following their marriage they took up farming on the English Line. About three years ago, due to Mrs. Tinney's health, they left their son, Raymond to operate the farm, and took up residence with their oldest daughter, Mrs. Watts Brunton (Vera), and her husband, at Frederick's Corners.

The couple also have two other daughters, Mrs. Aylmer Frederick (Ruth), and Mrs. Maurice Brunton (Olive), both of Seymour. They have 11 grand-children and three great grandchildren.

The Rev. Gordon Whitsborn was chairman for the gathering during which they were entertained with a short musical program. Mr. Whitsborn showed slides he had taken of local weddings, which were much enjoyed.

The happy couple were the recipients of many lovely gifts including a purse of money from the friends of Zion congregation.

Fall Fashions Have Plenty Of Trimmings

By VIVIAN BROWN

NEW YORK (AP)—New York dress designers are emphasizing trimmings on their fall fashions. Besides bangles, beads and baubles, there is fur and more fur, enough to make the little foxes run for cover. Ditto the martin, chinchilla, antelope and fisher.

Phillipe Tournaye makes much of fur and leather. A black antelope coat is in a loose swagger style trimmed with fur. Other versions include short jackets with fisher or chinchilla collars. Leather serves as a emphasis for tweed dresses and suits and leather buttons are used on a polka-dotted evening coat.

Paul Barnes matches dyed fur collars to beige and grey wool dresses. Jo Copeland of Patullo trims the versatile waist-length jacket in one of grey wool-to-opossum. David Kidd of Jablow Hirns coats and suits with silver fox and sable.

SCOTTISH TWEEDS

Vera Maxwell shows a charming collection of tweed suits in imported Scottish fabric. Tweed coats are softly shaped, fur trimmed or slim with a collarless neckline tied in a loop bow.

Wilson Folman, designer for Edward Abbott, provides his usual unusual costumes, but when these are not deep plunging they are high in front with low, provocative bare backs.

Leonard and Andrew Arkin, noted conservatives in color choices, bank their designer brands on a color revival. Yellow, pink, orange, green and red are used alone, and sometimes combined for a similar look. The colors are made possible by the use of slubbed fabrics. All designs elongate the torso by means of small gathers, tucks or seaming.

CHANGING COUNTRY — Development and prosperity are becoming evident in Yugoslavia, an Independent Communist country under the dictatorship of Marshal Tito.

Yugoslavia Is Awakening After Centuries of Sleep, West's Prosperity Shows

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BELGRADE (CP) — Yugoslavia is astir. After a sleep of centuries, change is touching the land of the south Slavs.

Here, where the East begins, a Balkan version of western prosperity is in the making. Supermarkets, department stores and even motels are rearing their affluent heads. Instalment buying is permitted, factories allow productivity bonuses, national television is due this fall.

People are better off, and wear a surface look of content. Political beliefs no longer seem white hot, though the outward manifestation may not always coincide with the inner reality. Travellers who were here five years ago speak almost with awe of the transformation.

What is happening, briefly, is that a primitive country is moving into the 20th century. The peasants are taking the straw out of their ears and going into industry. Illiteracy has dipped from a pre-war 47 per cent to 12 per cent.

FRIENDLY SPIRIT

Economic progress, sparked by 1959's record harvest and industrial investment that is just starting to pay off, means wider consumer choice. Twenty-two motor scoopers, parked outside a Ljubljana theatre, are an indicator. Compact cars are being built under Italian licence.

The friendly blare of jazz music connotes growing affinity with the west. Film fans line up to see Orson Welz in Mobi-Dik. Other favorites include Dean Mennfil, Merilin Monro and Gregori Pec.

Once shiftish, people will talk with outsiders. Often a flame of sympathy leaps between resident and visitor.

"It's almost unbelievable the way things have changed," said a young economist, eyes slight.

FAITH IN FUTURE

In a 15-day, 1,000-mile tour, I found evidence of burgeoning well-being and strong faith in the future. Everywhere, I was asked not to apply Western standards to this country of steel nerves and slivovitz. Sweeping political judgments must be avoided. Some Belgrade observers admit almost grudgingly that Yugoslavia is getting good government but the fact remains that Marshal Tito runs a one-party dictatorship that does not tolerate an opposition.

Economically, there is a long way to go. Although national income is said to have doubled since 1953, the average annual pay is just nudging $300 compared with about $1,800 in Canada. Unskilled workers earn about 13,000 dinars a month (less than $40) but a canteen lunch may cost 30 dinars. Many have sideline jobs.

Was it merely euphoria induced by blue-eyed springtime? Whatever the cause, a sense of potentialities emerges in travels through this unsullied land of swift rivers, plains and mouse-colored mountains, with its variegated civilizations in which wooden shoes and tractors coexist.

SOUTH SLAVS UNITED

For the first time, the South Slavs with their brimming talents, vitality and crazy courses are united in independence. It may not be utterly fanciful to speculate that these unleashed abilities may ultimately make Yugoslavia a potent force in Europe.

For this is a young state. The birth of the nation that Hitler couldn't conquer and Stalin couldn't cow really dates from 1945.

Through the years, the medley of peoples that make up Yugoslavia suffered from an overdose of history. After Turk beat Serb at the battle of Kosovo in 1389, five centuries of enslavement followed. Where Turk left off, Venetian and Austro-Hungarian took over.

Between the wars, savage religious feuds, Serbian domination and a sterile regime kept the country in disarray. Then came the unbelievable partisan victory and the 1948 break with Russia, the country in which Tito as a prisoner of war had a bleacher seat for the 1917 revolution.

INDUSTRIAL AWAKENING

Today Yugoslavia is a society in transition, inner hatreds healing. Growing political tolerance leaves a receding memory of times when beatings by police and militia were commonplace. Some say the Slavs are too lazy to take to industry; others that the impression of lassitude springs from the habit of starting work at 6 or 7 a.m. and knocking off at 1 p.m., with a heavy lunch and siesta to follow.

In a mammoth operation bootstrap, an undeveloped country is moving into the machine age. Once, nearly three-quarters of the people worked on the land. Now the figure is about 50 per cent. Production increases at the rate of about 12 per cent a year. Textile, iron, aluminum and hydro-electric factories are springing up on virgin ground. The throb of reconstruction wakes the valleys at an early hour, telescoping the hours of tranquillity.

This is a self-assured people, and exuberance seeps into official statements. A foreign affairs deputy minister said 22 of 25 vital raw materials are found in Yugoslavia and made the flat statement—attributed by some Western observers—that Yugoslav medicine is the best in the world.

GROWING PRESTIGE

Dr. James Stanovik, head of a research institute, gave a glowing account of agricultural progress through the mating of peasant initiative with new technology. As soft melodies from a Serbian flute floated through his office window, he said:

"Today Yugoslavia is a country that is known in the world. Never has our prestige been higher. This is a source of great pride to all as we think back on our struggles of the past."

Dr. Stanovnik, a scholarly and detached man, recalled that in his youth no political meeting could be held in his native Slovenia without a priest being present. Today religion had lost its political overtones.

It used to be hard to find a bare-necks toothbrush. Now they are being made here. The country makes its own Turkish-style cigarets and you can't buy a foreign brand.

TRADE WITH WEST

South Slavs make good emigrants. Many return as wealthy men, a pointer to intellectual capacity reinforced by the fact that 45 world chess masters even are from this nation of 18,000,000.

Yugoslavia does 75 per cent of its trade with non - Communist countries. As the industrial base widens, the Western pattern of trade increases. German business is becoming increasingly active. Experienced observers regard this breakaway territory on the fringes of the Iron Curtain as a new field of activity for the West.

A French shipping expert, endeavored in the busy port of Rijeka, emphatically endorsed this view and praised the developing Yugoslav shipbuilding industry. The country was producing seaworthy vessels of attractive design, and the Italians were beginning to worry.

Doubts, difficulties and reservations remain. Encased in a strait-jacket between East and West, Tito's republic has little room for manoeuvre. Nevertheless, in the dynamic qualities of a new proletariat—in the growing modernization of agriculture and in the evolving pattern of a Communism claimed to be shedding "social realism" and other unsavory aspects, Yugoslavia gives signs of brewing a heady Balkan cocktail.

FARMING COUNTRY

One-third of Denmark's population of 4,500,000 lives by agriculture production.

BUSY SHIPYARD — Activity at the shipyards in Rijeka, on the Adriatic Sea in northwestern Yugoslavia, reflects industrial and international trade development in the independent Communist country. As industrialization increases, the Balkan nation is turning to increased trade with other countries of Europe. (CP Photo).

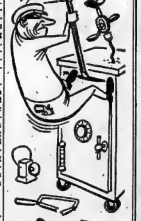
ECONOMY IN TRANSITION — In industry-conscious Yugoslavia, three quarters of the population once worked the land; now about 50 per cent are farmers. But mechanization and other improvements have resulted in increased agricultural production. Last year brought a record harvest. Shown here are farmers harvesting their crop near a Croation village in north-central Yugoslavia. (CP Photo).

C of C Endorses Hamilton System For Pedestrians

HAMILTON (CP)—The Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the city's proposed bylaw which would give pedestrians the right of way at all intersections.

The chamber's traffic committee said the system should be adopted "throughout the province to bring Ontario into line with other parts of Canada and the United States."

Hamilton officials have disagreed on whether to adopt this system or the Toronto plan which gives pedestrians the right of way only at certain marked intersections.



The Hamilton traffic and transportion committee last week voted 7 to 1 in favor of a bylaw which would cover all intersections and corners. It was approved by board of control and will go to city council Tuesday night.

Some provincial authorities have intimated they are not in favor of the Hamilton bylaw and prefer the Toronto scheme as the model for Ontario.

The Chamber of Commerce said a study "shows the proposed Hamilton system is the one being used by far the greater number of communities" in Canada and the U.S.

Use Common Sense Around Water

The boating season is under way. Vacation time — for most of us, anyway — is just around the corner and that, naturally, means that a goodly share of the population will once again be afloat from time to time.

This brings to mind that we are creatures of dry land and that water is not our natural element. Too bad that more people can't guide their behavior accordingly. The world would be far happier.

Before me on my desk lies the drowning report of one of our vacation states — Wisconsin. It makes dismal reading. One hundred and eighty people drowned in Wisconsin during 1959. While boating played its part in these deaths, it was not the major cause by any means. Only 34 of the total 180 drowned as the direct result of boating accidents.

A breakdown of the accidents shows one tragic figure — 45 children, between the ages of less than a year to 9 years, were drowned. It would be unkind to comment further on that one.

Swimming and wading accounted for the deaths of 54 people. It makes you wonder a bit, doesn't it? And here's a sad one — three people were drowned while attempting to rescue others who were in trouble.

Of course, there were many other causes, among them, fishing, hunting, skating, skin diving, trapping, water skiing, etc. There, too, cowboy boating came in for its share. Boating regulations are becoming more strict each year but, unfortunately, you can't legislate common sense into people who don't already have it.

And here's one for the book: 79 of the people who drowned could not swim. What any sane person who can't swim is doing in deep water without wearing or having handy a life preserver, I can't imagine. But there it is: 79 non-swimmers were drowned.

So this summer, how about using some good old common sense when you are around or in the water. Water sports, all of them, are fun and harmless if ordinary precautions are taken. All right, use that common sense this summer and don't take chances. Your family and friends will be far happier if you do.

CORAL REEF PRESERVE

Last March 15th, while we were in the Florida Keys, President Eisenhower affixed his signature to a Proclamation declaring that 32 miles of the barrier reef which lies to the east of Miami and the Upper Keys, be set aside as a wildlife preserve to be known as The Key Largo Coral Reef Preserve.

For quite some few years the Key Largo Reef was subject to many and various abuses. The skin divers speared edible and non-edible fish indiscriminately; useful sponges were ripped from their mooring; dynamite blasts were set off here and there to expose coral formations to be sold to the curio shops. Gradually the reef was taking on all the aspects of a biological desert.

For several years spear fishing has been prohibited in Monroe County, Florida, in which county the reef lies. However, the enforcement of this regulation was difficult and there was much poaching done. Now, with a regular crew of rangers to patrol the reef all abuses will stop.

The Key Largo Reef is the only coral reef along the Atlantic Coast. As such, it should be preserved. A trip over the reef in a glass-bottomed boat or a camera equipped with a viewing box, is an interesting and memorable experience. Natural scenic spots such as this should be preserved for the benefit of all instead of serving as playgrounds to be despoiled by the competitive few.

GOONEY BIRD REPORT

Here and there in the public print during the past few years you no doubt have read of the albatross-airplane problem which have confronted the powers-that-be on the Midway Islands. Here it is that the albatross insists on nesting and generally establishing headquarters. The enlisted men, of course, have christened this bird "the gooney bird."

The albatross is a soaring expert and the sand-dune formations of the Midway Islands provide many updrafts which aid in keeping the birds aloft. This results in all too many albatross-airplane collisions at Midway with resultant damage to the planes.

They tried many ways to discourage the big birds in their fondness for Midway. Nest destruction, frightening devices, killing of the birds by shooting failed to produce satisfactory results. Then a Fish and Wildlife crew came up with the idea of levelling the sand dunes and thereby discontinuing the updrafts which the birds liked.

Accordingly the Sea-Bees were put to work, levelling the dunes. Happily, the results have been good and the number of birds now soaring over the landing strips is down 90 per cent of the number during the pre-levelling era. While reports are only preliminary ones, the authorities are hopeful that the answer has been found and that more drastic measures will not be necessary.

Big Purses Best Medicine For Galloping "Bally Ache"

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Bally Ache, the $2,500 bargain-basement colt, won the $132,300 Jersey Derby at Garden State Park Monday and moved another length toward the 1960 three-year-old championship.

The Turfland Farm entry outgamed Tompion by a neck.

Bally Ache, winner of the Preakness and second in the Kentucky Derby, came from the inside in blistering fashion and led all the way although Tompion came within a whisker of beating him.

Celtic Ash was third, five lengths off Tompion, with Venetian Way, Kentucky Derby winner, a badly-beaten fourth.

3-TO-5 FAVORITE

Bally Ache, 3-to-5 favorite with the record crowd of 50,300, was timed in 1:48 for the mile and a furlong over a sloppy track. He returned $3.40, $2.40 and $2.20. C. V. Whitney's Tomolon paid $3.00 and $2.20 and Celtic Ash $2.20.

Bob Ussery once again rode the Turfland horse. John Rotz, substituting for Willie Shoemaker aboard Tompion, kept the pressure on Bally Ache all the way.

The victory was worth $77,995 and boosted Bally Ache's total earnings to $742,532, 11th on the all time money winning list.

New York's biggest racing crowd, 70,410, set a new world betting mark of $3,500,628 Monday as Bald Eagle won the $114,200 Metropolitan Handicap at Aqueduct in track record time.

The handle topped the old mark of $3,018,745 set at Belmont Park, Sept. 22, 1946.

Jockey Manuel Ycaza turned Bald Eagle loose in the top of the stretch to cover the mile in 1:33 3-5.

First Landing was second and Valiant Glow third.

A holiday crowd at Garden State Park set a world record daily double betting pool of $485,475. The former mark was $439,471 at Monmouth Park, Aug. 8, 1959.

At Suffolk Downs, a pair of long shots, Nicole ($79.40) and Bull Sicle ($38.60) set up one of the largest daily double payoffs in the track's history—a whopping $2,364.40 for a $2 ticket.

AN OPEN LETTER TO BOB TEMPLE

Mein Herr:—

Haben sie die neuesten Nachrichten gehoert?
Die Cobourg Marchains prahlen!
Sprechen sie Deutsch? Ja? Nein?

If you do not, try this one on Sir size. You should not have any trouble with it.

As-in ersends is neuvelle?
Le Cobourg Merchanis se vantent'.

We are not trying to show off our linguistic ability. In fact an Irishman wrote the German phrases, while a Dutchman slipped us the French version.

Since our underground reports you are going around looking like The Snow Dancer and other Siwash specimens, looking a bit starry-eyed and counting the days in four weeks increasingly, we thought the above might catch you off guard.

Sorry we couldn't quote the quoies in Austrian. The only experience we had with the language was listening to a wistful Vienna expatriate fisherman as he angled for those big carp which swam in the turgid brown stream they called the Danube in mid-town Breslinau.

The angler's soft-voiced soliloquy did not affect the carp, but a broad-shouldered Czech gendarme outlustralled something to him that spoiled the native's fishing day. Nor did the bi-lingual fisherman get the lower law talk any heed of Erie Denyes who was pebble-gathering along the river bank.

We never did make that trip to Austria—and Vienna. But the tales of the Viennese gaiety of the late Paul Tardiff touched what was sentimental in the reportorial make-up.

We could readily visualize it after experiencing a few reasonable facsimiles in the Hotel Jalta, its nightclub and the special fashion-show staged for upper-echelon Czechs and visiting Russians and Poles in general and for the lower echelon Canadian contingent in particular.

There was a dash of "The Merry Widow" in the atmosphere of the beautiful lounge of the Jalta that afternoon. Whispering violins and other strings of a Czech orchestra secreted somewhere played soft romantic melodics.

Beautiful models came dazzlingly down the snowy-white spiral stairway, attired in the Czechoslovakian styles of the day. Well-dressed men and women slipped urbs from long-stemmed glasses which tinkled when personal toasts were drunk. There were flowers; dinner-jacketed waiters who appeared ghost-like at your elbow if your glass was empty.

The models posed and pirouetted in front of every table room that occupied by the contingent of curious Canadian newspapermen.

It was the continental scene, say not at its best, but in non Curtain version of what happens in the gay cities of other parts of Europe. Say in Austria.

There was only one jarring discordant note. The music was playing, oh so softly. Two lovely models came down the stairway. All eyes were on them—and they knew it. Then it happened.

A loud Canadian—or was it American—voice a trifle thick perhaps, suddenly yelled "Say, where in h . . . is my coffee?"

The spell was broken, temporarily. Waiters came to the erring one's table quickly. There was a brief hum of conversation—and the incident was closed.

We see by the papers that you are retracing your steps to Austria and storied Vienna come July 2 where you will see the beautiful Grill Erika. We prefer our heartiest congratulations and best wishes to you and your lovely bride-to-be, just in case our pals do not cross before you fly to Europe.

In closing we might say we know a guy who brought home a litre of Slivervitz. Due to the difference in time, we shall toast your nuptials every hour for seven hours. One of them will be right.

Yours, etc.,
C. H. C.

P.S.—Gad, Bob, we almost forgot what we started to say. The Cobourg Merchants with their reinforcements from Belleville now claim they have the strongest club in the league—and are making no bones about it. They are saying, quote: "With the four Belleville men on the roster, Cobourg fans can count on more scoring punch and an improved defence . . . Merchants now have the men and the muscles to win it all in the Quinte district." End quote.

Injuns Grease Skids For Chisox; Bucs Regain Top

Hand Champions Twin Losses To Nudge Leading Orioles; Pirates Bop Slipping Braves

In spring training it was new power and added pitching strength that had the smart money riding on Chicago's defending champion White Sox in the American League pennant race. Now June is just about to bust out all over and the Sox are just about busts.

Early Wynn has lost more than he's won. Bob Shaw's 4-4, Billy Pierce (3-2) has won just once in the last two weeks.

And in nine nightmarish days the champs have lost eight of 10, skidding from first to fourth.

Cleveland's Comeback Indians swept a Memorial Day pair at Chicago 4-1 and 9-4 and used ex-White Sox guy—Bubba Phillips, Johnny Romano and Barry Latman—to do it. That plunked Chicago to fourth, 3½ games behind Baltimore.

ONE-GAME LEDGE

The Orioles lost a game of their lead, but still have a one-game edge over Cleveland after winning 7-3 over losing 12-5 Boston. New York took third place, spotting Washington 3-2 after losing 3-1. Kansas City belted Detroit 7-6 in 11 innings and St.

The White Sox left 23 men on base while dropping their second in a row at home—where they had won their first 10. They left 14 stranded in the first game.

A four-run sixth did it for the Indians against Wynn (3-3) as an error, Russ Nixon's two - run single and an RBI single by Phillips.

In the second game the Indians walloped Shaw with six runs in the fourth when Romano and Tito Francona doubled, Each had three hits. Latman won his first decision with John Briggs' relief. Woodie Held hit a two-run homer for the Indians.

ROOKIE'S DOUBLE WINS

Rookie Ron Hansen's three-run double in the fifth inning won the opener for the Orioles. Their other four came in the first inning, two on Gene Woodling's home run off Bill Monbouquette (4-4). Chuck Estrada (4-1) went with Hoyt Wilhelm's relief help. The last-place Red Sox then belted the Birds for the first time in nine games with seven runs on homers by Harmon Killebrew, Gene Stephens and Gary Geiger. Frank Sullivan (2-1) was the loser, Ted Bowsfield (1-1) was a winner in his first start, with relief help.

Yogi Berra's two-run homer in the eighth inning eighth beats Pete Ramos (2-6) after the Yankees had scored their first run on Roger Maris' 11th homer, giving him the AL lead. Bobby Shantz (1-1) was in relief. Bob Allison drove in both Washington runs in the opener with a homer, off loser Art Ditmar (2-2), and a single. Chuck Stobbs (2-1) was the winner.

The Tigers blew a 6-0 lead in the opener, won by the A's on Hank Foiles' two-out pinch single in the 11th. Bud Daley (6-2) won it with four innings of shutout relief. He struck out seven. In the second game, Whitey Herzog brought the A's home behind with a three-run homer in the sixth, and Marv Throneberry then added a grand slam in the eighth. Both shots were off Paul Foytack (1-4). Reliever Bob Giggie won his first decision.

Hand Champions Twin Losses To Nudge Leading Orioles; Pirates Bop Slipping Braves

In 3 the 13 postponements that have Milwaukee's Braves clinging in the National League race? Or it is Pittsburgh?

Either because of rain, cold and fog—has been a real south for Braves' pitching. But those Pirates haven't helped it either.

Pittsburgh beat the fourth-place Braves four times in nine meetings this season with an 8-3 romp before rain put their scheduled Memorial Day doubleheader in half. That was enough, however, to give the first-place tie with San Francisco, and the Pirates did it by beating Warren Spahn (3-2) for the second time.

Last night, when the Bucs managed to beat the Braves only seven times all year, Spahn was up against them.

San Francisco slipped to second place in a split with the Chicago Cubs, winning 5-4 after a 5-1 loss. Cincinnati, in the opener at Philadelphia 8-4 in 11 innings, but the last-place Phillies bounced back in the nightcap, beating Warren Spahn (3-2) for the second time.

HADDIX TAMES BRAVES

Southpaw Harvey Haddix (3-1), who was winless against Milwaukee in seven starts, has made it two in a row this year against the Braves. He had been blanked until the ninth, when Roy Face came on and saved it.

Elmo Cinoli drove in the runs for the Bucs with a triple, double, single and walk in five trips at bats. Spahn, managing just four starts in the month of May because of a groin pull, suffered his up six hits and five runs while lasting less than three innings.

San Francisco salvaged the split with an unearned run in the ninth inning after the Cubs had a 4-4 on home runs by Jim Hegan, Lee Walls, Ernie Banks and Walt Bob Will. Willie Mays socked a two-run homer and scored the Giants' last three runs. Sam Jones (2-1) was the winner with Moreland (0-3) the loser, both in relief. The Cubs won the opener with Earl Averill driving in both runs and Bob Anderson (2-1) getting the win.

SINGLES GOOD ENOUGH

Two-out singles by Vada Pinson and Gus Bell gave the Reds the opener for the Reds and reliever Jim Brosnan (3-2) against the Phils' Gene Conley (2-3), who went all the way.

The Phils then tagged three home runs in a five-run nightcap fifth that chased Don Newcombe (3-2). Bobby Del Greco, Harry Anderson and Clay Dalrymple all did the slugging. John Buzhardt (1-3) won it with a six-inning shutout relief. Reds' Willie Jones homered in the ninth.

While slammed across four of the Cards' runs with a pair of homers, he also doubled and singled in the 16-hit outburst against Don Drysdale (4-5) and four relievers. Ernie Broglio (1-1) saved up just four hits, one Duke Snider's third home run in two days, in his first complete game. Rookie Julie Javier also homered for the Cards, his first in the majors.

Whip, Jumbo Tangle With The Kalmikoffs

It could be the Kalmikoff Brothers may get their komeback-in-person contest Friday evening.

Three times in a row now the Kraffy K's have dominated the wrestling scene.

Jumbo and the Xavier Kids may have to say "uncle" in Uxbridge.

They tangle with the "biggest and best" in the persons of Whipper Billy Watson and the Mighty Jumbo. Jumbo will likely run off—the Whip will shoot 'em down.

At least that's the word from the "mob."

This could be it for the Kocky K's. Then again it could. Well and see!

However Whipper and Jumbo look like the best opposition yet — and Friday's tussle should see something or another happen.

And old biddy-buddy from Bowmanville, Jerry Atkins makes his 1960 debut here, tangling with handsome Reggie Drake.

Indianapolis Classic Worth Over $100,000 to Rathman After Brilliant Track Duel

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Jim Rathman moves to the head of the table at the annual victory dinner for 500-mile race contesters tonight after 10 years of taking a seat below the winner.

He may pick up a cheque for well over $100,000, depending on distribution of special prizes by accessory and petroleum products companies.

Just how much he won, the baby-faced veteran from Miami will not know until the dinner. But he does know he won it the hard way in a dramatic duel with Rodger Ward, last year's winner, who finished less than 13 seconds behind.

The Ward - Rathman rivalry has become a classic. Early last season, Ward chased Rathman to a world's record speed of 170.362 miles an hour on the high-banked Daytona international speedway.

RECORD TIME

In a see-saw battle without precedent in the Indianapolis motor speedway, Rathman pulled ahead Monday about eight miles from the finish line, finishing at a record speed of 138.767 miles an hour. Ward set the old mark of 135.857 last year.

Ward had to slacken near the end because of a flaming front tire so badly worn he feared it would burst. Rathman had chewed up his right rear tire so badly that Chick Hirashima, his chief mechanic, said it wouldn't have lasted over two more laps.

Ward forced Rathman to more than 144 miles an hour late in the race.

Ward and Rathman made their last pit stop for fuel and tires at the same time, on the 131st lap, three-quarters of the way.

Ward went into the pits leading by a few feet and went out with Rathman charging at his tail pipe. They negotiated the first few times after that, with Ward having a little edge on straightaway speed and Rathman a thin advantage on the turns.

Veteran Eddie Russo were out a tire and crashed into the south end retaining wall in the only bad accident of the race. Russo, whose father was killed in a 1954 race at Langhorne, Pa., was critically hurt.

A second accident occurred in the infield, where scaffolding collapsed on a temporary bleacher erected by fans, killing two persons and injuring more than 70 others. The accident happened over while the cars were on the first lap.

The first seven finishers all were Ward's year - old record holders. Officials were uncertain Monday night whether Paul Goldsmith or Jim Rathman finished third.

Officially, Eddie Johnson was fifth, Tommy Thompson sixth, Lloyd Ruby seventh, Bob Veith eighth, Bud Tingelstad ninth, and Bob Christie 10th.

Rathman and Ward drove identical cars built by A. J. Watson of Glendale, Calif., who constructed three of the last five winners.

ELLIOTT ENDS TOUR

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Miler Herb Elliott is cancelling his American tour and returning to Australia because of a leg injury, a friend said Monday.

Chris Wardle, manager of a travel agency in nearby Compton, said Elliott, the world record holder in the mile at 3:54.5, was told "there is no cure for the injury except rest."

Kirkwood quoted Elliott as saying: "A lot of people will be saddened by this news, but rest assured, I'm the saddest of all." The injury was "either a strained muscle or tendon in the right knee."

Quinte Club Stages Fine Harness Meet

An excellent racing bill was provided for the lovers of the harness horses at the Fairgrounds on Saturday night and there was a good turnout of the public to watch the six heats run off. Although the horses are not in real shape yet the racing was forsthil and the times in the several dashes were good.

There were three classes with eight horses in each class and the 2.20 class provided the best racing of the night. Betty Abigail and Lee Mac S., both city-owned horses divided the heats with Irwin Ness' good pacer getting the nod with the fastest heat of the meet. The Jeffery mare won the first trip quite handily but could not cope with the pacer in the second heat, when they hit the "Stretch" drive. Mr. Ness was the recipient of a beautiful cooler.

Smithfield Lass owned by Bob Brown was a straight heat winner in the 2.25 class but Mr. Denese of Port Hope, who has been racing more years than he cares to remember with Port Hope Girl and Big Chief, made the issue close. In the 2.20 class the heats were divided, Mr. Chipson winning the first with Johnny Dale being nipped on the wire. In the second heat the Jack Ball paced was not to be denied and captured the heat easily. Each of the owners of Smithfield Lass and Johnny Dale also received a blanket.

Jack McArthur was the presiding judge with Cam Bunnett as the announcer. The Bunnett starting gate was used with Lorne Urch in charge and all of the starts were near perfect. Cy Middleton with Ron Isaac and R. J. Polk a C.A. directed the parking. Opposite the meet in a most enjoyable manner. The excellent privileges were taken advantage of by the large crowd present.

There will be another meet the latter part of next month. The results:

Fiery Pierall Hits Veeck Plumb in His New Gimmick

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Jim Pierall has hit President Bill Veeck of the Chicago White Sox where it hurts most.

The fiery Cleveland centerfielder's a baseball against Veeck's huge new scoreboard at Comiskey Park Monday after making the last putout of a doubleheader, which the Indians swept 4-3 and 9-4.

The scoreboard, which flashes lights like a giant pinball machine and ejects aerial bombs when a Sox player hits a homer, is Veeck's pride and joy.

"I had a talk with Jim after the game," said Veeck. "He started out in a loud voice but ended in a soft one. If he ever throws anything against my scoreboard again, I'll put him in one of my skyrocket launchers and fire him into orbit. This, I made very clear to him.

"I don't care what or where he throws things. Just as long as it's not at my scoreboard."

Pierall refused to retract from the first game. He had stolen second in the third inning and from that vantage point was riding plate umpire Larry Knapp for calling two strikes on Harvey Kuenn. After a violent argument, second base umpire Cal Drummond thumbed him.

Pierall went to the Cleveland dugout and began throwing balls, caps and gloves onto the field. Then he trudged to the Sox dugout, found an empty sand bucket, and tossed that out before going to the dressing room.

In the second game, Pierall was the target for fans who tossed several oranges at him.

"One hit me near the ear at the end of the game," he said. "It made me mad. I had caught (Ted) Kluszewski's long fly for the last out. I just wheeled and threw the ball at the scoreboard. I wanted to hit something made of glass and break it. Someone tossed me another ball from the bullpen and I threw it, too.

"That scoreboard should only go off—if it has to go off at all—just once a game no matter how many Sox homers are hit. It's nerve wracking—all those lights flashing and those damn bombs bursting over your head."

Old Pros Set Up New Jobs Will Conduct Hockey Clinic

TORONTO (CP)—A group of former professional hockey players have set up a hockey clinic which will travel through Ontario this winter, giving fundamentals of the game to youngsters.

Known as Hockey Schools Limited, it is chartered on a summer hockey school operated in Kenville, N.B., by Bobby Gokkas and Greg Currie.

The school plans to hold one-day sessions in any Ontario centre with a covered arena on Friday evenings, Saturdays and Sundays.

It is prepared to accommodate up to 256 youngsters between the ages of 10 to 16 years each day of operation.

Tommy (Windy) O'Neill, Toronto sports writer and former Maple Leaf hockey star, and spokesman for the group said "we feel we can improve the hockey ability of youngsters and youngsters that just missed making the big team in their town."

O'Neill, who will also instruct, said he plans to take the school across Canada in the immediate future.

"This is something that has been needed to improve the hockey ability of our youngsters for some time," he said. "We are confident it will go forward in this fashion."

Ricks in Brampton and Bradford have already booked the school, O'Neill said the organization is negotiating with rinks in other provinces.

Among the instructors are Turk Broda, former star goalie with Toronto Maple Leafs, Bill Durnan, five - time Vezina Trophy winning goalkeeper with Montreal Canadiens and former Leaf forward star Sid Smith.

THREE INSTRUCTORS

Three instructors will handle each session, following a nine point instruction system which includes advice on stick-handling, shooting, goalkeeping and other phases of the game.

O'Neill said summer schools anywhere are possible but the school will start in winter because the group doesn't know what arenas keep ice through the summer.

"For that reason we will begin in the winter in Ontario and continue as requested throughout the year," the manager added later.

Cockup said they have already turned away more than 200 applications.

Fleming Mackell Will Coach Quebec Aces

QUEBEC (CP) — Fleming Mackell, a 12-year veteran National Hockey League player, was named Monday as player-coach of the Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League.

Mackell, 31, succeeds Jack Gordon as coach of the Aces who finished last in their first year of AHL competition last season.

Toogin will remain as business manager, general manager Roland Mathieu said.

Mackell played the last nine seasons with Boston Bruins coming to the Bruins in a trade with Toronto Maple Leafs in the 1951-52 season.

He was normally a centre with the Bruins. In 805 NHL games he scored 149 goals and collected 220 assists for 369 points. He had 20 goals this season.

Last year Mackell missed 25 games due to injuries and scored only seven goals and 15 assists for the Bruins.

Mackell was born in Montreal on April 30, 1929 and played junior hockey with Toronto St. Michael's.

He spent three seasons with Pittsburgh of the AHL with the Maple Leafs and was promoted to the Leafs in the 1948-50 season.

May Equal World Record For 100 Yards

LONDON (Reuters) — British sprinter Peter Radford, who beat the world record for 220 yards round a curve at Wolverhampton Saturday, may also have equalled the world record for the 100 yards.

When Radford ran in a heat for the 100 at the same meeting his time was announced as 9.4 seconds. On investigation, this may be amended to 9.3 seconds—under same as the world record held jointly by seven Americans.

Radford was timed by four watches, one more than necessary. Two showed 9.3 seconds and two 9.4 seconds. Officials said there is a possibility that it might be decided to submit a time of 9.3 seconds.

Winnie's Colt Has Chance In Epsom Derby

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill is back in his old role of fighting to keep foreign invaders at bay.

The elderly statesman's colt, Vienna, is one of the few English-bred horses reckoned to have any chance of winning the famed Epsom Derby Wednesday.

Thousands of British race fans will be cheering the chestnut colt against a powerful contingent of horses trained in Ireland and France and owned by Canadians and Americans.

Queen Elizabeth has no horse running in the 180-year-old race this time. So Sir Winston, former British prime minister, will be the sentimental choice of Britons to grab the $82,545 first prize. But Vienna was still a 20-to-1 shot at Monday night's callover.

The colt will compete against six horses trained in Ireland and two from stables in France.

ANOREXIA TOP CHOICE

Most formidable among his rivals is Angers, French champion colt, and Chrysler III, co-favorites at 4 to 1.

Also in the 20-horse field is Lustrous Hope, owned by Calgary publisher Max Bell, at 25 to 1.

An Irish Hospitals sweepstakes is based on the race.

Grief struck one horse today. Exchange Student, a 40 to 1 choice owned by Townsend B. Martin of the United States, fractured a fetlock in a training gallop and had to be destroyed.

Mickey Mantle Mauled, Mobbed

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle was mobbed, mauled and belled on the chin Monday by youths who broke out onto the field after New York Yankees' doubleheader with Washington Senators.

The club physician said Mantle sustained a bad sprain of the jaw that would probably pain him for several days.

The teen-agers converged on the Yankees' star almost immediately after he hauled in a fly by Julio Becquer for the final out.

The mob was "completely uncontrollable," a club spokesman said. They grabbed Mantle's cap and roughed him up in a huge hassle show of hero worship.

Ban Iranian Who Banned South Africans

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) — Birmingham's Priory Club Monday barred an Iranian tennis star who said he would refuse to play against South Africans in the club's annual international tournament.

Officials informed Dr. M. F. Mohtadi, former member of the Iranian Davis Cup team, that his acceptance or entry has been withdrawn.

Last week Mohtadi said that in protest against South Africa's racial policies he would scratch if he were drawn against South Africans in the tournament.

Told that the club committee had banned him from the tournament, Mohtadi said: "I don't think they are within their rights.

"My purpose was not to bring about any interference with the running of the tournament, but to persuade any South African players competing that every one here disagrees with what is happening in South Africa."

New Hour-Long Suspense Shows off to Rousing Start

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Dinah Shore's summer replacement, a series of live, hour-long suspense shows, got off to a rousing start Sunday evening.

The first was The Machine Called It Murder, and although I've seen it before on TV, it was a good one, well produced and acted.

The story concerned an insurance statistician whose mechanical brain turns up a figure indicating that operating was the only way to save the life of a man who would die within three months. The rest of the hour was devoted to tracking him down, and in the nick of time, saving the current victim.

Larry Blyden played the keeper of the brain in his usual brisk and supercharged style, and Betsy Von Furstenberg was the girl.

Sam Levenson, who took over Arthur Godfrey's daytime TV show, and in the nick of time, now replace the red-haired MC in a reincarnated version of Talent Scouts. The show will start Aug. 1 as a nine-week replacement for Dinah Shore. But the format will be different: Big-name performers will introduce fresh professional talent.

Godfrey, who isn't seen much on TV these days, will next turn up as host on the finals of CBS' Search for Tomorrow on final judging of the Miss Universe contest from Miami.

Recommended tonight:

The Nanette Fabray Show, NBC, 8:30-9:30 EST—An original musical show with Jean Pierre Aumont and Tyde Randall.

Garry Moore Show, CBS, 10-11 —With the Lennon Sisters and Andy Griffith.

Rome Arranges Special Network For Olympics

By DEREK WILSON

ROME (Reuters) — A special television network will give viewers in 13 European countries ringside seats at nearly every ceremony and important event during the Olympic Games here Aug. 25 to Sept. 12.

The television facilities are part of a big program for radio and TV organized by the Italian broadcasting organization, RAI.

Commentaries in scores of languages on nearly every event will reach the world from 66 ultra - modern studios being erected by RAI at two focal points of the games. They will be connected through a highly-complicated cable network to every event site.

TOURIST BENEFITS

For those lucky enough to attend the games in person, the Olympic organizing committee has announced that hotel charges for visitors will be regulated by an agreement drawn up between tourist and hotel organizations. This fixes maximum prices for nearly every class of accommodation available, ranging from the best hotels to the third-class pensions.

A couple staying in a first-class hotel should not be charged more than $14 a day for a double room with bath, breakfast and ten other meals.

For a double room and bath in third-class hotels and second-class boarding houses with the same meals, the maximum charge will be about $5.50.

For those who need even cheaper accommodation, a couple put up in a double room with a bathroom in a third-class boarding house with the same meals can reckon on a bill of not more than $4.50 a day.

Bob Goldham Quits as Irish Coach

TORONTO (CP) — Bob Goldham, coach of St. Michael's Majors for three and a half years, announced Monday he will not be back with the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A club next year.

Goldham, a salesman, cited business as the reason for his retirement. Rev. Terry Flanagan, St. Michael's team manager, said St. Mike's has no replacement in mind.

A nine-year veteran of the National Hockey League, Goldham moved to the majors after coaching the Woodbridge Junior B team one season. In the NHL he played defence six years with Detroit, two with Chicago, and one with Toronto. With Detroit, he was named to two NHL all-star teams.

His retirement groups St. Michael's with Guelph, Hamilton, and Toronto Marlboros as junior teams without a coach.

Argos Sign Paul Swann

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts today announced the signing of Paul Swann, 6-foot-one, 190-pound quarterback from North Carolina A and T.

He is the fifth import quarterback the Big Four Argos have signed. The others are Tobin Rote, Tom Yewcic, Lew Flinn and John Henry Jackson. Also available for passing duty is assistant coach Nobby Wirkowski.

Swann also has a reputation of a better-than-average punter and field-goal booter.

At The Park

SUDDENLY, LAST SUMMER

Tennessee Williams' brooding, probing study of a set of introverted people and how they use each other in a devouring way is here brought to the screen with striking theatrical flair by Sam Spiegel in this major production.

He has cast his tale of tormented and closeted people astrangingly, with Elizabeth Taylor, Montgomery Clift and Katharine Hepburn taking the major honors and excellent support coming from Albert Dekker and Mercedes McCambridge. It is all memorable.

The screenplay which Gore Vidal and Tennessee Williams adapted from the play by the latter moves along powerfully, frequently touching almost primitive nerves. And the depth and insight into characters is expressed in hard, resilient language that often reaches poetic grandeur.

At times, the symbolism and meaning may be obscure to the general patron, but always there is the feeling that something deep and vital in human relations is being communicated.

The strong marquee cast, directed so effectively by Joseph Mankiewicz, the powerful substance of the story, and the overall production excellence mark this as an outstanding movie contender.

Acting is utterly superb. The story derives its power as character develops, and misty illusions of Belle Reve take shape.

The death of the boy, told in flashback, is depicted forcibly, as a horde of mad, raging youngsters tear at him like devouring animals.

REFRIGERATION and AIR-CONDITION

BLOSSOM QUEEN—Janette Kinsman, last year's queen of the annual apple blossom festival in Nova Scotia's Annapolis Valley, will tour New England states to attract American visitors to celebrations this summer. They will mark the 200th anniversary of the arrival of New England Planters to the apple-growing valley. The Planters left their New England homes in June, 1760, and settled in the Annapolis Valley at the invitation of [illegible]'s governor. (CP Photo).

Celebrate Anniversary Of New England Planters

WOLFVILLE, N.S. (CP)—The 200th anniversary of the coming of the New England Planters will be celebrated throughout the summer in the Annapolis Valley.

First in a series of events is the Planters Convocation at Acadia University here June 24 at which Toronto industrialist Henry Borden, a descendant of the Planters, is to receive an honorary doctorate of laws.

The Planters were 1,500 farmers and their families who left their homes in New England and settled in the valley in June, 1760, at the invitation of Governor Charles Lawrence of Nova Scotia.

ACADIANS DEPOSED

The Planters, a name derived from the old English settlers, came to Hants, Digby, Kings and Annapolis counties under a program designed to populate the area with British stock in the years after the Acadians were expelled for refusing to pledge allegiance to Britain.

Festivals, county fairs, air shows and sporting events are planned for the anniversary celebrations which run through August. The feature is the annual Apple Blossom Festival June 3-6 with the theme this year based on the epic migration from Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Strawberry festivals will be held in July and a giant fish chowder party will be held near Annapolis Royal July 13.

The 325th anniversary of the founding of the British community at Annapolis Royal, once the scene of hostilities between French and English, will be marked Aug. 5. Other communities in the four counties will celebrate holidays as the summer progresses.

FESTIVAL QUEENS

Two pretty Nova Scotia girls will tour New England on a goodwill trip aimed at attracting Americans to the valley. Janette Kinsman of Bridgetown, last year's blossom queen, and runner-up Elizabeth Cogswell of Berwick will visit Hartford, Conn., Providence, R.I., and Boston to issue official invitations to the mayors and state governors.

One of the churches founded by the Planters, St. John's Anglican Church at Cornwallis, will be the scene of a bicentennial service June 5. Archbishop H. H. Clark of Edmonton, primate of the Anglican Church of Canada, will participate in the services.

Governor Lawrence issued the invitation to the Planters in October, 1758, and agents from New England, where there was little good agricultural land not occupied, travelled in Nova Scotia to see what the conditions were.

They were impressed and made an agreement with the governor. The move was to have been made in the fall of 1759 but was delayed until the spring of 1760 because of the threat of an Indian uprising.
